Mrs. Cluser expressed hope that flags would be flown from all business places and residences in the city on Flag Day, next Tuesday, June 14. Her message said: "We are all proud to be Americans and proud of the flag under which we live in freedom. We believe that flag to be the most beautiful and most significant flag in the world. So, on the flag's birthday, June 14, let's display that flag everywhere in our city. Let's show our colors on Flag Day!"

In the 172 years that have passed since that day, this flag has led our people through many trials and its meaning has been constantly enhanced by the devotion and sacrifices of the American people. Today it waves as the foremost flag of the world, the symbol of freedom for all mankind."

"Countless millions throughout the world would give everything they possess for the privilege of standing under the Stars and Stripes and being able to salute it as their own. We who enjoy this privilege should recognize it as our most precious possession and on Flag Day should display the flag in demonstration of our loyalty to Old Glory and to everything for which it stands. Verona Wallops Walton 12-2; Play Gallatin County, Sun.

The Verona Community Club completed the first round of play in the KAG Semi-Pro Baseball League on Sunday by snowing Walton under, 12 to 2. Walton gave B. Smith very poor support or the score would have been somewhat closer. Smith pitched 7 1/3 innings and allowed 9 hits, 11 runs, walked 8 and struck out 3. Ryan finished for the losers and gave up 12 hits and 1 run. The big offensive blow for Walton was delivered by Smith, when he homered in the 3rd inning.

Steffen pitched for Verona, and the visitors could do very little with his slants. He walked 6 and struck out 17. Hayes had 2 hits for 5 at-bats, driving in 3 runs, and Brown had 3 for 4, two being doubles. Verona scored 6 runs in the 3rd, when ten men went to bat. Walton had 4 hits, 2 runs, 7 errors. Verona had 11 hits, 12 runs and 3 errors. Time of the game was 2 hours, 29 minutes, with 322 paid admissions.

On Sunday, June 12th, the second round of play starts, and Verona is to be hosts to the Gallatin County Merchants. Game time is 2:30 p. m.

Legion Picnic to Be Held July 4th at Woodland Grounds

The annual picnic of the Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion will be held this year on July 4th at the Woodland Inn, 2 miles south of Walton.

Plans for the picnic are nearing completion and from present indications, this year's Legion outing will be one of the outstanding events of the summer. There will be a larger variety of booths, more children's entertainment, games and fun for young and old, plus advertising displays from various merchants. These displays will add color and splendor to the Legion's ever-growing midway and should, by their operators demonstrations alone, offer an attraction to the local and distant populace, that will be well worth the time spent in attendance.

Last but not least, a full evening of entertainment, featuring Frank Miller and His Kentucky Fiddlers, will be planned and a large group is expected to participate in the square dance contests.

So plan to come early and stay late. There will be fun all day and eating on the grounds.—Pub. Chm.

FAMOUS BANDS COMING TO MOONLITE GARDENS

An impressive array of name bands and star entertainers is announced at Moonlite Gardens, Coney Island, Cincinnati, by Edw. Schott, president and general manager.

Elliot Lawrence and His Orchestra, one of America's favorite dance ensembles, will open a week's engagement in Moonlite Gardens, Friday evening, June 10.

For one week, beginning Friday, June 17, Pee Wee Hunt and His Dixieland Band will be featured with Clyde Trask and His Orchestra. Pee Wee Hunt was one of the best-known features of the Casa Loma Orchestra back in the days when it was the rage of the nation. He and his unit are the originators of the "12th Street Rag."

Another famous dance band, Skitch Henderson and His Orchestra will be featured in Moonlite Gardens for a week beginning June 24. The Modernaires, one of the most popular singing quartets on the radio, and a favorite as entertainers in night clubs, stage and screen, will be starred with Clyde Trask's Orchestra for a week starting July 7.

Other famous bands scheduled at Coney in the near future are Vaughn Monroe, Johnny Long, Ray McKinley, Ray Anthony and Tony Pastor. Coney Island itself is popular for swimming, dining, its thrill rides and fun devices, its fine free picnic facilities and its general recreational program.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans paying their National Life (31) Insurance premiums each month may find it to their advantage to change to a quarterly, semi-annual or annual payment plan, as this is less expensive and usually more convenient.

For further information, write to the Veterans Administration District Office, 52 Starling Street, Columbus, Ohio.

Prices to patients in Veterans Administration hospitals will not be increased by a new law which provides that employees of the Veterans' Canteen Service shall be paid from funds of the service. It has been announced, since the Canteens are self-sustaining.

Q.—As a World War II veteran, will I have to pay a fee to have someone represent me in my claim for benefits from VA?

A.—If you are represented by an official of an accredited service organization or the American Red Cross, there is no fee. If you are represented by a lawyer or agent who has been admitted to practice before VA, such attorney or agent is permitted to charge $10 in an original claim, or $2 in a claim for increased benefits.

A 25-acre field of alfalfa, one of the largest in Grant county, was seeded on Lee Lanter's farm near Williamstown.

The first use of methyl bromide on tobacco beds in Johnson county was made by Irvin Rice of Paintsville.

STAFFORDSBURG

The donation to the Orphans' Home, which falls on each fifth Sunday in the year, amounted to $40.88.

Mrs. C. S. Rapp and children C. S., Jr., and Judith, returned from a visit recently with her sister, Mrs. Beech Craigmyre, at Carrollton.

Most folks in the community visited the cemeteries over Memorial Day.

Mrs. John Shaw entertained the Homemakers club on Tuesday, of last week. A good attendance was had, with the return of some members who had been ill. Since we had no major project this month, Mrs. Bluch Rich, Citizenship Chairman, gave a birdseye and statistical report on Kentucky. Mrs. J. A. Keeney gave a review of "The Bishop's Mantel," stressing the very fine character portrayals given in books by Mrs. Agnes Sligh Turnbull, the author. An enjoyable part of the day was the delicious luncheon served by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Della Spradling. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have just completed the remodeling and modernizing of their home and they are most gracious hosts to their many friends.

Mrs. Daisy Richardson and Miss Helen Richardson visited relatives in Hamilton on Sunday. We missed them at Sunday school and preaching services.

We were so glad to have Mrs. Wm. Binder at Sunday school and trust she continues to improve in health. Hope Jerry is soon able to be out.

At least 125 men and 4-H club members will be enrolled in the Knox county corn derby this year, exceeding other years' enrollment.

GRASS AND CLOVER MAKE GOOD GRAZING

The grazing capacity of 25 acres of fescue, ladino clover, timothy and redtop sown last fall by C. T. Stegall & Son of Livingston county is reported by County Agent Robert L. Rudolph.

Eighteen yearling Herefords were turned into the field March 28, and 16 cows and 10 calves added April 10. The growth was so big May 1 that the Stegalls planned to mow the field.

The Stegalls also have a good stand of fescue and ladino clover on a hillside supposed to have been worn out 50 years ago. The hillside was terraced, limed and phosphated and seeded with 15 pounds of fescue seed and one pound of ladino clover seed an acre.

HOMEMAKERS CLUB LESSONS PAY OFF

Mrs. Henry F. Roberts of Greenup county speaks with pride of her table with the new, modern look, for it is her old oak one which she brought up to date at little cost. After removing the varnish and making it sath-smooth by sanding and rubbing, she finished it with oil and shellac, just as she learned in the Russell Homemakers Club. She also refinished a white pine bedroom suite to bring out the natural beauty of the wood.

Mrs. Roberts gives her club credit for other helpful ideas, too. For example, although she had made many slipcovers, she said she learned several shortcuts, and now can fit them with more ease and perfection. In sewing, she learned how to alter patterns before cutting a garment so that it fits upon completion; cutting a garment on the grain of the fabric is of first importance, she now realizes. Planning meals that are nutritious and inexpensive, yet attractive to the family, is also in her list of reasons why she finds membership in her club worthwhile.

Finally, said Mrs. Roberts, through being a project leader, she has also learned to meet people with greater ease.

Why Jesus Died

Lesson for June 12, 1949

THE FACTS of Jesus' death were simple. They are told in the four Gospels without dramatics and without tears. Yet the drama is there, stark and terrible; and only the hard of heart can read it without tears.

There is a deeper question than what happened. Why did it happen? The first Christians were forced to think about the crucifixion. They all knew it was no legend. It was so. But they were hunted, as we are, with the question, Why? Here was a person whose teaching was truth, whose touch was health, whose life was love. You would have thought the world would welcome such a Dr. Foreman man, and give him the highest honors in its power. But instead, all it had for him were nails and thorns and a cross. Why? If God, who sees all things, knew that even his Son would come to no better end than a death of shame, why did God allow Jesus to be born, much less send him into the world, the world where the cross was waiting?

No Other End
THERE WAS, of course, "historical reasons" why Jesus was killed. If we used the words "murdered" or "lynched" it would be nearer the truth. Jesus' death, from one point of view, was both a tragedy and a crime, and the Gospel stories show this. Jesus died because Pilate was a spineless man.

Jesus died because the priests of Jerusalem saw that if this man won, they would lose, and they would commit murder rather than be defeated. Jesus died because the Pharisees had closed minds and would not listen to truth if they did not think of it first.

He died because Judas was a traitor, because his friends were cowards and even the best of them dared to show their faces only after he was dead. He died because the Jewish people had their minds set on one sort of Messiah, and when Jesus turned out to be quite another sort, they would have none of him. Being altogether the sort of person he was, in that kind of world, at that particular time and place, you could say, as Jesus himself did, that the Son of Man "had to" die. (Luke 24:26.) No other end was possible. There was no help for it . . . except to turn coward and hide; and if he had been capable of that, he would not have been the Christ we know at all.

The Plan of God
THEN was Jesus simply a victim of circumstances? Was he no better than a fly caught in fate's dark web? Far from it. The Christian church has always believed, even before these stories of the crucifixion were ever written, that the death of Christ was in the plan of God. In fact, it is at the heart of God's plan for mankind.

It is by the death of Christ that God reconciles man and brings men back to himself. The Christian church believes and teaches that Christ died for us, that is, for you and for me. We believe that this was not simply Jesus' own idea, something God had not thought of till Jesus suggested it.

We believe that this was the invention of God "from before the foundation of the world." The God who is over all, works through all things, even very evil things, to make his love known.

"That The World . . . Might Be Saved."

MEN had long thought of God as living in far-off heavens, seated on a throne, high and lifted up. A just and mighty God, one who cannot be touched with any human weakness, a holy and infinite Lord of the universe,—such a God men knew. But on earth there walks and suffers a race of men who are slaves of sin, slaves to evil. How can such a God help such men? Not by staying on his throne and hurling down more curses. Only by doing what men would never have guessed God would dare to do—come into this world, himself as a man, translating himself into the life of man; putting his shoulder under the human load, even bearing "our sins in his own body on the tree" (1 Peter 2:24).

The Sand Lots of America

Baseball has been a healthy and wholesome influence in the lives of American youth. It has taught them the lessons of fair play and obedience to rules in all human relations. Like other clean sports, it has furnished an outlet for youthful energies and enthusiasm.

The delinquency in America today is traceable to idle time spent in street-loafing and back-alley sessions with questionable associates rather than in healthy, constructive activities.

In contrast, it has been said that the character and stamina shown by American boys on the battlefields of the world was built up on the sand lots of this country in clean and invigorating sports.

Only a nation founded on the concepts of Christianity can produce this fair-minded and honest sportsmanship. Only by upholding such standards as the Golden Rule can we expect our youth to engage in constructive spare-time activities.

Thus we find that religion is the true answer to delinquency. So that Christian teachings may become a greater part of our national life, we must bring our youth into the Church where they will learn to live and play by the Golden Rule.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PHOEBEAN CLASS MEETS

The Phoebean class of the Kenton Baptist Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steele, Monday evening.

Those who attended were Miss Deloris Barnes, Miss Lula Sharpe, Miss Margie Justice, Ervin Davis, Miss Ina Lee Robbins, Allen Casey, Miss Thelma Robbins, Donald Roden, and Gene Smith.

After the business meeting we journeyed down through the field, carrying our wood with us, building a huge fire and roasting wieners and marshmallows, and drinking soft drinks. Everything went swell until the boys started to celebrate the 4th of July, which is a little early. Those girls sure can run.

Next meeting to be held at home of Donald Roden.—Pub. Chm.

Uncle Sam Says

Flag Day, June 14, holds significance for every American. Under the waving Stars and Stripes each citizen knows that he still possesses the most cherished of all ambitions—freedom can retain these just so long as our country is economically sound, and he knows too that one of the most effective methods ever devised to keep it strong is an investment in U. S. Savings Bonds. Your purchase of Savings Bonds strengthens not only your own economy but your country's as well. If you are not now enrolled for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or, if self-employed, the Bonds-a-Month Plan at your bank, now is your BIG CHANCE to start.

TOMATO BLIGHT CONTROL GIVEN

Spraying for tomato late blight is a good investment, even though the late blight does not attack the plants, says Bill Davis, County Agt. Spraying for the late blight also protects the plant against the less serious early blight, which always comes, causing the leaves to drop off one by one and causes the late fruit to lose size and sweetness.

While the hot dry weather of recent weeks is not favorable to late blight attacks, the disease has been reported in Georgia, which state is usually attacked three weeks earlier than Kentucky.

Since it is too late to spray after the tomatoes have the disease, a preventative program of spraying must be started early. The first spray should be applied when the fruit is the size of a pear. Three or four more sprays should be applied at 10-day intervals. Any of the "fixed copper" sprays containing approximately 45% strength metallic copper give satisfactory control. Two level tablespoons of material in one gallon of water makes a spray of satisfactory strength. Plants should be sprayed until the spray starts dripping from the plant. If dusting is preferred, use a 5% metallic copper dust. Dusting is not usually as satisfactory a method of controlling the disease as spraying, unless a good rotary duster is used. At the first dusting ¼ lb. of dust should be used on 25 plants; at the second dusting ½ lb. and for later dustings, 1 lb. for 25 plants.

SMALL CHARGE MADE FOR TESTING SOIL BY U. K.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station announces that the work of testing soil samples for farmers has become so heavy that a small charge will be made beginning July 1, to cover in part the cost of the work.

It has been the custom of the Experiment Station to make a limited number of soil tests without any charge. There was no formal provision for such service, but the limited number of requests made it possible for station chemists to perform the work along with their regular duties. Increased demand, however, it is announced, has made it necessary to make more definite provisions for testing soil samples.

Through local assistance, 13 counties in Kentucky now have their own laboratories where farmers can get soil samples tested, and a number of other counties are in the process of organizing laboratories. Technicians trained by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics are in charge. Farmers in counties having laboratories should have their soils tested in them, it is stated.

The charge at the Experiment Station will be 85 cents a sample for the first two samples and 70 cents for each remaining sample when all are sent in at the same time. Soil containers and directions for taking samples can be had at the county agent offices.

Callatin county homemakers repeated their flower order of last year and again set out about 3,000 gladioli bulbs.

LOST—Black male fox terrier dog with long tail and some tan spots. He has small knot on right side from broken rib; answers to name "Stormy." Liberal reward to the finder. Notify Agnes Caldwell, Morning View, Ky., or call Independence 7305. 21-23

Small Charge To Be Made For Testing Of Soil Samples

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station announces that the work of testing soil samples for farmers has become so heavy that a small charge will be made, beginning July 1st, to cover in part the cost of the work, according to county agent Bill Davis.

Through local assistance, 13 counties in Kentucky now have their own laboratories, where farmers can get soil samples tested and a number of other counties are in the process of organizing laboratories. Technicians trained by the college of Agriculture and Home Economics are in charge. Farmers in counties having laboratories should have their soils tested in them, it is stated. The charge at the Experiment Station will be $5 a sample for the first two samples and 70c for each remaining sample, when all are sent in at the same time. Soil containers and directions for taking samples can be had at county agents office. An effort will be made to organize a laboratory in Boone County, where testing can be done on a charge basis. No charge will be made for testing samples at the County Agent's office at the present time.

Ask Extension Of Veterans Allowance

Extension of readjustment allowance benefits for World War II veterans for another two years will be urged by the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Roland Glenn, Rehabilitation Chairman of Johnson-McElroy Unit 277, has announced.

The allowance of $20 per week for 52 weeks to unemployed veterans ends July 25th of this year, just at a time when hundreds of thousands of veterans are completing their education and looking for jobs. To prevent hardship among these veterans until they can find employment, the American Legion and Auxiliary are appealing to Congress to extend the allowance until July 25, 1951.

National endorsement of the appeal was given by the Legion's National Executive Committee at its annual spring meeting—Aux. Pub. Chm.

Hagedorn-Scheper Nuptials

J. W. (Jay) Hagedorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hagedorn, Erlanger, and Miss Marilyn Scheper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scheper of Lookout Heights, Barrington Woods, were united in marriage May 28th at St. Agnes Church, Lookout Heights, with the double ring ceremony.

The bride was lovely in her gown of white satin with long train and veil, carrying a silver and crystal rosary, a gift of the groom, and a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid. She entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The bride's sister, Vivian Scheper, as maid of honor, gown in pink taffeta, carried red roses. Lorraine Gartner, a close friend of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore blue taffeta and also carried red roses. A little cousin of the bride, Maureen Hagedorn, in yellow taffeta, carried a basket of pink flowers. Each of the three girls' gowns were styled on the same lines as that of the bride, with off the shoulder form-fitting bodices and full hip draping skirts. A little cousin of the groom, Bobby Sullivan, as ring bearer, wore a white suit and carried a white satin heart-shaped pillow with the rings.

The groom had for his best man, his brother, Leonard Hagedorn, and each wore identical suits of medium blue with white carnation buttonholes. A friend of the groom, Wm. Clark, in navy blue, was also an attendant. A cousin of the groom, Jack Hagedorn and John Pope, were ushers.

The ceremony was followed by breakfast at the bride's lovely home on Glozier Avenue. A reception was held at St. Paul auditorium in the evening, the couple receiving many beautiful gifts.

After spending a honeymoon at Spring Mill Inn, Mitchell, Ind., and in Indianapolis, the happy couple will be home to their many friends at their apartment at 854 Dixie Highway, Erlanger, Ky.

Waterloo Man Is Held to Grand Jury On Shooting Charge

Everett Bolles, 24, of Waterloo, appeared before Judge C. L. Cropper in Boone County Court, Monday to answer a charge of shooting with intent to kill. He was held over to the Grand Jury under $5,000 bond.

Bolles was arrested early Saturday by Sheriff R. L. Rouse on complaint of William B. Griffin, Burlington, Route 2, who said he was shot twice by Bolles, Friday night.

Sheriff Rouse said the wounded man told him he had been at Duck Head Inn with Bolles watching the wrestling matches on television.

When they left to go home, Bolles commenced shooting at objects along the road with a .22-caliber rifle. John Andy, an uncle of Griffin, had joined the pair. He warned Bolles he might hit a person or an animal. Griffin said the accused dropped back and then shot two bullets at him. He was wounded in the right arm and back.

The wounded man boarded a Greyhound bus and rode to Covington, where police took him to Booth Hospital, where the wounds were found to be not serious. He was released Saturday night.

Conquest of Death

Lesson for June 19, 1949

DOCTORS TALK about conquering death, but they never do. All they can manage is to put it off a little. In all the long sad story of mankind there is only one absolute conquest of death. It happened on the first Easter morning, and it was a turning point in the history of the world. The few lines about the Resurrection, in our New Testament, would not cover the front page of this newspaper. We do not know all we want to know. But those few lines tell us enough to set us singing, they are a solid foundation for a soaring faith.

The Mighty Act of God
WE shall be disappointed if we expect the Gospels to "explain" the Resurrection. It is anything the stories show clearly, it is that the first persons who knew of the Resurrection were confused and shaken by it. The disciples had not expected anything like this, and they may not fully have understood what was going on.

What they were sure of, what they could not deny, was first of all that Christ rose from the dead, and also that it was God who raised him from the dead. God had beaten the one unbeatable power—death. Death, the universal conqueror, turned out for once to be the conquered.

It is only those who can believe in an all-powerful God who can fully believe in the Resurrection.

It Is The Lord

WHAT MANNER of person was Jesus, after that first Easter morning? There were some differences hard to describe, and in fact not described, only hinted at. You notice that at times it was not easy to recognize him at first. Paul refers to Christ's "glorious body" and surely there must be a glory in a person who has actually proved too strong for death to hold—a glory such as even Christ, before Calvary, had not shown. And yet—yet, it was the same Jesus they had always known.

No Ghost

BY NIGHT, in many a "seance," mediums profess to get in touch with the spirits of the dead. If you could believe the spiritists, Shakespeare and Queen Victoria and innumerable other famous people, have come back and talked from beyond the grave. But the thing that makes the Christian church more than doubtful about such performances, is that somehow the dead-and-come-back genius is never a genius any more. Neither Shakespeare nor any other famous person has said anything worth saying through a "medium." And even these feeble ghosts cannot endure the daylight. They have to come at night.

How different were the comings of Jesus! There was nothing weird or uneasy about him. Around the supper table, or on an afternoon walk, or out on the lake shore under the morning sun... never the poor mumbling ghost of a seance, never any stupid trifle from his lips, but words of truth and comfort which the church cherishes as among the best from our Lord's mind. Jesus!

resurrection is not the story of the survival of a ghost, still less the mere return of a revived and walking corpse.

It is the story of a Divine Person who conquered death, and who came back from that conquest in power and majesty, yet with all the tenderness, love and brilliance he had ever shown.

Our Hope in Him
PAUL (in 1 Cor. 15) makes it clear that our hope of life beyond-death grows right out of Christ's resurrection. The enemies of Christ would have given their right eyes to stop the mouths of the men who told that story, and to prove it a lie.

But they could never do it. You cannot well stop people from believing what they have seen with their own eyes. So our hope of eternal life is not just a hope.

As Paul says, if that were all, we should be miserable men.

LITTLE HANDS AT WORK

Some of the projects for little tots in Daily Vacation Church School might seem to an adult mind to be far removed from religion. For instance, these youngsters are putting together animal cut-outs!

Their teacher tells us that the lesson today was based on the truth; God created heaven and earth. Maybe you could listen to a discourse on that subject for an hour or more (and maybe you couldn't). But a child soon tires of listening... he needs a chance to put his hands to work.

And so these little hands are busily engaged in a bit of creative work of their own that will impress the lesson on their minds better than a thousand words.

Your child needs the advantage of, and the stimulation of religious education this summer. Enroll him in one of the Daily Vacation Church Schools that thousands of churches will conduct.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible study regularly and read your Bible daily.

Use of Sulquin

Cecal coccidiosis in chickens can be controlled by using Dr. Salsbury's Sulquin, a new product containing the highly active drug, sulfaquinoxaline. Sulquin comes in 2 forms: a powder for mixing in the mash and liquid form for drinking water medication. Sulquin is given to the birds at first appearance of bloody droppings.

During treatment with Sulquin, do not change the birds' litter, as this might reduce chances of the birds' acquiring immunity through experiencing a mild cecal-coccidiosis infection. Also during Sulquin medication, do not use flushing mashers or laxatives.

Plans Completed For Legion Picnic July 4

Affair To Be Held at Woodland Inn On Dixie Highway; Fun For All

Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion in holding its regular business meeting Monday evening, June 20 at the Legion home on Beaver Road.

At that time plans for the picnic to be held July 4th were completed. A portable ironer is to be one of awards at the picnic, to be held at Woodland Inn, 2 miles south of Walton on U. S. Highway 25.

There is still some space left at the present time for dealer displays and demonstrations. Anyone interested may contact either Donald Stephenson, William Cluser or Clifford Farwell. Let us all plan to attend the picnic and have ourselves a wonderful time.

Interest shown in the Legion-sponsored magazine drive is increasing by leaps and bounds. Magazine sales have made it possible for the Legion to acquire two wheel chairs and two pairs of crutches for use by the people of Boone County. This equipment has been on display for the past several weeks at the Walton Garage. To date, we have had one request for use of a wheel chair and were very glad to be able to supply it. We hope, in the future, to be able to supply more of the unusual equipment sometimes necessary for the comfort of the recuperating invalid.

To meet these needs and others which may arise, the Legion has been striving to increase its membership, and is meeting with a great deal of success. Here in Walton, Legion membership has increased approximately thirty-five percent in the last few months and promises to reach over a hundred percent increase before the snow flies.—Pub. Chs.

Junior Conservation Camps Planned For Youth of State

Probably no other undertaking by Kentucky's Division of Game and Fish will have such far-reaching effects on the future of Kentucky sportsmen as will its Junior Conservation Club activities.

The Division and the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, 20,000 strong, are to be congratulated on the formation and sponsorship of such a program. It will mean that the future of wildlife in Kentucky will be in the hands of men who know the value of conservation and preservation; will know the laws governing hunting and fishing and will respect those regulations.

With the dedication of Junior Camp John W. H. Currie at Kentucky Lake early in June the people of the Commonwealth have permanent the future of the Junior Conservation program. This camp, erected by the Division, and dedicated to the youth of the state, will be a permanent reminder to the Commonwealth that it has a debt to pay its youth and its conservation efforts.

While the camp itself is not yet complete a number of permanent buildings have been erected and more will follow so that the camp can adequately care for more than 100 boys each week of the camping period. It stands as a monument to the good sportsmen of Kentucky and to the efforts of the Division of Game and Fish to bring education to the youth who so long have been denied knowledge of a phase of hunting and fishing that has largely been ignored.

Camp Currie is the first in a series of such camps. The Division says another permanent camp will be erected at the Wolf Creek Impoundment and on Dewey Dam Lake when those projects have been completed. We subscribe to this project by the Division and we feel that results from this undertaking will be felt more and more on down through the years.

Mrs. Ballard, who was 50 years old, passed away last Wednesday in St. Francis Hospital, Cincinnati, after an illness of four weeks.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Albers, and a brother, Alvin Hopperton, both of Covington.

Revival Progressing at Independence Church

The first week of the revival meeting at the Baptist Church of Independence resulted in thirteen additions to the church. The meeting is now in the second week, with prospects of other additions. Baptismal services will be held Sunday night, June 26th at 7:45.

No Severe Drop Is Anticipated For Farm Produce According to Outlook Bulletin

The Kentucky Department of Markets and Rural Finance told farmers of the state Tuesday it saw no immediate threats of severe recession in prices of farm produce.

In its monthly outlook the department said, however, trends indicate there may be additional "adjustments."

Here is the outlook by products: Beef cattle—Prices of good and choice cattle should show improvement the next 60 days. Feed lots will be cleaned out and supplies of upper-grade cattle will show a seasonal decline. Meattime, supplies of lower-grade cattle and grassfat stock will increase seasonally with some declines in price.

Lighter-weight stock will be in strongest demand and canner and coveys and turkeys suitable for manufacture of ready prepared meats will find good outlets. Yearling marketings are down from a year ago. Price trends for stockers and feeders are about in line with slaughter cattle prices.

Hogs—Prices will continue along for the next month or six weeks as marketings of fall-farrowed pigs decrease. The marketings of these pigs started earlier than usual this year and probably will cause more uniform marketings and less violent price changes than normal during this season. Although feed is abundant, farmers may continue to market hogs a twelvemonth slightly less than the past two years.

Lambs—Prices are expected to work to lower levels the next month or six weeks. A small crop may slow the seasonal decline. Some producers apparently plan to hold ewe lambs for breeding.

Dairy—Little if any change in butter and other dairy products prices is in prospect for the near future. Prices for milk sold for bottling in fluid milk markets remain slightly high. Surplus is being used for other purposes.

Poultry—Lower prices for farm eggs and higher prices for high-quality eggs may be expected in the immediate future. Chicken prices are expected to fluctuate and work lower. Storage holdings of both poultry and eggs are low compared with 1948 and the last five years.

Kieffer-Magers

On Saturday afternoon at the Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, John F. Magers and Miss Gertrude Kieffer of Findlay, Ohio were united in marriage by Rev. Fred S. Nichols, using the single ring ceremony. The couple was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Reeve of Findlay.

HAROLD CONLEY

Harold Conley, many years ago a partner with Russell Oelsner, operator of Oelsner's Tavern on the Dixie Highway, in the breeding of greyhounds, died last Thursday of a heart attack in Detroit, where he had lived in recent years. He was 46 years old.

Mr. Conley was widely known at racing events throughout the country and had entered many of his greyhounds in races at the major tracks. Recently he had been employed as an electrician with the Detroit public lighting system.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Audrey Taylor Conley; a daughter, Miss Joan Conley, Detroit; his father, Nathan D. Conley, Erlanger; three sisters, Mrs. Marvin Afterkirk, Erlanger, Mrs. August Trapp, Boone County, and Mrs. Abraham Koven, Detroit.

Services were held Monday at 2:00 p. m. at Hughes Chapel Methodist Church, Beaver, with burial in the Hughes Chapel Cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs funeral home, Walton, completed arrangements.

Wool Clip to Be Sold In July

Directors of the Boone County Wool Pool will offer the 1949 clip for sale early in July, according to Lillard Scott, secretary.

Mr. Scott has been informed that the sale of wool to mills is sluggish at the present time, but is expected to be some better in July. It is felt by the selling committee that higher bids can be obtained on the stronger market.

Notice of delivery dates will be published in the local papers.

Boy Scout Camp-O-Ree to Be Held at Devou Park, June 24-26

The annual Boy Scout Summer Camp-O-Ree of the Northern Kentucky Council will be held at Devou Park on next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 24, 25, and 26. Preparations are being made to handle at least three hundred Scouts who will take part in the three-day camp.

The Scouts will arrive late Friday afternoon and break camp Sunday noon.

They will camp by patrols under the leadership of Patrol Leaders. Each Troop can register as many patrols as care to take part in the Camp-O-Ree. This camp-O-Ree will be called the "Crusade Camp-O-Ree" and all Scouts in attendance and taking part in the camp will be presented the official Crusade Necker-Slide as a memento of the occasion.

Point will be awarded to the patrols for participating in the various activities of cooking, pioneering, handicraft, games, knot tying, waterbottle, campfire, first aid, patrol organization, special displays, compass judging, fire by flint, fire by friction and a special award will be made to twenty-five percent of the patrols known as the "Good Camper Award" which will entitle the patrol to 100 extra points.

This is based on the Patrol's behavior, appearance and leadership of the Patrol Leader. An unknown Scout will be the judge of this award and will be in attendance throughout the camp. He will present the award late Saturday afternoon to the patrol leaders of the winning patrol.

William Muehlenkamp, Jr., Chairman of the Camping Committee and Commissioner of the County District and Charles Boettger, Neighborhood Commissioner of Campbell County as his assistant. They will be assisted by a group of Scouters who will serve as judges for the various events.

There will be four ribbon awards: The Presidents Award will be presented to the Troop whose patrols earned the highest average number of points; the Blue Ribbon Proficiency Award will be presented to the first 20% of the patrols earning the highest number of points; the Red Ribbon, Stunt Award will be presented to the next 20% of the patrols earning the next highest number of points; and the balance of the patrols that participated in the Book Written by Fred S. Nichols Receives Notice

In a recent issue of the Cincinnati Times-Star appeared the picture of Rev. Fred S. Nichols with a write-up concerning his recent book and with an account of some of his work. The article states that "the idea of the book is a novel and original one," and that there is a "subtle lesson in each essay in a book that is highly readable." Recently in the Cincinnati Enquirer this book received favorable notice from the University of Cincinnati Librarian in the weekly book department of that paper, in which the reviewer refers to the essays as "whimsical and witty," bearing on the "foibles of modern life." He states that "the author makes a thoroughly original and good point in each essay. All are interesting reading."

The summer quarterly of the Bethany Bible Student, a national publication of St. Louis, carries as it does every other quarter, the department of Mr. Nichols on "Difficult Words and Phrases Explained." The local pastor and Rev. Warner Muir of Los Angeles alternate in this department.

From July 10-16 Mr. Nichols will be on the faculty of the Youth Conference held at Carrollton, teaching two subjects, "The Teachings of Jesus" and "History of Our Brotherhood."

License Case Referred To County Judge Cropper

STAFFORDSBURG

Everyone is thankful to God for the wonderful rain which fell last week. The vegetation is revived and our souls refreshed as we realize anew the goodness of God.

We had 62 at Sunday school and still some were not there. Come, let us learn together by studying God's word.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hoffman and family have come to live with his mother, Mrs. Mary Hoffman.

J. J. Barnett very kindly preached for us Sunday morning since our pastors are away on a vacation visit back home in Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban Powers were guests of the Joe Sweeney family Sunday evening.

The Staffordsborg Homesteaders will hold their June meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, Rosedale, on the Dixie Highway.

Regret to hear that Mr. Jackson is quite ill following a recent appendectomy. Wish for him a speedy recovery.

HOMEMAKERS RESTORE HATS OF YESTERDAY

A millinery style revue put on by homemakers in Gallatin county illustrated one of the ways they have learned to be thrifty. Thirty hats that two to eight years ago were "the latest style," again met that description as they were modeled by the 20 women who had remade them. Some of the hats had been reblocked so their original shapes were entirely changed, said Miss Jewel Wilson, home agent; others had had their color revived with a coat of oil paint or finished with shellac. Feathers, flowers, ribbons or veiling added the decorative note.

BEAVER LICK

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tanner and L. M. Tanner spent last weekend in Barbourville, Ky., visiting her family.

Robert Weaver of Louisville was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Slayback and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roter were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Kidd.

Rev. V. V. Hill is conducting a revival at the Walton Methodist Church.

Several from here attended the funeral of Harold Conley, who passed away suddenly in Detroit. He was buried at Hughes Chapel, Monday. We extend our sincere sympathy to the family.

The many friends of Kate Sparks will be glad to know that at this writing she is slightly improved. We wish for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore and Harry Dale called on Mrs. Mayme Moore of Florence, Saturday evening.

CARD OF THANKS—

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their many kindnesses during the illness and death of our beloved mother and grandmother, Mrs. Eoa May Sleet.

Especially do we wish to thank the members of the Richwood Presbyterian Church for the use of their church; Bro. Everett Bedinger for the beautiful prayer; the ministers, singers and organist, and Chambers and Grubbs Funeral Home their efficient services.

The kitchen cabinet was on the opposite wall. No one knows how many steps I took to prepare a meal but I was often too tired to enjoy eating."

In memory of my dear Mother, beloved wife of Rev. A. K. Johnson, who departed this life June 22, 1942—

A REAL MOTHER

There is one who loves you, whatever you do,
In joy or in sorrow, she shares it with you;
She risked her life that you might live,
So love and kindness to her you should give;
I am sure you agree, there is no other
Can ever compare with your own dear Mother.

God came one morning and took Mother away,
Our hearts are still sad from that terrible day;
We try to say we know 'twas God's will,
But our home here is broken and things are so still;
When I think of the past, I can find no other
Like the wonderful home made by dear little Mother.

When we were small, she kept us from harm,
We felt so safe, nestled close in her arm;
She taught us to love one another at play,
And before going to bed she would lead us to pray;
Her four little girls and their baby brother
Were truly loved by their own dear Mother.

She tried so hard to raise us right,
And we know she spent many a sleepless night;
But she trusted in God to lead her each day,
For to live close to Him, she knew it would pay;
Her heart was made sad when God took little brother,
For he was the only son of our dear little Mother.

She was truly devoted to our dearest Dad
And when he was sick, she would feel so sad;
There was nothing for her family she wouldn't do,
As a wife and Mother she was sure true blue;
We might search the world to find another,
But none could be sweeter than our own dear Mother.

She believed in everything clean and right
And things that were wrong, she liked out of her sight;
She read her Bible and lived it each day,
And she walked close to God each step of the way;
She thought not of self, but her motto was "Others,"
Oh why can't this world have more Christian Mothers?

We know we shall meet her, if we love close to God,
And we want to be led in the path she hath trod;
Her life shall live on in our hearts every day,
For she taught us to love God and not cease to pray;
I am sure we agree there is no other
Can ever compare with a dear Christian Mother.

—Nell Johnson Hunt.

POULTRY PRODUCTION UP

It is estimated that chicken production this year may be 15% above last year; turkeys, 25% higher, and commercial broilers 50% larger. Even with no change in the ability of consumers to buy, this fact alone would indicate lower prices for most poultry products by late 1949, says the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

Jack Wade, one of the largest swine breeders in Bullitt county, lost approximately 100 head of feeder pigs and sows with flu and pneumonia.

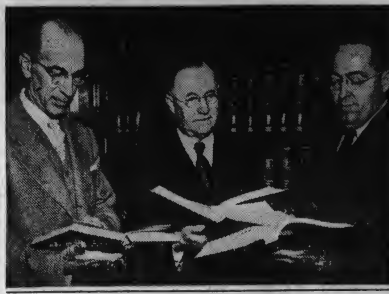

Herschel Anderson of Knox county planted 2,000 pine trees this year, after plowing furrows around a hill.

The Daviess county homemakers association has a membership of 484 women.

Approximately 5,000 pounds of wool were consigned to the Kentucky Wool Growers Cooperative by Pendleton county sheepmen.

W. O. Gilreath of McCreary county filled a 65-ton silo from 20 acres of alfalfa.

Less than 10 farmers in Hart county grew 17A tobacco last year; this year, 64 farmers are using that variety.

It is estimated that a least 3,000 acres of Ladino clover seed were sowed in Henderson county this spring.

Two coal companies in Pike county are using Ky. 31 fescue and lespedeza to control erosion.

Ten farmers in Magoffin county are carrying out a complete spray program on their fruit trees.

Use of Sulquin

Cecal coccidiosis in chickens can be controlled by using Dr. Salsbury's Sulquin, a new product containing the highly active drug, sulfaquinoxaline. Sulquin comes in 2 forms: a powder for mixing in the mash and liquid form for drinking water medication. Sulquin is given to the birds at first appearance of bloody droppings.

During treatment with Sulquin, do not change the birds' litter, as this might reduce chances of the birds' acquiring immunity through experiencing a mild cecal coccidiosis infection. Also during Sulquin medication, do not use flushing mashers or laxatives.

He Lives On

Lesson for June 26, 1949

WHAT IS JESUS, after all? A name in a book? A picture on the walls of churches? More than that! A historical character? Founder of a great religion? More than that! He is the one and only Person who can be everywhere. He would be important if he had only lived; he is far more so because he lives on. But where does he live, and how?

Christians would often feel lonely and discouraged, if it were not for one thing. They know Jesus prays for them. In long-ago times the High Priest of Israel used to pass beyond his people's sight into the silent Holy of Holies, and when he did, the people knew that in that sacred place he was bearing on his heart the whole people, the people whom he served. So the writer to the Hebrews, in the New Testament, pictures Jesus as the perfect High Priest, who has passed beyond our sight, beyond the beautiful blue veil of heaven, into the very presence of God, where he lives, now to intercede for his people who are ever on his heart.

Jesus lives on today in the life of prayer which we believe is still his. No matter what comes to the Christian, he can remember that One is praying for him who is stronger than all the world of evil.

"Greater is he that is for us than he that is against us," said John the Apostle.

In His Book

LUKE tells us that Jesus had to show some of his friends his own picture in the Old Testament. His portrait is not very plain there, but in the New Testament it is very plain indeed. The Bible leads up to Christ, he is its crowning figure. The Bible is, so to speak, a frame for his picture. Many a person, in remote regions of the world, has become Christian just by reading about Christ in some stray copy of the New Testament. The reader begins by reading about Jesus—then the pages come alive, and he meets Jesus, face to face. Jesus lives on, wherever the Bible goes.

In His People

CHURCHES may argue among themselves about what Jesus meant by this or that. But there cannot be any argument about one thing. When Jesus left his friends behind, he gave them orders to go tell the world about him. "Make disciples of all nations. . . Ye shall be my witnesses." A shut-mouthed Christian isn't much of a Christian. A shut-mouthed church is a poor sort of church. (Is it really a church at all?) We do not believe that Jesus expected his followers all to become preachers.

Indeed, we should remember that all the first Christians were laymen. But they got results. One hundred twenty people grew to be three thousand, five thousand, in a few weeks. What is the reason that 120 Christians today don't win 3,000 converts? One reason is that you would probably find those 120 Christians complaining that their church is "vacant," they don't have a pastor. The early Christians might have thought that very funny. How can a church be vacant with 120 people in it? Christ lives in his church.

Into All the World
CHRISTIANITY is the only religion that can stand transplanting into any climate. There is no other religion that can number its people from the Arctic to the equator, and from east to west around the world. But this is not an accident. It would not have happened by itself. Jesus himself in Galilee walked wherever he went, and in all his grown-up life he did not walk farther from his birthplace than you could drive in an afternoon.

But he walks on every shore. Where ship and camel and plane carry the missionary, there goes Christ; where the airways carry his message, there is he. Wherever Christians go, Christ goes in them and with them.

He lives everywhere today where Christians live, he walks on Christians' feet. Beside the four Gospels in print, there is the Gospel according to You. Does Jesus live in and through you?

These—without anything borrowed or blue—can give to her Wedding Day the sure promise of happiness.

Something old? A faith in God such as has been the foundation of life for millions of Christians before her. A simple conviction found in the religious instruction she received as a child, nurtured in regular worship at Church, ready to go with her through the years.

Something new? A love for the one she has consented to marry. A tender devotion that will grow richer and deeper as they share the sunshine and shadows of life.

With these two—the "something old" that lives in her soul, and the "something new" that thrills in her heart—she comes to her husband. And if he comes to her bearing the same treasures, their marriage cannot fail!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and financial support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE SOCIAL SECURITY

Do you have any questions about Social Security Law?

Many people have questions about the social security program but they hesitate to contact the office. They ask their friends, their relatives and everyone else, and as a result they receive many different answers, become confused, and many times benefits are lost.

If you have any questions about social security we would suggest that you contact the social security representative directly and know that you will receive an answer that is based on the law. Your question might pertain to your wage record, your eligibility for benefits, an explanation of how your benefits are calculated, or it might be in regard to your social security account number card.

Please feel free to contact the social security representative when he visits the Erlanger post office from 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. and the Williamstown post office from 2:00 p.m. to 3:00 p.m. on the third Thursday of each month.

No subsidy
crutch for us!

The Southern Railway doesn't lean on a "subsidy crutch" fashioned from your tax dollars.

Because we know there is no self-respect in a handout... for an individual or a business... we prefer to build and maintain our own steel "highways," stations, signalling and other facilities... with our own dollars.

Other forms of transportation use highways, airports and waterways built and maintained by your tax dollars and ours. But not railroads.

Isn't the "self-reliant-railroad-way" the way that built America? Isn't it the way to keep America strong? Isn't it the way that's best for you and your children?

COOPS DO BIG FARM INSURANCE BUSINESS

Cooperative fire insurance companies are carrying over 100 million dollars worth of insurance on Kentucky farm property, according to the 1948 annual report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

There are 18 cooperative fire insurance companies that do essentially rural business and four other cooperatives that write insurance on urban property.

The cooperative companies developed because "to get insurance from stock companies is generally difficult and often impossible" for owners of farm property, the report states. Assessments varied from 25 cents to 83 cents per $100 insurance in force.

CIRCULAR DISCUSSES BEEF CATTLE BREEDS

Kentuckians who took a prominent part in importing and improving Shorthorns and Herefords are listed in "Background and Influence of the Beef Breeds of Cattle," a new circular published by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the University of Kentucky.

Written by W. S. Anderson, professor emeritus, the circular deals with the origins of beef cattle, importations into America, contributions of purebreds, the Longhorns and cattle-raising in the West, and the functions of breed associations.

In 1817, Henry Clay imported cattle from Herefordshire, England, to the Blue Grass Region of Kentucky. The same year, Col. Lewis Sanders of Kentucky imported Shorthorns, and for years many of the noted herds of this breed were located in this state.

Relatives here of Mrs. Kate Tupman participated in the celebration of her 90th birthday on Sunday at the home of a grandson, William Tupman and wife of Bromley, Mrs. Tupman is very active for her age, is caring for a lady in Erlanger and makes bird houses in her leisure.

Her many friends here wish her health and many more birthdays. A much needed rainfall of one inch fell here over the weekend, which revived the pastures and all other vegetation.

BULLDOZERS REDUCE IMPROVEMENT COSTS

When large bulldozers were used for the first time in Grant county for building terraces and diversion ditches, results were a big surprise, reports Farm Agent Robert Hume. Farmers found that costs were half as great, structures are much stronger than when made with a tractor disk, and diversion ditches can be built in drier soil and in rocky areas where other machinery could not operate.

More than 150 pieces of furniture are being refinished by homemakers club members in Warren county.

More than 300 seedling pecans were grafted on 12 Fulton county farms.

Hancock county homemakers made about 250 corsages in May, after learning how to make them in their club meetings.

Songs for All Hearts

Lesson for July 3, 1949

THE greatest hymn-book in the world is to be our study for three months. Not the oldest; that honor belongs to the Vedic Hymns of ancient India. Not the largest; the hymnal of your own church may easily be twice as large. But the greatest hymn-book in the world is the book of Psalms. This collection of religious poems was used as the hymn-book of the temple which was built when the Jewish exiles returned to Babylon. It was the hymn-book of Herod's temple, and we know our Lord used and loved it. It is indeed the song-book of the Bible. It was the only hymnal which the first Christians used, for some time. Indeed the book of Psalms is probably the only hymn-book honored and used by three separate religions—Judaism, Mohammedanism and Christianity.

How It Grew

LIKE all hymnals, this book of Psalms grew by degrees. It was not written all at one time or by one person. David wrote some of the Psalms, how many we do not know. The "titles" of the Psalms were added by later Hebrew editors, and are not of the original Psalms, and are often inaccurate.

It is very likely that as much as a thousand years went by between the first of the Psalms to be written, and the last. Every modern hymnal that is any good is in part a collection of the best of the old hymnals. So our book of Psalms, as it finally took shape, came from older collections. A glance through it in the American standard version will show that in its present form it is made up of five smaller books, ending with Psalms 41, 72, 89, 106 and 150. Each book ends with a doxology and book V ends with a magnificent series of them. Sometimes the editors left in duplicates. Reading Psalm 14 side by side with Psalm 53 will show that these two are exactly the same, only using different names for God. At least one of the Psalms is made up of "clippings" from earlier Psalms; thus Psalm 108 is made up of Psalm 57:1-11 and Psalm 60:5-12. The Psalms were cherished and preserved generation after generation because of their heart-appeal. Our Psalm book has gone through centuries of sifting; many were dropped out and forgotten, but the best were saved and sung; and what we have is the cream of the best of the singers of Israel.

Mirror of Man
JOHN CALVIN called the Psalms the "mirror of the soul." All the varied moods of man—hope, despair, triumph, envy, doubt, aspiration, loneliness, hatred, fear, irritation, patriotism, joy, bitterness, weariness, amazement, anguish, rapture—almost every emotion that can be felt toward God or man breathes somewhere or other in these Psalms.

Since not one of the authors of the Psalms was a Christian, of course, we should not be surprised to find, here and there, expressions (for example) of hatred which are out of harmony with the spirit and teaching of Jesus. The wonder is that there is so little of that kind of thing.

For every Psalm in which the poet says something cruel or hateful (e. g. Psalm 137:9 or 109:6-14), there are scores that breathe a spirit of gentleness and grace. For every note of despair (Psalm 88 is the only completely gloomy one in the whole collection), there are many hallelujahs of hope and gladness.

Message of God

The Psalms are so human, how can they be also God's Word? Yet they are also, truly, a message of God. For they not only cast a divine light on the state of man's heart, but they show what the life of man is when God becomes real. For God was real to each poet who contributed to this great book. In latter weeks this summer we shall be looking at the Psalms from various special angles. This week it will be helpful to sit quietly with the three typical Psalms, 1, 67 and 100, and as you ponder over each one in turn, ask yourself: What does this show me about God? What does this show about life when it turns to God?

Children and Homes

The happiest homes on earth are those that are blessed with children. Children impart a warmth and an atmosphere of living to a home that lends enchantment to even the humblest dwelling.

The happiest people on earth are those parents who lavish their affections upon their children and endeavor to rear them in such manner that they will become happy and useful members of society.

Parenthood carries with it serious responsibilities which no parent can afford to shirk or ignore. Child delinquency springs mainly from parental neglect and the lack of proper home training.

The first duty of a parent is to instill in his child's mind the principles of right living and the spiritual background of human life. He must teach the child how to apply these principles in his daily life.

The Church stands ready to counsel and guide parents in meeting the grave responsibilities of child training.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

INDEPENDENCE R. 1

This entire community was sorry to learn of the death of John Losey, which occurred at his home at White's Tower, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Losey had been ill for a couple of years but was not bedfast only part of the time. His funeral was conducted Saturday afternoon at the Swindler Funeral Parlor, Independence. This community extends sympathy to the bereaved daughter and son.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gedkar and Mrs. Gedkar's sister, Louella, left Sunday morning on a two weeks vacation to Florida and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins and August visited the Staffordsburg Sunday school, Sunday, and dined with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney and son, Donald.

Rev. and Mrs. John Wheary and daughter arrived home last week from a two weeks' vacation in Bland, Missouri.

Rev. Wheary will be back at Staffordsburg Sunday morning at 11:00 and Sunday evening at 7:45. Come out and worship with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Ballinger spent the weekend with friends in Bowling Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hanna attended church services at Mt. Mark's Church, Latonia, Sunday, and were dinner guests of their son, Harley, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wynford Riley entertained several of their relatives Sunday evening in celebrating their little daughter's second birthday. Beverly received many nice little gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sweeney and family had guests from Cincinnati, Sunday afternoon.

"Happy Birthday... America." Happy birthday to you, our own United States! May you have many years of peace and prosperity!

May we, as member of the American Legion Auxiliary, Johnson-McElroy Unit 277, continue to serve for the ideals which gave you birth and which have made you the envy and the hope of the world!

Let all Americans on this Fourth of July unite in prayer, thought and deed to make secure our free way of life for the future of our country.

Yes, July is the birth month of our nation, the month in which the "course of human events" required that the 13 American colonies declare their independence from foreign tyranny. Signing that Declaration the signers pledged "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

After 173 years, this Declaration of Independence is just as precious as it was in 1776. In other parts of the world tyranny is even stronger than it was then, but because the democratic ideals embodied in that Declaration have been established and maintained in America, we are a free people. We have inherited the liberty won and defended by so much sacrifice. The lives, fortunes and honor of every American should be pledged to defense of liberty today, as in 1776. Americanism, as defined in the Legion's Americanism Manual is: "An ideal of loyal patriotism, religious tolerance, righteous freedom, fearless courage, honest integrity, abiding faith in the commanding destiny of the United States, and a fathomless love for the principles which led our forefathers to found this country."

In the American Legion Auxiliary we are pledged to "foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism and safeguard the principles of justice, freedom and democracy." These are no empty words, but an obligation which should have intense personal meaning to each one of us. If America fails to maintain its Americanism, it will lose everything else which makes life in this country so very much worth while. Citizenship in the U. S. of America is a privilege and to vote is a duty. It is also our duty to be informed regarding what is going on in our communities, states and nation, so that our votes may be cast intelligently. We must learn to recognize the influences working to destroy the free institutions which have made America what it is today and vote for those who will stand against them. Our votes are our weapons against loss of freedom.

Education for citizenship starts in the home. Our homes should be training grounds for democracy, where young people learn and practice the basic principles of democratic living. Today's youth growing up under swiftly changing conditions, need a sound foundation of Americanism to become successful citizens and successful individuals. Let's give our young people Americanism as something to get excited about! Let's present it to

Annual Red Cross Dinner

We were instructed that no more Red Cross funds should be used toward the salary of the Public Health Nurse, so, on motion and second, it was decided that after January 1, 1950, the County Red Cross organization would cancel its obligation to contribute a part of the salary of the Public Health Nurse.

Chairman G. R. Scott, in a short speech, presented to Dean Bloss, who had served as chairman of the Fund Drive and had put Boone county "over the top," a citation from National Red Cross for his splendid effort. Mrs. Sibbia Reimer, chairman of Nursing Activities, made a short report. The report of the Nominating Committee, none of which were present, was read by the secretary, as follows:

Directors—Mrs. D. L. Maddox, Walton; Mrs. Jamison Aylor, Hebron; Wendell Ryan, Verona; Mrs. Warren J. Miller, Jr., Union. Officers—G. R. Scott, Chairman, Florence; R. L. Rouse, First Vice Chairman, Burlington; J. B. Helzer, Second Vice Chairman, Beaver; Mrs. R. C. Eastman, Secretary, Florence; Judge C. L. Cropper, Treasurer, Burlington; Mrs. Elizabeth G. Nestor, Executive Secretary, Florence.

The speaker of the evening, Brigadier General Roscoe L. Murray, Adjutant General of Kentucky, was introduced by the chairman and he kept us thoroughly entertained. He began in a happy vein by recounting some of his early Army experiences, for he has served from Buck Private to General. His talk was almost entirely along the line of the cooperation which should exist between the Red Cross and the various State Departments, especially the military, in case of disaster. He stated that there are more than 4,000 officers and men in our State National Guard.

Not the least pleasant thing in connection with his visit was the fact that he brought his charming wife with him and she captured all our hearts by her sweet, natural friendliness.—Pub. Chr.

You can say goodbye and good riddance to kitchen soot, smoke and smudge when you cook electrically.

Flameless electric heat is as clean as summer sunshine. Utensils stay bright and shiny after months of use. Kitchen walls, curtains and the range itself stay clean and new-looking much longer than with old-fashioned flame-type cooking.

And spotless cleanliness is only one of many advantages of electric cooking. Get the facts and you'll go electric. It's the modern way!

FARM NEWS

SOFT WINTER MAY MEAN SCREWWORMS

The mild winter in southeastern states may have allowed the screwworm fly to survive farther north than usual, says the Experiment Station, University of Kentucky. As a result, screwworms may cause damage to livestock in this state.

Farmers are advised to watch their stock and to treat all wounds. Use Smear 62 or Smear 82, according to directions to prevent infestations of screwworms and to treat wounds where maggots are already present. Maggots of the screwworm fly develop in open wounds.

MUCH GRAZING FROM LADINO AND FESCUE

As evidence of the value of good pasture, H. C. Besuden, Clark county sheepman, has pastured 42 yearling Southdown rams on a 1½-acre field of Ladino clover and fescue continuously since the middle of March. Charles Shouse, county agent, says the sheep were well conditioned and the pasture now is showing an abundance of growth. Mr. Besuden plans to keep the rams on the pasture until they are marketed in July. The field was seeded to the mixture in April of last year.

COLLEGE TO HOLD BREEDING SCHOOL

Farmers, stockmen and other persons concerned with stock-breeding have been invited to attend a breeding school at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, July 7 and 8.

Purpose of the school is to acquaint stock-breeders with the latest information on how to breed better strains of livestock. Considerable attention will be given the artificial breeding program being used to develop dairying in the state.

Speakers will include stockmen, members of the college's faculty and two noted authorities from other states—Dr. L. M. Winters of the University of Minnesota, and Dr. Geo. Trimberger of Cornell University.

VERONA

Plenty of rain and most people have finished setting tobacco, and it is doing nicely.

Little Harold Rouse has the chicken pox.

Lucille and Edna Risner entertained with a party Friday evening. All reported a good time. Delicious refreshments were served.

The citizens living on the Kandy-Waller road want to take this means of thanking the officials of Boone county for bringing the road machinery and working the road, the first time in 21 years.

Harry and Dean Alphin were calling on Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kandy, Sunday afternoon.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, formerly of this community and Walton, will be sorry to hear that their home was hit by a tornado which swept Wood River, Ill., May 21st. Operator's License Expire July 31st; Renew by Mail

The present operator's license expire July 31, 1949 and all operators of motor vehicles are required on or before that date to procure a renewal of their license.

The new license may be obtained at the office of Circuit Clerk, A. D. Yelton, in Burlington, by applying in person, or by sending a stamped envelope, your old operator's license and the fee of $1.00 to the clerk. It is suggested that this is a very convenient and quick way to obtain your license and more people are urged to avail themselves of this service. If more than one license from a family is mailed in, one envelope is sufficient.

Licenses will be sold by Mr. Yelton at the following locations in the county:

WALTON, City Building, July 15 and July 16.

PETERSBURG, Farmers Bank, on July 18th.

VERONA, Verona Bank, July 19.

UNION, Union Bank, July 20th.

GRANT, Citizens Bank, afternoon of July 21st.

FLORENCE, Building & Loan office, July 22 and July 23.

HEBRON, Hebron Motors, July 25.

CONSTANCE, Ellis Store, afternoon of July 27.

Applicants must present their old licenses. Members of the family may obtain licenses for others in their family. If you were found in the last year try mailing your license in this year. It is fast and convenient and if you are checked for not having your license it is an excusable defense that you had sent it in to be renewed.

Boone County to Be Site of Tank Farm And Pump Station

The value of the petroleum industry to Boone county, a center of growing activity, will be increased greatly through the construction of the new 1,000-mile, underground pipe line system extending from Lima, Ohio to Longview, Texas, which is being built by the Mid-Valley Pipe Line Company, formed under the equal joint ownership of The Standard Oil Company (Ohio) and the Sun Oil Company. Both oil companies operate refineries in Ohio in addition to the Sohio refinery, recently modernized, at LaTonia, in Kenton county.

Boone county has been selected for the site of a tank farm and pump station, one of the seven major pump stations and one of the four tank farms to be built as a part of the system, according to an announcement by S. H. Elliott, executive vice president of Mid-Valley. At least three large storage tanks, a modern pump station and several residences for employee occupation will be built at this Boone county development. The tanks are of the most modern, floating-roof type. No refining or manufacturing will be undertaken on this property.

Most of the construction will be handled by specialized pipe line contractors, with quite heavy payrolls, which will benefit Boone county. The investment in land, tanks, pump station and residences will be sizable and the taxes on these improvements will benefit greatly the schools and general welfare of Boone county. The land for the Mid-Valley tank farm in Boone county is now under purchase option.

The fact that gasoline has risen in price far less than commodities in general is due to improvements, such as this pipe line, which the oil companies have made. There are today more than 150,000 miles of crude oil and gasoline pipe lines in operation in the United States, and thousands of natural gas pipe lines. These lines cross hundreds of thousands of properties through which rights-of-way were obtained from the owners prior to the construction, as is the procedure in the construction of the Mid-Valley pipe line.

All Boone county land owners, whose property will be crossed by this underground pipe line, will be fully protected during the construction by elaborate safeguards for livestock, tile drains, roads, lanes, and water pipes.

The main line of the Mid-Valley pipe line system will cross parts of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waters had as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Noe and little daughter of Olive Hill and James Noe and little son of Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith and two children of Pikeville are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Childers.

All-Stars to Play Burlington, Friday

The Walton Softball League opened their regular schedule Tuesday night with the Rotary Club and the Advertisers coming out on top. A very good crowd attended.

The first game, starting at 7:30, matched the Rotary Club and the highly favored American Legion squad. The deciding inning in this game was the second, when the Rotarians pushed over seven runs. The game ended 9 to 7 in favor of the "Clubs."

The second game brought together two teams who had not played under the new lights, the young Walton Advertisers and an all-star aggregation from Verona. The ad-men pounded two pitchers for 14 runs and the game was never in doubt. It ended 14-1. The feature of the contest was the pitching of "Bob" McLaughlin, who seemed to have plenty on the ball.

Marching Songs

Lesson for July 10, 1949

WE did not win all the battles we fought with Japan. The day of a certain naval defeat near the Philippines, an American "baby" carrier, left to its fate, was doing its best to get away from the pursuing Japanese. All afternoon it dodged and twisted. Enemy destroyers and planes were hot on its trail, and it was a "sitting duck" in case they really got the range. No one on board expected to live. The only question in anybody's mind was: How soon will they get us? But late in the afternoon, for some reason never explained, the enemy gave up the chase, and the American ship slipped off into the protecting night. The next day, as the men gathered for a special service of thanksgiving, the chaplain read the 124th Psalm. It came as a new Psalm altogether to those men, even to those who had known it by heart.

"If it had not been the Lord who was on our side, when men rose up against us, then they had swallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled against us; then the proud waters had gone over our soul. Blessed be the Lord, who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth."

A Nation's Songs
THE POWER to thrill has not been lost by the Psalms, as the men on that carrier found out. The group numbered 120 through 134 in our Bibles are known as the "Patriotic Marching Songs," and were originally used by the Hebrews as they went year by year up to their capital city of Jerusalem and to the Temple which was the center of their religion. Then as now, the Hebrews were a singing people. A nation that cannot sing, a nation without songs, is a dismal country indeed.

Differences among various countries is symbolized by their songs, or the lack of them. The Chinese, for instance, have no songs that sing them all together in the same way that Englishmen are united in "God Save the King" or as Frenchmen once were by the "Marseillaise."

When it comes to pass, as once it did in the United States, that one part of the nation will sing one song (say, "John Brown's Body") while another part will not sing that song but another one (say, "Dixie"), then civil war is at the gates. Only people who will sing together can be trusted to live together.

Singing Church
IN the long caravans, marching up the rocky hillside trails to Jerusalem, the ancient Hebrews put their faith into stirring words set to music. So it is always. All over the Christian world, wherever and whenever the singing is good, religion is warm and vigorous.

Where the heart is full, there will be song. Revivals of religion are revivals of singing. To this day a stranger in a strange city, looking for a church home, is most likely to settle down in the church where the singing is the best.

It is not an accident that the Moravian church is at the same time the church that makes more of Easter than some other churches. It is the church where at funerals the music is never sad but joyous, not mourning-songs but triumphant hymns of Christian faith.

Patriotism and Religion
READ these marching Psalms through—the reading time is only a few minutes—and see for yourself how the ancient Hebrew men of God united their praise of Him with love for their country. To this day, in our Christian hymnals, patriotism and religion are often combined. The English national anthem, "God Save the King," is a prayer; so is "America the Beautiful." National hymns have a rightful place in a book of public worship. For while patriotism, by itself, is a poor substitute for religion, still a man who will not love his country lacks something of being a good Christian, and on the other hand a man without faith in God makes a very poor citizen.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

Bells have always played an important role in the course of human events. They have heralded emperors and kings, and have sounded the victories of great leaders. They have tolled a mourning note for the passing of lives, and have pealed joyously to announce weddings and births.

Our own great Liberty Bell is preserved as a memorial of the day when our country became an independent nation. On this celebrated occasion, notes of freedom, equality, and justice were sounded, notes which echo today in the free life of our citizens.

So that we may continue such blessed living and may preserve the country which guards its existence, we must listen to the ringing of other bells.

Throughout this great land of ours church bells are sounding. These are the GOLDEN BELLS of love, mercy, and kindness. Toward them we must hasten to worship and pray. With them we must sing praises to the Lord, our Maker.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Pledge to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ANIMAL LIFE POOR ON STARVED SOILS

Sick soils don't make healthy livestock, says Ray Hopper of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Starved soils don't have enough of the minerals that animals need.

The two most necessary minerals for livestock are lime and phosphorus. They make up three-fourths of the cow's body, over 90 percent of her bones and half of the minerals in her milk. Lack of lime may bring lameness, weakening of the bones and poor milk production.

Roughage grown on good land, especially legumes, is the chief source of lime. However, if the land is poor, the feeds grown on it also will be poor in quality. Korean lespedeza grown on good land has been found to contain more than twice as much phosphate and one and one-half times as much lime as lespedeza grown on poor land.

Animals eating such roughage as cornfodder, poor quality hay and poor pasture may suffer from lack of phosphorus.

Two other minerals needed by livestock are sodium and chlorine. These are supplied by keeping salt before the animals.

Some farmers keep a self-feeder in the field, with three compartments, one containing loose salt; another, ground limestone, and a third, steamed bonemeal. This tends to insure livestock against mineral deficiencies.

More important, according to Mr. Hopper, is to be sure the soils on which feeds grow contain a good supply of lime and phosphate.

It is expected that from 300 to 500 acres of vetch will be harvested for seed in Hancock county.

Fourteen acres of orchard grass produced more pasture than other grass on the 200-acre farm of Ervin Doublin of Livingston county.

CHLORDANE DUST DESTROYES ANTS

Hundreds of huge ant hills, some as large as two feet in height and six feet across, were found recently in an old pasture adjoining strawberry fields on the farm of L. L. Porter in Jefferson county. Five percent chlordane dust was blown on 12 of the hills to cover them completely. Four days later, when the hills were dug into, not a live ant was to be found.

As a result, several strawberry growers have treated their patches with the dust with excellent results, said H. C. Brown, associate county agent. The treated plants appeared to take on new life when ants and other insects were killed, he said.

Goshen Church to Celebrate 100th Anniversary July 31

A committee of the Goshen Christian Church, Piner, is busy making plans for the celebration to be held the fifth Sunday in July at the church commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of its founding.

There will be several services at various times all day by past ministers of the church. The oldest living minister who will conduct services is Rev. Ellis Baker, who comes all the way from Texas to help in the celebration. Rev. Baker is a former Kenton County boy, who was educated in the schools of Kenton County and later attended the College of the Bible.

The committee in charge of plans is working on a history of the church and is still seeking information concerning the early history of the church.

The committee has noted that many people are under the impression that the celebration is commemorating the one hundredth anniversary of the building of the church house. Such is not the case. The church is the organized congregation, and not the building.

The first place was the Albert Super Club at 9:45 at the Hotel Aims, then they had lunch at Mills Restaurant. The next place was the greenhouse in Eden Park, and a tour through the park, then to the Bell Telephone Co. The last place visited was the WLW television station but was unable to see the Kitchen Club, due to broadcast the baseball game.

Although the temperature 99.3 degrees, everyone enjoyed the trip. There were 48 persons in the crowd. The club is having a picnic at Mrs. Henry Pitcher's lake on Aug. 6th and everyone is looking forward to a big time.—Pub. Chr.

Community Cannery To Open at Simon Kenton July 19th

J. A. Caywood, Superintendent of Kenton County Schools, announces that the community cannery at the Simon Kenton High School will open for its seventh season Tuesday, July 19th. At the beginning of the season the cannery will be open on Tuesdays. As the demand becomes greater, it will be open on Thursdays and Fridays.

Appointments for canning should be made at least a day previous by calling Mr. Caywood's office, Independence 5054 between 9:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. Food to be canned must be at the cannery between 8:30 a. m. and 2:00 p. m. The price of cans will remain the same as charged last year—six to eight cents per can, depending on the size and type. This covers the cost of the can and use of the cannery.

Mr. Caywood states that the cannery will be more convenient and easier to work in this year than ever before, since several new pieces of equipment have been added, such as an exhaust tunnel and a steam jacket tilting kettle. Also the cannery has been rewired and plumbing rearranged so as to reduce the amount of steam and heat in the cannery.

The following people are responsible for managing and operating the cannery this year: J. A. Caywood and Miss Helen Richardson, appointments and general information; Mrs. Helen G. McElroy and John I. Gray supervisors; Mrs. Mildred Popp and Mrs. Ethelbert Carlisle special cannery teachers, and Cliff Coleman and Ethelbert Carlisle engineers.

In Tuesday night's play, the Fire Department trampled the Rotary Club and Verona ran rough-shod over the Lions Club—scores are still counting up the final scores. However, a nice-sized crowd was on hand to witness proceedings.

ICE CAPADES HUGE SUCCESS IN OPENER AT CINCINNATI GARDEN

Trail-blazing has been the rule with "Ice Capades" ever since it was started back in 1940. Following the formula which had been proved successful wasn't sufficient. There was the constant experimenting with new ideas. Exclusive arrangements with Walt Disney have enabled Producer John H. Harris to bring "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," greatest fantasy in motion picture history, to the ice.

In this feature number of "Ice Capades of 1949," which took more than two years to produce, the public will, for the first time, hear as well as see the entrancing story enacted by the skaters.

The Ice Capades made their debut at the Cincinnati Garden, July 9th and will play through July 20. All mail orders will receive prompt attention at the Cincinnati Garden box office.

TWO OLD gentlemen in wheel chairs on the porch of a hotel got into conversation.

"What's your trouble?" asked one.

"Can't walk. Got rheumatism," replied the other. "Tried everything for it, but nothing helps."

"Then let me tell you about the wonderful Recluse of Waste Mountain," the first O. G. said. "I couldn't find a cure for rheumatism either, until five years ago I heard about this fellow . . . I fitted out a safari and crossed the Gobi Desert. Had myself carried up to the bald peak you ever saw. Here was this hermit, all hair and eyes, and he took one look at me and pointed his finger and yelled: 'You are cured! Throw away your left crutch!'"

"You didn't do it, did you?"

"I threw it on the ground. Then the hermit pointed at me again and yelled: 'Now throw away your right crutch!'"

"Did you do it?"

"Yes."

"And then what happened?"

"I fell flat on the ground."

LAY-OFFS MAY GET YOU CASH FROM UNCLE SAM

"If you are 65 or over and have been laid off recently for any length of time, chances are you've got some money coming from Uncle Sam—you may be eligible for social security benefits," according to a statement by Elbert M. Bohon, manager of the Covington (Ky.) office of the Social Security Administration.

If health, compulsory retirement rules of your employer, lay-offs, strikes—many things may cause you to be out of work. You should inquire at your local social security office to find out if you are entitled to receive social security payments while you're not working. If your wife is 65 or over she too may be eligible.

Very often, wage earners who become unemployed, think—"Oh, I'll probably be going back to work in a couple of weeks at least." However, this doesn't always happen. If you delay too long in filing for your benefits, you may lose some. Do not think that because you are receiving unemployment compensation you cannot apply for your social security benefits. If you are eligible for both, you may draw them both—at the same time.

Don't hesitate to write, telephone, or go in person to your social security office, for information as to whether or not you are eligible to apply for social security benefits. They will be glad to give you the desired information and assist you in filing your application.

The Covington (Ky.) office of the Social Security Administration is located at 7th and Scott Streets in the Post Office Building, and is open from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number is HEmlock 5274.

"It's not our hat!"

The Southern Railway doesn't pass the hat for your tax dollars.

Other forms of commercial transportation use highways, airports and waterways that are built and maintained with your tax dollars—and ours.

But railroads are strictly on their own. Every penny they spend to build and maintain their own steel "highways" comes right out of the railroads' pockets—not yours.

We're glad we are not in the "hat-passing" class. We prefer to stand on our own financial feet in the old-fashioned American way. And we believe that if there were no hat-passers in the transportation business it would be better for you and for all America.

SHORT STORY

Artistic Ancestors

By Richard Hill Wilkison

"I WISH," said Almie Butterworth wistfully, "I only wish there had been some one in our family who really did something, something worth while, something—" she smiled as she said it—"I could brag about."

Fred Butterworth laid aside the morning paper, gulped down the last of his coffee, shoved back his chair and said: "What?"

Almie overlooked his rudeness. "The bridge club meets here this afternoon," she said, "and I dread it because Aggie and Gertrude Wilcox will monopolize the conversation with stories of their ancestors."

Fred scratched his chin and contemplated the wistful look in his wife's eyes. Suddenly he banged the table. "By George, I'd almost forgotten it! Darned if I hadn't. You sit here a minute, sweet, till I rummage around in the attic. I'll give you something to brag about!"

Later he returned with a book. "Buy what is it?" asked Almie. "It's a book of poetry, that's what it is! Written by my mother and published 20 years ago. There's talent in my family, I'll have you know."

Almie's eyes lighted, then glowed with sudden joy. "Fred! You dear! Is it really? Was your mother really a poet? Oh, why didn't you tell me before! It's just too exciting!"

Fred grinned delightedly. Enroute to the station he began to smile. And by the time he had boarded the 8:15 the smile had developed into an occasional chuckle. Tom Cooke, who usually sat with Fred during the short run to the city, became curious.

"Say what's eating you this morning? Let a man in on it if you've got something that'll fetch a laugh these dull days."

Fred laughed outright. "I'll tell you, Tom. It's too good to keep. But don't on your life breathe a word. It would kill Almie."

TOM MADE SOLEMN promises and cocked his ear. "Well," said Fred, "Almie was upset this morning because she didn't have anything to brag about at her bridge club. The other members, it seems, have artistic ancestors. It made Almie feel bad to think she married into such an uninteresting family, so I dug into an old trunk and produced a book of poems that mother published 20 years ago, and told her to brag about that."

"How'd you come out?" Tom asked. "What did Almie say?"

Tom looked puzzled. "What's wrong with that? I'd say a mother-in-law poet was O.K."

"But here's the rub," Fred grinned. "That book of poems is an old manuscript that belonged to my grandmother. After grandmother died, mother found the 'script, thought the poems were worthy of publication, added a few of her own choice verses, and submitted the retyped copy to a publisher. Mr. Publisher ate the stuff up."

"Mother was thrilled. She thought she must have real talent, and went down to the library to study up and read the masters. While perusing a volume of Walt Whitman she discovered some of the very poems that her mother had supposedly written."

"Of course, mother immediately wired the publisher, advising him to cease manufacturing the book, and explaining that her mother must have copied some of her favorite Whitman poems, in order to save them. But Mr. Publisher had already printed about 2000 copies, which were ready for distribution. Mother bought up the edition and destroyed all but one, which she kept for sentimental reasons. That one is the book I gave Almie this morning."

Tom Cooke arrived at the station a few minutes early the next morning and when he saw the grinning countenance of Fred Butterworth coming down the street, he went eagerly to meet him.

Why Church Music?

Lesson for July 17, 1949

WHY church music? Hymn books are expensive, learning new hymns is a bother, choirs are a lot of trouble. Most preachers need more time for their sermons; why not cut out the music and let them have fifteen minutes extra? No sir; it won't do. Say what you please, the average church-goer knows better than that. He may never have thought it out and he might not have heard of the word "hymnology," but Mr. Average Churchman likes music in the church, even if he never opens his mouth himself.

Liturgy
SINGING in church was not invented yesterday. In the Psalms, as in our own hymnals, some of the poems were originally written and intended for use in public worship. The word "liturgy" simply means the order of manner of service, and all churches have liturgies whether they give them that name or not.

Our familiar "Holy, Holy, Holy" was written for use in an early morning service. "Bread of the world" was written as a Communion hymn. "Break Thou the Bread of Life" while often used at Communion was not so intended, as you can tell by reading it carefully; it was meant for use just before the reading of the Scriptures. "Day is Dying in the West" is best used in an outdoor service, "Ivory Palaces" was written one Sunday afternoon in North Carolina for use in an evangelistic meeting that night. It might interest you to learn how many hymns were written purposely for church use.

Songs of the Temple
THREE liturgical Psalms are our lesson selection. Use your imagination when you read them. As you read Psalm 24, think of a great procession marching through the streets of Jerusalem on a holy day and approaching the tall temple shining on the city's highest hill. Singing as they climb, perhaps one part of the congregation sings the question: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? Who shall stand in his holy place?" Perhaps another group of voices takes up the answer: "He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart..." As the great gates swing open, the chant rises: "Lift up your heads, O ye gates!" for the King of Kings, the Lord of Lords, is marching. The little kings (in Israel and over the world) have come and gone; only the Lord of Hosts is the King of Glory. Singing the glory of God brings it before the mind far better than reading about it in a book! Then the 84th Psalm is taken from what they called the "Chief Musician's Collection," evidently a part of what we now would call the choir library. It is the song of a man who loves the church and loves the people whom he finds there. Psalm 84:1-7b is also obviously a song for public worship, and still is sung every morning in churches around the world.

The Best is Not Too Good
IF in ancient times when God's people were learning to sing, the noblest poems of inspired men were set to the best music available and used for the honor of God and the help of man, then surely Christians ought to do no less.

If you had a friend coming to see you, one whom you respect and wish to honor, you certainly would not set the table with all the chipped-up old kitchen china and you wouldn't put wilted flowers on the table and you certainly wouldn't keep the radio tuned to the tin-pan-alist trash you could find on the dial.

No, if you have anything for him you want it to be of the very best. Why not so with God? The house of God is no place for cheap, bad music, jingly meaningless rhymes instead of noble hymns and psalms. Tiresome grind-organ tunes or jazzy swing stuff instead of music that has real power and beauty. If no sense is had in a sermon, it is worse in a prayer and worst of all in a hymn. If mere noise is had in a sermon, it is worse in a prayer and unbearably bad in a hymn.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

Why talk to me about the importance of going to Church? You don't expect me to put on my Sunday suit and stroll down there alone, do you?

Dad and Mother are the people to see . . . they make all the important decisions.

Sure! I'd like to start Church School pretty soon. Yes, and I'd like to see the whole family in Church. A little chap like me can understand religion much better when he doesn't have to wonder why his folks aren't on speaking terms with God.

And, frankly, I think you grown-ups need the Church as much as I do—it wasn't my generation that got the world into such a mess!

All right, you can quote me. And I'll even let you put my picture in the paper. 'Cause, confidentially, I think we would all be a whole lot happier if Dad and Mother, and some of the rest of you older folks, would look at these spiritual matters through my eyes!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible duty!

GRAVE THOUGHTS

A soldier, after placing some flowers on a grave in a cemetery, noticed an old Chinaman placing a bowl of rice on a near-by grave.

"What time do you expect your friend to come up and eat the rice?" asked the soldier.

The old Chinaman replied, with a smile:

"Same time your friend come up to smell flowers."

Mistake

A rookie in the cavalry was told to report to his lieutenant.

"Private Jones," said the lieutenant, "take my horse down and have him shod."

After three hours' wait, the officer hunted up Jones and found him cleaning his gun.

"Jones," he said, "where's the horse I told you to have shod?"

The private turned pale and gasped, "Oh, did you say shod?"

Flatterer

Daughter, "I met the best-looking young officer at the dance, and he told me I was the prettiest girl he had ever seen."

Mother: "Now, my dear, don't trust any man who starts to deceive you at the very first meeting."

Ought to Know

Girl (quizzing sailor home on leave): "What would you do if your gun captain's head was blown off in the midst of a battle?"

Sailor—Nothing.

Girl—Why not?

Sailor—I'm the gun captain.

Which?

The conceited young man was even more boring than usual.

"It's a fact," he said with pride, "that people often take me for a member of the Guards."

His pretty companion wasn't impressed.

"Really," she drawled, "Shin—mud—or black?"

Undoubtedly

"Kissing does not raise the blood pressure appreciably," writes a famous professor. He has our profound sympathy, in that manifestly he has never kissed a blonde.

MATTER OF TIMING

The minister was leaving the church after the evening service when a member of his congregation stopped him and said: "I like to come to church when you are preaching."

"I'm glad to hear that," replied the minister. "It's nice to know that somebody appreciates my sermons."

"Oh, it's not that," replied the woman. "I mean, it's so easy to get a seat, even when I arrive late."

Likely Story

"Don't you ever change your mind?"

"Not often any more. I've found that I'm just as likely to be wrong on second thought as on first."

SHORT STORY

Strictly Analytical

By Richard Hill Wilkenson

THE TROUBLE with you," Barry said, "is that you're too analytical. Why don't you throw caution to the wind for once and marry the girl?"

Hugh sighed. His face took on that look of faintly aloof indulgence that he always conjured when Barry became critical. "You wouldn't understand," he said.

"You're too impulsive to begin with. I'm driving at. Let me tell you, it pays to be careful."

"Sure it does. But it doesn't pay to be overly careful. How does Valeria feel about it?"

"How does she feel? When a girl's in love she knows enough to be careful herself."

"Meaning of course, that Val's mad about you and she's willing to wait until you get through analyzing and justify or compensate her shortcomings in your mind."

Hugh stood up. "I haven't been studying psychology and human behavior five years for nothing."

"But is she gets tired of waiting and marries some one else in the meantime, maybe you'll regret it."

"Don't be ridiculous. Val won't marry anyone else. I know what I'm doing."

Barry let a fortnight elapse before he again broached the subject of Val. It rankled him, and he felt better to get it off his chest. "Hate to mention it again, Hugh, but Val seems to think you've been neglecting her lately. Can't blame her much, either."

"Cut it!" Hugh looked ugly. "I think you'd better let me tend to my own affairs, Barry. The girl loves me and when I get around to it, I'll marry her. Goodness, can't you understand that a man shouldn't jump into such things!"

"Or a woman either," Barry offered. "I happen to know Val was out with someone last night."

"Good. Comparing the someone else with me will be the best thing in the world for her—and me too."

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stone had as dinner guests Tuesday, Mrs. Elbert Blanton and two children of Covington, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Colodion of Covington, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Pickett of Covington, Mrs. W. H. Summey, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Losley and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pennington entertained with a fish fry Tuesday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Eckler of Ludlow, and Mrs. Amos Pennington and children of Florida. The fish were sent here from Michigan by their son, Curtis.

Barry let a fortnight elapse before he again broached the subject of Val. It rankled him, and he felt better to get it off his chest. "Hate to mention it again, Hugh, but Val seems to think you've been neglecting her lately. Can't blame her much, either."

"Cut it!" Hugh looked ugly. "I think you'd better let me tend to my own affairs, Barry. The girl loves me and when I get around to it, I'll marry her. Goodness, can't you understand that a man shouldn't jump into such things!"

"Or a woman either," Barry offered. "I happen to know Val was out with someone last night."

"Good. Comparing the someone else with me will be the best thing in the world for her—and me too."

"A girl in love knows enough to be careful herself."

Hugh was annoyed. Blast it, why couldn't Barry mind his own business? Why did he always have to keep worrying about Val. It was plain as day that he didn't understand women. Val knew a good thing when she saw it. She loved him and was willing to wait. She was smart.

VAGUELY HE wondered who the other man could be she was out with. It was sort of amusing in a way. Probably Val had merely told Barry that so Barry would tell him. Childish. Why, even a first-year psychology student could tell you that was nothing but a feeble attempt on the part of the female to excite jealousy in the man she loved.

Three evenings later Hugh's phone rang. It was Barry. He sounded far away. "Can't hear you," Hugh yelled into the mouthpiece. "Talk louder."

"I say," came Barry's voice, more distinctly, "that the thing I warned you about has happened."

"What thing?" said Hugh.

"About Val. About her marrying someone else right under your nose. She's done it."

"I don't believe it," said Hugh, feeling for the first time a queer sensation of alarm.

"I saw it happen," said Barry, "I was there."

"Good lord!" Hugh was suddenly very much excited and very concerned.

"You can't say I didn't warn you," Barry's voice said, growing fainter.

"Hey! Hold on a minute, Barry! Are you there? . . . Yes, yes, I know you warned me. Guess I was something of a fool. Who was it she married? This is terrible!"

"Me," said Barry, very faintly. And then the line went dead.

NOTICE TO CLEAR

County Right of Ways

Under Kentucky Revised Statutes, Section No. 179.220 the law requires every owner and manager of lands bordering on the public County Roads to clear away and carry from alongside the roads, all bushes, weeds, shrubs and overhanging limbs of trees and other obstructions, and keep all hedge fences along the road so trimmed that they at no time will become more than five feet high.

The Fiscal Court of Boone County, Kentucky, has entered an order for the clearing of right of ways as many roads in the county can not be properly maintained under present conditions, also many accidents are caused by this roadside obstruction.

The cooperation and assistance of all land owners and managers of lands bordering on the County Roads will be very much appreciated.

FLORENCE

Fred Hess of Hartwell, Ohio was calling on P. J. Allen, Thursday.

W. Keene Souther and daughter, Mrs. Rogers Knox, departed by bus on Thursday of last week for Akron, where they joined Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Floyd for a motor trip to Niagara Falls.

They also visited Washington, D. C. and the famous battlefield of Gettysburg Park, which contains 16,000 acres and 35 miles of roads. Rocks in the park still show scars of the fierce battle fought there many years ago. The party also traveled on the famous Pennsylvania Turnpike, going thru seven tunnels, one of them two miles long. They returned to Akron on Tuesday, where Mrs. Knox and Mr. Souther boarded an American Airlines plane and arrived at Boone County Airport, Tuesday evening.

Funeral services for Thomas B. Castleman, 81, were held from his late residence Saturday, with a very fine discourse by Rev. H. L. Reid of the Florence Christian Church. Mrs. Roy Nestor read the poem "Crossing the Bar" by Alfred Tennyson, and the songs were by Mrs. Margaret Terrill and Mrs. Elsie Yager. Dr. Castleman leaves his wife, Mrs. Grace Castleman, two daughters, Mrs. Osceola Lucas and Mrs. Sheral Chipman. The Ralph Stith funeral home was in charge of arrangements, and burial was in Florence Cemetery, beneath a profusion of beautiful flowers. The sympathy of the community is extended the family.

Mrs. Belle Nowheski of Princeton, Wis., made a surprise visit to her mother, Mrs. Jennie Rouse, and other relatives the past week.

Miss Stella Carpenter of Covington was the guest of relatives here Sunday.

The social given by the "Cadet Club" of the Florence Christian Church was well attended and a nice sum realized. A very entertaining feature of the occasion was the music by Janice Ligon, Ella Jean Rogers, Vera Dean Scott, Mary Presser, Robert Bloss and Howard Dean Bloss, Jr., under the direction of their teacher, Dean Bloss. Another interesting feature of the evening was the showing of moving pictures a contribution of the Boone County Red Cross. The club desires to thank each and everyone who contributed to the pleasure and success of the evening.

Forty-nine farmers and 4-H'ers in Wayne county have enrolled in the county corn derby.

STATION FIELD DAYS
SET FOR AUG. 11-12

Dates for the annual summer field meeting at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, have been set for August 11 and 12, when farmers and other interested persons are invited to see the work in progress there.

On tours of the experimental farm visitors will see tobacco, forage crops, corn, soil fertility studies and other branches of agronomy.

Herd of beef and dairy cattle and hogs, and flocks of sheep and poultry will be ready for inspection of the farmers.

In order to accommodate all visitors, the meeting has been planned to be repeated the second day, and farmers from counties beginning with letters A through H are invited to attend the first day, Aug. 11. On the following day, Aug. 12, the program is primarily for farmers from the remaining counties. However, farmers may attend either or both days, it was stated.

Lawrence county poultrymen sold more than 5,000 broilers in May. Mrs. Mable Haddix of Montgomery county has a garden of flowers planned to provide a succession of bloom all summer.

LILLARD SCOTT, Sec'y

KENTUCKY HIGHWAYS BEING USED MORE THAN EVER BEFORE

Kentuckians and Kentucky visitors purchased 14,000,000 more gallons of gasoline during the first six months of 1949 than during the same period in 1947, Highway Commission John A. Keck said today. The gasoline tax figures are supported by the traffic increase indicated by 14 automatic traffic recorders in Kentucky operated by the Department's Division of Planning.

"Every index available to the Department agrees that Kentucky highways are being used more today than ever before," Mr. Keck said. "Total traffic is 16% higher than in 1947, maximum pre-war year, and has continued to rise since the first of this year. This year's traffic has never been below the 1948 level and has maintained a good lead through out the six month period."

"Gasoline tax returns at five cents per gallon during the first six months of 1947 were $10,380,969.13. For the same period this year, the road fund collected $15,519,093.09 on the seven cents tax. Thirteen states have found it necessary to raise the gasoline tax. In North Carolina, the people voted to raise the six-cent tax to seven cents in a popular state wide referendum."

"There is no evidence to support the claim that the new and increased tax is driving tourists away or in any way decreasing traffic on Kentucky highways. Traffic is definitely on the increase. It has been developing rapidly since the close of the war, returning to pre-war status in July of 1946."

"The traffic and tax increase is returning needed revenue to the Department in order that we may build and maintain more and better roads."

Lincoln county dairymen filled their silos with summer feed of grass, clovers and alfalfa, and in the fall will refill with corn.

Henry Maraman of Bullitt county bought 100 turkey poults to aid in control of grasshoppers, after a heavy infestation last year.

Twenty-two homemakers clubs in McCracken county have a membership of 541 women, an increase of 130 the past year.

Who Else?

A YOUNG woman went into a large London store to buy a pair of birds. She told the salesman the variety she wished, and that she desired a male and a female. The birds were finally selected and handed to her.

She then asked the salesman how she could tell the difference between the two. He instructed her to go to another store to buy a supply of male and female worms, and told her that when she fed the worms to the birds, the male bird would always eat the female worms—while the female birds would eat the male worms. She thanked him and went on her way.

When she got to the door, she turned, and came back to the salesman and said: "I must be stupid, but how am I going to tell which are the male and which are the female worms?"

And his reply was: "Madam, I am only a bird expert; you will have to see a worm expert about that."

ANYTHING TO PLEASE

After going about three miles the motorist who had given an old lady a lift on the country road asked: "And where did you say you were going?"

"Well," she said, "to tell you the truth, I was going in the opposite direction, only I didn't like to hurt your feelings when you were so kind as to offer me a ride."

HAD ENOUGH

The girl in the bus took her powder puff from her pocket and began powdering her face. That finished, she took out her lipstick and made up the curves of her mouth. Still not content with her appearance, she devoted her attention to her eyebrows.

This beauty treatment was too much for the conductor, who had been watching her every movement, and he called out: "Any gent here like to borrow my shaving tackle?"

Moonlite Gardens, Coney Island, Cincinnati

Family picnic parties have been exceptionally popular this summer at Coney Island, Cincinnati. Picnickers have availed themselves fully of the thousand free picnic tables, many of them under Coney's century-old shade trees; others in the two big picnic pavilions. Free play apparatus for children and the big athletic field, with its baseball diamonds and cinder track, have added much to the pleasure of a Coney outing.

Johnny Long and His Orchestra will open a week's engagement in Coney's Moonlite Gardens, Friday night, July 15. This has proved one of the most popular dance bands to play Coney in recent seasons. Long, himself a violinist, has an impressive array of top-flight soloists with him.

Every Tuesday night is "Ladies' Night" in Moonlite Gardens, and all women are admitted free.

A novel feature scheduled for the next three Friday nights in the picnic pavilion near the river gate is "Pop Corn Opera," featuring leading barbershop quartets.

A notable July event at Coney will be the annual dinner and outing of the Hamilton County League of Building Association, on Tuesday, July 26.

Clark county fescue seed growers will harvest approximately 1,400 acres of seed.

Magoffin county farmers have increased the acreage of hybrid corn in five years from 225 acres to 2,275 acres.

Harrel Ferguson of Madison county, who recently bought a herd of 14 registered Guernsey cows, is building a milking parlor of concrete blocks and installing modern dairy equipment.

VERONA

Good weather with plenty of rain in this community.

Don't forget Bible School opens at the Baptist Church, July 18th. All children are urged to attend. The revival starts July 25th, with Bro. Eastop of the Calvary Baptist Church doing the preaching. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Friends of Mrs. Emma Willford, who lives on Highway 16, below Concord, will be sorry to hear that she is confined to her bed.

This community sympathizes with Edward Napier and family in the passing of his wife.

A large crowd of people gathered at Jay Webster's for the homecoming. All spent an enjoyable day together.

John Kannady, who has been confined to his home, is able to be out again. Some of his friends and neighbors gathered last Monday and cleaned out his tobacco.

Verona ball players traveled to Palmouth, Sunday and defeated them 7-6.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Bates Henderson stopped in the W. E. Waller home Friday night enroute to Michigan to get their daughter Becky, who has been vacationing there.

Don't forget the Christian Service Camp is going on now at Camp Norwood, Williamstown. Plan to attend.

Miss Myrtle Shepard's funeral was held at Carlton funeral home Sunday at 2 p.m. Burial was in the Warsaw cemetery.

The new bridge is progressing nicely here at Glencoe across Eagle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lovelace and sister-in-law spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Noel.

A store building across the street from the Church of Christ has been rented by pastor, Bro. Van Horn for the Recreation room for our young people to enjoy a new television he installed and a piano and they can have Christian fellowship together. James Eggleston will operate a business in his mother's store room in the near future.

DIVERSION DITCH SAVES LUSH GRASS

William Raybould of Powell county has a lush pasture of grass and clover because he paid $20 for the work of a bulldozer in 1948. At that time he had a diversion ditch made above 30 acres of pasture land. The ditch, explained County Agent D. R. Siler, serves as a break for the water coming off a hillside, diverting it into three open ditches leading through the pasture to Hatton Creek. Previous to the ditch construction, much of the pasture was of little value because of excess water.

Financial Picture of Kentucky Counties Is Both, Good and Bad

The financial picture of Kentucky's counties is both optimistic and pessimistic, says D. M. Magill, state Local Finance Officer.

Magill has just finished reviewing the 1949-1950 budgets of Kentucky counties, as required by law. All counties are now operating under the uniform budget law enacted in 1936 when county finances were in a very unhealthy condition.

Now all but one of Kentucky's counties have their debt in a manageable form, and progress is being made on the last county. Following the reorganization of the county debts, the bonded indebtedness has been reduced substantially in the past several years. The only significant new bond issues are those of the ten counties which have issued bonds to build hospitals.

The great improvement in the counties as a result of the debt reorganization and the operation of the budget law was named by Magill as one of the hopeful signs.

During the war years and immediately following, most counties accumulated treasury surpluses. Now that road and building projects are going strong again and all costs of government have increased, county expenses are going up rapidly. Because of this, Magill observed, many counties are rapidly using-up their accumulated surpluses.

At this rate in two or three years many counties will have used all their surplus. Then they will have either to reduce expenses sharply, go into debt again, or raise taxes. This sober side of the picture brought a word of caution from the Local Finance Officer. Since Kentucky counties are almost completely dependent upon the general property tax for their income, local property assessment is the key to county finances.

"Kentucky counties can not get on a safe financial basis for the future without a fair and adequate assessment of property on which their income is based," Magill said.

WALTON HOMEMAKERS, NO. 2, ENTERTAINED

Walton Homemakers, No. 2, were graciously entertained in the home of Mrs. Martha Jones of Richwood. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Jones.

Officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Martha Jones was re-elected president; Mrs. Della Sleet, vice president; Mrs. Mary E. Riddell, secretary; Mrs. Alice Sleet, treasurer; Miss Addie Sleet, program chairman; Mrs. Virgie Sechrest, chairman of sick committee; Mrs. Agnes Sleet, social committee.

Highlight of the program was a reading on friendship by Mrs. Leo Finn, which everyone enjoyed very much.

A bake sale was planned for, a date to be announced later. A picnic was planned for at the Zoo in August. Roll call was answered by "telling where you are going to spend your vacation." Most members planned to spend vacations at home, taking short trips. Mrs. Mattie Howlett is spending hers, accompanied by her niece, Miss Sara M. Sleet, in Pueblo, Colo., visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Howlett.

Absent from the meeting was Master Sonny Secret.—Pub. Chr.

JULY PRUNING MONTH FOR SPRING FLOWERS

Flower gardeners are reminded by N. R. Elliott, authority on horticulture at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, that tops of narcissi, tulips, peonies and some irises should be removed in July when they die. Cutting off the dead parts and burning the mis not only good for the plants, but it also does away with some insects and diseases. Small iris plants found growing among the old roots should be removed, Mr. Elliott advises, in order to retain the original varieties.

100th Anniversary Of Piner Church to Be Celebrated July 31

Goshen Christian Church is to celebrate its 100th anniversary on July 31st and as far as our information goes, we, the committee of Goshen church, have been told that the logs in the church of today were out of the first church to be built on the grounds where the church now stands. Time and changes have taken place in 100 years, but the spirit and hearts of the people still are alive today, as was long ago. Many have gone away and many more laid to rest in the old graveyard just back of the cedars, but time still marches along, with each new generation. Our church is small but with a will to survive. The old log church of today has had a few face-liftings along the way, with the loyal support of many of its workers.

I imagine the first improvements were to weatherboard it, then to give a coat of nice white paint, donated and put on by all, then refinishing the entire inside with panels and painting of the floors.

The young people's class of 1947 sponsored and had built a new brick chimney on the outside, which improved the looks of the building, then a kind donor gave fluorescent lights and another installed them. Also the adult Sunday school class bought new seats and had all sand-cast to match, then new blinds and lots of other things were added to make Goshen what it is today, and it's our wish for everyone who ever came to Goshen as a member or a visitor to feel welcome to come back home to worship July 31st.

An all-day festival with basket dinner on the grounds and both old and young ministers are invited to come and worship with us on this particular day—in God's house that has progressed for 100 years.

Rev. Ellis Baker of Texas is coming home to hold dedication services. As a boy he was from Goshen Christian Church and in his heart there is a spot that reaches out to dear old Goshen Church, as I am sure, as is in each and every one who was ever once within its portals. That is why we are extending our warmest welcome to all who can and will come, to help celebrate our 100 years together. Many would if they could, so talk to everyone you know and help us to have a large gathering that day.

There will be several services program and songs by past ministers and present. The present minister is Rev. Jack Daniels of the College of the Bible, Lexington, and he has strong interest in our young people, which we are very thankful for, as the youth of today make our churches of tomorrow.

Now don't forget the 100th anniversary of Goshen Christian Church, Piner, Ky., on July 31st. An all-day festival, dinner on the grounds. Brink well filled baskets. Every one welcome. Fill the house!—Publicity Chairman.

New Bethel WMS Meets

The regular monthly meeting of New Bethel W. M. S. was held Wednesday, July 13. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Arvola Hayden presided. The meeting was opened with song, "Rescue the Perishing," followed by prayer by Mrs. Urs Roberts. Various committee reports were given. A mission study class is to be held soon in August, with Mrs. Relda Powers as teacher. Time to be announced later.

Mrs. Urs Roberts was leader of program for the afternoon. Topic, "Christ the Answer to Oriental Religions." The devotional thoughts were by Mrs. Arvola Hayden. Those taking part on the program were Mrs. Alice Chapman, Mrs. Allie Chandler, Mrs. Carrie Sturgeon, Mrs. America Sturdivant, and Mrs. Patti Waller.

Summer Festival at Visalia, Saturday

A summer festival, including chicken and ham dinners, will be observed at the Visalia school on Saturday, July 23, starting at 2:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy this festival and the proceeds will be used for a stage curtain for the school.

Hughes Chapel WSCS

Mrs. Thelma Baker delightfully entertained at the Hughes Chapel W. S. C. S. on the afternoon of July 12. Mrs. Alma Hamilton conducted the devotional. Mrs. Jeanie Hill very ably presented the program on "International Relations." She was assisted by Mrs. Thelma Baker, Miss Rebecca Sleet, Mrs. R. O. Hughes and Mrs. Sara Sargent.

The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Thelma Baker. It was unanimously decided to have an ice cream social on the lawn of the church on the evening of Aug. 5th. So everybody get hungry for ice cream and come and have a good time with your neighbors and help this worthy cause.

Delicious refreshments were served to eighteen guests and members. We adjourned to meet in August with Mrs. Bea Kite.—Pub. Chm.

The possibility of punctured tires will be greatly decreased for Kentucky motorists this year, thanks to the Department of Highways' new five-ton road magnet which will patrol all state roads, picking up metal objects capable of causing punctures.

Highway Commissioner John A. Keck said crews from the Department's Division of Maintenance will be on the highways all summer operating the magnet which is mounted on a large truck. The brand new unit was made to order by the Bogie Equipment Co., Lexington, under the supervision of Tom Catlett, a former Highway Department equipment engineer.

Advertisers Top Softball Standings; Large Crowds Present

The Walton Softball League is rolling along in high gear now. The games are attracting large crowds and the interest is keen.

Last Thursday night, one of the best contests of the season was witnessed when the American Legion defeated Ryan Bros. 11-4. For the first five innings it was a nip-and-tuck battle, but in the sixth and seventh frames the Legionaires pulled away. Dick Veeneeman was the winning hurler. In the nightcap, the Advertisers had little difficulty in downing the Tree Trimmers 22-3. McLaughlin was the winning pitcher, with Vest lending assistance.

On Tuesday night, the Flomen tackled Verona, and to their sorrow, as the Gentlemen from Verona handed them a 15-7 setback. Walter was the winning hurler. In the second contest of the evening, two civic clubs squared-off, and it was a humdinger of the game most of the way, with the Rotarians finally staging a late rally to nip the Lions Club by a score of 12-8. Hayes was the winning moundsman.

The schedule for the coming week brings the following teams together:

Thursday, July 21st
Advertisers vs. Ryan Bros.
Tuesday, July 26th
Rotary Club vs. Advertisers
American Legion vs. Verona

Verona was guilty of errors, while the winners played errorless ball.

Grants Lick led the game in the fourth inning when they scored 4 runs (one earned) on 3 hits, 2 errors and a fielders choice.

For the victory, Constance led the attack with 4 hits in 5 innings. Belcher and Schwartz each had 2 for 4, with one of the latter's blows being good for three bases.

Right With God

Lesson for July 24, 1949

"GET RIGHT with God" is an expression which has been sometimes used by people. It is not a coarse or cheap idea. It is the most important thing you can do. Think what it means to be wrong with God! That means to be out of harmony with his will, going "across" the grain of reality, as the old Greeks used to say. To be wrong with God means to Dr. Foreman be a rebel against reality, to have the power of the universe working against you, and so to be headed for sure destruction. Wrong with God, you cannot win. Right with God, you cannot lose. To be right with God means to be in line with the purpose that runs through all things; it means in the simple language of the Bible, to live as a child of God.

Mule or Man?
THERE are two ways in which a man can come into line, so to speak, with God. One is by being whipped into it, and the other is by a free act of will. The poet of the 32nd Psalm begs his readers not to be like mules or colts (Ps. 32:9). These animals can be broken and controlled by their masters. But they do not understand what is going on, and if left to themselves they would never serve. They have to be caught, harnessed and driven. But God does not want to treat human beings like that. Getting right with God is not a business of getting into harness, being beaten into walking on the right road.

PEOPLES' LIBERTY BANK & TRUST CO.

COVINGTON -- KENTUCKY

That is not God's way. He pleads with us through his inspired poet: Be not as mules—be men!

Facing Up to Yourself
THE short good Bible word for being wrong with God is Sin. The very first step toward being right with God is to see yourself as you are. No one ever went to a doctor till he at least suspected he was sick. No one ever went to school of his own accord who thought he knew everything. And no one will come to God who thinks he is all right. He needs to be. When life goes hard with us, when everything about our life seems twisted and rotten, we make all sorts of excuses for ourselves, we lay the blame on our parents or our friends or the social and economic system in which we live (doubtless all these have a share in creating our troubles), but we hate to look at ourselves in the mirror of truth.

This comes first: recognizing our own wrongness, not just weakness but wrongness. When we reach the point where we can say with the Psalmist, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me," then we are on the right road.

"Hide Thy Face"
THERE are two things we never hear about in the Bible. One is that God never forgave anyone who did not repent, and the other is that he refused to forgive any one who did repent. But repentance is not merely regretting that a wrong was done; still less regretting being caught. Repentance, the kind the Bible describes (as in these Psalms for example), means a complete change of attitude, it means coming over on God's side and seeing sin the way he sees it, seeing life the way he sees it.

God's forgiveness is not of the grudging, remembering, reminding kind. But condoning and forgiving are still a world apart. Condoning means saying in effect, "It is all right, it makes no difference, you can go on sinning for all I care." Some human "forgiveness" may be like that, but not God's. His forgiveness is based on real repentance, and the aim of it is to save the sinner from his sin.

Plenteous in Mercy
THE Psalmists saw clearly what kind of God we have. He is not like the holder of a mortgage waiting till the first time some payment is deferred gives him a chance to pounce down and evict his tenant. We are not criminals against whom God is a prosecuting attorney, trying to pile up evidence against us. "If they should mark iniquities, who shall stand?" We are children, lost and wandering children, rebellious and disobedient children, but still children; and God holds open the door of mercy.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .
When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

Just a typical American family, living in a typical American town:

Mr. Johnson had to climb the ladder of success the hard way—but he kept on climbing.

Mrs. Johnson smiled her way to happiness—smiling through weariness, smiling even through tears.

Marian's life seemed to blossom overnight from dolls to dates, and with the blossoming came a beauty that is more than skin deep.

And little "Chip," for all of the mischief in his merry eyes, shows promise of the same honest courage that folks admire in "the old block."

A certain church—one of the churches for which their town was named—has been mighty dear to the hearts of the Johnsons all these years. Their loyalty, their energy, their unselfish generosity have helped to make it "a fine church."

And that church, through the God-given truth it is teaching, has helped make the Johnsons "fine people."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest force on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values, democracy, for civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) children's sake, (2) For the sake of his community and nation, (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Bible study.

USE HOME FREEZER FOR FOOD VARIETY

Don't fill the home freezer with too much of one kind of food, is the advice of Miss Florence Imley, specialist in foods at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. With gardens producing well, the tendency is to use too much freezer space for an abundant food, such as green beans.

A better plan, said the specialist, is to freeze foods which do not can well, or those that retain their flavor and texture better frozen than canned. An assortment of foods is recommended.

Cauliflower, broccoli and greens do not can well, therefore should be frozen; peas and baby lima beans may be canned, but have a better flavor if frozen. Green beans, too, retain both flavor and food value better in a locker, but because large quantities are often put up for winter use, it is usually advisable to can a considerable amount, thus permitting more variety in the home freezer.

Fruits best adapted for freezing are berries, cherries, peaches and apricots.

Information on freezing foods may be found in the revised circular 398, "Storing Foods in Freezer Lockers," available from offices of county and home agents, or from the college, Lexington.

Bottoms Up!

THE OLD lady leaned out of the carriage window, called the guard and said:

"Guard, does this train stop at Rugby?"

"Yes, madam."

"Well, will you tell me when we get to Rugby?"

"Yes, madam."

Then she turned to another traveler and said: "Will you know when we get to Rugby?"

"Yes, madam."

"Will you be sure to tell me when we get there?"

"Anything to oblige, madam."

When the train stopped at the next station she called the guard, and told him to be sure and remind her when the train reached Rugby.

This happened about every twenty minutes. In the end the train reached Rugby, and a passenger told her that she had arrived. Just then the guard rushed up and said,

"This is where you get out, madam."

"Oh, no," she said. "If this is Rugby it must be twelve o'clock, and that's when I have to take my medicine."

That Got Him

A bumptious fellow was giving evidence in a police court.
"You say you stood up?" asked the magistrate.
"I said," retorted the conceited one, "that I stood. If one stands one must stand up. There's no other way of standing."
"Oh, isn't there?" replied the magistrate. "Pay two pounds for contempt of court — and stand down!"

WISE GUY

The woman had been trying to the shop assistant, whose temper was beginning to get a little uncertain.
"I think you had better fetch the manager," sniffed the customer. "Perhaps he'll have a little more sense than you seem to possess."
"Oh, he has, madam," was the tired reply. "He went out as you came in."

DISEASES BESET POULTRY FLOCKS

Common diseases of hens listed in "Laying Flock Management" a leaflet of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, are range paralysis, colds and chickenpox. For range paralysis, cull hens which have the "gray-eyed condition" or are lame. Grow pullets on clean range away from older birds.

Prevent chickenpox by vaccinating pullets when they are about 12 weeks old. Vaccinate this year if an outbreak occurred on your farm or in your neighborhood last year, warn the college's poultry experts.

Colds can be "sold off." Sell all old birds, clean the laying house and leave it idle 30 days before putting pullets in. Be sure to sell all old birds.

Fair Warning

LADIES and gentlemen," said the guide, "I have now conducted you over all the show rooms of this ancient and historic castle except this last room which we are entering. Ladies and gentlemen, this room is known as the Small Portrait Gallery. It contains only three portraits. This ill-favored old gentleman is the second Count Perfidian, who lived in the early part of the 18th century and was nicknamed the Miser. This is the Lady Jocelyn, early 17th century. She is said to have died from blood-poisoning caused by a scratch in the face from a starving peasant woman to whom she refused to give a crust of bread. And, lastly, this is the portrait of the Countess Asolanda who was murdered because of her avarice. And now, ladies and gentlemen, may I crave permission to remind you that it is customary on these occasions to take up a little collection for the guide. Thank you, ladies and gentlemen!"

MIGHTY MAN

Teacher: "Who was Homer?"
Pupil: "He was the man who made Babe Ruth famous."

Target
"Did you strike this man in an excess of irritability?"
"No, sir, I struck him on the nose."

BRIEF ENOUGH

The young reporter had been told over and over again that his stories were too long-winded and that he must cut to bare essentials. So his next story came out this way—
"J. Smith looked up the shaft at the Palace Hotel this morning to see if the lift was on its way down. It was. Aged forty-five."

WASTED EFFORT

A man arrived home in the small hours of the morning and, having a wholesome fear of his wife, decided to proceed with caution. Taking off his boots, he crept noiselessly up stairs, stealthily opened the bedroom door, and, with the greatest care, crawled into bed. With a sigh of relief he went off to sleep.
In the morning he looked round for his wife, and suddenly remembered she had been staying with an aunt for the past fortnight.

Royal Decision

"No," said the employer, sternly. "I will not do it! I never have I sold anything by false representation, and I will not begin now."
For a moment he was silent; and the assistant who stood before him could see that the better nature of his employer was fighting strongly for the right.
"No," repeated the employer. "I will not do it! It is an inferior grade of shoe, and I will never pass it off as anything better. Mark it 'A Shoe Fit for a Queen' and put it in the window—queen does not have to do much walking."

Shipping Fever Strikes In Changeable Weather

The changeable weather of early spring is a danger season for shipping fever in livestock, veterinarians warn. And when bad weather is coupled with crowded shipping conditions, interrupted feeding schedules and mishandling, heavy losses are likely to result.

Purchasers of replacement stock as well as those who handle lot shipments are urged to be on constant guard against this disease, which causes respiratory trouble and blood poisoning. Pneumonia and paralysis develop in severe cases and death is likely to follow if diagnosis and treatment are delayed.

An unfortunate feature of this disease is that symptoms may not appear until a day or more after the animal arrives at its destination. In the meantime the animal is allowed to mingle with healthy stock, the others may become infected. Still another danger is the recovered animal, those which have had shipping fever may remain as carriers.

Control measures call for vaccination with bacterins at least two weeks prior to shipment. Serum treatment both before shipment and immediately after arrival is an alternative safeguard. Proper shelter from bad weather en route, along with regular feeding and watering, also helps to prevent outbreaks. Quarantine of all shipped animals at destination is a final and highly important precaution, since this keeps them from spreading infection to stock already on the premises.

Raindrops Not Tear-Shape, Special Study Discloses

Contrary to popular conception, raindrops are not tear-shaped, and for that matter neither would be tears if they fell very far, according to General Electric weather scientists.

Instead of being symmetrically streamlined like a tear, large raindrops can change into a "new look" as often as 50 times per second and can resemble a variety of things, including pancakes, gourds, peanuts, telephone receivers, ducks, jelly beans, dumb bells, hot dogs, caterpillars, and even human feet. Smaller raindrops on the other hand often assume the shape of marbles and footballs. These resemblances are only a few of the marked deformations from the traditional tear shape that raindrops undergo periodically as they fall, the scientists said.

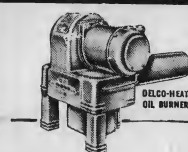

In a special study simulating raindrop behavior, the G-E scientists developed an instrument known as a "drop controller," in which air resistance was produced similar to that falling raindrops encounter.

Reversing the natural order, however, the instrument caused a rush of air to move upward against a drop of water, instead of the drop falling against the air.

At the annual homemakers 4-H club dress revue in Oldham county, more than 300 tailored suits, coats, dresses and children's garments were modeled.

When heavy rainfall in June in Hancock county made corn cultivation impossible, farmers turned to the use of 2-4-D.

DDT for Arctic Mosquitoes

Sprinkling DDT on snow and ice in Arctic areas is a newly discovered way of killing the first mosquitoes that hatch in the spring, entomologists of the U. S. department of agriculture report. As little as a tenth of a pound to the acre does the work, and airplanes distribution of the DDT over broad areas makes for economy in the cost of treatment. Federal entomologists are continuing their wartime research for protection of military forces in Alaska from the teeming hordes of insects that are a tortuous feature of the short Arctic summer. Cooperating with the U. S. army in Alaska and with Canadian scientists, they have been experimenting in the vicinity of Churchill, on the west shore of Hudson Bay in northern Manitoba.

Blue Goose Flight

Annual spring goose flight along the Missouri river is one of the most spectacular bird concentrations in the United States. Almost 500,000 blue and snow geese from the Gulf coast wintering grounds concentrate on the Missouri river bottoms in southwest Iowa on their three-week stopover before moving on to their Baffin island nesting grounds in the far north. The peak of the concentration usually occurs about March 15 and great flocks remain for about two weeks after this date. The birds often number 100,000 or more in individual flocks and the past few years have drawn thousands of spectators to the bottoms to see and hear them.

Forest Fires in Wisconsin

Forest fires are usually made in Wisconsin but lightning accounted for 86 fires last year because of the dryness of vegetation. Railroad sparks started 337 of the fires and careless smokers accounted for 553. Brush burners started 254 fires and 132 of the fires were of incendiary origin. Of the total burn, 10,150 of the acres were forest lands and 13,424 marsh and other non-forest lands. Actual marketable timber values destroyed amounted to only $3,835 but the loss included the reproduction value of young trees amounting to $36,821. Other values were listed at $52,461.

HOUSEWIVES ADVISED TO CHECK OLD WIRING

Housewives planning to buy a new electric stove, water heater, washing machine or other large appliance, should have their electric wiring checked, advises Miss Ida C. Hagman, home management specialist at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

While the wiring in an old house may have met the demands of a few years ago, increased wattage of new appliances causes an overloading of small wires. Irons, for example, have increased from 665 watts to 1,000 watts, and washers from 375 to 1,200 watts on the new automatic-recess type.

When such appliances are used on too small wires and with too few circuits, lights will flicker and dim and appliances heat slowly, while cost of operating remains high. Most important of all, overloading of wires is a definite fire hazard.

The remedy, said Miss Hagman, is to provide an adequate number of circuits and larger wires to carry the current. A six-room house generally needs one to two circuits for the basement, four to six for the first floor, and two to four for the second floor. Whenever possible, long circuits are to be avoided.

The size of the wire determines the amount of electric current it will carry safely and efficiently. No. 14 wire is generally used for lighting and for vacuum cleaners and portable fans. Where the load is heavy, as in the kitchen, laundry or dining room, No. 12 or No. 10 wire is recommended. The electric range, which is on a separate circuit, requires No. 6 wire, and a three-wire service in to the house.

NEW CIRCULAR FROM COLLEGE

In a new circular, "Successful Meetings for Farm People," Ralph Ramsey of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, states that "successful meetings are not mere matters of chance. Like any other well executed venture, they require careful preparation and skillful conducting."

Mr. Ramsey suggests ways to plan a meeting, how to interest people in attending, and how to make the meeting worthwhile. Copies of Circular 457, may be had from offices of county or home agents, or from the college, Lexington.

SHORT STORY
No Regrets

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

VALERIA'S AFFAIR with Elliot Harvey had proved extremely gratifying. After all, Elliot was the most handsome and the most glamorous man at Newfane Lake, and the confession of his love had rather flattered her vanity. But the duration had been brief. Two months, to be exact. She had smiled a little wistfully the night she handed back his ring.

"It's been swell fun, Elliot, but it can't last. The feeling's alone on the surface. It isn't real."

"Not real?" He stared at her, unbelieving. "Good Lord, Val—" But she interrupted him with a gesture of finality.

"It's no use, Elliot. You're far too glamorous and handsome to fall in love. I tried hard, but it didn't work."

She patted his hand maternally. "Summer romances are fun, and this has been the best ever. No regrets."

A hurt look came into his eyes, to be replaced an instant later by exaggerated indifference. He tossed the ring, caught it, pocketed it. "O. K., sister. I guess I can stand it." His eyes held that smug, "it's-your-funeral" look that so fitted his role. She felt released, free again. When Doug Mettalf asked her to attend the Country Club ball with him she accepted without qualms of conscience. Doug was big and homely.

"Thought there was no harm in asking," he grinned. "You won't find me as spectacular as Elliot."

He looked at her curiously, seemed on the point of asking a question and thought better of it. She knew that he, like everyone else, was wondering if her heart was broken. Well, let them find out for themselves. Their pity annoyed her. Who was this Elliot Harvey, a god or something?

The night of the ball, dancing with Doug Mettalf, she saw Elliot floating by with Sheela Jackson. He was looking down into her upturned face, oblivious to everything else. Valeria felt a little pang, and impatient at herself, gave her attention to Doug. Doug was watching her and there was worship in his eyes.

They found a vacant bench behind some shrubbery and Valeria sat down.

SHE WAS DANCING a dreamy waltz with Doug when Elliot cut in. Surprised, she found herself in his arms scarcely before his familiar features became recognizable.

"Well, well, well. Look who's here! How's the Don Juan of Newfane?"

"Val, let's go out and get a punch." His tone was almost harsh.

Valeria hesitated. "An' right, she said. 'I could use something like that. It's been a destructive evening. I'm worn out.'"

They moved into the alcove where the drinks were being served. He led her beyond and through French doors that opened onto the terrace. The place was crowded, but they found a vacant bench behind some shrubbery, and Valeria sat down. It was good to sit. Elliot bent over her.

"Listen, Val, I can't stand it! I've been crazy ever since you gave me back the ring. I'm going mad. You've got to come back to me!"

Amazed, she stared up at him. His eyes were burning coals. He stood there stripped of his pride and dignity, no longer the confident Don Juan, the breaker of women's hearts.

"Elliot, your drunk!"

"I'm not Val, don't you see I'm not! Don't you see how much I love you?" He dropped down beside her, and suddenly his head was against her breast. He wept.

Val was frightened and bewildered. So all his indifference, his casual acceptance of her decision to break their engagement, his interest in Sheela Jackson—it had all been pretense! A sham! A mask! An attempt to maintain his Don Juan standing, to nourish his pride and vanity and conceit.

She stood up, suddenly contemptuous, ashamed of her own doubt, disgusted with his weakness. She looked down at him, without pity or compassion or regret, turned away and went eagerly back to find dependable Doug.

Saving Money

A MAN, visiting a house for the first time, found that his host was the proud father of three wild children. The latter made so much noise that the visitor found it difficult to hear a word that was said.

One child was busy ripping the upholstery of a brand-new divan. A second lad was driving nails into an expensive table, and the third was swinging gaily from a chandelier.

The bewildered guest eyed the youngster who was driving nails into the furniture. He turned to his host.

"I say," he said, pointing to the boy with the hammer, "don't you find it rather expensive to let your children play like that?"

The host smiled proudly.

"Not at all," he replied cheerfully. "I get the nails wholesale!"

Burley Co-op to Have It's Own Inspectors This Year

The Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association will have its own inspectors behind every line of buyers when the 1949 Burley market opens. These men will check on baskets consigned to the Association to see that they are not "nested" or mixed or in bad condition.

John W. Jones, North Middletown, Co-op president, said the plan to hire inspectors was unanimously adopted by the Association directors at a meeting in Lexington, July 6.

"We are, for all purposes, a buyer. We accept all obligations of buyers and we want all privileges," he explained. The Cooperative administers the Commodity Credit Corporation tobacco loan program in an eight-state area.

The government guarantees the farmer a floor price for various grades of leaf he markets. If the bids fail to meet the minimum price requirement, then the tobacco is purchased by the Co-op at the floor price. The leaf is redried, stored and later sold by the Association.

"Certain markets are not careful about preventing sale of nested tobacco," the Association president declared. "We caught approximately 70,000 pounds of nested leaf last year—just a portion of that which probably went undetected."

(Nested tobacco is leaf of a lower grade which is placed in the center of a basket when brought to a warehouse floor so it will not show amid outside leaf of a better quality.)

The nested leaf was worth approximately 20 cents per pound less than the basket grade on the average, he asserted.

The Association now has 11 supervisors. Present plans call for the hiring of 32 additional experienced tobacco men who will attend a week-long school to train for their duties of following the burley circuit this winter.

A. Threlkeld, Corinth, head Association supervisor, and a Co-op director, said employing additional personnel was necessary to prevent the Co-op from becoming a "dumping ground," which would destroy the tobacco support program.

Albert Karsner, an Owen county board member, explained that it would not be the inspectors' business to interfere in any way with the graders. Their job will be to prevent nested leaf, mixed tobacco and burley in bad condition from going to the Association, he said.

The Co-operative voted to retain the same rights as buyers to return nested tobacco when discovered after sale, but before redrying. The Pool exercised this right last year.

Jones said that a survey showed that a third of the suspended sales turned out to be "red card" tobacco and much of this ineligible tobacco was inadvertently placed in the Pool. The Association together with the State P. & M. A. and Burley Auction Warehouse Association are working on a plan that will prevent such a recurrence.

C. J. King, Nicholasville, the Association's sales supervisor, was elected assistant secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The annual directors election will be held in September. It was agreed, Burley members will meet in each county on September 37 to select delegates who in turn will meet in the various districts on September 19 to elect directors.

Sale of 1,129,000 pounds of association tobacco was announced by W. L. Staton, executive secretary. The sale covered the period from May 4 to July 6. Buyers' names were not disclosed but Staton said almost a million pounds of the leaf was earmarked for eventual use in Germany.

The famous artist's likeness of the magnate's wife was not pleasing to the wealthy one. Remonstrating with the artist, he complained: "Why, you've got the plainest woman I've ever seen on that canvas."

A lift-boy in one of the big stores hated to be asked needless questions. One day a fussy old lady entered the lift.

"Don't you ever feel sick, going up and down in this lift all day?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," said the boy. "Is it the motion going up?"

"No, ma'am."

"Is it the motion going down?"

"No, ma'am."

"Then, what is it?"

"Answering questions, ma'am."

Advertisers-Legion Win Softball Games

Hot Game Expected Next Tuesday When Advertisers And American Legion Meet

Softball continues to grow in popularity in Walton, with large crowds present each evening games are played at the school grounds in the Walton Softball League.

Games, it seems, are getting closer and the rivalry is really keen. Last Thursday evening the Advertisers defeated Ryan Bros. 10-2 and the American Legion downed the Tree Trimmers 5-1. Bill McLaughlin was again the winning hurler for the Advertisers, while Joe Lemmons served them up for the Legionaires. On Tuesday evening, the Advertisers and American Legion were again the winners, but both teams had close calls, a pleasing note to many of the spectators. In the first fray, the Printer's Devils defeated the Rotary Club 18-14 in a slug-fest. After spotting the Advertisers 10 runs in the first inning, the Rotarians battled back to make a game of it and throw a slight scare into the winners. Billy Wynn was the winning pitcher, while R. M. "The Coke" Hall was the loser. In the second game, the American Legion team had to come from behind to down Verona 7-6. Errors had put the winners "behind the eight ball," and as the last of the seventh came up were trailing 6-5. However, Dick Veenneman singled home the winning marker with none away. Billy Mac Waller was the losing pitcher, and Dick Veenneman was the winner.

Verona Wins 3-2 Over Constance; To Play Gallatin-co., Sun.

Verona pulled one out of the fire Sunday as they defeated Constance 3-2 in 10 innings. This was a KAG League contest.

Constance had 2 runs, 4 hits and 3 errors. Uriage pitched for the losers, and in the ten innings, gave up 2 runs on 5 hits. He struck out 4 and walked 2 men.

Verona had 3 runs, 8 hits and committed 5 miscues. Mike Ryan pitched 7 innings for Verona and gave up 3 hits and 2 runs. He struck out 6 and walked 5 batters. Mike's wildness and errors behind him kept him in hot water much of the time. Elmo Steffen hurled 3 innings, allowing 1 hit, no runs, striking out 5 and walking none. Moe was the winning pitcher. Baumann did the catching.

The game was won in the 10th when Dike Vest doubled and was singled home by Baumann. However, it was Brown who led the hit-parade with 2 for 4, one blow being a triple. Besides Vest's double, M. Ryan also had a two-bagger. Play Gallatin County, Sunday.

On Sunday, July 31st at 2:30 p. m. at Verona, the Community Club will tackle the Gallatin County nine in another KAG contest.

Delightful refreshments of cake and punch were served.

Approximately 100 Persons At Dairy and Pasture Meet

Approximately 100 persons attended the dairy and pasture field meeting held at the farm of Robert Youell, July 15th.

The group had an opportunity to see the excellent Jersey herd of Mr. Youell's which has averaged 425 pounds of butterfat for the past five years. The majority of the discussion by Mr. Johnstone and Mr. Foster dealt with the importance of having luxuriant, long growing pastures, in a livestock farming operation. Various pasture grasses, such as bluegrass, orchard grass, timothy, red top and Ky. 31 fescue were discussed, along with the legumes like lespedeza, alfalfa and ladino clover. Mr. Johnstone strongly recommended the heavy feeding of pastures with both manure and commercial fertilizers, the addition of abundant legumes to pasture mixtures and early mowing of pastures to keep down weeds and keep the grasses palatable and tender for a longer period.

The Boone County Bankers Association served refreshments after the meeting and presented Mr. and Mrs. Youell with a beautiful table lamp in appreciation of their wholehearted cooperation in the meeting.

Legion Auxiliary Completes First Year's Activity

With the month of August, we bring our first complete year of the Johnson-McElroy Unit, 277, American Legion Auxiliary to a close. We look back over the past year and point with pride to our accomplishments. Some of our most important work was that done in Rehabilitation. At Christmas we donated to the Candy Fund and gave gifts to the Hospital Gift Shop. Our members have and still are giving their time regularly to work at the Fort Thomas Veterans Hospital.

On Poppy Day we sold 500 poppies and sponsored a Poppy Day Dance, the entire proceeds going to Rehabilitation and Child Welfare. During the year we acquired several new members and that is what is important. Without active members we cannot continue the work we are doing.

Now is the time for enrollment. If you are eligible as the wife, mother or sister of a Legionnaire, why not join now? You will not only be helping those who need help, but you will derive a personal benefit in the satisfaction you get from helping others. Let's try to make this a bigger and better year than last year. If you are interested, contact any Auxiliary member or come to our meeting. You are always welcome.

We, the Auxiliary, hereby pledge full cooperation to the Legion, and may we work together for a more progressive and profitable year—Aux. Pub. Chm.

God Can Be Trusted

Lesson for July 31, 1949

EVEN if you do nothing else with this lesson, it will be a good thing to learn by heart some of the Psalms of Trust which have been selected for your study this week. They are far too rich to be treated in one column.

Who Can Trust in God?

(PSALM 34:16-22.) Not every one has a right to trust in God. Those who do not believe in him, do not love him, work against him, try to break down and corrupt those who do believe in him—these need expect nothing at his hand. But there are three classes of persons who are encouraged to put their trust in God. One is the "contrite," the repentant, those who sincerely wish to be cut free from their sins—these can surely trust in God for forgiveness. One who cannot trust God for forgiveness has no right to trust in God for anything else. Then the "righteous," as the Psalmist calls them, have a right to trust in God.

If that word means only the perfectly and altogether good people, it would leave all of us out. But in the light of the Bible as a whole, the righteous are those whose dominant desire is to love and serve God. Their service is imperfect, their love is far from perfect, and no man is without sin. But if you can say with Peter, "Lord, thou knowest that I love thee," then you have a right to trust in God. Also the broken-hearted can safely trust in him. Whoever else may break your heart, God will not. He is the great Mender of hearts. For the little sorrows there may be lesser comforters, but the real heart-breaks only God can cure.

Why Trust God?

PSALM 37 gives one answer: The opposite of trust is worry, and worry never did any good at all. Worry eats into the mind, casts no light, gives no strength, solves no problems, worry makes any trouble worse. Then the writer of Psalm 30 gives another reason for trust: he had tried it. If trust in God were simply a doctrine of theology or a theory of preachers, not many people would take it seriously.

Trust is really passed on by a kind of contagion from heart to heart. If there are not more people who know what trust means, it is because those who have known have kept it too much to themselves.

It would be a wonderful stimulus to most churches to have a little "cell" of people who would really agree to trust God every day.

When to Trust in God

One of Dickens' famous characters used to make a great point of being cheerful under the most uncheerful circumstances. Anybody can be jolly when everything is lovely, he said. There's no credit in not worrying when there's nothing to worry about. Although the writers of the Bible, one and all, trusted in God, not one had an easy life. Read Psalm 46, for example; it gives a picture of a world much like ours of today, shaken to its foundations, torn by wars, a desolate, discouraged world. If it made sense to trust only under bright skies, religion would have perished long ago.

For What Shall We Trust God?

NO ONE PSALM puts the whole truth in one nutshell. If you read Psalm 91, for example, by itself, it would seem to prove that if you trust in God you will never die a violent death, nor an early one; but too many saints (and indeed our Lord himself) had died early and violent deaths, for us to take Psalm 91 in that way. Trusting in God does not mean he will give us long life. It means he will give us strength to match our days.

It does mean he will give us all we need. It does not mean we shall be shielded from troubles. It does mean he will save us from troubles greater than we can bear. It does not mean that in this life we shall be wholly free from burdens or from pain; it does mean we shall have strength in our souls (Ps. 138:3).

Which is the greater thing—to be a weakling wearied by a straw's weight, or to be one of God's athletes, able to bear the worst the world can pile on?

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

THE OLD FAMILY BIBLE

There are few who realize what an important part the old family Bible has played in American life and history.

It lay on the table in the living room or parlor, usually beside a large, shaded reading lamp, and was a ponderous volume, printed in large type and bound with heavy ornate covers.

In addition to the text, it contained a number of blank pages on which were inscribed the vital records of the family—births, deaths, and marriages.

In many families it was the custom of the head of the house to read a passage from the holy volume before the family dispersed for bed. It was regularly used for funerals, marriages, and the periodic visits of the minister.

The old family Bible has for generations set the moral and spiritual pace of America. It has inspired the faint-hearted, comforted the distressed, counseled the penitent. We cannot afford to lose its influence upon our lives.

Go to church on Sunday, and hear God's message from the Old Family Bible.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Kentucky Farmers Are Using More Fertilizer To Boost Yields Per Acre and Replenish Soil

Money Invested in Fertilizer Pays Out in More Efficient Crop Production.

CHICAGO—Kentucky farmers are using more fertilizer in growing their crops, according to the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. Figures made available by the National Fertilizer Association show that approximately 594,521 tons of plant food were used on farms in the state last year, compared with 465,551 tons in the preceding year.

This was an increase of 128,970 tons, or about 28 per cent over Kentucky's 1947 consumption. It represented a 482 per cent gain over the prewar year of 1940.

The 1948 fertilizer consumption for the entire United States topped the previous record year of 1947 by about 6 per cent or 15,956,289 tons as against 15,039,278 tons.

The steadily increasing use of fertilizer in the past 10 years is attributed to these factors: 1—The desire of farmers to boost crop yields per acre and their readiness to apply practices that will accomplish this; 2—Realization by farmers that plant food reserves in the soil are declining; 3—Heavier demands for plant food by new high-yielding crop varieties; 4—Recognition that pasture is a cash crop and should be fertilized.

Agricultural economists point out that fertilizer is a "good buy" at present prices, according to the committee. These research men say that money invested in fertilizer will pay out in a short time. It will get more efficient crop production — more bushels or pounds of crops per acre at little or no additional labor cost.

Fertilizer is most effective when it is teamed with a rotation that protects the soil and builds its physical structure and tilth. Well-structured soil is a better storehouse for plant nutrients and moisture. Such soil produces higher crop yields at a lower cost per unit.

A doctor and dentist had been close friends for over fifty years, but each had always taken particular care that the other should not discover his age. When, however, the dentist died, the doctor could not help looking forward to the funeral, when he hoped at last to know the dentist's secret.

As the coffin was being lowered into the grave he stepped forward to look at the brass plate, only to read: "Angus McLeod, Dentist. (Hours, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.)"

He was talking of coincidences: "The most amazing thing happened to me at the races. It was the eleventh day of the eleventh month. My boy was eleven that day. We lived in a house numbered eleven, and I arrived on the course at eleven minutes past eleven. Later in the day I found out that eleven horses were to run in the big race, so I backed the eleventh horse on the card."

"And it won?"

"No. It came in eleventh."

You can be Charming

by Marsha Wheeler

The numbers of your years are of little consequence to your charm. More important is what you have been thinking during those years.

Some women look worn out with the burden of dreary, monotonous thoughts. A new thought a day can give you more charm than a new hat every season.

Think of yourself as a picture. This is not to suggest that you should cultivate vanity, but to urge that you select your clothes, hair-dos, hats, shoes not just for you, but for you as a picture. The difference will surprise and delight you.

Two titian-haired—(well, okay—red-haired) young ladies I know wear demimonde eyeglass frames, modish accessories to their burnished locks.

Queen Optical's wonderful selection of smart new eyeglass frames affords a fashion plus to expert eyesight service. Eyes examined by competent Doctors of Optometry. Broken frames repaired. Broken lenses replaced. Queen Optical Company, 12 East Sixth Street, in Cincinnati. No appointment is necessary.

AUGUST BEST MONTH FOR SOWING GALFALFA

The best time to sow alfalfa in Northern Kentucky is August 5 to 20 and in Southern Kentucky, August 15 to Sept. 1, according to a circular of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Land should be prepared as long as possible before sowing.

For best alfalfa production, liming is needed in a large part of the state. At the Experiment Station farm at Lexington, two tons of limestone to the acre increased the yield of hay from 3,239 pounds to 5,604 pounds to the acre a year. Four tons increased the yield to more than three tons of hay to the acre. Outside of the Bluegrass region, it may be necessary to use phosphorus.

When good growing weather prevails, six or seven pounds of seed to the acre will do on a perfect seedbed; 10 or 12 pounds are considered better.

The circular, "Growing Alfalfa in Kentucky," may be had from offices of county or home agents, or from the college, Lexington.

Customer: "I wonder if you would be so kind as to weigh this package for me?"
Butcher: "Certainly . . . three and a quarter pounds."
Customer: "Thank you. It contains the bones you sent me in that 4-pound roast yesterday."

County Right of Ways

Under Kentucky Revised Statutes, Section No. 179.220 the law requires every owner and manager of lands bordering on the public County Roads to clear away and carry from alongside the roads, all bushes, weeds, shrubs and overhanging limbs of trees and other obstructions, and keep all hedge fences along the road so trimmed that they at no time will become more than five feet high.

The Fiscal Court of Boone County, Kentucky, has entered an order for the clearing of right of ways as many roads in the county can not be properly maintained under present conditions, also many accidents are caused by this roadside obstruction.

The cooperation and assistance of all land owners and managers of lands bordering on the County Roads will be very much appreciated.

SHORT STORY

Murder By Two

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT SEEMS to be universally presupposed," said Inspector Ben Odell, "that people who aren't in their own element are at a disadvantage."

"I'm thinking of the time Detective Sergeant Rod Upshur went up to Round Pond for his summer vacation. Rod was city bred and city raised. He worked on the police force of one of the country's largest cities. He didn't know a great deal about the country and country ways. But he knew human nature, and he was smart."

"Rod was staying at one of those summer camps and was having a pretty dull time when Henry Graves, the owner, came to him with a request."

"There's been a drowning up the river a ways," he explained. "Jed Thomas, a local officer, isn't so sure but that there's foul play. I know it's out of your jurisdiction, but we'd appreciate having you lend us a hand." He smiled flatteringly. "You see, your fame as a detective of crime is far reaching."

"Jed Thomas, a farmer by trade, was congenial and willing to let Rod assume the entire burden."

"Fact is, Mr. Upshur, there's been a feud herabouts. Between the Hallams and the Spencers."

"Well, sir, couple days back Herm and Punk Hallam came to me an' says they was batt' diggin' in their lower pasture and suddenly they sees a boat with Pat Spencer in it come sweepin' around the bend. He was clear across the river, which is about 200 yards wide there, an' they claim he hit a submerged log and stuck. They claim he tried to push himself off with an oar an' the oar slipped an' it an' him fell overboard. Well, sir, Pat can't swim an' he just naturally drowned."

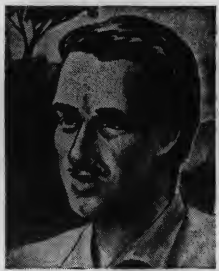

"Jed Thomas drove Rod out to the Hallam farm and introduced him to Herm and Punk. They were big strapping fellows, smug, amused."

"Sure, sure, we'll go down to the river with yuh," Herm said in reply to Jed's question.

"I see," Rod remarked to Jed, "that you recovered the oar Pat Spencer lost overboard."

"Yep," replied Jed, and not too happily, "I found it caught in some weeds along the bank about 15 yards downstream. I guess he musta lost it, just like Punk and Herm said."

"Punk and Herm laughed."

"Sure, we'll go down to the river with yuh," Herm said.

"Wait a minute," Rod said easily. "Not so fast, boys. You two are smart all right. Too smart. So smart you made one awful blunder. Officer Thomas, I think you'll be safe in arresting these men and charging them with murder."

PAT'S AND HERM'S mouths fell open. In fact, so did Jed's. Jed said: "Yuh mean, you know Pat didn't drown hisself?"

"O course he did," Punk Hallam said darkly. "Jed, city figger, you ain't comin' up here an' gettin' away with accusin' us of murder. You ain't searin' us none. We got each other for witnesses!"

"Fine," said Rod. "That makes the lie all the worse, because you both declare you saw Spencer fall out of the boat, first dropping his oar. No, I must confess I am a city man and the ways of the country are strange to me. However, any dumbbell would know after looking at that river and seeing that bend above here and knowing that there's a fast current, that an oar dropped overboard near the opposite bank, could never lodge in underneath along the bank on this side 15 feet from where we're standing. It would be two or three miles down stream by now."

"For a minute, there was silence. The three men stared at Rod blankly. It took quite awhile for the announcement to penetrate. Officer Thomas fortunately recovered first. He ran in his pocket and he got it out, just as Punk Hallam jumped at him. He had to shoot Punk through the shoulder, and would have done the same to Herm, apparently, had one more ounce of grey matter than his brother. He quit."

Goshen Church Centennial

The Pioneers came to the land
We love and revere
And founded homes and built
This temple of worship here.
On the highland peak.
Goshen was standing star,
A white and guiding star,
For all who seek.

It came and prospered and lived
A hundred years.
A holy need, that shaped the lives
Of the Pioneers,
Who knew our God.
A monument to the many,
Who carried on,
A down the century, past and gone,
Where all have trod.

We may sing of the glorious past,
And rejoice
That the little white temple
Still speaks in a voice of love,
In our day.
Place the crown of great glory,
Let us honor the past.
The century gone, will live on
To the last.

And the Pioneers' children,
Who seek blessings, may still Find their way to our Goshen
On Kentucky's hill.

ANOTHER GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS, SAYS REPORT OF COLLEGE

Farmers are having another good year, although it is not as favorable as several of the recent booming years of rising prices, says the July 15 report on the Kentucky farm situation, made by the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

"Farmers are in a strong financial position," it is declared. "Eight years of large production and rising prices enabled farmers to pay off debts and to build financial reserves to weather adversity."

"Another good season is also at hand. Latest reports indicate that growing conditions are good-to-excellent in the heavy agricultural producing sections of the nation."

"This outlook is a mixed blessing. Large crops will press heavily on markets in the period of shrinking demand from deflation in months ahead. On the other hand, abundant crops provide ample food for men and beast, and they are also grown and harvested at a lower cost per bushel or pound."

"In the final accounting, cash farm income and net income will probably be smaller in 1949 than a year ago, but when compared with prewar years they will likely compare favorably in amount and in purchasing power."

No, Thanks

AN INSIGNIFICANT little man with a melancholy moustache and watery eyes approached the circus manager. He said he had an act.

"See that thousand-foot-tower? I'll jump off of it, landing on my head on that cement block underneath it."

"Go away," the manager said. "I'm too busy to bother with lunatics."

But a few minutes later someone screamed and, looking up, he saw the man on the tower, preparing to jump.

"Don't do it!" yelled the manager.

"This is what I mean," came the faint answer—and a moment later the little man hurtled downward, hitting the block head first. After a moment he picked himself up, shook his head, and started to walk away.

The manager ran to him and grabbed his arm. "That's a wonderful act. You're engaged."

"I've changed my mind."

"But you've got to sign!" the manager howled. "You're sensational! I'll give you five hundred a week!"

"No."

"But you offered me the act!"

"What's the trouble?"

"Well," said the little man, rubbing his forehead, "you see, that was the first time I ever tried it, and it gave me a bit of headache."

THOUGHTLESS

Jean—Where did you get that bump on your head?
John—I was serenading a girl under her window and she threw me a rose.
Jean—Piffle! A rose wouldn't do that!
John—She forgot to take it out of the pot.

Serves as Well

Mrs. Wimpus—A farmer's wife told me it would pay to keep a pig to eat up all the scraps.
Mrs. Dinocan—I don't need to do that. My husband comes home late at night and eats all the scraps.

DO YOU NEED A NEW SOCIAL SECURITY CARD?

Women who expect to be employed in canning factories this year should obtain new social security cards now if their names have been changed by marriage since their original cards were issued. Edw. J. Bolte, Field Representative of the Covington Social Security Administration office, suggested today.

"Each year, when the canning season starts, we receive hundreds of urgent requests to issue new social security cards for women who have either lost their old ones or have changed their names." Mr. Bolte said. "It takes from four to eight days to locate the correct number so that we can issue a new card."

This causes inconvenience to the employer, so some of the canning plants prefer not to hire workers until they have social security cards, or delay payment of wages."

Mr. Bolte recommended that persons who have lost their social security cards, or who have changed their names, should write or call at the Social Security office in the New Post Office Building, Covington, and apply for their new account number card well in advance of the time they plan to start working.

Organic Matter and Fertilizer Are Top Crop Building Team

CHICAGO—Organic matter gives farm soil the "get up and go" to produce bigger yields and higher quality crops, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out. As organic matter rots, it releases elements needed for feeding crops. During the decomposition process, favorable conditions are produced for making available the plant nutrients contained in soil minerals, says a statement issued by the committee.

But organic matter alone cannot do the whole job of giving you big yields and high quality crops, the statement adds. It needs to be reinforced by commercial fertilizer.

Prof. Emil Truog, University of Wisconsin agronomist, recently declared: "To say—as does the organic school—that chemical fertilizer such as phosphate and potash should not be used—is pure bunkum. These fertilizers are needed to make up the inevitable lack of nutritive elements which organic matter alone cannot supply."

Prof. Truog says that in gardens and other small areas, you can maintain the fertility and organic matter supply by the use of composts and animal manures. But he emphasizes that such practices are not feasible for large farm acreages. It is impossible, he says, to prepare and apply the enormous amounts of compost that would be needed for the average farm.

On such big farm acreages, a good crop rotation will provide the needed organic matter. This can be supplied in the form of plowed-under deep-rooted legumes, crop residues, stubble, stalks and roots and barnyard manure. Prof. Truog says all that is necessary to make the system work is the proper use of lime and fertilizers containing phosphorus and potash and sometimes nitrogen. The key to the organic matter and nitrogen problem he adds, is high lime and mineral fertility. This assures a thick, luxuriant stand of superior deep-rooted legumes such as alfalfa and the clovers.

"OI, there," shouted the policeman, "where's your rear-light?" "I want to see where I'm going to, not where I've been," said the cyclist, disappearing into the darkness.

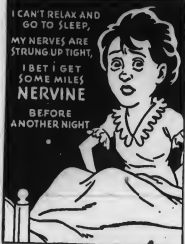

Cured

The doctor whose medical skill far exceeded the clarity of his handwriting sent an invitation to a patient to spend an evening with him, adding there would be music, cards, and so forth.

The friend failed to turn up and sent no explanation.

When they met the following day the doctor asked whether he had received the note.

"Yes, thank you," replied the other. "I took it to the chemist and had it made up, and I feel much better already."

Lions Club vs. Ryan Bros.
Fire Department vs. Tree Trimmers

Doing the Fast Week

Last Thursday evening the second division teams met each other and the "fur really flew." In a free-scoring affair the Lions Club out-slugged the Fire Department, to win 18-16, while Ryan Bros. and the Tree Trimmers put on a spirited battle with the latter winning 12-7, thus leaving the Irish in the basement.

Tuesday night the top four teams saw action, but things didn't change much. The Advertisers and American battled to a 6-6 tie, the game being halted at the end of the 7th and infatigable in order to let the Rotary Club and Verona play. The tie will be played off at a later date, probably on a Saturday evening.

In the final game of the evening, the Rotarians defeated Verona by a 9-5 score.

Harp-Hankinson Wedding An Event Of July 3rd In Gadsden, Alabama

A ceremony, beautiful in its simplicity, united in marriage Miss Linda Lee Harp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Harp, Gadsden, Ala., to William Edward Hankinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hankinson of Walton, on Sunday, July 3, 1949, at 4:00 p. m. in the First Christian Church, Gadsden.

Dr. R. H. Crossfield, uncle of the bride, who officiated at the marriage of her father and mother and who was best man at the marriage of her maternal grandparents, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Joel L. Jones, pastor of the church. Mrs. Leslie A. Rhinesmith, at the organ, played Schubert's "Serenade," followed by the traditional wedding march. During the ceremony the newly played "Clair de Lune." Mrs. John B. Gibson sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

Mrs. Louis Schwartz was matron of honor. Her gown was an ankle length pink shadowed organza, trimmed with imported lace from La Maison Du Puy in Paris, France, over white organza repeated the imported lace of the dress. She carried a white satin prairie book with a white orchid and sprays of lilies of the valley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Henry G. Harp, was lovely in an ankle length dress of white organza trimmed with imported lace from La Maison Du Puy in Paris, France, over white organza repeated the imported lace of the dress. She carried a white satin prairie book with a white orchid and sprays of lilies of the valley.

The church was beautifully decorated with a background of wood wanda ferns, buckleyberry vines and thymus daisies, flanked with candles. J. W. Mitchell, Jr., Oronota, Ala., cousin of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Julian Watson and Stanford Rouse.

The bride chose for traveling a powder blue suit, a navy blue taffeta hat with navy accessories, and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Goldie Crossfield, after which the newly wedded couple left for Kentucky.

Both the bride and groom are students at Transylvania College, Lexington, and plan to resume their studies in the fall.

Democratic Primary To Be Held Saturday; Interest Is Increasing

The county primary election will be held Saturday, August 6th in Boone as well as Kenton and all surrounding counties. In Boone, the interest, which has been rather low up until this week, has taken on more steam as it comes down to the wire. There are four county offices which are being contested and three which have no opposition for the present holders.

There Is Competition

In the Sheriff's race, there are three candidates: Wendell Easton, a deputy at present; W. M. "Bill" Sullivan, and M. C. "Conner" Carroll. The County Clerk's race drew only two contestants: C. D. Benson, present clerk, and Ivan Clements. The County Attorney race also drew two men, John E. Crigler and Wm. P. "Bill" McEvoy. There are three entries in the Judge race: Courtney Pope, Austin Scroggin and Cecil "Pi" Presser. In the third Magisterial District, two men are seeking this post; Magistrate T. J. Carr and Cecil Dickerson.

There Is No Opposition

In the County Judge (C. L. Cropper), State Representative (Herbert Tinsley), Tax Commissioner (Wilson Stephens), and County Surveyor (Noel Walton), there is only one man for each office. All candidates are present office-holders.

The present prediction for the county is a light vote, considering it a county election year.

I wish to thank everyone for their kindness, help and sympathy to me during the death of my beloved brother, Lowery C. Powers.

Especially do I wish to thank Rev. Forest Taylor for his consoling words; the Crittenden Baptist Church for the beautiful songs; the donors of the floral pieces, and Harry J. Eckler for his kindness and efficient services.

May God's richest blessing rest on each and every one.

There is not much news from this neighborhood except about our homecoming and dedication of the new educational addition to the church. Quite early in the morning folks from far and near began to arrive and greet one another. The newly papered and furnished auditorium was beautifully decorated with gladiolus and zinnias. Many hours of loving labor had been spent to clean and beautify the Lord's House. Many were the expressions of admiration made by visitors for the work accomplished. We had a good number present for Sunday School, though some were not able to get there for classes. The auditorium quickly filled to hear Rev. Russell Patton preach the dedicatory sermon. His subject was "The Kind of a Church Our Savior Deserves." Many were the rededications made in our hearts as we listened to his inspired message and read the beautiful dedication service which followed the sermon. Our choir was very impressive in their robes and Mrs. Ed Petzinger, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Martin, sang "Open the Gates of the Temple." The noon lunch was spread under the large maple tree across the highway and enjoyed by everyone. After noon we had the privilege of being led in singing by Wayne Patton, with Miss Margaret Patton at the piano. Very liberal contributions reduced appreciably our debt on the new building. Only two of the pastors of other days were present, Rev. W. H. Cardwell and Rev. H. C. Thomas. Both made short talks. Among those coming from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swindford, Cincinnati; Mrs. Mary Conwily of Sharpsburg; and Mrs. Edith Cameron and daughter of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. May Smith and children of Crestwood. We hope to make the homecoming an annual affair and shall expect all who came this year and those who couldn't come this time to make plans to be with us. It seems that often in our happiest moments there is a note of sadness, and today was no exception, for three of our members are ill and couldn't be with us, though we know their hearts were present. These loved ones are Mrs. Thomas Borkers, Mrs. Mattie Mills and Mrs. Raymond Giles. Our prayers are for the recovery of these who have been so faithful for many years.

We are beginning a revival on Monday evening. The evangelist is to be Rev. W. E. Garritt of Grace Church, Newport. Come and bring your friends.

Warren Binder, who has spent almost three years in the navy, is now home and we hope he will come to his old place in Sunday School.

Between 7,000 and 8,000 acres of corn in Monroe county stood under water for 24 hours in June, damaging a large part of the crop.

SHORT STORY

Poachers Outwitted

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

IT HAPPENED that young Glen Lloyd was the only warden on duty when Chief Fred Mather received word that poachers were doing a wholesale business in moose meat up in Birchhill county. Glen was a rookie on the job. As yet he'd had no contact with either the hardships or the dangers of a north woods game warden. Chief Mather decided to use discretion. "You go up there and do some reconnoitering," he told the youth.

"You'll find a base camp under a cliff near the headwaters of the Beaver. Make this your headquarters until Warden Loomis arrives. He'll tell you how to proceed." Chief Mather drummed with his pencil. "Don't take any chances, son. I've an idea that Moe Stanford's behind this ring. He's a bad actor."

Glen reached the base cabin two days later. The ground was covered with a six-inch fall of snow.

Glen waited two days more and then decided to take matters into his own hands. Armed with his service pistol and a flashlight he concealed himself near the tote road on top of a ridge where the progress of the truck would have to be slow. It was bitterly cold and a brisk wind was blowing. Also there was the promise of snow in the air.

Midnight came and went and Glen's spirits ebbed low. Cursing himself for delaying action, Glen was about to quit his hiding place when he heard distantly the roar of an automobile motor.

He waited until the driver was shifting gears for the final pull, then stepped out into the glare of the lights. He held his gun in one hand. The badge on his sheepskin coat was plainly visible.

Instead of stopping, the driver bore down on the accelerator. The truck roared straight at the warden. Glen stepped to one side, barely avoiding being hit, and the heavy machine lumbered by he swung himself onto the running board. He clung there perilously for a moment, then something hit him on the head, he heard an angry curse, and went spinning of into space. Fifteen minutes later he emerged on to the same tote road where it doubled back on itself. The lights from the truck were already sweeping up the incline.

GLEN CROUCHED behind a boulder, glad that the darkness was so intense. He waited until the truck had crawled by, then ran after it. He caught the tailboard and hoisted himself up. Two men were standing up front, leaning over the cab. The noise of the motor had drowned out sounds of his approach.

Reversing his service gun, Glen crept up behind the men, felled one of them and grappled with the other. The scuffle was short-lived. Taken completely by surprise the poacher was at a disadvantage. Stunned by the blow which he tried to dodge, he fell against the cab and slumped to his knees when Glen struck out a second time.

The warden handcuffed the two men to an upright in the truck, then approached the cab. There was a small window in its rear. Through this Glen thrust his gun, splintering the glass. The two men inside turned to find themselves staring into the gun's muzzle.

Warden Loomis, trekking northward to join young Glen Lloyd, was astonished to find a truck on the old tote road. The truck stopped and a friendly, boyish voice greeted him.

"Hi, Joe," Glen yelled. "Put some bracelets on these birds in front, will you? My hands 'so stiff from holding this gun I can't move it—let alone pull the trigger."

When Chief Mather heard the story he wrote a personal letter to Supervisor Herrick, complimenting the supervisor on his choice of men.

Su-Wannee River

Among traditions is one that the river so celebrated in song, took its name from Su-Wannee, an Indian princess who ruled a tribe that lived in the Okefenokee swamp and along the rivers flowing from it. More plausible, perhaps, is the explanation that the Negroes slurred the Spanish name, San Juanee, meaning little St. Johns as distinguished from the larger St. Johns River of eastern Florida. A local Florida movement, well supported at times, would have divided the state in two at the Suwannee river. Gainesville, east of the river, seat of the state university and college of agriculture, would have become capital of an all-peninsular Florida. Tallahassee would have been capital of a separate state to the west. Nothing has come of the agitation, however.

Air Maps for Britain

Air maps are being used to plan the reconstruction and rebuilding of war-ravaged areas in Britain. The R.A.F. is using powerful new cameras, including infra-red and stereoscopic instruments, and even radar. The new technique depends on the use of the radar methods developed for the Anglo-American bombing fleets over Germany. These methods enable the photographic aircraft to be navigated along the desired track and its position to be determined at the moment when the photograph is taken, relative to a pair of radar stations.

Birthplace of Bitters

Venezuela's remote Guiana highlands, where modern industrial minerals now are sought, contain both the gold mine that once was the world's richest, and the birthplace of bitters. The mine is El Callao, which produced as much as $300,000 worth of the metal a month in 1885. The bitters were invented in 1824 by a physician who lived in Angostura, the early name for today's Ciudad Bolivar. on the Orinoco River. Later the bitters factory was removed to Port of Spain.

You can be Charming

by Marsha Wheeler

She was a beautiful woman until she spoke.

Does this mean you? Your words are your personality. Your vocabulary is you. The words you use tell more about you than your bank book.

Words can give assurance. They can increase your popularity.

In a tiny, paper-backed Pocketbook, called "30 Days to a more Powerful Vocabulary," Wilfred Funk and Norman Lewis have packed a midget education. Read it with a pencil. The chapters are presented like games.

Everywhere I go people ask about my new eyeglasses—where a newspaper woman, doctor, a grocery clerk, a sales executive, a P.T.A. president.

They're fashioned of lightweight metal that looks like polished silver. The effect is one of jeweled brilliance.

They're especially smart with gray hair. I selected them from among the high fashion eyeglass frames to be seen at the Queen Optical Company, 12 East Sixth Street, in Cincinnati.

If you need glasses, or if your present glasses should be changed, Queen Optical's expert Doctors of Optometry will prescribe corrective lenses.

4-H DISTRICT FAIR SERVES 53 COUNTIES

Fifty-three counties having about 27,000 members of 4-H clubs have been invited to take part in the annual 4-H Club District Fair at Lexington, August 10-11.

Livestock, crops, grunts, vegetables, canned and baked foods, clothing, home furnishings and other products of 4-H club work will be exhibited.

The fair is being sponsored by the Fayette County 4-H Leaders' Council, Fayette county chapter of the Future Farmers, Lexington Chamber of Commerce and Man o' War Post of the American Legion.

The fair will be held in the Tattessalls sales barn on South Broadway.

Five new sprayer outfits were bought by Gallatin county farmers for weed control in corn.

Demands for Good Roads
Were First Made in 90's

Back in the days of handle-bar mustaches and "bicycles built for two," the demand for good roads came from fast-wheeling bicyclists and the wheelmen's organization.

And their demand of nearly 60 years ago is still a long way from its goal. Sen. William E. Chandler of New Hampshire voiced it to a convention of the National League for Good Roads in 1903 in these words:

"We want . . . to have our highways in such repair and perfection that anyone can start with a horse and light buggy from Eastport, Me., and travel to Alaska without breaking a spoke." He said that the bicyclists and the wheelmen's organization were demanding good roads at the time because highways had been neglected as the nation sought to criss-cross the country with steel rails.

"I am very glad to learn that the railroads are not opposed to the renovation and improvement of our highways, because, indeed, the better the roads are, the better feeders the railroads will have," the Senator told the convention delegates.

Other pertinent remarks of Chandler, so timely that they might have been made today, were: "I do not think that you will find congress either indifferent or slow in doing what may be reasonably asked of it. That we need better roads is settled; the only question now is the practical one. What shall we do to get them?"

Check Stored Feeds Often As Precaution Against Mold

Livestock feeders should check their stored feeds frequently, to guard against the danger of poisonous molds.

Certain molds, forming on grain, silage and hay, cause serious and sometimes fatal diseases of all species of livestock.

"Moldy corn can cause a disease very similar to sleeping sickness in horses and a serious genital disease in swine," the American Foundation for Animal Health points out. "One type of fungus can cause lumpy-jaw in cattle. Moldy clover hay may be responsible for sweet-clover disease, which causes the blood of cattle to lose its clotting ability. Ergot poisoning may be a serious problem. One type of pneumonia in poultry and calves is caused by a grain fungus. Several skin diseases of animals are due to fungi."

Naturally, the main precaution is to avoid using moldy feed. If mold poisoning is suspected in livestock, then a veterinary diagnosis should be obtained at once. Symptoms may be similar to those of some contagious infection, and proper treatment will depend on the true cause of trouble.

Ben Franklin and Business

Business life began for Franklin at the early age of ten years, when he was taken from school, and put to work in his father's shop. At the age of 17, he scored his first business success by profitably managing his brother's "New England Courant." Having learned the technique of a good craftsman from his London-taught brother, Franklin ran away before his apprenticeship term was served and worked for Kelmer's printing house in Philadelphia. From there he went to London where he worked a year in Palmer's, a famous printing establishment, and later went to work for Watts, a still more important printing house.

Protection of Livestock

To protect livestock from lightning discharges received through wire fences, the fence should be grounded at intervals of 150 to 300 feet. Ground connections can be made by driving 1/4 inch galvanized-iron pipe into the ground to a depth of 4 or 5 feet and tying it to the fence with wire. The electrical continuity should also be broken up at intervals of 1,000 feet by cutting the wires and inserting short lengths of seasoned wood or other insulating material.

Uncle Sam Says

That old saw about opportunity must be revised. The new version is—Opportunity Knocks but Once—A Week. Every payday you have the opportunity to do something about those things you want in the future. All it takes is a little slice of that paycheck invested regularly in U. S. Savings Bonds. There are two ways to make that future secure—the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. In ten years, every $3 invested brings back $4.

"Doctor," said the patient, "I'm afraid my wife is going crazy."
"What seems wrong?" asked the doctor.
"She wants to buy a goat."
"Let her buy a goat."
"But she wants to keep it in the house."
"Well, let her keep it in the house."
"But a goat has an unpleasant smell."
"Open the windows."
"What! And let all my pigeons out!"

A few minutes later Willie returned and reported:
"Mrs. Brown says it's none of your business how old she is."

SCRIPTURE: Psalms 92; 103; 136:1-6.
25-26. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 118:1-6, 17-18.

Thank God for God!

Lesson for August 7, 1949

WHILE the little children are thanking God for birds and bees and oatmeal, let us grown people rise and offer some adult thanksgivings. Reading the Psalms of praise which are this week before us, we get the impression that these poets were grateful above all not for anything God had given but for God himself. Thank God for God!

Dr. Foreman

Suppose there were no God? He is the Creator of all; without him nothing else can be. The nature of time and space, of molecule and atom and electron, the mighty power that holds all together; the emergence of life, of mind, the possibility of thought, of values, whatever is and whatever can be, is because he wills it so. That there is energy in the atom, light in the sun, refreshment in the rain and power in the lightning—that these things can be and that anything can be, we thank God.

No Unrighteousness in Him
SUPPOSE God were not good? A vast and vicious devil, his immense mind brimming with intelligence and malice, could perhaps have contrived a universe more enormous than this corner of one which is known to us. A creative devil—what pangs he could have invented to torture his creatures!

It may be, indeed, that only on this earth is there rebellion against the Creator, and that elsewhere in God's dominions all is peace. But suppose it were true that all the evil in the world was originated by some Creative Hatred?—all the goodness in the world only an illusion, a deception?

Suppose it were the intent of some devilish maker of man finally to destroy all his creatures, or worse still, to make every creature long bitterly for death but find none? Let us thank God for God, the God of mercy whose loving kindness endureth forever.

He Knoweth Our Frame

LET us thank God for his providence. He did not create and then forget us, nor give us so much freedom that we could destroy his mighty plan. Let us thank God for his infinite love and interest that spares and speeds us, his knowledge of our frame, his remembering even the hairs upon our heads. Let us thank God that being infinite he can have a care for the infinitesimal, and that not a sparrow falls to the ground without our heavenly Father. Let us thank God whose care for us is such that without his knowledge not the least of his creatures can fall asleep.

From death and disaster we and the nation and the world have been saved, time and again. Frail is the craft in which the human spirit is launched through this pathless universe; yet it holds, and will hold, because the universe is there by his almighty decree.

In spite of the chaos of men's unruly wills, in spite of we know not what rebellions in the spirit world, he sees to it that not one good is ever wholly lost.

Who Redeemeth Thy Life

LET US PRAISE God for his promise and for his faithfulness. That he has not left us to our sins nor given us up though long we scorned him; that his divine patience outlasts the hasty heart; that he spared not his own Son but freely gave him for our sakes; that none who come to him will be cast out; that the God who creates is the God who redeems, we praise him from a heart of love. As the Psalmist of old knew himself as one of the children of the Covenant, so may every man who takes God's promises and makes them his heart's own.

To take this God for my God—this is the beginning and the end of religion. To step out on his promises as on a bridge that stands secure above all the floods of eternity.

To trust his faithfulness though all the race of man were liars; to look down the vista of the years without fear, knowing that the God of our fathers will be the God of each succeeding race, that his mercy is everlasting to everlasting and that his kingdom ruleth over all—this is to know him, and this is life eternal. The God for God!

Chambers & Grubbs FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

This little boy is practicing the best of all social traits—as he reaches out a helping hand to his timid companion. As he grows older, he is apt to learn that cooperation and mutual helpfulness are the basis of human happiness and human progress.

People who live for themselves alone, who have no concern for the welfare of others, can never achieve life's highest purposes nor realize its fullest joys. These are reserved for the people who have helping hands.

The Bible teaches us to love our fellow-men, to share their burdens, enter into their joys and sorrows, and help them over the rough and difficult places of life. When we do this we emulate the character and spirit of God himself—the spirit of love and helpfulness.

Worshipful hearts and helping hands! These are the teachings of the Church—the precepts of God. The world would be much happier and much brighter if all of us would practice them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For his life of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Johnson-McElroy Unit 277, American Legion Auxiliary held its regular meeting on July 26th at the Legion Home, with Mrs. Frances Lemmons presiding. Plans were made for several members to go to General Hospital to donate blood for the Ft. Thomas Veterans Hospital. They went last Friday night, and Peggy Veeneman, Mrs. Anna Hoelscher and Mrs. Nellie Campbell were accepted.

Right now that is one of the most important things we can do. Blood is urgently needed, as there are several veterans over there whose very life depends on the blood plasma they receive. Last month Ft. Thomas was 12 pints short in returning their blood to the Blood Bank. They are begging for donors. If there is anyone, anywhere, who can and will give a pint of blood for this worthy cause, they are asked to contact Mrs. Emma Cluster (Walton 544) or Mrs. Frances Lemmons (Walton 1824) and transportation will be furnished to and from the hospital. Their next trip will be on Friday, August 12th.

There is no way to tell how much this means to those boys, so if it is at all possible, please donate. After all, a pint of blood is certainly no comparison to the blood they gave for us, is it? You do not have to be a member of the American Legion or Auxiliary to go. Anyone who qualifies will be gratefully accepted.

Next meeting of the Auxiliary will be on August 9th. Please attend.—Aux. Pub. Chm.

To the Voters Of Boone County

I wish to take this opportunity to express my thanks to the people of Boone County for the help and cooperation given me in my race for re-election as County Attorney. Your courtesy and good will which has been shown me from all over the county has made the campaign more pleasant.

I am sorry that I did not get to see all of the people of the county before the election as I wish it would have been possible for me to have done. However, I hope to have your support and cooperation just the same and likewise may I assure you of my continued and renewed help.

Boone County has a splendid record in law enforcement and clean government and I hope to continue in working with the other officials in maintaining and promoting this record, as Boone County citizens can justly be proud of it.

I have acted as County Attorney the past two years, having filled the unexpired term of the late Charles W. Riley and I feel that this experience further qualifies me for re-election for a full term. I have also spent several years working with farm organizations in Boone County and this work has caused me to know many more of the problems and conditions of our county.

I have spent my entire life in Boone County, being educated at Hebron High School and Chase Law School, Cincinnati, Ohio, and having worked as AAA secretary previous to being elected as County Attorney two years ago. I am a member of the Hebron Lutheran Church and Hebron Lodge F. & A. M.; a director of the Hebron Building & Loan Association, and secretary and insurance agent for the Boone County Farm Bureau.

I have tried to conduct a fair and honest campaign and I believe that my opponent, Mr. McEvoy, has done likewise, and in conclusion, may I ask that you give me your consideration and, if possible, your support and vote.

"A man, to stringy to subscribe to the hometown paper, sent his little boy to borrow a copy from his neighbor. In haste, the boy ran over a stand of bees and in 10 minutes looked like a wart summer squash. His father ran to his assistance and, failing to notice the barbed wire fence, tore and ruined a $15 pair of pants.

"The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the commotion, his wife ran out, upset a four-gallon churn of cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire batch.

"The baby, being left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor, ruining a brand-new $50 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter sloped with the tired mother, the dog broke up 11 setting hens and the cat got out and chewed the tails off four shirts on the clothes line."

Moral: "Don't borrow your neighbor's paper; it's too risky."

Farmers In Good Financial Condition

While Kentucky farmers have spent millions of dollars for improvements, soil conservation, and the purchase of new equipment since the war's end, farm debt has made no significant increase; and savings in cash, bank deposits, and United States Savings Bonds are at record levels, according to A. B. Renaker, President of the Peoples Deposit Bank, Burlington, who represents the Kentucky Bankers Association as a county keep banker.

"Kentucky farm families are going through these final months of adjustment from a war to a peacetime economy with very little disturbance," Mr. Renaker said. "They are maintaining a sound financial position; and while they are using more credit for improvements and new equipment, their obligations are being paid off in relatively short time, and they are adding to their already substantial financial reserves."

Reporting on the results of the fifth national survey of bank lending made by the Agricultural Committee of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Renaker said that "total farm debt held by the banks of the state at the beginning of 1949 was only about $80,000,000, compared with $69,000,000 on January 1, 1948. In addition to this amount, there are $533,000 in Commodity Credit Corporation loans held by the banks cooperating with the government's farm price support program."

In 1948, the last full year of operation, the 350 Kentucky banks serving agricultural communities loaned $83,424,000 to 102,049 farmers. This represents a total of 42.8% of the farmers in the state. Of the total amount, 85,695 farmers borrowed from the banks to finance production in an aggregate amount of $58,816,000. Of these loans, only $38,253,000 remained outstanding at the beginning of 1949. During the year, there were 16,354 farmers, representing only 6.9% of the farmers in the state, who made farm real estate loans in an aggregate amount of $24,608,000. The prosperity of the farmers is shown by the fact that of these long term debts, only $2,200,000 were outstanding at the beginning of this year. The total bank-held farm debt on January 1, 1949, was $80,459,000.

"The farm mortgage debt in Kentucky remains only about one-half of what it was in a comparable period after World War I," Mr. Renaker pointed out.

Mr. Renaker stated that farm borrowings are usually a reliable indicator of the economic condition of agriculture and that one of the brightest aspects of the present situation is the fact that the average loan per borrower during 1948 for production purposes was only $686, and the average loan made on farm real estate was only $1,505.

"Cash reserves held by Kentucky farmers, which are being consistently increased, are estimated to be sufficient to retire all farm debt," Mr. Renaker said. "However, the farmers are wisely holding the reserves as a safeguard against emergencies and to enable them to buy new equipment and make farm improvements. The big demand for new equipment to replace that worn out during war years appears to have been satisfied. There is a statewide trend among farmers to improve livestock and crops and to practice modern conservation methods and land management. This trend insures a steady improvement in the condition of agriculture for many years in the future."

CROPS TESTED FOR MINERAL CONTENT

Testing forage crops for mineral content, the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, found sweet clover higher in phosphorus, potassium and magnesium and lower in calcium than alfalfa.

Orchard grass was higher in phosphorus and potassium than any of the other grasses and legumes but it was lower in calcium and magnesium than Ky. 31 fescue or Kentucky bluegrass. In general, bluegrass was lowest in all mineral nutrients determined.

Phosphorus content was influenced by stage of maturity, but potassium and calcium content seemed to be affected more by moisture and weather conditions.

After using 100 pounds of boron on a five-acre alfalfa field, Allan Davis of Shelby county said the crop was so heavy it almost stopped the mower.

RIPE BURLEY GIVES BEST MONEY RETURNS

Burley tobacco was most profitable when cutting was delayed until the crop was about 90% ripe. In three years of tests at the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky.

"Best yields occurred," says the station's report, "when cutting was done at the time the daily growth in the top of the plant equalled the daily loss of lower leaves, or at the time the plant was about 90% ripe."

Tobacco cut early during the three years averaged $712 gross income an acre; mid-harvest cutting (the time when farmers usually cut), $821 an acre, and late cutting (ripe), $943 an acre.

Priming of an average of three leaves a plant eliminated 40% of the total loss of lower leaves. Two primings, averaging 6½ leaves a plant, usually eliminated all the loss of lower leaves.

Three primings were required to save all lower leaves in wet seasons such as 1947, when average loss of lower leaves in unprimed tobacco was 29% of the total growth, as compared with 12% loss in 1945 and 1946.

In all years, two primings yielded returns well above the cost of additional labor. Additional primings were not so profitable.

Average per-hour returns for additional labor required to prime tobacco were as follows: One priming $1.35; two primings, $1.78; three primings, $1.12, and four primings, 77 cents.

EXPERT LISTS STEPS FOR BETTER CANNING

Several ideas on canning were of special interest to Franklin county homemakers when Mrs. Pearl Haak, canning authority from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the University of Kentucky, demonstrated canning methods. They included these points, said Home Agent Irene Beavers:

1—Because corn is a starchy vegetable, it should be canned in pint jars so the heat will penetrate the corn readily.

2—Only small tender beets should be canned whole. Larger ones should be washed, peeled and sliced, then boiled 5 to 8 minutes, packed in hot jars, covered with cooking liquid and processed at 10 pounds pressure—20 minutes for pint jars and 25 minutes for quarts.

3—Processing time for tomatoes may be reduced if they are peeled and quartered, then heated until they make their own juice. Filled jars will require only 10 minutes of processing to prevent mold forming. Concise directions on canning are to be found in Circular 440, "How to Can Fruits and Vegetables." Copies may be had from offices of county and home agents or from the college at Lexington.

A total of 1,049 boys and girls are members of 4-H clubs in Southern Madison-Rockcastle counties.

In Bath county, 810 mail boxes have been painted and stencilled with names during the year.

BENSON, EASTON, McEVOY, PRESSER PRIMARY WINNERS

Verona Wins First Game In Elimination Series 11-6, Sun.

Verona won their first-round game in the KAG Baseball League, Sunday at Verona by defeating the strong Schoenfeld team from Covington to the tune of 11 to 6. The Beermen defeated the winners twice during the regular season, thus the victory Sunday was doubly sweet for the Community Club.

Three hundred twenty-six paid admissions were at the game, and the contest was played in 2 hours and 7 minutes.

Schoenfeld had 6 runs, 13 hits, and 3 errors, while Verona had 11 hits, 11 runs and 1 error.

Lefty Leo Groeschel pitched six and two-thirds frames for the losers, allowing 10 runs, 8 hits. He struck out four, walked none, made two wild pitched. Taylor, who relieved him in the sixth, was touched for one run on two hits, while striking out one and walking one. Uggas did the catching. The losers' attack was led by Arzen, who had 4 for 5. Groeschel's double in the fourth was the only extra base hit for the Beermen.

Veteran Elmo Steffen pitched for Verona and struck out 8, while walking two and hitting one batter. Baumann was the receiver. Baumann also led the attack with a triple, home run, single and a walk, to score four runs in five trips to the plate. Alexander had a triple and single, driving in three runs, while Brown had 2 for 5 and drove in three runs. Hayes had a single in the 7th when Verona's 5-run outburst came, good for two runs. Robinson got only one hit, a double, but got on base three times and scored three runs.

Steffen had trouble in the 3rd and 4th innings, but survived and pitched excellent ball for the remainder of the contest.

Other First-Round Games

Verona travels to Bellevue on Sunday, August 14th for a second game in the first round. The third game of the elimination series will be played at Verona, August 21st, with Queen City Chevrolet furnishing the opposition.

The Lions and Ryan's are now tied-up in the standings, with 1-3 records. The finale of the evening brought together the Fire Department and the Tree Trimmers, and it was a really close affair, with the Trimmers finally coping a 9-6 decision.

Bill McEvo Wins County Attorney Post by A Scant 13 Votes; Carries Walton

Bill McEvo - County Attorney

DEWEY BENSON LEADS FIELD WITH A TOTAL OF 2,435 VOTES

A large vote, over 3,300 ballots, was cast Saturday in the Democratic primary in Boone County. However, the vote in Walton was on the light side, something over 400 ballots being cast.

The race creating the most interest was that for County Attorney, in which Bill McEvo defeated the incumbent, John Craig, by 13 votes. This was said to be the closest race in the county in many years. Mr. McEvo carried Walton's two precincts, which enabled him to win. But it was Florence, his home town, where he really shined. McEvo received 607 of 778 votes cast.

Dewey Benson had the largest plurality, defeating his opponent Ivan Clements, for County Clerk by 1,465 votes.

A three-man Sheriff's race resulted in the present first deputy, W. H. Easton gaining the decision over his rivals, Conner Carroll and William Sullivan. An office deputy has already been named by Mr. Easton. She is to be Miss Glenore Williams.

"Skirt" Softball Game Set For August 20; Dance To Follow

American Legion vs. Lions Club

RULES:

No women players—that's all!

REGULATIONS:

With the exception of shoes, (the men's feet are too big) players' uniforms must consist entirely of women's apparel; example — hoop skirts, hobble skirts, busses, wigs, umbrellas—or what have you?

UMPIRES:

Umpires will be Headman, Medicineman, and What-a-man!

RESULTS:

One grand, glorious, hilarious laugh from start to finish!

REASON:

100% benefit Walton playground!

On August 20, 1949, the American Legion Post, 277, and the Lions Club will sponsor this skirt softball game beginning promptly at 8:15 p. m. at the Walton playgrounds. The contest will continue until somebody wins (we hope).

People attending will see some of the greatest name players in the baseball world. This is not official, but it is rumored that the starting pitchers will be none other than the great and immortal Imogene "Legs" DeMolay for the Lions, and the present star of the diamond, Longing Lillian Ryan for the Legionnaires. If possible, we will have the complete line-up of both teams, plus pictures (maybe) for you on next Thursday; so look for them.

Immediately after the game, there will be a Benefit Dance held at the Legion home on Beaver Road. A five-piece popular orchestra will furnish music for the evening. Entire proceeds from both features of the evening's entertainment will be turned over to the Lions Club to help finance their playground project.

Tickets for the dance will be on sale this weekend; so, whether you dance or whether you don't, let's all buy a ticket and do our share toward supporting this worthwhile community project.

Commissioned Lieutenant

Gordon Simpson of Florence, a student at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, last week received a reserve commission as second lieutenant in the United States Officers Reserve Corps at a military review held at Camp Campbell, Ky. Simpson's commission was awarded by Major General William M. Miloy, commanding general of the 11th Airborne Division and Camp Campbell.

Lt. Simpson for the past six weeks has been attending summer training camp at the western Kentucky military post.

W. H. Easton - Sheriff

The race for Jailer turned out to be a two-man race, with "Pi" Preser gaining the decision over Mr. Scroggin, his nearest opponent. Mr. Pope was third man.

In the Magistrate's race, the incumbent, Tom Carr, was pressed greatly in defeating Cecil Dickerson.

Precinct Boundaries Explained

The question of the boundary lines separating Voting Precincts 1 and 2, in Walton, arose during the Primary last Saturday. We contacted County Clerk Benson, and here is the defined line:

"Beginning at a point in the center of Cruise Creek Road, in the Boone-Kenton County line, thence with the center of said road to the L. & N. Railroad, thence with said L. & N. Railroad to the L. & N. depot in Walton, thence southwest to a point in the Walton-Stephens Mill Road just south of a small bridge, thence with said road to Mud Lick Creek. That part north of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 1, and that part south of said line shall be known as Voting Precinct No. 2. Voting places for both places shall be in Walton."

Registration to change precinct, party affiliation or new registrations may be made at the County Clerk's office from August 16 to September 10, 1949. Voters must register and vote in the precinct in which they reside.

Baptist Church To Attend Dedication Services Sunday

Sunday morning the Baptist church will not have their usual morning preaching service. The church will be dismissed immediately after Bible School, so that our people can attend the dedicatory services at the Christian church.

We rejoice with our Christian brethren that they have been able to restore their House of Worship. We urge all of our membership to attend this service.—Pastor.

Walton Christian Church To Be Dedicated Sunday, August 14th

This coming Sunday, August 14th, should be for our community one of the high days in the calendar of the year; for on that day the Christian Church of Walton is to be dedicated. It is a great day for this congregation; for the other churches of the town and for the entire community. For any institution whose purpose is to promote by liberal and constructive methods the best interests of a community should be an institution that merits the encouragement of every thinking and fair-minded citizen.

Committees have been working faithfully to have everything in readiness for this great day. Mr. Ames Spencer, organist and choir director, is preparing inspiring music for all the services of the day. Dr. John Booth, its speaker for the day, will arrive from Indianapolis, Ind., on Wednesday, to meet with the entire official board that night to complete arrangements for the day. The women of the church are making extensive preparations for the dinner to follow the morning service. To this congregational dinner all visiting friends for the day are invited. The building, which was described somewhat in detail in last week's issue of the Advertiser, speaks for itself. Visitors will find the interior as beautiful, if not more so, than the exterior.

The services are as herein announced, with Dr. Booth speaking at each of the services: Morning, communion and preaching, subject, "Building the House of God"; dedication service, 2:30, subject, "Now Carry It Through"; evening worship, 7:30, with Dr. Booth speaking on the subject, "What Is Your Philosophy of Life?" Because of the intensive program of the day, there will be no Sunday School.

Through the pastor, Fred S. Nichols, the church has invited the other congregations of the town and vicinity to join in the rejoicing of the day. The invitation is to all faiths.

Singing Holidays

Lesson for August 14, 1949

IF A CITIZEN of the U.S.A. observed all the holidays that are officially counted as legal, somewhere in his wide country, he would have 43 days off every year. Holidays are a national habit in all countries. Not content with what the law gives us, we take our personal vacations besides. But how many holidays do we sing about? (One might even dare to ask, how many are worth singing about?) In the United States, there are known to this writer no New Year songs, none for Decoration day or Labor day, none for Armistice day, none for the various birthdays celebrated hither and yon. (Who ever heard of a song to commemorate Thomas Jefferson?) We may not even sing on our personal vacations, we are too busy working up a sun-tan. On the other hand, we could hardly think of Independence day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter without being reminded of the songs that go with them—The Star Spangled Banner or America the Beautiful for the Fourth of July, New Thank We All Our God in November, and all the Christmas and Easter carols.

God and Country
It looks as if some kinds of holidays produce songs and others don't. It appears to be a general rule: If the holiday is specially patriotic or religious, then people sing; otherwise they don't. God and country, in short, arouse emotion and enthusiasm even (for example) the memory even of a great man like Jefferson or the planting of a tree, does not. This is generally true throughout the world. It was true in ancient Israel, for many of the Psalms are holiday songs, festival songs. Some years ago a religious denomination issued a new hymn book. One minister roundly denounced the book because it had introduced a few patriotic hymns. "My Country, 'tis of Thee" has no place in public worship, he said.

If that man had been a closer student of the Psalms, he would not have made such a criticism. Most patriotic hymns are really prayers for one's native land; Psalms 106 and 108 are only two of a number of Psalms which are in the best sense of the word patriotic.

If the reader will look through the Psalms for himself, noting all references to God and to Israel, remembering that Israel was the name of the poet's country, he will be convinced that in those times as in these, love for God and love for country are singable.

Hallelujah

OUR word "Hallelujah" is Hebrew, and comes from the Psalms. It means "Praise ye the Lord!" Incidentally, it is a religious word, and should not be used, as it so often is, irreverently or lightly. Psalms 111-118 in our Bible were sung as a group, and called the Hallel, or the Praise. The Hallel was sung regularly at the three great holiday festivals: Passover (near our Easter time), Pentecost (in early summer, ancestor of our Whitsunday), and Tabernacles (in the fall).

When our Lord had his "Last Supper" he and his friends would sing these very Psalms. The "hymn" they sang before they went out was very probably the latter part of this group, 116-118, always sung at the end of the Passover meal.

The note of praise in these Psalms is very strong. They are not in a minor key.

Parodies

A SAD FACT today is that the un-Christian world, which does not understand religion at all, has taken over our religious holidays but leaves the religion out. The result is a parody, something without rhyme or reason. Take a look, next winter, at Christmas greeting cards for sale. You will find scotchy pups, all sorts of things, more easily than you will find true Christmas messages.

For people who are not Christians, Christmas is only Xmas, a time for exchanging useless presents, a time for shopkeepers to make money.

And as for Easter, there are cities where the big items are only the bunnies and the parade, neither of which has the slightest thing to do with the real Easter.

Chambers & Grubbs FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

There were some things he wanted—and he needed money to buy them. What's wrong with that?

Nothing wrong with that. We all want many things that cost money. But most of us learned long ago the difference between earning and stealing. . . this boy hasn't! Oh, he may understand that difference in terms of method. But he doesn't understand it in terms of moral principle.

And even a prison sentence will probably not teach him the truth he could have learned as a child in the Church.

Wise parents, begin immediately to give your children the priceless gift of religious training in the Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NOW-FAMOUS GRASS BRINGS NEW WEALTH TO STRUGGLING FARMERS

The now-famous grass discovery of a Kentucky mountain farmer has brought new wealth to those struggling to make a living in the poor grazing areas of the state.

Kentucky 31 issue, the "wonder" grass discovered by the late William M. Sulter, has proved itself capable of carrying a cow to the acre on cheap land which hardly provided a living before.

This is the report given in the August issue of Country Gentleman by Howard Bloomfield, a well known writer who was assigned to take a second look at the famous grass experiment and check its accomplishments of two years against its original claims.

Bloomfield found that fescue 31 thrives on poor soil, does well in droughts and stays green all year. Describing a trip he made into eastern Clark county with William C. Templeton, Jr., associate state agronomist, Bloomfield said he saw millions of pounds of beef and gallons of milk coming off cheap land. It was not unusual, Bloomfield reported, to see a farm of 200 green acres of fescue, entirely surrounded by a completely brown landscape.

The practical side has also brightened. Kentucky 31 fescue seed can now be had from most Kentucky seed dealers for from 35 to 75 cents a pound, depending on quality. The 1948 seed crop in the state was between two and a half and three million pounds, according to W. B. Fortenberry, manager of the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association at Lexington. In 1947, just two years ago, Kentucky 31 seed was so scarce it sold for up to $3.00 a pound and the year before there just wasn't any.

DOES YOUR FAMILY KNOW?

You may believe that "Ignorance is bliss" and that what your wife doesn't know, doesn't hurt her. We don't want to quarrel with your creed of life, but there's one time when leaving your family in ignorance can rob them of money rightfully theirs.

Elbert M. Bohon, manager of the Covington social security office suggests that you ask yourself the following questions, and then take time to let your family in on the following facts:

1—Does your family know that in addition to the life insurance policies you carry, you have a valuable social insurance policy which pays off when you reach age 65 or when you die?

2—Does your family know you have a social security number, and that all wages paid you are recorded by the Government under that number?

3—Does your family know that if you die they should take your social security card to the nearest field office of the Social Security Administration as soon as possible to make sure that no benefits payable are lost? Don't risk robbing your family of valuable monetary rights by your negligence. Tell them the three simple facts mentioned above, at once.

The address of the nearest Social Security field office which will furnish you complete information about the social insurance program can be obtained from your employer or post office. Your employer, thru a special payroll tax pays half of the cost of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program. That is an additional reason why they are vitally concerned that all their employees and their families obtain the maximum benefits to which they are entitled.

Rural Road Projects Contracted For In 117 Ky. Counties

In the approximately six months which have elapsed since the first rural road project financed from state gasoline tax money was let to contract, the Department of Highways has contracted for or placed under construction rural secondary projects in 117 of the state's 120 counties, according to a report by the Rural Highway Commissioner, Emerson "Doc" Beauchamp.

With the letting of contracts scheduled to be opened August 12, the Department will have under contract and construction a total of 1,035 miles of rural secondary roads comprising 271 separate projects.

These 271 projects represent many months of careful planning, surveying and the weighing of many factors," Mr. Beauchamp said. "The law which set up this new rural road fund stipulated that all roads on which the state gas tax money is spent must become a part of the state-maintained highway system.

"Therefore, in order that these highways newly added to the state-maintained system may not add too much to the already over-burdened maintenance program, it necessarily became Department policy to see that these rural roads are constructed to the highest standards possible.

"In selecting rural roads to place under construction we tried as far as possible to consider individual county needs, at the same time remembering that the money available has to be used only on a fair and equitable basis in every county. The law demands that.

"We were guided to a very great extent by traffic surveys and by the consideration of rural letter carrier routes and school bus routes and the rural population to be served. In order that we could have factual information direct from the source we conferred with delegations from every county in the state.

"As soon as plans are completed and rights-of-way obtained, rural secondary highway projects will be under way in every county in Kentucky. It is our hope that we may eventually push these rural roads into every community in every Kentucky county."

Commercial Aviation Pioneer

The tiny, single-engine monoplane which made the first commercial flight along the west coast of South America is now on display at the new national air museum, a subsidiary of the Smithsonian institute in Washington D.C. As the first airplane of Pan American Grace Airways (Panagra), the fragile, four-passenger craft made its first flight between Lima and Talara, Peru, on September 13, 1928, to inaugurate commercial air transportation along the west coast of South America, and was the forerunner of the giant luxury airliners which today criss-cross the air lanes of South America.

Gleet Cure

Vent gleet in chickens is easily recognized by the unpleasant odor of a cheesy-like infection around the vent. Affected birds should be removed from the flock, but they are often rejected for market purposes. Such birds may be treated with iodoform, a yellow powder available at most drug stores. The application of a pinch of the iodoform every two or three days may completely cure the infection in a short time, depending upon the severity of the case.

Federal Highway Aid

Charles M. Upham of Washington, D. C., engineer-director of the American Road Builders' association, recommends that federal aid authorizations be increased to at least one billion dollars annually to assist the states in the nation's badly needed highway program. Such aid authorization would double the highest previous amount authorized for federal aid highways—$500,000,000 (m) a year under the federal aid highway act of 1944.

Fall Pasture Fertilization Spreads Farm Work
Boosts Meat, Milk Output and Cuts Feed Costs

Well-Fertilized Pasture Gives Cheapest High Quality Feed for Livestock.

CHICAGO—Topdressing your pastures and grasslands this fall with phosphate and potash fertilizer will give your beef and dairy cattle extra grazing days next spring, cut down your feed bill, boost meat and milk output per acre and reduce production costs, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in a statement made public here.

Fertilizer added in the fall helps deep-rooted alfalfa and sweet clover make a sturdier, denser growth, the statement says. The plants are better able to resist winter kill. They come through the winter months in better condition for vigorous early spring growth.

Earlier spring grazing means fewer days of barn feeding. It means a saving in the feed bill, for the palatable green pasture provides the cheapest high-protein feed your cattle can obtain.

The committee lists these advantages of fall fertilization of pastures, as recently cited by M. O. Pence, Purdue University extension agronomist:

1—Spreading fertilizer in the fall spreads the work, too. Farmers have more time for such work in fall than in spring.

2—Plant food added in the fall has a chance to get down into the soil where the roots are. Nutrients are then immediately available for the legume roots when spring growth starts.

3—It is easier to spread lime or fertilizer in the fall when the turf is solid than in the spring when the ground is soft and wet.

4—You don't have to work the fertilizer into the soil. Grass roots close to the surface take up the soluble plant food.

"Farmers planning fall pasture improvement work," says the committee, "can get advice from their county agents or state agronomists on the kind and amount of fertilizer to use."

Spring Burning Injurious

The practice of burning over woods and fields is, in most instances, unwise. Research proves that spring burning does not improve pasture or hay land and it is a serious menace to timber production. Experiments with bluegrass pastures have shown that burning in winter or spring results in the following year in from 32 to 71 per cent decrease in grass production. Where burning is continued year after year, perennial grasses and other forage plants are replaced by annual weeds nearly worthless for pasture.

Minnesota's Death Rate

The lowest death rate in Minnesota's history was recorded in 1948. Based on reports received up to February 1, 1949, the death rate for the preceding year was between 9.4 and 9.5 per 100,000 population. Not since 1921, the last record year, has the death rate been so low as 9.5. In 1947 it was 9.8. Deaths reported from all causes during 1948 numbered 27,689. Births reported for the same period totaled 72,500. The all-time high was 75,468 births in 1947.

Cannibal Snail May Save
Garden Crops of Mariannas

A cannibal snail—a pigmy which attacks and devours alive other snails from 10 to 20 times its own size—may prove the salvation of the garden crops of the Mariannas, America's mandated islands in the Pacific.

Specimens of this little creature, about the size of a peanut, have been received by the Smithsonian institution from Dr. Francis X. Williams, who was sent to Africa by the National Research council to find natural enemies of the giant East African snail. This is one of the largest of land mollusks, about the size of a large rat, with one of the most voracious appetites of any living creature.

When the Japanese took over the Pacific islands under mandate after the first World war they introduced these creatures from Africa as a prospective food source. About the only persons who ate them, however, were the government administrators. The natives never developed an appetite for them.

The giant snails found themselves in an ideal environment. They multiplied so rapidly that they had become a serious pest when the navy took over the islands. Sometimes their slimy bodies covered roads so thickly that it was dangerous to drive a jeep at night. A host of them would clean up a garden in a single evening.

In their new home they had no natural enemies. In Africa, their native habitat, they never have proved a serious problem—largely because their numbers are kept down in the balance of nature, which has become established over thousands of centuries.

World's Supply of Pepper
Grown in Confined Region

Columbus discovered America while searching for pepper and other spices. Today the United States of America is the world's greatest importer and consumer of the pepper Columbus never found. The United States alone consumes about 35 million pounds of pepper a year. Although all the world's pepper is grown in a confined area in the Far East, the center of the trade is New York City, where the Pepper exchange has been located since 1937.

We rarely connect pepper with American history, yet it helped save the young United States from bankruptcy and started us on the road to sea power and international commerce. It all came about in the cloak and dagger tradition of the romantic novel. The handsome young Yankee skipper, Captain Johnathan Carnes of Salem, Mass., sailed his schooner Rajah to the Spice Islands in 1781 and found a way to pierce the tight blockade and bring back a cargo of pepper. Records show that by 1805 we were re-exporting more than 7,500,000 pounds of pepper a year.

In the Middle Ages pepper's preservative effect on foods made possible long caravan treks and the exploration of far-off places. Today pepper is just as important for its use in commercial food processing, and as the homemaker's essential tool in making bland foods more palatable.

PRESSURE COOKERS CAN BE USED WITH SAFETY

Although a pressure cooker is a saver of time, fuel and energy for the housewife in canning and meal preparation, more than one has confessed to Mrs. Pearl Haak that her new equipment stands unused on the pantry shelf due to fear of it.

Mrs. Haak, specialist in canning from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Ky., suggests this method for housewives to familiarize themselves with the use of this valuable cooking and canning aid.

Put about a half-inch of water in the cooker, then fasten the top on securely and place over the fire. Leave the petcock open so that the steam will escape for about seven minutes through its small opening. Then close the petcock and watch the dial hand on the gauge go to 10 pounds. Remove from fire, let the dial hand swing to zero, then open petcock to let steam escape. Loosen the cover, lifting first the far edge. Mrs. Haak suggests that the housewife repeat this practice process several times, until she can handle the cooker without fear.

With the canning season at its height, the specialist emphasizes the need of using a pressure cooker for canning all vegetables, except tomatoes, and meats. It is also excellent for daily use in preparing foods requiring long cooking, such as navy beans, cereals, stews, ham, less tender cuts of meat and old hens.

Between 800 and 1,000 acres of corn along the Salt River in Bullitt county were destroyed or damaged by flood waters.

Verona Wins Over Bellevue 10-1; to Meet Queen City Chev.

The Verona Community Club won its second-round elimination series game Sunday by swamping Bellevue to the tune of 10 to 1, on the looser's grounds.

Verona had 10 runs, 15 hits, and made 2 errors. Elmo Steffen hurled the entire game for the winners. He allowed 5 hits, struck out 3, and walked 3, for his fifth win of the season. Baumann did the catching. Robinson and Brown each had three hits for Verona. The Baumann, Williamson and Hayes had two each.

Bellevue had 1 run, 5 hits and 2 errors. Lenhoff started for Bellevue and lasted three innings, as his pitching was no mystery to the Verona sluggers. He gave up 7 runs, 7 hits, struck out 1, walked 1 and hit one batter. Williamson finished and allowed 8 hits, 3 runs, and struck out one. Bradburn had 3 for 4 swings, to top Bellevue hitters. Demmon did the relieving.

The third game of the series will be played at Verona, Sunday, Aug. 21st, with Queen City Chevrolet furnishing the opposition. This is a vastly improved team and a good game is expected.

Skirt Softball Game Saturday for Playground Fund

The above picture is a sample of what people attending the Legion-Lions skirt softball game Saturday night will see. To obtain this picture and the story behind it, it was necessary to brave greater hazards than the wilds of Africa.

Left to right in the picture, you see: The present mound star, Looping Lillian, Lillian was reared in the hills of old Kaintuck, acquired her name from looping boulders over mountain ranges and bopping pesky tourists. Next to Lillian stands Phil, the dark and sinister French Morocco girl, who spent her younger days chasing the French Foreign Legion from one date tree to another. Next we find Lena, the Hyena, a gal from the far frozen regions. From all appearances she should have stayed there and froze. Last, but not least, we have Lucy, the Amazon, holding an oversize bat. She hails from the Amazon region of South America and has the strength of ten men (poor unfortunates).

These glamorous gals and their pals will tangle with the Lions on Saturday night, but I doubt if the Lions have any fear of them, for your reporter was afraid to even approach the Lions den, but sneaked around and discovered their lineup. Here 'tis:

Imogene "Legs" DeMolsey
Heda, the Hofer, Struve
Barbhouse Effie Taylor
Ina from China Worthington
Our Nell Glenn
Skinny Minnie Vest
Bossy Flossie Lusby
Dizzy Lizzie Breeden
Shady Sadie Breeden
Leona, the Savage, Yates
Myrtle, the Turtle, Fennell
Lazy Maizie Hall
Tillie, the Toller, Brewster.

The lineup for the Legion should read something like this:
Looping Lillian Ryan
South Seas Lula Howard
Powerful Katrinka Ryan

Knob Knead Alma Cluster
Phil Warner
Lucy, the Amazon, Veeneman
Gentle from Byzertie Robinson
Cross-eyed Aggie Robinson
Lena, the Hyena, Lemmons.
Coaches and umpires have been selected. Armor plating and guards with shotguns will be provided for their protection. We have been assured that the umpires' decision will be final (especially if it happens to go against Lucy, the Amazon).

So far thrills and spills galore, come out and see the "skirt" game. Don't forget the dance following. Here you may meet all these lovely stars of the diamond, have them sign your autograph books, and talk to them in person.

Also you may listen and dance to the sweet music of Jack Cahill and His Orchestra. Remember that all proceeds from the "skirt" game and the dance go to the Walton playground fund.

Gatoff-Maddox Nuptials Solemnized In Wyoming, Ohio

A lovely wedding took place recently when Miss Doris Gatoff, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Gatoff and the late Mr. Nicholas Gatoff, was united in marriage to Mr. Dwight L. Maddox, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Maddox, Sr., of Walton, at the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Roesch on Burns Ave., Wyoming, Ohio.

The Roesch home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with an improvised altar of ferns, white gladioli and candelabra in front of the mantel which formed a perfect setting for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. F. A. Johnson of the Reading-Lockland Presbyterian Church. The bride, attired in a gown of white lace and net and wearing a corsage of white orchids, entered to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, on the arm of her cousin, Mr. Earl Blicher of Middletown, Ohio, who gave her in marriage. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Ruth Gatoff, who wore a gown of aqua organza with a corsage of red roses. The best man was the groom's brother, John Maddox.

During the service, Miss Roush, accompanied by Miss Yost, both of the Conservatory of Music, provided the music. At the close of the ceremony Miss Roush sang, "The Lord's Prayer."

The groom's mother was attired in navy blue crepe, and his grandmother wore black and white crepe. The bride's mother wore a gown of green crepe. All three wore white rose corsages.

A reception was held and refreshments were served to approximately 65 guests. Early in the evening the bride, attired in a green suit with brown accessories, and the groom, in a tuxedo, were seen in the limousine for a short honeymoon in Chicago, and upon their return will reside in their newly furnished apartment on Ferguson Road.

Advertisers Lose to Fire Dept.; Ryan's, Legion, Trimmers Win

In last Thursday's softball play at the school grounds, Ryan Bros. defeated the Rotary Club 12-7 in a game that was close most of the way. And in the second contest of the evening, the American Legion ran rough-shod over the Lions Club to the tune of 22-3.

Tuesday evening, Verona and the Tree Trimmers engaged in one of the tightest games of the season, with the Trimmers coming through with the win 5-2. What might be termed an upset was staged in the second game when the Fire Dept. upset undefeated Advertisers by a 15-7 count.

Daniels-Pennington Wedding Solemnized Saturday, Aug. 13th

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Daniels, Verona Road, Walton, when their daughter, Avalon, was married to Mr. Marvin R. Pennington of Washington, D. C.

Rev. Burton Garrett officiated at the double ring ceremony, in the presence of the family and close friends. At the appointed hour Mrs. Bryan Reeder, Walton, played "Cavallaria" and "Rusticana." Miss Clemma Northcutt and Miss Gwen Slaughter sang, "Because," and "I Love You Truly." A reception followed.

The bride wore white silk with finger-tip veil and carried red roses. The bride's attendant was Miss Louise Pennington of Cincinnati, a sister of the groom. Best man was Mr. Blaine Daniels of Covington, a brother of the bride. Vernon Myers, Walton, a cousin of the bride, served as usher.

The bride is a graduate of Walton-Verona High School and has been employed by the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. for more than two years. The groom, also a graduate of the Walton-Verona High School, where he made his home with his aunt and uncle, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pennington. He is now employed by the U. S. Government in Washington, D. C.

After a short honeymoon, they will be at home, 5015 56th Avenue, Hyattsville, Maryland.

Highly Competitive Horse Show Expected At Ky. State Fair

The manager of the Kentucky State Fair Horse Show said today that the 1949 horse show at the Kentucky State Fair, Sept. 11-17, would be the most highly competitive show in the history of the event. The Manager, Thomas L. Clore, said entries were piling into the Horse Show office and that these indicated the largest list of exhibitors and horses since the Fair was founded.

Clore was gratified at the entries in the National Futurity which he declared would be the largest list since the futurity was established. Exhibitors, he said, could look forward to excellent accommodations in the way of barns and stables at the 1949 Fair since all of the stables space had been completely renovated and other facilities made available for show horse exhibitors.

The manager said the Horse Show would be held each night of the Fair starting Monday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p. m. Matinees are scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday starting at 1:30 p. m. He expects the largest array of exhibitors ever assembled in Kentucky and many who had shown previously but had dropped out of the show ring in recent years would return this year to the State Fair Horse Show Pavilion.

Singing, Shining

Lesson for August 21, 1949

EVERY ATOM of the universe, said Calvin, sparkles with the glory of God. That is our thought for this week: In the created universe we can see the God who is more wonderful than all his works. The selected Psalms express four different aspects of God's creative power. Psalm 8 brings out the dignity and the glory of man, made to be master of the earth; Psalm 19: 1-6 listens to the majestic music of sun and stars; Psalm 65:9-13 sees nature as a farmer sees it, in terms of sun, rain and crops; Psalm 104, one of the noblest poems in existence, celebrates God's glory in all things great and small.

Mystery
THESE inspired Psalmists saw a high truth: Nature is for man's use, in part, but has also a value, a beauty and a splendor all its own; and it is one of the ways by which we can know God. What is true of nature is true, far more, of the God who created all things. One of the thoughts suggested to their minds was the mystery of nature.

Even today, with all that science has discovered, there is mystery in the most elemental facts of existence. What is light? What is life? What is energy? Where did it come from and what is the destiny of it all?

A common grass blade performs miracles that chemistry has not yet initiated. The mystery of nature suggests the deeper mystery of nature's God.

Power

WE ARE beginning now to realize even better than the Psalmists could, how much energy there is in nature. We have seen tragic evidence of the atom's power. Now we have also found that while energy cannot be destroyed, it cannot be created by us, though it constantly changes form.

As the water in a power station which has run through a turbine will not climb back up to turn the turbine again, so the whole universe (they tell us) is in the process of running down.

But how was the universe born, how was energy born, in the first place? How was the universe, so to speak, wound up? Science does not profess to know; but religious answers by faith: In the beginning, God . . .

Beauty

THE writer of Psalm 104 was well aware that some parts of nature are useless to man; but he rejoiced in them none the less. Few of his neighbors had any use for whales, for example, but he takes delight in the whale (he calls him Leviathan) just playing in the ocean. St. Augustine, in the same mood, says somewhere about things like wasps and spiders that if we could forget that they bite, we would be greatly awed by their beauty and the perfection of their mechanism. Indeed, St. Augustine, in one of his prayers, calls God "Pulchritudo," Beauty. Just as God is The Truth and The Good, so he is The Beautiful.

Law

THE writers of these nature-Psalms (especially 19 and 65) were impressed by another fact about nature: its regularity. You can count on the sunrise, you always know which order the seasons will follow. Even things like earthquakes and tornadoes, which seem pretty unpredictable, follow laws of their own. Science has now shown this to be true on a cosmic scale. The stuff of which the farthest stars are made is just the same (only a lot hotter!) as the stuff in the rocks under your feet at this minute.

The laws that govern the fall of a leaf or the shape of raindrops are the same laws that can be seen in the whirling of star-dust fifty million light years away.

The Creator of all is not erratic, eccentric or capricious. He is the God of Law, for from his infinite Mind come all the patterns, known to us or yet unknown, by which the vast fabric of the universe is woven. Mystery, Power, Beauty, Law: All nature, not only the stars, shine with all these—and as Addison says, "Forever singing as they shine, The hand that made us is divine."

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

BRASS TACKS

What does a man mean when he says, "Let's get down to brass tacks"? He means that he thinks it's time to discuss the real issue.

And that's always a good idea! Nothing is gained by "beating around the bush." Wise men seek the issue . . . and settle it!

In America there are millions of people who attend and support the Church. There are other millions who do not. What is the real issue on which these two groups disagree?

This is the issue: Is man the self-sufficient master of his world, able to overcome every problem by his own strength . . . OR is man the noblest creation of an all-powerful God, weak in the face of life's turmoil when he stands alone, but strong when he joins heart and hand with God?

You're a man and you've seen something of life! Getting down to brass tacks . . . are you stronger WITH GOD or without?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dearly beloveds—There's more than meets the eye in the soft satin suits of today's informal bridal outfit.

Tomorrow it becomes a smart honeymoon suit that won't give the bride away even though the color is shimmering white.

But look what happens. She slips out of the short jacket and she's wearing a strap dress for sun-baked afternoons or formal evenings.

Bridesmaids also love them in pastel colors. They're so wearable after the wedding.

Memo to all brides.

Measure your waistline and tuck it away in your memory, along with a firm resolve to have it at fifty and to hold it to the present measurement.

You hair may turn gray and your face become lined but youthfulness remains or departs with your waistline.

For brides and grooms of former years the Queen Optical Company has rimless eyeglass frames. Many people still prefer them.

For a thorough, scientific eye-sight examination or eyeglass check-up, visit Queen Optical's air-cooled testing and fitting rooms at 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati. No appointment necessary. Frames repaired. Lenses replaced.

THE Best BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

Deserves THE Best FINANCING in the world!

There's no better, no more friendly source of long-term, low interest rate farm loans than the cooperative, farmer-owned system of national farm loan associations. It is through these associations that more than one million farmers have obtained Federal Land Bank loans. Every farmer who gets a Federal Land Bank loan becomes a member of his local national farm loan association. Only farmers can become members and only members can vote in the association affairs.

Yes, farming is the best business in the world. And, Federal Land Bank loans are the best financing in the world. They're first choice with farmers throughout the nation.

Remember this—there are no application fees, no appraisal fees, and no renewal commissions. So, protect your business, your future, and your family. Finance the farm you buy, or refinance debt you now have through your locally-owned, farmer-controlled national farm loan association with a long-term, 4 percent Federal Land Bank loan.

For your convenience, I will be at the Courthouse in Independence each Tuesday from 10 to 12 a. m.; at the Post Office in Falmouth each Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the old Recorder building in Burlington each Friday from 10 to 12 a. m., and at other times at my office in the Wigginton Building in Williamstown.

Crigler Demands A Recount In Primary

Retabulation To Start Saturday

Defeated for renomination by W. P. "Bill" McEvoy of Florence, John E. Crigler, county attorney of Boone county, has demanded a recount of the 3,277 votes in the Democratic primary of Aug. 9th.

Mr. McEvoy, who himself had been defeated by a very narrow margin in the previous Democratic primary by Mr. Crigler, won in the official totals by a 13-vote margin. The totals were 1,645 for Mr. McEvoy and 1,632 for Mr. Crigler, a resident of Hebron. Democratic primary victory is tantamount to election.

In granting the recount, which he will conduct, Judge Ward Yeager of Boone Circuit Court, set 9:00 a. m., Saturday as the time for the retabulation to begin.

He will name two election commissioners to aid him, as demanded late last Saturday by the losing incumbent.

The recount will be the first in Boone county history.

Mr. McEvoy is expected to represent himself in the recount, while Mr. Crigler will be represented by Earl R. King of Covington.

Training Classes Being Held by Kenton-co Homemakers

A series of training classes for officers and chairmen of the Kenton County Homemakers Association has been scheduled. These meetings will be given by Miss Zelma E. Byerly, Home Demonstration Agent, and by the county chairmen.

The presidents met recently and the second class in the series was held Aug. 24th for the publicity chairmen, with Mrs. Wm. R. Brown, county chairman, presiding.

Program chairmen and secretaries will have a meeting today (Aug. 25) training to be given by Miss Byerly.

Mrs. M. R. Hensley, county reading chairman, will conduct her class Friday, August 26th.

The citizenship goals and recommendations for the county will be made Monday, Aug. 29th, when Mrs. Geo. Miller, county chairman, meets with the club chairmen from 21 communities.

The last in the series will be given by Mrs. R. P. Matchett, September 8th for the community membership chairmen.

All meetings will be held in Covington at the Federal Building.

Religious Education Stressed

The need for emphasizing the importance of religious education grows more apparent every month. The influence of religion is essential in public as in private life.

Our entire social fabric, as well as our political coherence, is based upon the belief in a Divine Power. No matter what our creed, the fundamental motivation of Americans rests upon this belief.—Thomas E. Dewey, Governor, New York.

All too few fathers and mothers realize that their boys and girls must also be prepared for spiritual life in this world as well as for life in the world to come. Religious education of the young is as much the responsibility of parenthood as cultural education of their children.—Harvey S. Finestone, Jr., President, Florence Tire & Rubber Co.

The knowledge of and teaching of the philosophy of Jesus Christ as it is carried on by the Protestant church school is absolutely essential to preserve the world in any semblance of peace and harmony.—J. L. Kraft, President, Kraft Cheese Company.

Attend the church of your choice next Sunday, and every Sunday!

Air Show Saturday and Sunday, Boone County Airport

Popular interest in aviation is growing rapidly, according to officials of the Greater Cincinnati Airport, who are staging their Second Annual Air Show, Saturday and Sunday, August 27-28, an event expected to attract more than 60,000 people who saw last year's event. Principal popular attractions will be teams of jet fighters in intricate maneuvers at more than 500 miles an hour.

Vice President Alben W. Barkley indicated he will attend Saturday, if Congress adjourns in time to permit this flying here. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the U. S. Air Corps, will be guest of honor at the Sunday show.

The "Blue Angels," crack Navy exhibition team, flying Bearcat F-8s, fastest propeller-driven craft in the world, will demonstrate newest fighter techniques. One team of F-80 Shooting Stars from Chandler, Ariz., and another, the "Florida Roadsters," will perform each day. The Tennessee Air National Guard exhibition combat flying team, flying F-47 Thunderbolts, will come on from Memphis.

Parachute jumps, aerial comedy acts and a dive-bombing attack on the field by 30 planes will feature the daily 4-4-hour show. The world's most landing field—the top of a speeding automobile—will be used in landings and takeoffs by a light plane.

The shows will get under way at 2:00 p. m. daily (E. S. T.). Exhibits of guided missiles, captured German V-bombs and Jap kamikaze, or "Baka" bombs and other aviation developments will be displayed by the Air Force.

Three Persons Killed In Auto Accidents Over Past Weekend

Third Game Won by Verona In Elimination Series; Falmouth Next

Verona won their third game in the KAG Baseball League elimination series last Sunday by trouncing Queen City Chevrolet to the tune of 15-4 on the winners' grounds. Queen City had 4 runs, 2 hits and committed 2 errors. They pitched four and two-thirds innings, allowing 10 runs on 13 hits. He struck out one, walked four, hit one batter and made one balk. Simpson hurled the last three and one-third innings and allowed 7 hits, 5 runs, while striking out three and walking one. Baker and Lea divided the catching for the losers.

The Community Club had 15 runs, 20 hits and 2 errors. Mike Ryan was the starting hurler and worked seven innings. He allowed 2 hits and 4 runs, struck out 7 and walked 2, to be the winning pitcher. Bill Mumm worked two innings and gave up no hits, no runs, struck out none and hit one batter.

Bud Robinson was top clubber for Verona with two home runs, a triple and three bases on balls in six trips to the plate. He also scored four runs. Baumann had a 3-bagger and three singles for 4-for-5 on the day. Mike Ryan not only pitched an excellent game, but also 3-for-3 and scored three runs. Howard, regular catcher, had three hits, while Williamson had two safeties. Verona had a total of eight extra-base hits.

Walton and Falmouth were sent to the sidelines Sunday in the elimination series of the KAG loop, while Hudepohl and Grants Luck remained undefeated in the turnkey.

Falmouth suffered a surprising 6-1 setback at the hands of Constance, and Walton went out, 13-0 before the heavy bats of the Bob & Gene team at Florence.

Grants Luck, in remaining undefeated, saddled Aetna Oil with its first defeat, a 7-2 decision at Grants Luck park. Hudepohl, regular season champs, marked up their third successive victory, 8-4, over Schoenling at Martz Grove.

Verona drew the bye for Sunday, August 28th, but will not be idle as an exhibition game has been scheduled with Falmouth. The fray will be played at Verona and game time is 2:30 p. m.

A Word of Thanks

The dedication of the Walton Community Club, on Sunday, Aug. 14th was an event that should long be remembered by all the people of this town. The erection of such a building in a town the size of Walton should be a source of pride to the entire community, both because of the character building potentialities of such an institution as the church, and because of the beauty of the structure itself. It is to be hoped that the moral and spiritual contribution of the congregation will measure up to the adequacy and beauty of the material edifice.

This building, the pride of Walton, has been made possible by the virtuous faith, the patient planning, the generous giving of the members, plus the interested giving and the thoughtful remembrances of large numbers outside the membership of the church. To call the roll of this great number is impossible; it is enough that all these generous souls know that every token of their friendly cooperation is remembered with an unforgetting appreciation. You have helped build a church that should reflect the best possible in Christian worship, with its applications of a constructive and neighborly Christianity. So, to all my good friends, members and non-members near and far; Christians of whatever faith,—to all of you whose interest made this glorious day possible, I express in behalf of a grateful congregation, the warmth of a deep and sincere "Thank you"; and with Tiny Tim of Christmas Carol, "God bless us everyone."—Fred S. Nichols.

Katherine Scudder One of Victims

Three persons from this section were killed over the weekend in auto accidents. They were Mrs. Katherine Scudder of near Verona; Jacob Weldon of Warsaw, and John Jacob Vessing of near Demosville.

Mrs. Scudder was killed instantly in a head-on collision of two autos on Highway 42 near Beaver, Sunday afternoon.

The victim and her husband, Diver, 57, who was driving, were on their way to services at the Beaver Christian Church when the accident occurred.

State Trooper Gilbert said Mr. Scudder was attempting to turn off the road into the church driveway when their auto was struck by a car driven by James Briggs, 23, of Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

A witness told the trooper Mrs. Scudder was thrown from her car by the impact.

Mr. Scudder was reported in "fair" condition Monday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was being held for observation of possible internal injuries.

Mr. Weldon died early Sunday at Booth Hospital after being struck by an auto as he was crossing Highway 42 at Moon River Cade, near Warsaw, Saturday night. Mrs. Teresa Riffe, Kenton county coroner, said the victim died of multiple fractures.

State Trooper Edward Gilbert said the driver of the car was Carl Baker, 20, of London. He was acquitted of a technical charge of involuntary manslaughter in a preliminary hearing Sunday.

The officer said the driver told him he was unable to avoid hitting the farmer. He said Mr. Weldon stopped after walking into the middle of the road. The impact tossed the victim onto the hood of the car.

Mr. Vessing sustained a broken neck when his auto crashed head-on with a truck on Alexandria Pike just north of Alexandria, early Sunday. Coroner Lee Sauter of Campbell county, said the victim was hurled through the windshield.

A technical charge of manslaughter was placed against Coy Burton, 26, of Eubanks, Ky., driver of the truck, who escaped with head cuts. Harvey Blevins, also of Eubanks, owner of the truck, was hurled clear of the mishap and escaped with only minor bruises.

Donald Orr, 18, also of near Demosville, riding with Mr. Vessing, suffered head cuts and bruises.

FARM NEWS

SOIL TESTS MADE BY EXPERIMENT STATION

On soil samples properly taken and marked, the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington will make chemical tests for (1) degree of soil acidity, (2) content of available phosphorus and (3) content of available potassium. These tests indicate whether the soil needs lime and phosphate and potash fertilizers.

No test will be made for available nitrogen, because the content of nitrogen in the soil changes rapidly. How much nitrogen a soil will furnish to a crop can be fairly well judged from recent manurings and croppings.

Because of the large amounts of fertilizers or manure usually applied to gardens and the relatively low cost of manuring and fertilizing these small areas, testing garden soil generally is of little value.

In some counties a laboratory is maintained under the supervision of the county agent for making soil tests. Farmers living in such counties should have their soil tested in the local laboratory. In other counties, farmers should see their county agent about information which should accompany the samples sent to the Lexington laboratories.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS TO HAVE PROMINENT PART IN STATE FAIR

Members of 4-H clubs from all over the state will have a prominent part in the 46th annual Kentucky State Fair, Sept. 11-17. In addition to exhibiting livestock, canned and baked foods, clothing and other products of their work, several hundred 4-H boys and girls will enter livestock judging contests.

A large number of Jersey, Holstein, Guernsey and Brown Swiss dairy cattle will be exhibited by 4-H'ers, with a prize list totaling several thousand dollars. A feature of the awards will be a trophy given by Harry F. Walters, state commissioner of agriculture, to the boy or girl scoring highest in a showmanship contest.

Members of 4-H clubs also will show hogs, sheep and chickens. In addition to competing in the 4-H show, many of them will enter animals in the open classes.

Teams of specially trained 4-H club boys and girls from about 100 counties will take part in the livestock judging contest at the State Fair. They will judge fat cattle, hogs and sheep, chickens and dairy cattle. The winning team in the fat stock judging contest will receive a trophy from the Bourbon Stock Yards Company; the top team in the dairy cattle contest, the Ewing von-Allen Dairy Company trophy, and the best team judging chickens, a trophy from the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association.

The 4-H girls will have their usual displays of canned vegetables, fruits, meats, jams and jellies, clothing and room furnishings. These exhibits will be in the Poultry Building.

Several strawberry growers in Jefferson county who have grown the premier variety for years, are changing to Tennessee Beauties and Tennessee Shippers.

George Dearen of Taylor county said Ladino clover supports more hogs per acre than any other pasture he has used.

The Union County Fair was held Aug. 2-5, the first such event for more than 20 years.

For Your Information

To carry out findings of an Emergency Board appointed by the President of the United States under the National Railway Labor Act, the nation's railroads necessarily agreed with the Non-Operating Railway Labor Unions to establish a 5-day-40-hour work week effective September 1, 1949.

This will require the closing on Saturdays and Sundays of many freight stations and offices heretofore open to the public—on the Southern as well as on all other railroads throughout the country—so that employees generally may be given two consecutive days off each week. Under the settlement, the employees will receive for five days' work the equivalent of wages formerly paid for six days' work.

President Truman's Emergency Board points out that the shorter work week is in keeping with the increasing trend in industry, banking and business generally.

For the railroad industry, which must keep the trains running day and night every day in the week, the change will create many difficult problems. The Southern, with your whole-hearted co-operation and sympathetic understanding, pledges to make the changeover with the least possible inconvenience to the public.

can be found by drilling. These surveys usually are accurate, Prof. Holmes said.

A cistern can be made big enough to furnish water for the house and farm yards, according to Prof. Holmes, but pastures should have ponds, if the soil will hold water.

The size of a cistern is determined by the size of the roof draining into it and by the number of persons and animals on the farm. Effort should be made to have 40 gallons of water a day a person, 40 gallons a cow or horse and six gallons for 500 chickens, Prof. Holmes said. A family of six persons with three milk cows and 500 chickens would need a cistern holding about 12,000 gallons.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN
International Union School Lessons
SCRIPTURE: Psalms 119:1-14; 105; 119.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 1:1-9.

God's Map for Me

Lesson for August 28, 1949

HOW did the writers of the Bible think about the Bible? We can get part of the answer by looking at our Psalms for this week. These poets already possessed a part of our Bible: the Law, some historical books, perhaps some of the Prophets. It was an incomplete Bible they had—but they loved it.

They did not think of it or use it in some of the mistaken ways you may find some people thinking of the Bible today. They did not think it was enough to read a line or two before going to bed every night. They did not think that having a copy of it around would bring good luck, or scare off demons. They said nothing about the Bible's being great literature. Dr. Foreman They were not at all bothered by miracle stories in Scripture; they believed them, and took them as evidences of the mighty power of God (see Psalm 105). They did not look on the Bible as chiefly a dictionary of Don'ts. They did not think of it as a Sabbath book, but rather as an everyday one. It did not strike them as a book of mystery.

The Psalmist's Bible

IN reading Psalm 119:7-14, it is interesting to see how many different things the Psalmist says about the Word of God. He calls it by various names, but that is only because, being a poet, he likes to use several words for the same thing. As for Psalm 105, where else but in his Bible would the poet have learned that story of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph and the deliverance from Egypt?

The reader of this Psalm will observe that the subject of most of the sentences is GOD. As the poet reviews his people's history, he shows that it is not simply the doings of the Israelites, but it is God who brings things to pass.

"Man proposes but God disposes" is a proverb which the writer of Psalm 119 would approve. Psalm 119 is known as an "alphabetical" or "acrostic" poem. It is divided into 22 sections, each one exactly eight verses long. There are 22 letters in the Hebrew alphabet, and in the Hebrew original of this Psalm each verse of the first section begins with the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet; in the next section, Beth, and so on down to the last letter, Tau.

The Book of God
WHAT the writers of these Psalms said about the partly-done Bible of their times is of course even more true of the completed Bible which is our heritage as Christians. One thing they make clear is that this is first of all God's book. They knew as well as we do that different human minds had a part of it, but for all that it is always God whose message comes through what they wrote. The Bible, properly understood, reveals the mind of God and the will of God. The Bible reveals also the doings of God. His story is the weaving of God's eternal decrees on the looms of time. Again, these poets see that the Bible is for man and about man.

None of them thought of it as a guide to heaven, but rather as a road map or to guide us through the mazes of this world. Psalm 119 stresses this world, and no other, as the world on which God's light shines.

The commandments of God are so many lengths of barbed wire to fence us in, rather road-signs to guide us on life's open highway. The Bible presents the "How" of living. It is God's map for me.

The Bible in the Heart
THE SENTENCE: "Thy word have I hid in my heart" (Psalm 119:11) is the clue to the right use of the Bible. When a Hebrew writer says "heart" he means something more than mere emotion. The word means character, what a man really is. A young Korean was learning the Sermon on the Mount, but making slow work of it.

When a missionary asked him about it, the boy said, "I have to be slow. First I learn a verse, then I go out and live it. I can learn the words in a few minutes; but it takes longer than that to live it."

That is the right idea. One verse, translated into living, is worth more than a chapter that never gets deeper in than the edge of the brain.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

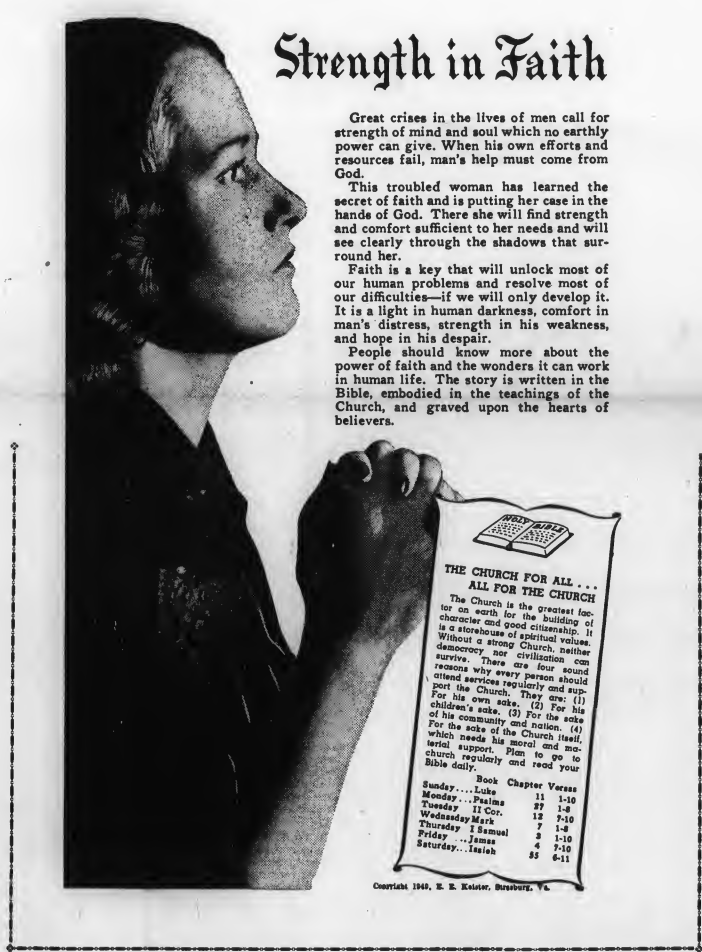

Strength in Faith

Great crises in the lives of men call for strength of mind and soul which no earthly power can give. When his own efforts and resources fail, man's help must come from God.

This troubled woman has learned the secret of faith and is putting her case in the hands of God. There she will find strength and comfort sufficient to her needs and will see clearly through the shadows that surround her.

Faith is a key that will unlock most of our human problems and resolve most of our difficulties—if we will only develop it. It is a light in human darkness, comfort in man's distress, strength in his weakness, and hope in his despair.

People should know more about the power of faith and the wonders it can work in human life. The story is written in the Bible, embodied in the teachings of the Church, and graven upon the hearts of believers.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of a character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

You can be Charming
by Marsha Wheeler

Both the shape and shade of things are fashion news. Bold new silhouettes and high fashion-y colors take to the summer highways, the beaches, the farms and lakes.

Before you decide on that pair of slacks, glimpse your shape in a full length mirror. A full, billowy skirt will add more allure than a peck of pants.

If money is the root of all evil, I'd like mine with a king-sized root.

Seriously, money is not necessary to your charm. More important is the sparkle in your eyes, the eagerness in your heart, your talent for graceful living.

"Calabar" is the name of Queen Optical Company's smart, new sun glasses. One pair of shell frames is white edged with green. Another pair is gay in red and white. Some are boldly striped, some exquisitely gold trimmed. All safely guard your eyesight against glare.

Queen Optical also has sun-glasses in children's sizes, styled like the grown-ups. Bring your family to Queen Optical for complete eyesight service. No appointment is necessary. 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati.

The average yield of Vigo wheat in Hickman county was 32 bushels to the acre, a record seldom equaled before.

LEGION AUXILIARY

With all membership records broken, the American Legion Auxiliary will go into its national convention in Philadelphia, Aug. 29th to Sept. 1 with the greatest strength in its history. Mrs. Frances Lemmons, President of Johnson-McElroy Unit of the Auxiliary, has announced.

Last year's record enrollment of 960,000 was passed early in August making the Auxiliary by far the largest women's organization of its kind in the world. New units of the Auxiliary have been organized in 676 communities during the past year, giving the organization a total of 13,205 local units.

Advance enrollment of members for 1950 is beginning this month, and it is predicted a strength of 1,000,000 will be reached during the coming year. Let's do our part to help reach the one million mark. Membership dues are payable now, so everyone interested is asked to contact Mrs. Lemmons or any member for any desired information.—Aux. Pub. "It's not our hat!"

The Southern Railway doesn't pass the hat for your tax dollars.

Other forms of commercial transportation use highways, airports and waterways that are built and maintained with your tax dollars—and ours.

But railroads are strictly on their own. Every penny they spend to build and maintain their own steel "highways" comes right out of the railroads' pockets—not yours.

We're glad we are not in the "hat-passing" class. We prefer to stand on our own financial feet in the old-fashioned American way. And we believe that if there were no hat-passers in the transportation business it would be better for you and for all America.

FARMERS COOPERATE IN FIRE INSURANCE

Eighteen farmers' cooperative fire insurance companies in Kentucky had a membership of 39,477 property owners in 1946, says a new bulletin of the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, called "Farmers' Cooperative Fire Insurance Companies in Kentucky."

That year farmers paid $624,913 in assessments and received $268,345 for losses. Throughout their history these 18 companies had received a total of $12,026,000 in assessments and returned to members $7,306,000.

"Many cooperative associations have been organized by farmers in Kentucky, but few have given such continued service and saving and received so little public attention as fire insurance companies," says the bulletin.

In 1945, Kentucky farmers had about 600 million dollars invested in farm buildings, machinery and livestock, in addition to investment in household furnishings and contents of farm buildings other than machinery or livestock.

"In most farmers' management plans it is, therefore, an important item to see that their investments in insurable property are adequately and inexpensively protected from loss by fire, wind and lightning," it is noted.

Robert Sanger of Fulton county estimates that he will average 110 bushels of corn on 150 acres.

THE Best BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

Deserves THE Best FINANCING in the world!

There's no better, no more friendly source of long-term, low interest rate farm loans than the cooperative, farmer-owned system of national farm loan associations. It is through these associations that more than one million farmers have obtained Federal Land Bank loans. Every farmer who gets a Federal Land Bank loan becomes a member of his local national farm loan association. Only farmers can become members and only members can vote in the association affairs.

Yes, farming is the best business in the world. And, Federal Land Bank loans are the best financing in the world. They're first choice with farmers throughout the nation.

Remember this—there are no application fees, no appraisal fees, and no renewal commissions. So, protect your business, your future, and your family. Finance the farm you buy, or refinance debt you now have through your locally-owned, farmer-controlled national farm loan association with a long-term, 4 percent Federal Land Bank loan.

For your convenience, I will be at the Courthouse in Independence each Tuesday from 10 to 12 a. m.; at the Post Office in Falmouth each Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the old Recorder building in Burlington each Friday from 10 to 12 a. m., and at other times at my office in the Wigginton Building in Williamstown.

Revival At Walton Christian Church Sept. 25-Oct. 9

Now that the beautiful new building of the Christian Church has been erected and dedicated in a glorious victory, the members are looking forward to a revival meeting, which has long been planned by the board and voted on by the congregation. It was recognized from the beginning that a church building is for the purpose of aiding in developing the spiritual, and that in the development of the spiritual both religious education and evangelism are essential. So the purpose of the meeting is to help individuals and the community as a whole to awaken to the richest and most permanent values in life. The meetings will stress with enthusiastic emphasis the fundamental values of the Christian religion, and always with a humble and dignified courtesy that recognizes that we are all pilgrims on the road to larger truth.

The congregation is fortunate in the evangelist called to lead in this meeting. A minister of the pastoral touch; an evangelist with a soul winning passion; a speaker of persuasive power; a personality of drawing attractiveness; a worker of cooperative spirit; a character of devoted Christian life, such is the evangelist who comes to bless the church and the community. This evangelist is Reverend Lee Davis Fisher, pastor of the Christian Church at Somerset, Ky. Those who know Mr. Fisher will look forward to the renewal of their friendship with him. Those who have not met him have a rare privilege in store.

The music for this series of meetings will be in charge of Mr. James Spencer, who will lead at the new organ and direct the large chorus. Those who know of Mr. Spencer's musical talent—and who should not know of it by now—will realize the inspiration to be derived from the ministry of music in these services.

Remember the time of the meeting: SEPTEMBER 25 TO OCTOBER 9.—Fred S. Nichols.

LILLIAN G. CORBIN

Miss Lillian G. Corbin, daughter of Lewis and Mary Harrison Corbin, was born in Boone County, in 1867. Her childhood was spent in this locality, her last Kentucky home being in Union, where she resided with her parents until she began her teaching career. When she was about 12 years of age she united with Richmond Presbyterian Church, originally organized by her grandfather, Rev. Joseph Cabell Harrison. At a later date she joined the Union Presbyterian Church, being one of the charter members.

For about 25 years Miss Corbin taught in the Boone County schools, and also for several years in Newport, at the end of which time she secured a position in the United States Treasury Department in Washington, D. C. This government position she held for 16 years, until her health failed and she was compelled to give up her work. After a long illness, she passed away at the Washington Sanatorium and Hospital, August 26, 1949.

Miss Corbin's sufferings were borne without complaint. She retained her wonderfully bright mind and her wholesome sense of humor, thereby radiating cheer for those about her as long as she lived. Wherever she went she was loved and respected.

The recount was demanded by the incumbent, John E. Crigler, Hebron, who lost the election in the original count by 13 votes. The totals were 1645 for Mr. McEvoy and 1637 for Mr. Crigler.

The retabulation was completed Saturday under supervision of Judge Ward Yager, Boone Circuit Judge, in the Burlington Courthouse.

Verona Community Club To Meet On Tuesday, Sept. 6

A special business meeting of the Verona Community Club has been called for all members, as there will be some important business to come before the group, Tuesday, Sept. 6 at 8:00 p. m.

According to club president, Bill Strougless, a near record if not a record has been established in the quilt raising department operated by Stanley Fooks. Mr. Fooks successfully raised 81% of quilt from one day old chicks to liberation age, as established by the State Wild Life Department. This is quite an achievement, for even Mr. Fooks, who is an authority on wild life and poultry raising. He also knows his way around the river bank with a casting rod.

It is hoped that as much protection as possible be given all quilt liberated, as the club is interested in building up the quail stock in this locality.

Hughes Chapel WSCS

Mrs. Bee Kie delightfully entertained the W. S. C. S. of Hughes Chapel on the afternoon of Aug. 16. Mrs. Theima Baker conducted the meeting. After prayer and singing Mrs. Valls Hill took charge of the program and read a very interesting and instructive letter she had received from Rev. Pat Johnson and wife, who are missionaries in Africa. They told of how anxious the natives are to hear the gospel, and the great need for more missionaries.

The meeting adjourned to meet for an all day meeting with Mrs. Mary Allen in September.

Delicious refreshments were served to sixteen visitors and members. Rev. Valls Hill is conducting interesting lessons on the Women of the Bible every Thursday night at Hughes Chapel. All are invited.—Pub. Chr.

What Is Justice?

Lesson for September 4, 1949

EVERYBODY is in favor of justice but not everybody knows what justice is. Justice is more fundamental than democracy. If we believe that democracy is the best form of government, it is only because we believe that justice can be better secured in this way than in any other.

Justice is as old as God

Since for at least 3,000 years historians, politicians, philosophers and theologians have been wrangling over the meaning of justice, you won't learn the last word about it merely by studying one Sunday school lesson. But this is the place to remind ourselves that justice as an ideal, and democracy as a means of reaching that ideal, were not born yesterday.

Labor Day will recall the great services rendered to democracy by the organized workers of the world, for example, in the push they have given to free and universal education. But democracy is older than the labor movement, is older than July 4, 1776, is older than the Magna Charta, is older than the Roman empire, in which one of many mottoes was "Let justice be done even if the sky caves in."

Justice and democracy go back to the ancient Hebrews, the people who wrote the Old Testament. It was written in their laws, preached by their prophets, living in their Psalms. But of course they did not invent it. They proclaimed it; but justice is older than the human race.

The whole Bible and not only the Old Testament teaches that justice is rooted in the nature of God himself. No unjust person can be called godly.

Songs of Justice
OUR Psalms for this week give us some valuable light on what justice is. Some people think that if everybody were rich, that would be justice. Psalm 49 shows how foolish that notion is. It says: "Almost so many words, 'You can't take it with you.'"

Riches do not spell happiness. Making everybody rich might make more than people miserable. Money by itself does not cure the ills of life. It may make them worse or even create new ones. Many a family in the "upper brackets" has troubles that would vanish if they had less money.

Psalms 72 and 82 give us more positive suggestions. Psalm 72 sees it as the king's main duty to judge the people with righteousness and justice. The king was the government, in those days; he was the executive and the legislative and the judicial branch of government all rolled into one. In modern terms, the business of government is something more than furnishing police to lock up and punish wrongs after they have been done.

The welfare of the people is the concern of government. When public officials take any other view of their job, they are off the beam. In a democracy, the government is the people, that is to say, ourselves. If things are bad we are to blame for it; if they are going to be any better, we shall have to work for it. Every appeal to a king, in the Old Testament, when translated into terms of a democratic country, means an appeal to the people.

The Little People
JUSTICE always has to be concerned with the little people. It was true in the simple little world of the ancient Hebrews, it is just as true in our global complex world, that the strong will always exploit the weak if there is not a hand to stop them.

God is always for the "poor," the "children of the needy," and he is always against the "oppressor." In ancient Israel the oppressor was usually the big landowner who treated his slaves with cruelty or underpaid his workers. Nowadays the oppressor is any exploiter, any man or group of men who will use power to squeeze out or crush down the little man.

But justice is positive, not negative, prevention and not cure only. Concern for social justice includes taking care of people laid low by an epidemic or made homeless by fires; but it goes far beyond this. It will mean working for conditions such that no one will be forced to live in unsanitary firetraps.

The Worker and His Job -

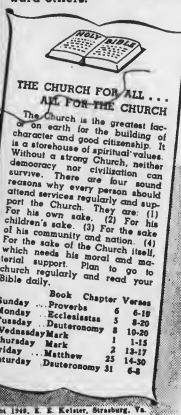

Why does American industry stand pre-eminent among the industrial systems of the world? One reason is the quality and character of the American worker.

He is not a beaten, frustrated individual with a sour and cynical outlook on life. He is a man of hope, of plans, of interests. He knows that he has a big stake in industry and in a free and democratic government.

The American worker is not a slave of industry; neither is he the slave of an oppressive government which practices forced labor. He is a free man, secure in his rights, safe in his home, respected by his neighbors.

The American worker believes in God and inherits a religious tradition. He is the backbone of his Church and a strong supporter of civic morality and righteousness. He has faith in God, faith in men, faith in America.

This is the simple story behind America's industrial supremacy. She excels because her people believe in God and right and honest work, in peace and goodwill toward others.

Mrs. Daisy Richardson and Miss Helen visited in and around Lexington, one day the past week.

This community was saddened on Friday morning by news of the death of Mrs. Emma Borkers at Booth Hospital. She had been ill for several months and was tenderly cared for by her sister, Miss Minnie Rapp. She was removed to the hospital in the last hours in hopes of lessening the intense pain. Born Nov. 4, 1867, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rapp. Converted at an early age, she became a member of Staffordsburg church, where she continued faithful to the end. No trivial thing could keep her from her church. She has been the teacher of the women's class in the Sunday school for many years and also was president of the Woman's Missionary Society. On Jan. 6, 1904 she was united in marriage to Thomas Borkers and to this union were born two daughters, Mrs. Minnie Dannon and Mrs. Mary Rice. It is a sin to mourn for one who has lived so long and so well—death to such is only a promotion to a better world. She will, though, be sadly missed by her husband, two daughters, six grandchildren and one great-granddaughter, two brothers, L. J. and J. C. Rapp, one sister, Miss Minnie Rapp, many nieces and nephews and a host of friends and neighbors. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord," and we should "weep not as those who have no hope."

Summer snapshots can be devastating to charm. Be prepared for the vacation photographer. Remember these things when the photo hobbyist says "Let me take your picture".

Stand straight for a picture. Lift your chin. Turn your face slightly away from the camera. Ask the taker to say "when" or "now" just before he snaps the picture.

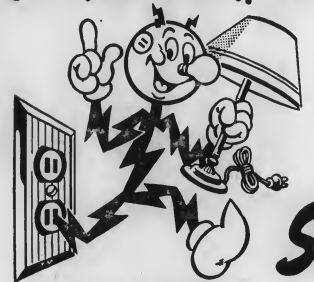

If the light is blinding, keep your eyes lowered until he speaks the cue word, then lift them and smile. Stand with your feet together. If sitting, cross your legs at the knees and turn them at an angle away from the camera. If taken at close range, remove your glasses lest a highlight hit the lenses. Taken at 8 to 8 feet you can leave your glasses on. The habitual picture your face makes is more charming

BACK TO SCHOOL

SCHOOL bells will be ringing soon and it's time to get your children ready for their annual trek back to the classrooms. New books, new clothes and new school supplies are important, but don't forget about better light for home study.

Plenty of good light is needed to prevent eyestrain, fatigue and drowsiness that lead to poor grades in school. See that the lamp your child uses for home study is equipped with bulbs totaling at least 100 watts, and that it is well-shaded to prevent glare. Better light means better grades!

Here's Ideal Light for Home Study

Home work's easy with a Better Sight Table Study Lamp like this. Its wide-angle shade and extra-tall standard spread light over a wide area. Its white glass diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare. Equipped with a 150-watt bulb it provides plenty of light and the right kind of light for safer, easier seeing.

THE Best BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

Deserves THE Best FINANCING in the world!

There's no better, no more friendly source of long-term, low interest rate farm loans than the cooperative, farmer-owned system of national farm loan associations. It is through these associations that more than one million farmers have obtained Federal Land Bank loans. Every Federal Land Bank loan becomes a member of his local national farm loan association. Only farmers can become members and only members can vote in the association affairs.

Yes, farming is the best business in the world. And, Federal Land Bank loans are the best financing in the world. They're first choice with farmers throughout the nation.

Remember this—there are no application fees, no appraisal fees, and no renewal commissions. So, protect your business, your future, and your family. Finance the farm you buy, or refinance debt you now have through your locally-owned, farmer-controlled national farm loan association with a long-term, 4 percent Federal Land Bank loan.

For your convenience, I will be at the Courthouse in Independence each Tuesday from 10 to 12 a. m.; at the Post Office in Falmouth each Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the old Recorder Building in Burlington each Friday from 10 to 12 a. m., and at other times at my office in the Wigginton Building in Williamstown.

INDEPENDENCE R. 1

The many friends and neighbors in this community were very sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Thomas Borkers, which occurred at Booth Hospital early Friday morning. She was born and reared in this community. After her marriage to Mr. Borkers they bought the W. T. Loomis farm near the Staffordsburg church and have lived on the farm some 40 years or more. Mrs. Borkers was one of the most faithful members of Staffordsburg Church and Sunday school and she will be sadly missed in her church, as well as in her home. Her funeral was held at the Staffordsburg Methodist Church, Monday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation of sorrowing relatives, friends and neighbors, after which her body was laid to rest in the Independence Cemetery. The church and community extend their heartfelt sympathy to all the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Giles and family spent the past week on a vacation trip in the southern part of Kentucky and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barnett spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Roy Martin of Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pruett entertained for dinner Sunday, the latter's mother, Mrs. L. N. Hoffman, and her aunt, Mrs. Sophronia Mills. Misses Wavilyn Riley and Wanda Williams spent the weekend with their cousin of Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brooks of Colorado spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. L. M. Deuser and husband last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tieman and children are visiting the latter's parents in Houston, Texas. Jess Rapp of McGee, Ark., was called home on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. Emma Borkers. We are very glad to learn our pastor, Rev. John Wheary, was sent back on the Visalia charge for another year. There will be services at Staffordsburg, Sunday morning and evening at the usual hour, 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Let's all come and stand by our pastor, united we stand, divided we fall, unless we all work together in love, we can not build much for the kingdom of God. Parents, come and bring the children to Sunday School. We need you and you need us. Sunday School 10 a. m. All come praying for a good year for our Master. Everyone is welcome.

FARMERS PRAISE FESCUE AND CLOVER

Fescue and Ladino clover have proved their worth to many farmers in McCreary county, according to G. D. Corder, county agent. For example, W. O. Gilreath, dairyman, after observing fescue on his farm for three years and Ladino clover for two, said "No grass will withstand better heavy, close grazing and dry weather, and set a heavier and more even sod than fescue; Ladino clover is a god-send. I have found nothing that will recover from close grazing more quickly in dry weather than Ladino clover." J. G. Kidd of Pine Knot observed a small fescue demonstration for two years, then last fall he seeded 100 pounds. This spring he seeded another 100 pounds, and has since placed an order for 100 pounds more for seeding this fall. Another farmer who was skeptical of fescue is T. Chitwood of Pine Knot. After watching it for three years on his own farm, he is now convinced of its superior qualities.

Verona Wins From Bob & Gene, 6-2; Play at Ross, Sun.

The Verona-Bob & Gene contest, rained out last Sunday, was played Labor Day at Florence, with the Community Club copping the victory 6 to 2. Verona is now the only team in the KAG league without a loss in the elimination series, while Bob and Gene now has two losses.

Mike Ryan pitched the entire game for Verona, and was master of the situation at all times. This youngster, who now has 5 wins and no losses in KAG competition, gave up but three hits, good for two runs. He struck out two, walked three, hit one batter and made one wild pitch. Baumann did the receiving. Three double plays by the winners aided their cause greatly.

Brown was the big gun with the stick. He had two doubles and a single. Williamson had two hits and drove in two runs. Alexander and Robinson each had doubles, and Hayes came through with a single to drive home a run. Verona had 6 runs, 8 hits and 2 errors.

Mignery hunted for B. & G. and gave up 8 hits, 6 runs, struck out 2, hit one batter and walked 4. The losers had 2 runs, 3 hits, 2 errors.

Kilmer, Sebree and Stan Arzine each had a single for the home nine.

Play Friday Night in Covington
Verona plays Hopedale Beer, Friday night at the Covington Ball Park at 8:00 in a Times-Star tourney game. This is expected to be a top-notch game.

Walton-Verona Schools to Open Monday, Sept. 12th

"Oh, happy day—come Monday! School starts!" However, we never heard a youngster use such an expression, and probably never will, but nevertheless, the Walton-Verona schools start Monday, Sept. 12th.

One member of the high school faculty is yet to be hired, but the following are to be on hand: Supr. H. P. Baker, Principal Mrs. H. P. Baker, Coach Charles Hayes, Mrs. John A. Meador, and George Houston. In the grade school at Walton, teachers are Miss Smith, Miss Elsie Chandler, Mrs. Zella Walton, and Mrs. George Houston. In the Verona school, Ed Chipman will again be principal, with Mrs. Joe Rouse and a man and wife, whose names we were unable to get, will round out the faculty.

Bus To State Fair, Tue.

On Tuesday, Sept. 13th, which is Farmer's Day at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville, there will be a Greyhound bus go from Florence to the fair grounds, provided a full passenger load can be secured. This chartered bus is being sponsored by the Boone County Farm Bureau in an attempt to make it possible for as many Boone county folk as can to be in attendance on this day at the fair.

The bus will leave Florence, Tuesday morning about seven-thirty o'clock, E. S. T., and can pick up passengers as it proceeds down Highway 42.

If you are interested in going to the fair with a host of your Boone county friends and neighbors on this bus, contact immediately Mildred King Taylor by calling Walton 582. Why bother with parking and the responsibility of driving—go the out-of-town way—on a chartered bus, and chat with your friends.

Annals On Sale Monday

1949 Annals of Walton-Verona High School will be available at the school house on Monday, Sept. 12th at $2.00 per copy. If you want one of these books, don't forget your $2.

Bill Scroggin On Board of Directors

The Fifth District State Park Association was organized formally last Friday night with election of officers and directors, attended by 60 interested leaders of the project, to promote a state park in the northern Kentucky area.

Meeting at the Covington-Kenton County Chamber of Commerce, those present chose John E. Murphy, president of the Fifth District Federation of Kentucky Sportsmen, as the permanent chairman.

Mr. Murphy, of Seismic Drive, Mt. Allen, will be aided by Ben Zimmer of Florence, as secretary, and by a board of directors, including E. R. Mitchell, president of the Covington-Kenton County Chamber of Commerce, and John Orphan, Commander of Norton-Barnes Post American Legion, representing Kenton county; Russell Stevens and Clarence Craig, Campbell county; William E. Scroggin, Verona, Boone county; Merrill Morris, Williamstown, Grant county; Kinsey Plummer, Pendleton county; and R. G. Adams, Warsaw, Gallatin county. Trimble and Carroll counties were not represented at the meeting, but it was believed they would have representatives on the board at a later date.

Carl Ruh, newly elected state representative from Kenton county, suggested that the new officers prepare a prospectus of possible sites for submission to state authorities.

It was announced that Henry Ward, state commissioner of parks, would visit northern Kentucky to discuss with the board the local area's hopes of obtaining a state park. The board in turn would report back to the new association at a meeting set for 8:00 p. m., Sept. 15th at the Chamber of Commerce, Covington.

Funds for carrying on the work necessary to push the park plan may be sought through donations from local fiscal courts and municipalities, it was decided.

BUYING A FARM THROUGH F.H.A.

Buying a farm is one of the most important decisions a lot of folks ever make, and since paying for a farm may be a lifetime proposition, it is well for a family to consider all the things that will affect their farm's value in the future as well as now. For example, a family wants to be sure the farm they get will give them a good living, pay its taxes, insurance, and upkeep their cars; allow for savings for the sure-to-come rainy days, and pay off indebtedness within a reasonable length of time.

Under the Farm Ownership Plan of the Farmers Home Administration loans are made to tenants, sharecroppers, veterans, and others, to buy such sound-value farms. Loans are not made to buy inflated-value farms. Farms are bought on the basis of their long-term normal earning capacity, so they will pay out even if a period of lower prices occurs.

The Government's "farm ownership program" is now in its twelfth year. Since 1937, about 60,000 farm families in this country have purchased farms, or developed inadequate farms, through supervised credit from the Farmers Home Administration. Of that number, more than 13 are in Boone County.

Chairman of the Boone County Committee is William Hill of Burlington. The other two members are Lamar H. Congleton and Bert Loomis.

Applications for such loans may be made at the F.H.A. office located upstairs in the Courthouse at Millamstown, or at the Burlington office in the Courthouse, each Tuesday morning.

SAYS BORAX HELPS KEEP ALFALFA GREEN

A green strip of carpet stretched across a yellow field was the way Farm Agent J. W. Kidwell of White county described the results of using borax on the field of Fred Mayfield of Woodbine. Last fall Mr. Mayfield spread borax on his alfalfa at the suggestion of the county agent. This spring, the field was stunted and yellow, except for that strip where the borax had been used. Mr. Mayfield has since applied borax to the entire field, and it is the same color all over. In many sections of the county, farmers are finding this plan successful.

Paul D. Cornest of Casey county has an acre of Kenland clover that produced 108 pounds of seed at the first cutting, instead of 108 bushels, as stated last week.

Jesus and the Psalms

Lesson for September 11, 1949

SOME parts of the Old Testament Jesus never once mentioned. Others he quoted again and again. Could this be because some parts were more helpful to him than others? At any rate, the Psalms were one section of his Bible which he often quoted.

Worship

ONE Use Jesus made of the Psalms was in public worship. Whenever he went to the Temple he would join in singing or in listening to the great choirs singing these ancient hymns. Many of our own best-loved hymns, while not direct translations, are based on Psalms. For example, "Still, Still With Thee" is from Psalm 101; "God Is My Strong Salvation" from Psalm 27; "The King of Love" from Psalm 23; "O Worship the King" from Psalms 104.

In private worship also we know Jesus used the Psalms. One of the Hebrew names for them was "The Book of Prayers," and Jesus, like many another who has loved these Psalms, found in them the natural expression of what was deepest in his heart when he turned toward his Father in heaven.

A striking proof of this comes from the story of Calvary. The cry, "My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" is a quotation from Psalm 22:1, and "Into thy hands I commend my spirit" is from Psalm 31:5.

Thus, two out of three prayers he uttered in his last moments were from the Psalms. So the reader today, pondering in a quiet moment these immortal poems, either from the printed book or better yet, as Jesus did, from the treasures of memory, may often find in them prayers which seem breathed from his own mind and to which he need only say, Amen.

Truth about God
JESUS also found in the Psalms a revelation of truth. It would be too much to say that Jesus derived his ideas of God from the Psalms. But certainly some of the great teachings about God which we hear from Jesus we can read already in the Psalms.

Jesus did not use the Psalms stupidly, of course. He would never have supposed that he could take just any sentence about God out of some Psalm or other, and quote it as the last word about God.

For instance, during his temptations the thought was suggested to him that he could jump off a high building and not be hurt; had not God promised just that in a Psalm? Now it is true that Psalm 91:9-12 does say that God will keep you from "dashing your foot against a stone," but Jesus knew that does not mean that God will guarantee to keep you out of trouble or harm no matter how foolish you are!

Christ in the Psalms
JESUS found in the Psalms also prophecies. There is a rather thin line between illustration and prophecy.

For instance, when the Jerusalem boys and girls were making such a noisy welcome for him, and the dignified priests were protesting, Jesus quoted Psalm 8:2 in defense of the children: "Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise."

Did he mean that the Psalmist had predicted that very occasion, or did he mean that the Psalm expressed a truth always good?

At all events, we do know that Jesus often took a Psalm, or a part of one, as a prophetic picture of himself. He knew himself to be the true King of Mankind, "the Lord's Anointed," as his use of Psalm 110:1 plainly shows.

Yet he also knew that he must pass through suffering to his throne (Luke 24:26). When the leaders of his people rejected him he was not surprised, for he thought at once of Psalm 118:22-23. When he hung on the cross, and saw the soldiers gambling for his clothes, Psalm 22:16-18 would surely come into his mind.

And can we doubt that in his last agonies, one who knew the Psalms so well would not have remembered also the last lines from the same prophetic Psalm? It begins with the tragic question—Why? But it rises to a song of triumph—"When he cried unto him, 'he heard!'"

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

There is something refreshing and wholesome in the sight of this fine boy and girl, chatting in friendly fashion as they plot their way to school.

They are typical of many thousands of boys and girls who are preparing themselves, through study and training, for the duties and responsibilities of life.

Parents are often concerned about the academic progress of their children. But to be mentally alert is not enough; to be able to judge between right and wrong is essential. Progress in the knowledge of God and the principles of right living should be a matter of deeper concern.

True education encompasses the training of the soul along with that of the mind and body. When this training is neglected, life is incomplete, because it lacks the foundation of a vital faith.

Boys and girls should turn to the teachings of the Church and to the precepts of the Holy Scriptures as the most important part of their life training.

ALL FOR THE CHURCH THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his child's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Lion's Share of State Aid Is Diverted to Education

Local governments receive more than 28 per cent of their general revenue from state aid, the American Municipal Association reports.

A recent report prepared by the U. S. bureau of the census for the association reveals that fiscal aid paid to local governments by the 48 state governments amounted to $2.6 billion dollars in fiscal 1947. Preliminary figures for 1948 indicate that aid to localities in 28 states increased 18 per cent while state revenue was up 21.5 per cent over that of the preceding year.

School districts received 902 million dollars in state aid—more than any other kind of local government. Counties received the next largest share—722 million, while municipalities received 746 million, townships 44 million, and special districts 5 million dollars.

In terms of function, about 40 per cent of all state aid was for education—comprising a total of more than 1.1 billion dollars. Local welfare services received 495 million, local highways 417 million, hospitals 14 million, health services 10 million, and other local services 75 million dollars.

New York provided 388 million dollars of state aid in fiscal 1947, more than any other state. Of this total, 119 million was for unspecified purposes.

Danger of Raw Milk

Milk is just as nourishing to disease germs as it is to you. Germs can enter milk from the cow, from the milkster's hands or equipment, or in any of the marketing processes. Milk can transmit to human beings such diseases as typhoid fever, scarlet fever, septic sore throat, food poisoning, undulant fever, diphtheria, and tuberculosis. Despite all precautions taken in the cleanest, best-equipped dairies, it is possible for these disease germs to contaminate milk. Yet the germs of all these diseases can be killed if the milk is heated to 143° for one-half minute or 160° for 15 seconds, then cooled again. That process is pasteurization. Pasteurized milk is the only safe milk, health department experts agree.

SHORT STORY

Cordially Disliked

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

I HAVE NEVER known a man to be more wholeheartedly disliked than Henry Spafford. The reason for it is his braggartly qualities, his overbearing sense of importance.

We tolerate him because we like his wife, Madge, but even so our tolerance is a chore. The other night I was over to the Spafford's and sat through an hour of Henry's bragging. It seems that the big boss in New York—Henry is employed by the Jason Reid Steamship Company—called up the Philadelphia office where Henry works and Henry answered the phone.

"Jay's a great guy," Henry told me, referring to the incident. "He's asked me to run up to New York to see him a couple of times. I must remember to do that."

"Who's Jay?" I asked.

"Jay?" Why, Jason Reid, who owns the line, of course."

"Oh," I said.

"The way to get along in any business," Henry went on, "is to let the boss know right off he can depend on you. That's the way I am with Jay."

I left the Spafford home an hour later, furious that I had stayed so long, pitying Madge and disliking Henry with a renewed sense of disgust. "Something," I told Betty, my wife, "ought to be done about that punk. Now he's calling Old Man Reid, Jay."

"The thing to do, Betty smiled, "is to be amused at his ravings, not annoyed. He doesn't hurt any one, and there's always Madge to think of."

"Even Madge," I replied, "won't keep me from hitting that guy one of these days. Something," I repeated, "ought to be done about him."

Whether or not my thinking about it had anything to do with what happened a couple of days later I will never know. Henry was fired. Without warning or explanation he was given a couple of weeks' pay and was bounced out on his ear.

My first reaction when Betty told me about it was one of exuberance, a fiendish desire to rush over there and gloat, to sneer: "I told you so! Why don't you call up your friend, Jay, wise guy?" But this feeling passed immediately. Curiously it was followed by one of pity. The more I thought about it the deeper became my sympathy. What greater humiliation, I thought, could a man endure than this that confronted Henry Spafford?

NEXT DAY I called Hal Wheaton and asked him to have lunch with me.

"Don't be annoyed at his ravings. He doesn't hurt anyone, and there's Madge to think of."

"Have you heard about Henry?" I asked when we were seated.

Hal nodded, avoiding my eyes. "I met the poor devil on the street this morning. I don't mind saying that it was an ordeal."

I thoughtfully lighted a cigaret. "Hal," I said, "think of Madge. Isn't there something we can do?"

"Well," said Hal, "I've been wondering, too. Poor Madge. He coughed. 'I called Bob Taylor of the Taylor Lines this morning. Bob says that he might be able to do something for Henry on our recommendation.'"

"I guess," I grinned, "that's the answer."

And it was. Henry and Madge were over three days later. "I understand you've got a new job!" I remarked to Henry.

"Yes," he said with a bored look on his face. "Bob Taylor called up as soon as he heard that I was free, and asked if I'd consider a position with him. Well, you know when a man offers you more money—"

I glanced at Betty. There was a faint smile on her face. I suppose she was amused. I hope so. Because on hour later, with Henry still blowing, I was mad enough to choke him, and almost did.

"Say there, Jinks," roared the Top Sergeant, "why weren't you out this morning?"

"Because," replied the quaking private, "I threw my ankle out of joint last night."

"That's no excuse!" boomed the Sergeant. "I've turned out for drill after having my whole body thrown out of half a dozen joints!"

Wandering Albatross

—The "Grand Old Man" among the bird specimens in the Louis Agassiz Puertes bird collection at Cornell is celebrating his 100th anniversary. This oldest specimen is a male wandering albatross, the species made famous by Coleridge's poem, "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner." The original label is still tied around the legs of the bird and in a faded but easily legible handwriting, tells of the capture of the albatross on February 4, 1849 at S. Lat. 42°33' W. Long. 80°20'—about 500 miles off the coast of southern Chile. The label also describes the dissection of the specimen, stating that "the stomach resembled that of a carnivorous animal, there being no gizzard."

Penicillin as Syphilis Cure

Penicillin is being widely used by Minnesota physicians to treat both syphilis and gonorrhea. However, the warning that a "quick cure" with penicillin may not constitute a "sure cure" is voiced by Dr. H. G. Irvine, acting director of the division of venereal diseases of the Minnesota health department. "Although penicillin cures many cases of syphilis in a short time, it does not cure all cases quickly, and additional treatment with other drugs is often necessary," says Dr. Irvine. He adds the advice that penicillin must be given early to be of real value.

It is expected that Pendleton county farmers will produce the highest yield of corn on record in that county.

Shelby county homemakers clubs purchased two sewing machines and five pinkie shears for 4-H club use. Approximately 98 percent of the corn grown in Lyon county this year was of the hybrid variety.

Thirty-three 4-H club members in Rockcastle and Southern Madison counties realized about $2,000 from their strawberry crops.

In Pulaski county, members of 4-H and Utopia clubs are feeding 183 calves for the Louisville fat cattle show and sale.

"It's not our hat!"

The Southern Railway doesn't pass the hat for your tax dollars.

Other forms of commercial transportation use highways, airports and waterways that are built and maintained with your tax dollars—and ours.

But railroads are strictly on their own. Every penny they spend to build and maintain their own steel "highways" comes right out of the railroads' pockets—not yours.

We're glad we are not in the "hat-passing" class. We prefer to stand on our own financial feet in the old-fashioned American way. And we believe that if there were no hat-passers in the transportation business it would be better for you and for all America.

Forest Service Experiment Shows Rabbits Outat Deer

Hunters in some mountain areas in the East may have to choose between deer hunting and rabbit hunting. Or it may work out that game management will call for more rabbit hunting to reduce surplus rabbits that are now causing deer to starve. Unfamiliar to many sportsmen are the lessons of a forest service experiment in the Allegheny national forest that show how rabbits can practically "eat deer out of house and home."

Under limited hunting in areas where most predatory animals have been exterminated, deer have multiplied in some Appalachian mountain areas until they are browsing the shrubs, bushes, and seedling trees faster than this material grows. This content is acute in areas at the base of the mountains and in sheltered valleys where deer concentrate in severe winter weather. To prevent increasing starvation of deer and continuing injury to the forests in Pennsylvania, it has been necessary to permit and even encourage hunters to bag female deer.

On the Allegheny national forest, however, the rabbit situation complicates matters. At the Kane experimental forest in Pennsylvania the forest service enclosed several typical half-acre tracts to get the facts as to how rapidly over-browsed forest range can recover. Each tract was fenced to exclude deer, and half of each tract had a tighter fence that also excluded rabbits. In five-year and 10-year surveys it was clear that rabbits were damaging the browse far more than the deer.

Electric Service Advisers

A new type of job is opening up in the rural electric field for graduates in home economics and electrical engineering, says the rural electrification administration of the department of agriculture. This is the job of electrification adviser. The duties are to work with rural people on power use problems. About 200 of the nearly 1,000 REA-financed rural electric cooperatives already have hired such an adviser, and many more are trying to find qualified men or women. Furthermore, some of the electric service cooperatives which are considering adding another. Training in home economics or agricultural engineering is usually a requirement, but special training in cooperative electrification needs is also desirable.

You can be Charming
by Marsha Wheeler

Charm and beauty belong to no age but are lost to many ages. As you ride the bus or street car, or stride along the sidewalk, notice people's faces. That fresh-faced girl of eighteen for instance. Can you guess what her face will be at fifty? Or that stouthead woman of middle age. Can you picture how she looked at eighteen?

Now, what have you let the years do to your face? Do your eyes sparkle with enthusiasm for life, or are they dull with disappointment and bitterness? Do you habitually frown or smile? Is your face tense or relaxed? In short, how do you look to the people who sit opposite you in buses and street cars? The squints and frowns of faulty vision have no place on a charming face. The Queen Optical Company can give you the relaxed charm of clear, normal vision and the smart appearance of modish eyeglass frames.

Queen Optical's Doctors of Optometry give thorough, scientific eyeglass examinations and prescribe corrective lenses, if required. Comfortably air-conditioned. 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati.

24-D USED TO KILL COCKLEBURS IN CORN

Farmers in Estill county who used 24-D on their cornfields have found they no longer dread cocklebur. Clay Dixon of the Pryse community, for example, treated about 40 acres of river bottom land. On an acre which was not treated but plowed, the cocklebur in the row looked like they had been drilled in with the corn, while the treated plots were practically free of all weeds. According to Farm Agent Fred Brockman, 2,000 acres of corn in the county were treated with 24-D this year, and chiefly with hand sprayers. Excellent results in controlling cocklebur were noted throughout the county.

A Lesson To Remember!

There is a lesson here for parents, too! No child can do his best at homework if eyestrain caused by poor light makes him drowsy and unable to concentrate. Make sure your child has plenty of good light at his study table. See that the lamp he uses for home study is equipped with bulbs totaling at least 100 watts, and that it is well shaded to eliminate glare. Better light means better grades!

Here's Better Light for Home Study!

Homework's quickly done with a Better Sight Table Study Lamp like this. Its wide-angle shade and extra tall standard spread light over a wide area. Its white glass diffusing bowl softens harmful glare. Equipped with a 150-watt bulb it provides plenty of light and the right kind of light for safer, easier seeing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Barnett spent the weekend with their daughter and her husband, Rev. and Mrs. Roy Martin of Lexington. Rev. Martin and wife are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a little son, born Friday at 4:00 a. m. at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington.

Mrs. R. J. Cavanaugh is entertaining her two brothers from Detroit, this week.

MAKES HILLY LAND INTO PAYING FARM

How the sale of two hens in 1922 indirectly resulted in a 3,300-pound crop of Burley tobacco on a farm in Green county is told by County Agent John E. Ewing, Jr.

In 1922, Charlie Morrison bought a 70-acre run-down farm for $1,000. Wanting to grow grass on 1.6 acres of this most level land, he sold two hens in order to buy grass seed. The previous summer, that piece had yielded only a few sacks of corn. In 1948, it produced 3,300 pounds of tobacco.

Due to the lay of the land, Mr. Morrison divided his farm into at least 25 small plots, the largest being about five acres. One of his biggest worries has been the control of water. To solve this problem, he made diversion ditches, dams and water runways. After building a big dam, he reclaimed two acres on which he is now growing corn.

Mr. Morrison is a real conservationist, says the county agent, using all of his tobacco stalks, manure and corn stalks along with plenty of fertilizer and good seedling of grasses. His farm has considerable manure on it, and this too is being utilized.

As a result, this thrifty farmer now has a nice home, a herd of good cattle, pastures of alfalfa, orchard grass and other grasses, and fields of corn.

CARD OF THANKS

My wife and I wish to thank each and every one who was so nice to help us so much while I was in the hospital so long; for the nice cards, flowers and gifts; Mr. and Mrs. William Schruker, and Stanley Sallee for donations of blood. All was kindly appreciated.

TOMATO COOP TAKES SURPLUS PRODUCTION

The tomato cooperative association in McCracken county closed a successful season after shipping 7,127 half-bushel baskets for $15,394.73, or an average of $2.16 per basket. In addition, many were sold locally. The association follows the policy of shipping only when the local market fails to take the tomatoes at a good price, explained Farm Agent S. C. Bohanan.

Green county producers of Ky. 31 rescue harvested 20,000 pounds of clean seed for sale locally.

About 2,000 acres of Ladino clover were seeded in Russell county this year.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
International Union
Sunday School Lessons
BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN
SCRIPTURE: Psalm 15: 24-14;
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 57:1-15.

Religion and Habits

Lesson for September 18, 1949

RELIGION is not moral. It is a poor, flimsy, no-good religion. If morality is not religious, it soon cracks. Religion has to be moral and morality has to be religious, or else both of them lose their excuse for existence. This is not a new idea. It was in the Bible long ago. Our Psalms for this week are among those that bring out this truth: God is interested in how people live.

He is interested in what they do seven days and seven nights a week; he is interested in their habits as much as their souls. Psalms 15 and 24 are so plain on this point that they need no explaining.

Churches and Liquor

Don't Mix

THIS truth, that right religion and right behavior are twins, lights up all of life like a floodlight; but since this is our temperance lesson, let us focus it more or less on one spot. It is a sore spot: the drink habit. Why does the church make such a fuss about people drinking? Catholic churches are opposed to liquor in excess, and most Protestant churches are opposed to liquor, period. The movies have made the "binge," the hangover, almost respectable; but the church knows better. Why? Will the time ever come when the churches are not opposed to the liquor business? No, it will not; because the churches know what liquor does.

The minister is usually the man (along with the lawyer and doctor and the sheriff) who has to pick up the pieces when drink gets a man or a woman and breaks up a family. The minister gets behind the scenes, he knows that some funerals would not have been funerals if it had not been for drink.

The car that "went out of control," the disease that should not have been fatal, the family quarrel that grew to hatred and violence—he sees enough of these caused by alcohol, to have no illusions about the stuff.

A Psalm in Reverse
IF THERE is a single reader of these lines who imagines that religion is only a "matter of the soul" and has nothing to do with what people eat or drink, then let him try a little experiment with the 15th Psalm.

As it stands in the Bible, it is a description of the kind of man who can appear without shame before God—in short, of the religious-and-moral man.

Now beginning with verse 2, take the Psalm phrase by phrase, and see how false and ridiculous it is if you try to make the description fit the man with the drink habit. "The victim of drink walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness." Quite the contrary, he seems to be doing his best to ruin his own happiness and that of others.

"The drunkard speaketh the truth in his heart"—There is one truth he never speaks in his heart: I am a drunkard. The one thing the victim of alcohol never admits till it is too late (if ever) is the hold which alcohol has on him. "He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor"—

Contempt is No Cure
WELL, read on for yourself. The slave to alcohol (and many a man is chained to it, who would feel insulted if you called him an alcoholic) certainly does not fit the description of the man whose life God approves.

But the Christian will by no means think his duty done merely by sitting in the sear-seat, or being an abstainer himself, or even by helping those who have fallen into the pit. He will remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The liquor business has no conscience. It sometimes comes out with pious remarks about temperance—but it keeps right on advertising, it knows no law but profit.

The only whole-hearted workers for temperance will always be the people who make no money out of intemperance. And the most effective workers for temperance will be those who themselves, in all their habits, give examples in life of what they preach.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

A kitten has all the time in the world. She might as well waste some of it trying to do the impossible.

But man doesn't have all the time in the world. He has a brief span of years in which to achieve his life's aims. Man can't afford to waste some of those years—and strength and vitality as well—trying to accomplish what is impracticable.

One of religion's great services to mankind has been its revelation of worthwhile and attainable goals in life. Christianity has shown man the great potential in right living—and the tragic futility of wrong living.

Attend and support the Church. It can help you choose the best goals . . . and attain them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither survive. There are four round attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For the sake of his community and nation, (3) For the sake of his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

You can be Charming

by Marsha Wheeler

No woman wants a voice as "fuzzy" as Arthur Godfrey's, but the redhead has something every woman desires—the charm of complete naturalness. Your natural self is always your most charming self.

If you are awkward at making or accepting introductions, when saying goodbye or eating out, practice at home, alone and out loud.

Talk. Smile. Walk across the room filled with imaginary people. Introduce them. Accept introductions. Practice good table manners at your daily meals. Senator Borah used to address the walls of his office before making a speech. You'll have fun after the first fright of hearing your own voice in an empty room. Polite comes also with the comfort of correct vision and the flattery of modish eyeglass frames. Women come to the Queen Optical Company for tailored shell frames or rimless for daily wear, for ornamental frames for dress. The "Marquise" comes in amber or black shell with brows of glittering marquisette set in sterling silver. Queen Optical gives complete eyeglass service at one moderate cost. No appointment is necessary. 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati.

THANKS . . .

We take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to our customers and friends of our former business in Walton, Ryan Bros. Restaurant. The friends who made our first venture in business a success and a would be task a pleasure to everyone, we extend a hearty welcome to Shamrock Inn, our new location at Bracht. We will appreciate you stopping in and we will try to serve you in the best possible way.

Sincerely,

Ab & Dick

THE Best BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

Deserves
in the world!

There's no better, no more friendly source of long-term, low interest rate farm loans than the cooperative, farmer-owned system of national farm loan associations. It is through these associations that more than one million farmers have obtained Federal Land Bank loans. Every farmer who gets a Federal Land Bank loan becomes a member of his local national farm loan association. Only farmers can become members and only members can vote in the association affairs.

Yes, farming is the best business in the world. And, Federal Land Bank loans are the best financing in the world. They're first choice with farmers throughout the nation.

Remember this,—there are no application fees, no appraisal fees, and no renewal commissions. So, protect your business, your future, and your family. Finance the farm you buy, or refinance debt you now have through your locally-owned, farmer-controlled national farm loan association with a long-term, 4 percent Federal Land Bank loan.

For your convenience, I will be at the Courthouse in Independence each Tuesday from 10 to 12 a. m.; at the Post Office in Fairmouth each Thursday from 1 to 3 p. m.; at the old Recorder building in Burlington each Friday from 10 to 12 a. m., and at other times at my office in the Wigginton Building in Williamstown.

A Lesson To Remember!

There is a lesson here for parents, too! No child can do his best at homework if eyestrain caused by poor light makes him drowsy and unable to concentrate. Make sure your child has plenty of good light at his study table. See that the lamp he uses for home study is equipped with bulbs totaling at least 100 watts, and that it is well shaded to eliminate glare. Better light means better grades!

Here's Better Light for Home Study!

Homework's quickly done with a Better Sight Table Study Lamp like this. Its wide-angle shade and extra tall standard spread light over a wide area. Its white glass diffusing bowl sifts out harmful glare. Equipped with a 150-watt bulb it provides plenty of light and the right kind of light for safer, easier seeing.

Refinishing Furniture Studied By Kenton Co. Homemakers

The first in a series of lessons on "Refinishing Furniture" for leaders of the Kenton County Homemakers Association was given September 15 at the Fort Wright Club House by Miss Vivian Cummt, specialist from the University of Kentucky, and by Miss Zelma E. Byerly, Home Demonstration Agent.

Information on how to know wood and how to recognize old furniture was presented. Miss Cummt stated that the word "antique" is much overworked; that really old furniture should be referred to as heirloom furniture.

Christian Church Revival To Start Sunday Morning

With the opening of Sunday School this Sunday, the revival at the Christian Church of Walton has its real beginning. According to previous announcements the meeting will be from September 25th to October 9th. The Reverend Lee Davis Fisher, pastor of the Somerset Christian Church, will be the evangelist the greater portion of the time. Mr. Fisher needs no introduction to the people of this community, since he has held several meetings in the church here, and always with ability and great satisfaction to members and non-members of the church. That he will gain rise to his previous heights there is no doubt. Everything points to a meeting that will intensify the spiritual life of our community, reaching many who are not members of any church, and giving greater Christian direction to those who are already within the church.

The invitation to these meetings extends to the entire community, members and non-members alike. The purpose of this series of meetings is to help all who are in need of help. And who is not in need of some kind of help? We need encouragement. We need strength to meet temptations. We need hope in our sorrows. We need breath to displace our narrowness. We need love to channel our convictions. We need humility to save us from our self-satisfactions. We need each other. We invite all to come and worship in our beautiful new building. Come and share our blessings together, whatever our creed or faith may be. Services will begin each night at 7:30, with the capable James Spencer as organist.—Fred S. Nichols.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Colston of Beaver Bend, celebrated their 25th anniversary Sunday, Sept. 18, with a lovely dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Tunney and children of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Colston and children of Verona, Mrs. Mary Smith of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hamon of Covington; Mrs. Flora Schwartz and two granddaughters, Wilford Schwartz, Miss Maryland Colston and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Colston and four children. All left at a late hour wishing them many more happy years ahead.

M. Swindler and Charles Dorsey, funeral directors, for their kind and efficient services.

The Psalms We Sing

Lesson for September 25, 1949

IT WOULD be a most unusual person who on his dying bed would turn to the 23rd chapter of I Chronicles and not to the 23rd Psalm. If the reader will think of his own favorite passage of Scripture, and then look them up in some edition which prints the Bible in modern format, he will discover that his favorite passages are probably all poetry.

Dr. Foreman

Poetry's Power
WHY the appeal of poetry? For one thing, it is vivid. It is in colors, not severe black and white. It lives and breathes, at times it shouts, and it always sings.

It is true to say "The providential oversight of the Creator is continuous and unrelenting;" but it is more effective to say, "The Lord is my shepherd." It would be true to say, "The evidences of creative and beneficent purpose can be seen throughout all the orders of nature;" but how much more vivid is the 148th Psalm, calling on hail and fire, sun and moon and stars of light, to praise the Lord!

Another secret of poetry's power is that it is the language of emotion. Professors and theologians may be saying the same things as the poet, and maybe even saying them more completely and accurately; but what they say is less easy to remember.

So these emotional Psalms will always appeal, even the professor when off duty, because they make us feel religion and not merely think it.

Pictures of God

SO IT IS no wonder the Psalms have been loved and sung all over the world. We are perhaps the only religion that has made so much use of another religion's hymn book. Different though our faiths may be, Jews and Christians can sing from the Psalter with one voice and heart.

For centuries it was the hymnal of the Christian church. Indeed, up to recent years some large denominations would allow no other songs than the Psalms.

Many of our best hymns and popular gospel songs, as we have already seen, are based on Psalms. "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," "A Shelter in the Time of Storm," "Hiding in Thee," — they all go back to the Psalmist's picture of God as a Rock (Ps. 42:9). The Psalmist was not thinking of a little rock in a cornfield. He was thinking of some tall crag in the fierce hot landscape of his country.

A rock there is a landmark. It is a shelter against the blazing sun, people could live under its overhanging height.

So God is the landmark of life, he gives direction to our ways; he is the shelter on life's weary journey, he is our safe dwelling.

So with the many other pictures of God in the Psalms—he is light, he is shade, he is the guard on duty at night watching over the sleeping city (Ps. 121); he is a shepherd, he is water for the thirsting soul (Ps. 42.)

A Model Hymnal

IT IS true that few Christians today can use in worship all of the Psalms, without omission or changes. It is also true that practically all Christian churches find that the Psalms, by themselves, are inadequate to express all there is in Christian experience, faith and ideals.

The Christian hymn, entirely independent of the Psalms, has long since come into its own. And yet the Psalms remain the model hymnal. For in their beauty and truth are blended.

This should be the ideal of all Christian hymn and song books. Some of our modern "hymns" as well as some older ones, are bad because they are no better than jingles,—doggerel, not poetry, and often sung to tunes better suited to a juke box; and some are bad because they convey either nonsense or downright falsehood.

But the great hymns, and the best hymnals, are those which like the Psalms of old, combine profound truths about God and man, duty and destiny, with safety, stirring and singable music, aglow with the beauty and power of words.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .

When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

Bags of money! Stacks of silver, nickel and copper coins! Neatly-bound packages of crisp new currency! This is a common sight in the vaults of banks and the financial institutions of the world.

Money plays a big part in life. It represents human labor and material production and is the medium through which man exchanges his toil for food and other necessities and comforts of life.

It is important to know how to handle money wisely and well. Some people squander it to their sorrow; others worship it as their supreme aim in life. These attitudes are both unsound and dangerous.

Worship should be reserved for God alone, and right living should be the supreme aim of one's life. Money is a useful instrument in the material world, but it is secondary to man's spiritual welfare.

The Bible teaches us to be diligent and thrifty; it also teaches us to love God and cherish our religious faith above all the world's wealth and glory.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children and nation. (3) For the sake of his community and world. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

WHY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is no Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing written contracts—just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investigate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dispute. This Board reported, in part, as follows:

"... it is with a deep sense of regret that we are obliged to report the failure of our mission. It seems inconceivable to us that a coercive strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occurrence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organizations in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor Act..."

Obviously the railroads cannot be run efficiently or economically if the leaders of the union ignore agreements or laws.

Provisions of the Law which are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts:

- 1—Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board.
- 2—Decision by System Adjustment Board for the specific railroad.
- 3—Decision by arbitration.
- 4—Decision by neutral referee.
- 5—Decision by court.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these disputes settled in accordance with the requirements of the Railway Labor Act. Regardless of this fact, the union leaders have shut down that railroad!

Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employees, and are the most highly paid of all employees on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employees of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconveniences and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provisions of the law for the settlement of such disputes, then all thinking Americans must face the question, "What is the next step?"

POISON FOR HOPPERS IN STRAWBERRY BEDS

Dusting or spraying with chlordane will kill grasshoppers in strawberry patches, suggests the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, in reply to numerous complaints that hoppers were ravaging beds. A 5 percent chlordane dust can be put on with a hand-duster, or chlordane may be mixed with water at the rate of a pound to 50 gallons and sprayed on the plants.

MORE FERTILIZERS USED IN KENTUCKY

Manufacturers reported that 460,855 tons of commercial fertilizers were sold in Kentucky in 1948, or 14 percent more than in 1947, according to the Feed and Fertilizer Department of the Agriculture Experiment Station, University of Kentucky. In addition, 36,580 tons of 20 percent superphosphate, or equivalent, were distributed in Kentucky under the "contractual plan" of the Production and Marketing Administration.

A tag issued by the Experiment Station showing the manufacturer's guaranty must be attached to each bag of fertilizer before it can be lawfully offered for sale in Kentucky.

Anyone in Kentucky who buys commercial fertilizer for his own use may submit samples for free analysis to the Experiment Station.

The Experiment Station report says that "fewer grades of fertilizer than are now offered would meet the needs of Kentucky agriculture. Most of these needs can be met with 6-8-6, 8-8-8, 4-12-8, 5-10-10, 3-12-12, and 0-14-7, or 0-12-12 supplemented with straight fertilizers."

Mrs. J. K. Tracy of the Holland Homemakers Club in Allen county and her committee stenciled names on 59 mail boxes.

REVEALS SECRETS OF BEING WELL DRESSED

Secrets for looking well dressed were revealed by Miss Verna Latzke, clothing specialist at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, when she discussed fall fashions at home-makers district meetings. That simple, good looking ensembles are best, particularly for the small and for the large women was stressed. Here are some of the points she brought out:

- 1—Buy first the large items in the wardrobe, such as a coat or suit.
- 2—Buy shoes and matching bag the same season.
- 3—When buying accessories, wear the costume with which they will be worn.
- 4—Buy what is needed and is the most becoming, regardless of fashion.

Strawberries provide an income

For the past nine years, there have been no reactions to TB among dairy

FROG-EYE DAMAGES
PENDLETON TOBACCO

Frog-eye and field-burning damaged many tobacco crops in Pendleton county, according to Farm Agent
R. W. White. This was especially true for tobacco on level land, he said.

Tobacco-growers were plagued with excessive rainfall much of the season, the county agent said. Then followed six weeks of hot, humid weather embracing the first part of the curing season. Twenty-five to fifty percent of the leaves on some crops were lost.

Frog-eye almost completely destroyed a number of crops, loss from this disease in the county being placed at many thousand dollars.
House-burn added to the losses. Because of huge tobacco, many farmers needed more barn space.

Verona, Hudepohl to Vie For KAG Crown

First and Third Games at Verona; Bob & Gene and Constance Eliminated

Last Thursday night, Verona met Constance in a KAG elimination series contest on the Covington Ball Park. The fray was called at the end of seven innings due to rain, with "Ryan's Raiders" holding a comfortable 15-3 edge. This loss was the third for the losers.

Constance had 3 runs, 6 hits and 8 errors. Gillette and Peeno did the pitching, while Blodgett, Martin and Peeno did the catching. Peeno and Martin each had 2 hits. Verona collected 15 runs on 16 hits while committing 4 miscues. Mike Ryan pitched five innings and Bill Mumm two, and Bauman and Robinson divided catching duties. In the hitting department, Brown had 5-for-5, two triples, a double, and two singles; Bauman, 3 for 5, and Gullett 2 for 4. Brown drove in five runs. The winners scored 9 runs in the seventh inning, when 12 men went to bat.

Mike Ryan was the winning pitcher and Gillette was the loser.

Verona vs. Bob & Gene

Sunday, at Florence, Verona continued their "eliminating" by defeating Bob & Gene 6 to 3. The Community Club went through the elimination with but one loss, this to Hudepohl, and now enter a 3-out-of-five series with Hudepohl for the loop crown. The first game will be played Sunday, Oct. 2nd at Verona, beginning at 2:30. The third game will also be played at Verona.

In Sunday's win Verona had 6 runs 15 hits and no errors, while Bob & Gene had 3 runs, 8 hits and 3 errors. Steffen pitched all the way for the winners, with Bauman receiving Mignery hurled for the losers, with Schmidt catching.

Brown had 4-for-5, one a double, for the Community Club; Bauman, Gullett and Vest each had 2-for-4. Steffen had 2-for-5 and drove in 2 runs, and Hayes also drove in 2 runs with a double. Eddie Arzen delivered the only big blow off Steffen, getting a homer in the 8th with two men on base, good for all of Bob & Gene's runs.

Some Figures for the Year

For the season, Verona collected 273 hits and scored 181 runs, while their opponents had 177 hits and 93 runs. In the pitching department, Mike Ryan won 6, lost 1; Steffen won 7, lost 2, and Mumm won 3, lost 1. Top hitter is Brown, who clubbed the "pill" for a .427 average in 22 games. Bauman hit for a .418 clip in 23 contests. Hayes hit .322, Bill Mumm .303 and Alexander .303. All the others were below the .300 mark. Brown drove in 28 runs and Hayes 21, to lead in this department.

New Haven School Head Acquitted By County School Board

Walton Smith was back at his desk as principal of New Haven School, Monday, after having been exonerated of charges of "conduct unbecoming a teacher."

The principal was tried by members of the school board in a hearing at Burlington, Saturday.

Courtney Kelly, chairman, said evidence was presented to warrant removing Mr. Smith. He said assertions that Mr. Smith had permitted excessive drinking among 14 boys and girls he chaperoned on a trip to New York last spring, were not substantiated in testimony.

Changes of late-at-night fast driving while on the trip also were dismissed.

A motion was carried by the board permitting Mr. Smith to return as principal.

Members of the school board who sat in at the hearing included: Mr. Kelly, Hubert Conner of Hebron, Bruce Ryle of Burlington, R. C. Eastman of Florence, and John Fagan, Walton.

Several have been asking if there will be another tea-town to control this year—just wait and see!

County Agent C. A. Wicklund will use charts to point out the improved practices of pasture management and legume hay production.

Walton Baptist Church A Part of Evangelistic Campaign Oct. 2-14

The American Legion met at their home on Beaver Road, on Monday, September 19th. Plans for the future of the home were discussed and passed upon. Since so many of our friends have asked us to keep the home open more often, the Legion has decided to hold open house on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, from 7:00 to 12:00—so, stop in and see us some evening. You will enjoy Legion hospitality.—Pub. Chm.

Rev. Dudley Pomeroy

The Walton Baptist Church will be a part of the Evangelistic Campaign with thirty-three other Baptist churches in Northern Kentucky beginning Sunday, Oct. 2nd and continuing through Oct. 14th.

The evangelist at Walton will be Rev. Dudley Pomeroy of Piqua, Ohio. He is a graduate of Georgetown College and the Southern Baptist Seminary of Louisville.

This is the most far-reaching evangelistic effort ever planned by the Baptist Churches of this section. Our greatest task is not the technique of a revival, as important as that may be for us, but can we muster the grace and power of God on our behalf to give spiritual meaning and purpose to our plans?

Great spiritual awakenings have come only through great souls and divinely-touched personalities. Can the Lord find some surrendered people in every church who will pay this price for a modern miracle for our needy world?

I do believe Jesus is not just AN answer to all our ills, but is THE answer!

Services will be every evening at 7:30 and we extend a cordial invitation to all to attend these services.—Pub. Chm.

Bedinger conducted the devotional and told a very interesting missionary story. The society is to hold a bakery sale in Covington, Oct. 1. Sixteen members and visitors were present. We adjourned and will hold our October meeting with Mrs. Sarah Sargent.—Pub. Chm.

Legion-Advertiser Fray Tonight For Softball Crown

Semi-final games in the Walton Softball League elimination series were played Tuesday evening, and the winners were the Advertisers and American Legion.

In the first contest, the Advertisers took an early lead and downed the Lions Club 22-6. "Moose" Vest did the hurling for the winners and "Slo-Pich" DeMoisey served them up for the losers.

In the second game, the Legion trampled Ryan Bros. 34-2. In the first inning the Legionnaires sent 24 men to bat, banged out 21 hits and scored 20 runs—and there was the ball game. Joe Lemmons pitched good ball for the winners, while the losers used everyone but the bat boy on the mound.

The Legion and Advertisers are to square off tonight (Thursday) for the championship at 8:00 p. m. and a good game is looked for. These clubs have met three times during the season; the result: A win and a draw for each team.

Following the game, trophies will be awarded each team—the winners and runner-up. Come out, won't you? The Lions will serve you hot coffee, in case it's chilly.

Johnson officiating, and with Rev. Robert Browning, a nephew of Mrs. Jones, assisting in the services. Interment was in Walton Cemetery.

Mrs. Jones died in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, following a long illness. She was a member of the Baptist Church and much loved by all who knew her. She had five sons who served in World War II, all in foreign service.

She is survived by her beloved husband, Melvin Jones of Bracht, Piner Highway; five sons, Richard at home, Carl and William of Covington, Clifford of Cincinnati, and Raymond Jones of Haverville, Mass.; three daughters, A. C. Johnson of Fredericksburg, Texas, Emory Hill Johnson of Covington and Delaney Johnson of Walton, and three sisters, Mrs. D. K. Johnson of Walton, Mrs. Hubert Garvey of Covington, and Mrs. Clarence Browning of Erlanger.

Dr. Tait Perfects New Eye-Testing Instrument

Dr. W. E. Tait, northern Kentucky optometrist, has returned to Covington after several months' stay in Florida and Lexington, where he has been engaged in optical research work. Dr. Tait announces that he has perfected an instrument, the Opto Chromometer, for measuring the refraction of the eye and determining the lens power to be prescribed.

The new instrument employs the use of high and low frequency light only, making it unnecessary for the patient to read or spell black letters. He has worked on this instrument for several years and is applying for a patent. This is the third optical instrument originated by Dr. Tait. He is now associated with Dr. Paul H. Baldwin, in practice at 27 East 7th St., Covington.

SAY YES FOR YOU and YOURS

It's you, fellow Kentuckian—it's all of us everyday citizens—who suffer because the state constitution limits public salaries to $5,000 a year.

Because of that limit we can't open our five new tuberculosis hospitals. Doctors with the necessary training and experience can't be had for $5,000. And so Kentuckians will die and others will sicken, and you and yours and all your kinsfolk and friends will have to run the risk of infection.

Because of the limit, our hospitals for people ill in mind are kept to a care-taker basis. The help that would make useful citizens out of thousands now in custody can't be hired at the 1891 level of pay.

Because of the limit, our whole school system suffers. Who wants to enter a state profession in which the highest officer can earn only $5,000?

Because of the limit, our colleges and our university suffer, too. They lose men and women to out-of-state institutions. They lose men and women to industry. They feel insecure.

Because of the limit, our public-health program throughout the state is badly crippled, and is being crippled more and more day by day.

Because of the limit the farmer is poorer. Agricultural specialists, research men, conductors of experiments—these aren't attracted to a state that offers them no future. If attracted, they don't stay. The men we do have remain in their positions only out of great devotion to their institutions and their state.

Because of the limit we can't develop and operate our park and recreational system so as to give healthful enjoyment to our own people or so as to attract tourists and get the tourists' dollars.

Because of the limit our highway program is faltering and expensive. We have to engage on a part-time or job basis—at far more than a $5,000 annual rate—the experts without whose help we just can't proceed.

Because of the limit every service of state itself is limited. Every one is made needlessly expensive in terms of performance.

What we're saying is: Because of the limit, you suffer. You pay. But you don't get full service for your tax dollar. You get a partial, unsatisfactory, expensive, pinch-penny service. And it's your fault, and ours, and every citizen's. It's our fault because we haven't seen earlier that we'd have to remove the constitutional barrier to progress.

At the election November 8 you'll have an opportunity to make a better Kentucky—a better Kentucky for you and yours—by voting for Constitutional Amendment No. 2. It will make possible an adjustment of official salaries. And it will help mightily to cure our ills.

If you want to know more about the working effects of the salary limit, fill out the coupon below. We'll send you, without charge, a booklet that tells the full story. It's honest, it's factual, it's informative.

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 6.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Hosea 14.

What is a Call of God?

Lesson for October 2, 1949

IF YOU knew exactly what God wanted you to do, would you do it? Of course you would. The trouble is: How does any one know what God's will is? For example, a young man is thinking about his life's work; what shall he choose? Most young men would do what they were sure God called them to do, but what is a call?

Dr. Foreman

The story of Isaiah throws some light on this problem. (We are beginning this week a three month's study of the great prophet Isaiah and Jeremiah.) True, he lived some 2700 years ago, and half way to the other side of the world; but human nature has not changed in 2700 years.

From Man about Town To Man of God

ISAIAH was a young man about town, in the small but wealthy city of Jerusalem, about 700 years before Christ. He was a personal friend of all the important people, a man of good education, with wide horizons of interest, of independent means, eloquent, polished, the sort of man who makes a good career diplomat.

He tells in some detail the story of how he came to be a prophet. The story is in Isaiah 6. Perhaps if we had been there with a camera and a wire recorder we might have been able to photograph the seraphim and take down their cries, just as Isaiah saw and heard them.

What we do know is that that experience changed Isaiah's life. Up to that time (on his own showing) he had been a "man of unclean lips;" from that time on he began to be a spokesman for the Lord. Let us try to say what the story of that life-changing vision, that call, means in terms of our own experience.

The Flame of God
FIRST there was the overwhelming sense of God's reality and power and holy majesty. No one can ever experience a call who does not take God seriously.

A God "afar off," a God who is only a problem, an idea, a hypothesis, never called any one. God alone can make himself real to man; and only a man with a real sense of a living God is going to hear his call.

Next came Isaiah's realization of his own unworthiness and sin. A man who feels equal to a great task is probably not equal to it. "Them as knows nawthin' fears nawthin'," as the Irish say. A man who feels good enough to serve God, just as he is, is not good enough. A man without a sense of sin is too full of it.

Then comes the burning coal from the altar; Isaiah feels that his guilt is gone. No one can fully do God's will with an unforgotten heart. Isaiah was not sinless at one stroke, of course, yet it is possible to turn from all known sin; it is possible to devote one's loyalty to God; and this Isaiah did.

It was only then that he heard the call: Whom shall I send? In modern and less picturesque language, Isaiah was conscious of a need he had not felt before—that is, of God's need, of his people's need.

What those needs were will come out in later studies. The point is that young Isaiah, who hitherto had lived only for himself, now saw the need of the city and the people among whom he lived.

"Here Am I; Send Me."
THEN comes the last stage—Isaiah's willing offer of himself. His great talent was the ability to use language. He could make words march and sing as few men of any race have done. But up to that time, it seems, his gift of eloquence had been used chiefly in telling dirty stories.

Now he has repented, and been forgiven, and he says to God: Use me. His voice, his knowledge, his eloquence, which he had been using against God (or at best, only for Isaiah) he was now to use for God and man.

So there is a call: A sense of God, near and commanding and holy; repentance; forgiveness; a sense of need; willingness to devote all one's gifts to fill that need.

FUNERAL HOMES

WE APPRECIATE . . .
When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

Bells around the World

The Indians could send a rallying call many, many miles by drums. Each drummer, stationed on a lonely ridge, would listen for the sound of distant drums, and relay the message to others waiting across the valley. Overnight a dozen tribes could be rallied to a common cause.

We don't need such crude methods of communication today. Men with a common purpose can join forces around the world at a pre-arranged time.

World Wide Communion Sunday is such an expression of unity. In every Christian land the church bells will summon men and women to the Lord's Supper on this Sunday. And the universality of this great religious event will not depend on bells relaying the message from town to town. It will depend on folks like yourself coming to their Church to receive this Holy Sacrament.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in worth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. Why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

On And On

THE YOUNG bachelor had been invited to lunch by a very good friend of his, who was a married man with a charming two-year-old son.

After the meal they were watching the youngster toddling around happily, when the wife turned to her guest and remarked:

"You wouldn't believe it, but little Jackie has been walking around like that now for almost a year."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the bachelor. Then, in a more sympathetic voice: "Is there nothing you can do to get him to sit down?"

IN A RUT

A man was passing a public-house when a figure hurried out of the door and landed in the gutter. A small fellow picked him up and said angrily to the passer-by: "They think they can get away with that! I'll throw every one of them out. You stay here and count."

In went the little man.

A moment later a body landed in the gutter. "One," counted the passer-by.

"No, it's me again," said the little man.

NOW HE KNOWS

Sergeant: Look here, soldier, what's the idea of the barrel? Are you a poker player?

Private: No, sir, but I spent a couple of hours with some guys who are.

No Use

Throughout the evening meal neither had spoken. But as soon as the plates had been cleared away and they were seated before the fire, the husband's face lost some of its hardness.

"You know, dear," he said, breaking the long silence, "I've been thinking over our argument."

"Well," she snapped, without looking up from her sewing.

"Yes, dear, I've decided to agree with you after all," he said, meekly.

"That won't do any good," she sniffed. "We changed my mind."

WISE UMP

A northern fan who never missed a game of baseball was visiting in the South, and went to see a game between two local teams. It seemed to him they were starting play without an umpire, but he finally discovered the umpire sitting in the grandstand among the spectators.

Turning to a native, the visitor said: "What in the world is the umpire doing in the grandstand?"

"Oh," the native explained, "the spectators used to jump on him for his decisions so much that he figured if the folks in the grandstand could see every play to well, he'd go up there too and do his umpiring."

Priming of tobacco is becoming an established practice among Casey county farmers, the younger farmers taking the lead.

In Whitley county, 55 calves are being fattened for the Louisville fat cattle show and sale, about double last year's number.

Stored Grain Pests . . .

Pests of stored grains, particularly corn and wheat, cause extensive damage in Boone county each year, according to Bill Davis, County Agent. Damage has already started in the threshed wheat, soaked or stored in bins. Damage to corn will begin soon after it is cribbed.

The Angoumois grain moth is one of the pests common in this section of the country and it attacks all the cereal grains. The moth is small, buff or yellowish brown with a wing expanse of about one-half inch. Infestation may begin in the field when the moth lays eggs on the wheat heads or tips of corn ears. When the egg hatches the larvae bore into the kernel and then the damage begins. Moths may be seen flying about in bins or granaries after the wheat is stored. These moths are also laying eggs that will hatch into the damaging larvae. The moth is unable to penetrate very deep in stored wheat, therefore the damage from this late infestation will be only the top 10-12 inches of the grain.

Grain stored in tight bins can be easily fumigated with carbon di-sulphide. Carbon disulphide is applied by sprinkling over the top of the grain. The heavy vapor penetrates through deep bins of grain and is highly toxic to the insects. Apply 3 pounds of carbon disulphide for each 100 cubic feet of space. Carbon disulphide is highly inflammable and extreme care should be taken to keep lanterns, cigarettes or sparks of any kind away from places where it is being used. The grain will quickly absorb the fumes of the gas and the damage from fire is not prolonged. The vapors should not be breathed for prolonged periods. Small quantities of carbon disulphide can be handled safely by the ordinary person, but persons having any heart trouble should take no part in its use.

Ear corn stored in ordinary grainaries is difficult and often impractical to fumigate unless the grainary can be made almost air tight. Infestation under such conditions can be reduced by removing all old corn and thoroughly cleaning the grainary before storing new corn. Since grain here and there accumulates in cracks and are not easily removed by sweeping the use of a commercial fly spray, containing pyrethrum is helpful in preparing a grainary for the storing of new corn.

New lawns, especially those where sub-soil has been used for grading should be fertilized with 1,000 lbs. of superphosphate and 500 lbs. of muriate of potash per acre before seeding. The soil should be tested to determine the need of lime. These fertilizers should be turned under to a depth of six to eight inches. If manure is available, a liberal application of it should also be turned under. After the soil has been prepared it should be raked to finish the preparation and remove stones and trash.

The new lawn should be seeded with a mixture of 4 parts by weight of blue grass and 1 part by weight of redtop. Sow at least 4 lbs. of seed per 1,000 square feet of surface. After the seed is sown, rake lightly and roll or tramp the surface to bring the seed in contact with the ground for good germination. Use a good grade of seed. In late February or March, sow 1.5 ounces of white clover per 1,000 square feet of surface.

Tobacco stalks placed on the lawn as soon as the tobacco has been stripped and left until March or April, as an excellent way to feed a new lawn. When the grass is about two inches tall the application of 5 pounds of nitrate of soda per 1,000 square feet of surface will supply an abundance of nitrogen.

Let the new grass grow 4 or 5 in. tall before cutting the first time and do not clip it closer than 2 inches.

Watering lawns in the summer is not always advisable as blue grass is usually making little or no growth in late summer and the water used may merely encourage the growth of crab grass. Information on the control of weeds, moles and ants in lawn may be obtained from the county agent's office.

CLUB HOUSE POSSIBLE THROUGH COOPERATION

The thriving farming community of Steels Creek in Gallatin county has an attractive club house due to the cooperation of the Fiscal Court, the local 4-H club, the homemakers club and of other adult leaders, relates Miss Jewell Wilson, home demonstration agent.

Formerly a one-room school house, the building was deeded to the 4-H club upon consolidation of rural schools in the county. Renovation started in the fall of 1947 when the 4-Hers and their leaders painted the exterior. Next was the wiring of the building for electricity, the young people paying their share with funds raised at an ice cream social. Then came the painting of the interior. Old benches and chairs were painted by the homemakers, husbands having repaired them. Present plans for the light, inviting room were completed with the hanging of cream window shades and floral draperies.

Future plans of the homemakers club of 14 members includes providing equipment for serving refreshments, sanding and refinishing the floor and buying additional chairs.

Lawn Care

Home owners, during late summer and fall, often look at their neglected lawns and wonder what can be done to restore them to their original good stand of desirable grasses and legumes.

In most cases the poor stands of grass are due to a deficiency of plant nutrients, according to Bill Davis, Boone County Farm Agent. Old sods can be improved by fertilizing, rolling, reseeding and regular clipping. Fresh soil should be added to fill depressions and the entire lawn resseeded with good seed. If the old sod is reasonably good, two pounds of blue grass seed per 1,000 square feet of surface should be sufficient. Reseed the lawn in September. Blue grass prefers a soil that is neutral to slightly acid rather than one that is alkaline, therefore, too much lime should be avoided. A top dressing of 500 pounds of superphosphate and 300 pounds of muriate of potash per acre should be sufficient to build up a reserve of plant food in the old lawn. Rolling the lawn in the spring does much to correct the unevenness of the surface.

Old lawns where practically no grass is present should be treated as new lawns.

Paying Tribute to Friend

The Women of the Richwood Presbyterian Church join in paying loving tribute to a true friend and fellow worker, Mrs. Kitty Taylor, who was called to her heavenly home July 19, 1949.

Her life was marked by loyalty to her Lord, her church, and Sunday school, in which she was for many years a beloved teacher. In the work of the Women of the Church she undertook every duty cheerfully and performed it efficiently. The memory of her beautiful life of love and service will be treasured as a real inspiration by all who were associated with her.—Pub. Com.

Paternal Regime

At the parting of the ways one cyclist turned into a side street and twisted round to wave a gay goodbye to his companions.

But he didn't know that during the day a temporary reservoir for fire-fighting had been erected there. His front wheel struck it, and over he went head first into the water. As his head emerged above the surface he was not downhearted. "What a Government!" he remarked with a grin. "Free gas-masks, free shelters, and now free baths!"

Matter of Dress

Loaded down with bundles, the little man anxiously looked about him in the crowded department store. A floorwalker approached him and asked, "Are you looking for something in men's wearing apparel sir?" "No, something in women's apparel," came the answer. "I can't find my wife."

You can be Charming
by Marsha Wheeler

Clothes are so much a part of charm it is wise to know how to judge a style. Whether you are selecting vacation clothes or a new fall wardrobe, ask yourself these questions.

Does the style make me lovelier or more glamorous? Will it be in style at least two seasons or for the life of the garment? Is it a basic style or a fad? Will it go with my accessories—my hat, shoes, gloves and purse?

Your words are you. Your most casual remarks are the reflection of your thinking. Day by day your thoughts and words slowly and accurately etch their meaning on your face.

If you look out upon the world through eyeglasses, it is much more important that they give clear, normal vision than a rose colored view. At the Queen Optical Company, skilled Doctors of Optometry give thorough, scientific eyeglass examinations and prescribe corrective lenses if required. Newest eyeglass frames. Rimless for those who prefer them. Frames repaired. Broken lenses replaced. Make a family visit to Queen Optical before school starts. No appointment necessary. 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati.

We have just returned from a 72-hour visit home—Kentucky. And on all sides we heard two questions—one, how did you like the elections? and, two, what's the outlook for business?

About those elections. State-wide we liked the results. Some, of course, we would have changed if we had had the right and authority.

ANSWER: Vice-President Barkley failed to get the Democratic nomination. It was his only political failure.

SHORT STORY

Ray Cashes In

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

NO ONE would have believed Ray Sharon capable of stratagem. One look at him and you would have catalogued him in the reserved, conservative class of young men who adhered to the accepted patterns dictated by propriety and convention. He was a good looking boy with soft brown eyes and a sensitive mouth. He worked as a clerk in the Southport Trust Company. There was a future there for him.

It occurred not even to Ray that the fine reputation he had could be used as an asset, cashed in on. Not that, until Phil Clairmont came to town.

Clairmont had been born in Southport. At 18 he had gone off to college and not returned. He had been a football hero, an All-American quarterback. After graduation he had sold bonds and coached football teams and written magazine articles on gridiron tactics and given a series of lectures over the radio. He had made quite a success.

Two winters later Phil returned to his home town for the Christmas holidays. The folks gave him quite a reception. They held parties for him and asked him to talk at this function and that. He stayed through New Year's, which was longer than he intended. The reason that he stayed was Sheila Farnsworth, who taught the seventh grade.

Sheila was a native of Southport. She had wheat-colored hair and blue eyes. She had known Ray Sharon all her life. She liked him. When they grew up and Ray began taking her around, she was quite happy.

PHIL CLAIRMONT met her at one of the many parties that were held in his honor. He remembered who she was and was quite surprised that she had grown up and blossomed into something that was easy to look at.

Sheila was, after all, only a normal girl. Phil Clairmont was famous. When Phil took an interest in her she was flattered. It gave her a recognition that most any girl would have delighted in. No one blamed her. No one condemned her for it. If anyone felt about it at all it was a sensation of envy. A few wondered about Ray Sharon. A smaller few felt sorry for him. Occasionally she saw Ray and thus it happened that one wintry night Ray and Sheila set out in the former's coupe for the distant town of Merikdale to attend a banker's ball there. It began to snow before they were a half hour on the road. "We'd better take the old road through the woods," he said. "It will shorten the journey by five miles."

Sheila thought this would be a good idea. They left the main highway and cut through the woods. But neither anticipated that the storm would reach such proportions. Two miles from the highway they got stuck.

Ray didn't mince matters. He confronted the situation squarely. The chances were even that both would perish. At any rate, he had something he wanted to ask Sheila and he didn't get a chance later on.

He asked it. Sheila thought of many things, among them what a nifty she'd been. Ray was the man she loved, the only man she could ever love. With death staring her in the face she realized this to be a fact. She put her arms around Ray's neck and told him exactly how she felt.

An hour later Sheila dropped off into a doze. When she awoke she was lying on a couch before a blazing fire. Ray was feeding her hot soup.

No one could have believed Ray Sharon capable of stratagem. He was too definitely catalogued. Which is why not even Sheila suspected that he had planned it all that he knew about the camp, had stocked it with firewood and provisions, had stalled his car on purpose, had removed most of the fuel. It had required a courage which he had never suspected he possessed to cash in on his assets.

"I'm sorry to hear that your husband is still in bed," Mrs. Jones said to Mrs. Smith. "Oh, there's no need to worry," Mrs. Smith replied cheerfully; "he's quite all right!" "Then why doesn't he get up?" asked Mrs. Jones. "Well, it's like this," Mrs. Smith explained. "When the doctor called about two months ago that my husband not to get up until he visited him again, and we rather think he's joined the Army."

Many Industrial Mishaps Caused by Poor Vision

Preventable eye accidents in American industry cost twenty million dollars in 1948.

Eye accidents occur at the rate of two a minute throughout the working day, and 98 per cent of them could be prevented by adherence to well-established safety rules according to the American Optometric association. Accident compensation claims and time loss are the major elements of the twenty million dollar cost. The association further stated that inefficient vision has been found to be responsible for one-fourth of all accidents in industry.

The elements of good vision for a job were cited as follows:

Near acuity—ability to focus and see well with both eyes and each eye separately at a distance of about 15 inches. This is the distance at which most factory and office work is done.

Distant acuity — the same as above for a distance of twenty feet or more. This is necessary to adapt yourself to the environment around you.

Adequate field of vision — ability to see both sides and up and down, while focusing on a small target. This saves unnecessary eye and head movements and protects your safety.

Depth perception — ability to judge space relationships. This is important for accuracy in almost any job and essential to safety around dangerous machinery.

Binocular co-ordination — ability to make the two eyes work well together like a good team of horses. Without this, vision is likely to be inaccurate.

U. S. Finds Older Workers Offer More to Industry

How does industry's experience with workers 45 and over compare with the younger age groups? The bureau of labor statistics has some interesting answers as a result of a detailed study of the work records of 17,800 employees working in 189 manufacturing plants at a great variety of occupations, most of them productive.

The survey found that workers in the older age group experienced fewer injuries per million man hours worked than those between 20 and 44. Furthermore, workers over 45 were steadier on the job and less likely to be absent as frequently as younger workers. The highest absentee rate was found among teen-age employees.

In addition to offering more highly developed skills and more mature judgment, the older worker tends to be more settled in his work and social habits.

The only disadvantage of older workers, it was found, was that once injured their disabilities last longer, reflecting lower recuperative powers. Injured workers between 45 and 59 lost from 18 to 19 days per disability as against 6 to 9 days for the 20-39 group.

Uncle Sam Says

Sitting on top of the world is the spot where most of us would like to be—free from financial worry—sure that our future and the future of those we love is secure. Your government is providing the opportunity to start climbing to that enviable spot—buy U. S. Savings Bonds the automatic way—the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bonds-Month Plan where you bank. The future will take care of itself when you save the safe, sure way. Your seat way up there is reserved the moment you enroll on one of these Savings Bonds Plans. This is YOUR OPPORTUNITY. U. S. American Legion Wins Softball Crown From Advertisers 7-4

The softball season in Walton was brought to a close last Thursday night when the Advertisers and the American Legion met for championship of the Walton Softball League. It was quite a battle, too. However, in the fifth frame, the Legionaires took a 7-4 lead and then held on to win the crown.

Joe Lemmons was on the mound for the winners and pitched good ball throughout. Bill McLaughlin huddled for the losers, but wildness coupled with errors caused his defeat. The Advertisers collected 8 scattered hits, while the Legion had only 5 bingles, but made the most of them. Don Rice was the hitting star for the losing team, with 3 solid smacks, while Al Warner led the Legionaires with a pair of safeties.

The crowd was not so large, but what it lacked in quantity was made up for in volume of voice. Each one present seemed to have picked his favorite and then let the fact be known in no uncertain terms. It was a battle right down to the wire, with the umpires getting in on some tough decisions, but what's a ball game without an argument or two? Nevertheless it was a good game and, we believe, all concerned had a good time this summer participating in and watching the games, and come next summer we hope to see bigger and better softball games on the local lot.

Revival At Independence Baptist Church Oct. 9-16

Rev. B. H. Hillard

The Independence Baptist Church is one of the 33 churches in Kenton, Campbell and Boone counties enlisted in the Simultaneous Evangelistic Campaign in which the slogan is, "Christ Is the Answer."

Our revival will last one week, October 9-16. We are favored with having two good men to assist us, Rev. B. H. Hillard, pastor of Lockland Baptist Church, the largest Baptist church in the state of Ohio, and the Lockland choir director, Mr. Youngblood, who will lead our singing.

Remember the dates—Oct. 9-16, at 7:45 p. m. Rev. Hillard will be with us both Sundays, as well as the evenings of the week. Everybody is welcome.—W. E. Maners, Pastor.

Marie Chapman, Verona, To Appear On Radio

Marie Chapman, wife of Cecil Chapman of Verona, will appear on a radio program in New York City in the near future. The program is a "missing persons" show and in this instance her father, whom she had not seen for years and did not know existed, appeared on this program asking their help in finding his daughter. They received a lead and contacted Mrs. Chapman, and she will be notified when she is to appear to meet her father for the first time in many years.

Four Names Withdrawn From Citizens Ticket In Local Council Race

The Citizens Ticket for Walton Town Councilmen has been reduced to one member, and Police Judge, according to information obtained from County Clerk Dewey Benson, Wednesday morning.

The only remaining member, who has not officially withdrawn, is Jesse Callen, and the Police Judge candidate, James R. Allen. The other members, Malcolm Simpson, Ward Rice, Harold Lusby and J. B. Johnson have already given notice to Mr. Benson to remove their names from the ballot. Most of these men in explaining their withdrawal from the race stated that they had no desire to run, in the first place, and that they had not been informed that their names were being placed on the ballot.

The Progressive Ticket, Dan J. Roberts, Powers R. Conrad, Russell M. Hall, Kyle Nicholson and Frank M. DeMolisey, remains the same, and will appear on the ballot. These men have served for the past two years.

1,000 Attend Baptist Rally In Newport, Sunday Afternoon

More than 1,000 representatives of thirty-three Northern Kentucky Baptist churches attended a giant rally at the First Baptist Church in Newport, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Presiding over the meeting were Rev. O. J. Steger, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Newport, and various other committee chairmen who had a part in the planning of the campaign. The speaker was Dr. S. F. Dows, Secretary, Department of Cooperative Missions, Home Mission Board, Southern Baptist Convention, who is the general director of the evangelistic effort. Dr. Dows' main emphasis was on personal soul winning. He stated that no single follower of Christ is absorbed from the duty and privilege of winning others to Christ. He commended the various committees for their excellent preparatory work.

Previously there had been five other special rallies in connection with planning for the simultaneous revivals. The men's rally was held at the Latonia Baptist church with 500 men present; the speaker was Dr. Ellis Fuller of Louisville, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Conference to Be Held In Christian Church, Sunday

Dr. Raymond F. McLain, president of Transylvania College in Lexington, will be one of the principal speakers at a convention for all laymen and ministers of Disciples of Christ churches in this area at 3:00 p. m., Sunday, October 9th at the Christian church in Walton. It was announced yesterday by the Rev. Fred Nichols, church pastor.

Dr. Raymond F. McLain

The convention is being held to further the work of the Crusade for a Christian World, nation-wide effort of the Disciples that now is entering its third and last year, Mr. Nichols said. He pointed out that the Crusade this year is to place emphasis on the support of Christian higher education. Leonard Boynton, former pastor of Victory Christian church in Lexington and a graduate of Transylvania, will represent the national organization at the convention.

Other speakers on the program will include Dr. Riley Montgomery, president of the College of the Bible in Lexington; E. Tipton Carroll, assistant to the president at Transylvania; the Rev. Charles B. Holder, Richmond, and Forrest King, state secretary of the Christian churches in Kentucky. The afternoon session will be from 3 to 5 p. m., a sandwich supper will be held from 5:30 to 7 p. m., and the night session will be held from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

The revival services at the Walton Baptist Church will continue through October 14th, each evening at 7:30. Good crowds and much interest is being manifested. Rev. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

Walton Rotarians Hear Television Explained

Television was the topic of the program at a meeting of the Walton Rotary Club, Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Ken Weaver of WLWT giving the information. Mrs. Weaver is better known here as the former Manell Stallard.

Mr. Weaver gave the history of television and some technical information on the business, while Mrs. Weaver, who has for some time appeared on various programs, gave the Rotarians an insight into the acting and broadcasting of TV. The program was secured by Powers Conrad.

Next week Jim Bob Allen will bring some valuable information on Fire Prevention.

CONRAD-STEINER

The honeymoon trip of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Steiner, who were wed September 18th in El Paso, Texas at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, took them to Chihuahua City, Mazatlan and Mexico City. Attending them were Mrs. Harold Conrad of Littlefield, Texas and Edward E. Steiner. The vows were said at 5:00 p. m.

Mrs. Steiner is the former Wanda Conrad of Walton, daughter of John W. Conrad of High Street. She is the sister of Mrs. R. Lann of Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride, dark haired and graceful, chose to wear a sheer gabardine suit for her wedding costume. Details of buttons on the pockets was the highlight of the suit's design. She wore gardenias and red roses in the corsage which topped the white Bible she carried for the rite. Mrs. Conrad's costume was a chocolate suit of gabardine, accented with a corsage of roses. After their two weeks' honeymoon in Mexico, they are now living at 701 East River St., El Paso, Texas.

On Parking Lot Wed., Oct. 12th

Pointing to Kentucky's loss of 121 lives and property destruction of more than $6,000,000 in the first six months of this year as terrible examples of the need for fire prevention Fire Chief James R. Allen today appealed to the public for observance of Fire Prevention Week which begins October 9th. He directed attention to the following four hazards as being responsible for most fatal fires in the state:

1. Careless use of matches and cigarettes.
2. Using kerosene to kindle fires.
3. Dry-cleaning with gasoline.
4. Inserting pennies in fuses and using wrong size fuses.

There are many causes of fires, but these are by far the more prevalent ones and we are asking all persons to concentrate of these worst hazards, during Fire Prevention Week," Chief Allen said. The property losses from January through June of 1949, reported in the annual survey of 2,400 fires, totaled $3,000,000. He pointed out, however, that these figures would be increased 25% in uninsured losses and small fires were reported to the state office of the Fire Marshal.

Demonstration October 12th

According to Chief Allen the Walton Volunteer Fire Department is going to try and put on a demonstration of latest equipment and methods used in combating fires on Wednesday night, October 12th on the Walton Parking lot at 8:00.

The department is working out a demonstration they hope will be beneficial and helpful for the community. Don't forget to attend this free demonstration of your fire department.

GOOD METHODS BRING PAYING FRUIT CROPS

B. N. Harris of Turkey Creek in Pike county, long a cooperator with the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Kentucky, cites his own records to show what can be done in fruit production when good methods are followed.

In 1947 he followed a spray schedule on his apple orchard of 150 trees and realized $2,200. The following year no spraying was done, and only $400 worth of apples was sold.
This year, he again carried out a spraying program, and also applied five pounds of nitrate of soda to every tree. To date, his income is above any previous year, and it is expected to reach $3,000. All apples sold for $2 a bushel, buyers bringing their own baskets.

Fifteen years ago, Mr. Harris set out 150 trees of the Golden Delicious, Rome Beauty and Winesap varieties on 2½ acres of hillside land valued at $25 an acre. For the first three years, he cultivated between the trees, but since that time lespedeza and red clover have replaced the cultivated crops. His records show that the spraying, including labor, cost less than $50 a year.

Seven-Day Religion

Lesson for October 9, 1949

EMPLOYERS don't care much for letters of recommendation signed by preachers. Not that they think preachers are dishonest. The employer is glad to know where the chap is on Sunday mornings. But he would rather have a letter from somebody who sees him every Saturday night and Monday morning.

Religion Won't Keep Sweet by Itself. It is a temptation as old as religion, to put it on one side of a wall and life on the other. But the prophets showed, once and for all, that God has literally no use for religion which has been dissected off from life. Religion which is kept apart from life turns sour and bad. In Isaiah's time, everybody knew there was something wrong with the country.

Isaiah's diagnosis was shocking: Religion is our principal trouble. God is tired of it. What? The pious people would exclaim. Look at the crowds in the Temple every holy day! Listen to all the prayers, count the number of tithes. If anything is wrong with our country, it can't be religion! But religion it was.

Why God Was Tired. A CATHOLIC priest would shock everybody should he call Vatican City "Hell's Half Acre." Isaiah shocked his fellow citizens by calling Jerusalem "Sodom and Gomorrah." Those cities were the worst places the Hebrews had ever heard of.

They were so bad the Lord had to destroy them by fire—not 10 good people could be found there. The prophet follows up that first shock by another. Every single expression of organized religion comes under the prophet's lash.

Sacrifices and offerings (v.11), attendance at the sanctuary, observance of the Sabbath and other holy days (v. 13), church gatherings, corresponding to our rallies and conventions (v. 13), even prayers (v. 15).

Put that into modern terms: attendance at church, Bible reading, tithing, praying—if that is all, then all is no good. It may be religion, and of course it is one kind of religion; but not the kind God wants.

Indeed, Isaiah says God hates it; he is "fed up" with it (v. 11). What was wrong? Isaiah tells them that, too, in short simple words. "Your hands are full of blood."

Oh, the people would protest, we are not killers, we don't lay a hand on anybody. Isaiah goes on to explain: seek judgment (i.e. justice), relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

You don't kill outright, you churchgoers, he would say, but you are so indifferent to justice in your city, you take so little interest in the people at the bottom of the heap, that people die here, widows and orphans die, simply because no one cares.

What Makes a Town Worth Saving? ALAS, nobody did care. One hundred and more years went by, and Jerusalem came close to its end. But nobody thought that disaster could strike. The belief had grown in every one's mind that the Temple of the Lord would forever insure the safety of the city in which it stood.

But a young prophet, Jeremiah, preached a sermon on the same theme as Isaiah's (Jer. 7): It is not the temple that will save you, it is not church attendance that will bring you the favor of God.

As the men of Jerusalem looked back to the great days of Moses, they thought of the sacrifices and offerings, the tabernacle and the rituals and all the pageantry and paraphernalia of a picturesque religion, as the great thing that God had given them.

But God remembered it otherwise. Jeremiah even says (with understandable exaggeration) that God had not said a word about sacrifices and offerings; the Ten Commandments, with all they implied, were the main thing.

What God looks for, back of all our church attendance and Bible reading, is "justice between a man and his neighbor." A place where that can be found is a good place.

I'm Serious!

Maybe you like smiling babies? Sorry to disappoint you, but I've got a lot on my mind.
There's something wrong in America . . . and I'm the chap who is getting hurt!
Our Constitution says that no one can be denied the right to worship God. I'm an American! According to the Constitution I have the right to learn about God, to hear the Bible Stories, to be taught the Christian Way of Life.
But here's the hitch. While the Government can't deny me the right to attend Church School and Church—MY PARENTS CAN. They can rob me of my most sacred right just by neglecting my spiritual needs.
Did you know that about half the children in America are growing up without religious training? And yet there's a church in every village!
Yesir, I'm serious! Instead of talking about juvenile delinquency, we ought to do something about it. We ought to crowd our churches with children . . . and parents! And we ought to start Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

President Truman's announcement that Russia had set off an atomic explosion was received calmly in the capital.

However, one real estate dealer reports a panic among certain people. The realty office has been flooded with telephone calls by folks who want to get a place in the country, far, far away from the target city of Washington. If that real estate man can be believed, all of Washington will be populated by part-time farmers.

Hundreds of rumors made the rounds after the Truman atomic announcement. But the hapless report was that the Russian explosion was an accident and with the blast, an entire atom bomb plant was wiped out and all atomic knowledge was blown sky-high.

No Deep Plot:
 There has been a lot of rumors that the appointment of former Senator Cooper to the UN was a plot of long standing to remove him from Kentucky politics. Not so!

His nomination to the U. N. was a swift-moving development that came to a climax in less than a week. Just previous to that, the popular Somerset man had planned to make a special tax course here in Washington and specialize in that type of practice. Almost overnight Senator Cooper's plans were changed.

No Orators:
 Something strange happened in the Senate the other day. Lawmakers were debating the military pay increase. Suddenly a silence fell over the chamber. Kentucky's Senator Chapman, who was leading the fight for the bill, looked to the other side of the aisle at the opposition. There was no response.

Suddenly, it dawned on the Senate that no one wanted to speak on the measure. The Senate—believe it or not—had run out of orators.

Back Home:
 Congressman Underwood of Lexington is back home from his tour of Europe. He wrote each day of his travels and his articles were eagerly awaited by his colleagues here in the capital. We were particularly impressed with one paragraph he wrote about the British. Tom Underwood said: "Come war or peace, the OPA or socialism, Britain yet will stand." That has been the optimistic view of many travelers to the United Kingdom. The British people, they say, will survive in spite of political and economic obstacles. And we join the Kentucky congressman in suggesting "There Will Always Be An England."

Do You Know:
 Congressman Brent Spence is coming home to help Dayton celebrate its centennial—Senator Withers is going to Texas to attend a national good roads meeting—Attorney General Funk was a recent Washington visitor—Rep. Frank Chief of Lebanon is home from his trip to Europe—Last reports from Congressman Gregory of Mayfield had him in Spain—A Washington columnist made a plea this week to news correspondents to let Vice President Barkley have some privacy.

Staffordsburg Homemakers
 Tuesday, September 27th marked the first fall meeting of the Staffordsburg Homemakers Club.

Hostess for the day was Mrs. Mabel Van Landingham, assisted by Mrs. D. B. Van Landingham. The retiring president, Mrs. H. L. Faulkner, presided at the morning meeting. Installation of the following officers took place: Mrs. Chester Hill, President; Mrs. Bluch Rich, Vice President; Mrs. Mabel Van Landingham, Secretary and Treasurer.

The lesson, "Clothing Guideposts for Fall," was presented by Mrs. H. L. Faulkner. The club voted to make a donation to the Crippled Children Fund, as a part of the Civic program. Mrs. Bluch Rich read an interesting letter from Mrs. Raymond Mayre, reporting on her trip to Germany. Guests for the day included Mrs. Mary Binder and Mrs. Shaler Marshall. Others present were Mesdames John Beall, William Binder, Denver Binder, Lou Deuser, William Gadner, J. A. Keeney, George Klein, Wm. Miller, Roy Payne, Stella Richardson, Emil Stein, Edith Ware, Della Williams, John Shaw and Miss Zelma Byerly, Home Agent—Pub. Chm.

Charm is important to young people too. Boys and girls do better in their school work, in sports, in vacation jobs and their home chores when they feel the security of good looks. Girls want to look like movie queens and boys like their sports heroes, though their age dictates fashions no film star or sportsman would be caught dead wearing.

Adolescent charm means conforming strictly to the group. Mature charm is the expression of individuality.

A woman is more beautiful if she knows she is loved. A husband is more successful if he knows he is appreciated. Children grow to normal adulthood when they are secure in unemotional love. If your children wear glasses, be sure they look good in their glasses, both when they are looking through them and when others are looking at them.

Bring your children to the Queen Optical Company for complete eyeglass examination, for scientifically prescribed and precision ground lenses, and for good looking frames styled especially for young people. At Queen Optical, no appointment is necessary. 13 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati.

STAFFORDSBURG

The wonderful weather over the weekend was enjoyed to the full by everyone.

We had a good number at Sunday school. How we wish all could find it possible to stay for preaching service. While each has its place, we should not neglect one for the other. Come and worship.

We are every glad that Mrs. W. E. Hanna, who has been convalescing at the home of her son, returned to her home on Sunday and is doing nicely.

Mrs. Stella Richardson, Mrs. Inez Beall and Miss Ophelia Lamb were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney and son.

Mrs. John Klein is confined to her bed from injuries sustained in a fall on the cellar steps.

The Staffordsburg homemakers club held its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Mabel Vankandingham. First thing on the program was installation of the new officers. Much interest was shown in the planning of the year's work schedule. The hostess and her aids served a wonderful luncheon at noon. The only project of the day was a style preview given by Mrs. Faulkner. All members were present, as well as one visitor. A bit late we adjourned to meet next with Mrs. Edith Ware.

Mrs. Garnet Craigmyle was so very unlucky to fall from the table in Dr. Berger's office last Friday and break a bone in her hip.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Deuser had as guests Thursday evening for dinner, their pastor and family from Bethany Lutheran church, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tieman.

On the Kalamazoo Farm in Washington county, 10 acres of alfalfa seeded on limed and phosphated land in 1948 yielded 49 tons of hay this year.

F. W. Rickard of Clark county has a new tobacco barn with five-foot tiers, sliding doors permitting half of the side of the barn to open for ventilation.

Almost 100 percent of the tobacco acreage in Marshall county will be seeded to cover crops, except where strawberries will be set in the spring.

GLENCOE

Mrs. Blanche Poland was home over the weekend.

J. D. Sutherland has torn down the old shop and is planning to build a house in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomas spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Steward and daughter and Robert E. Snow and two children spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Snow.

Mrs. Zelma Snow is in King Daughters Hospital, Frankfort. We hope for her early recovery.

Mrs. Walter Castleman was called to Homer Castleman's due to the illness of a daughter.

Uncle Dave Scott is very low at the home of Bro. Stephenson.

Miss Jennie Taylor is visiting her niece, Helen Robinson in Indiana.

James W. Spencer, wife and little son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Crouch.

A bus of about 40 children went from the Church of Christ to the Zoo Saturday and had a very nice day.

George Thompson of Davless county is building a trench silo which will hold about 300 tons of feed.

TOBACCO IRRIGATED
Irrigating tobacco may pay handsome returns, thinks W. W. Johnson of Boyle county. Where he irrigated this season he expects to harvest 2,000 pounds of tobacco an acre. Where no water was used, he thinks he may not get more than 1,500 lbs. he told County Agent John Brown. He irrigated 2 1/2 acres in his crop of 6.9 acres.

"The taxable property of Boone County in 1846 was $3,322,137. The number of acres of land, 153,339, and the average value of each are $14.39. There are 1959 white males over 21 years of age, and 2104 children between the ages of 5 and 16."

How does that compare with the Boone County of 1949?

TWO-YEAR PROGRAM BOOSTS FERTILITY

Keith S. Venable, farm agent in Trigg county, tells of a farmer who built up his soil in two years' time. In 1927, when he visited Berlie Futrell on this creek-valley farm, he found a small yield of sorghum being harvested and corn producing only 20 bushels of corn to the acre. This year, he probably will make 80 bushels of corn an acre.

Mr. Futrell started his soil-building program in the fall of 1947 when he seeded rye. Lime and phosphate were applied the following spring to the lespedeza sowed in the rye. In the fall, the lespedeza was turned and crimson clover seeded. Last spring he broadcast 400 pounds of 6-8-6 an acre, turned the crimson clover, used 200 pounds of complete fertilizer in the row, and later sidedressed the corn with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate.

In McCreary county, 3,400 pounds of Ky. 31 fescue have been seeded in the past 12 months. Albert Hickman seeded 500 pounds.

Many truck gardeners in Jefferson county sold yellow sweet corn for 10 cents more per dozen ears than field corn roasting ears.

God and Nations
Lesson for October 16, 1949

WHEN the Spanish fleet was about to invade England, back in Queen Elizabeth's time, nothing the English had could stop them. But when the Armada arrived, that vast fleet had been blown to bits by a storm, and the English mopped up what was left. How do you account for that? The English always said God was with them. When the Nazis had a veritable France in 1940 it would have been simple for them to invade England. There was next to nothing to stop them. But Hitler delayed from summer till fall . . . and by that time the British were able to mount an invincible defense. How do you account for that? Over and over again in history the unexpected, the unexpected, the "miraculous," has happened. Some call it chance; but others call it God.

God In History
BUT GOD does not always or usually operate in spectacular ways. God works in history as he works in nature, out of sight, visible to the eye of faith but seldom if ever otherwise. History, from the Christian point of view, is the working-out of the purposes of God.

The pattern is not entirely clear to us, because we cannot see enough of it at once. But looking back through history, we can see signs that God has been there. This is the message of the prophets of Israel, especially of the great Isaiah.

In a troubled era, when everything seemed to be in most complete confusion, Isaiah gave out some clear and plain truths from God, and helped men then and now read the pattern of God's design.

The Life Of A Nation
ONE TRUTH is that justice is a nation's life and sin is a nation's death. God being the God of justice, his purpose is to set justice in the earth. God plays no favorites among nations. Any nation that lives by God's laws, lives; that nation that defies God has signed its own death warrant. There are no peoples who can "get by" with what they please, if what they please is not the will of God. There are people now who do not believe that. They would say, Look at Russia! In Isaiah's time there were those who would say to Isaiah: You must be wrong—look at Assyria! There is a nation that does not know God, and yet grows every year stronger and stronger.

God's Ax
ISAIAH has a startling answer to that objection. (Chap. 10.) Assyria is a tool in God's hand, no more. He admits that Assyria has no standard but force, she worships only sheer Power. But there are other nations, wicked ones, which God intends to punish: one of these is the nation of Israel.

Assyria was destined to destroy Israel once and for all, and to damage Judah so severely she never would recover. All this, Isaiah says, is in God's plan.

God does not punish an evil nation with legions of angels; he punishes it with invasions and defeats in war. Assyria was an ax in the hand of God, cutting down the rotting trees of selfish and unjust nations.

Return To God!
PEOPLE in Isaiah's time were putting their trust, just as we do nowadays, in alliances, pacts, international combinations of all kinds. Isaiah warns ominously that this will not do, by itself. Not that all alliances are bad; in chapter 19 he actually pictures Assyria, Egypt and Israel as brothers-in-arms.

But he does not hold out any political scheme or combination as the best hope of a nation. Return to God! Is the prophet's call. So in our time, whether it be a general MacArthur or a theologian Bruner.

Rich Harvest

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

These are the products of man's labor—and God's. From the moment the seedlings were placed in the warm earth, they have been under constant care.

First came the rain and the sun—and then the ceaseless work of fertilizing, cultivating, and spraying. Last, came harvest time, when the proud growers gathered the rewards of their labor.

Only by such diligence, can we hope for a truly bountiful crop. God has given the refreshing rain and warm sunshine, but He expects us to do our part.

And so it is with the care and cultivation of our spiritual lives. Man is endowed with many talents and qualities, but unless he tends and nurtures these gifts, they will not increase and grow.

Harvest time in the life of every person is at maturity, when men are at the peak of their usefulness and wisdom. By attending the services of the Church and by studying the Scriptures, we will realize greater happiness and contentment here on earth—and will be preparing ourselves for the RICH HARVEST of a life hereafter.

Legion Halloween Party

The entertainment committee of Johnson-McElroy Post, 277, American Legion, has announced the following plans for the Legion home in the near future:
On Thursday, Oct. 20th the Home will be used by the Walton-Vernon Catholic Church for the purpose of a celebration party. On October 22 the Walton Volunteer Fire Department will hold sway at the hall as they entertain their fellow fire eaters from surrounding towns. Then on Saturday, Oct. 29, 1949, the Legion will sponsor a gay and colorful Halloween party at the hall. Jack Cahill's orchestra will again furnish the music for your dancing and listening pleasure. Look for the Legion Halloween Party ad.

Legion Hall Available

The American Legion would like to take this opportunity to offer the use of their home to any organization, firm or individual for wedding or anniversary receptions or any other acceptable social function. Arrangements can be made through any Legion officer or members of the entertainment committee.

Hall Open

Don't forget the Legion hall is open every evening except Sunday and Monday from 8:00 p. m. till midnight. We will appreciate your patronage.

Attend District Conference

On Sunday, October 9th, Legionaires Joe Lemmons and Dick Veeman and Auxiliary President Mrs. Joe Lemmons attended the Legion 6th District conference at Post 11, Newport. State and National officers were present and their talks were very interesting and enlightening.

Mr. Shaffer, National Field Agent for the American Legion, reported on hospitalization and veterans' affairs throughout the nation. The picture painted by him was not a very flattering tribute to the many veterans and their families who, upon returning to normal post-war life, promptly forgot about their loss fortunate comrades who are still suffering and paying the price of War.

The Veterans Administration has found it necessary to cut out approximately 15,000 beds from V. A. hospitals recently and the future seems to hold more drastic cuts.

Men in our own home town are right now waiting, while the Legion fights to obtain bed space for them in the hospitals. If there is a shortage of beds now, what chance will the veteran have after more cuts become effective, and more and more veterans begin to feel the results of the wounds and ravages of war?

You Can Help

Loyalty is a powerful force in any organization or nation, and if the normal, healthy (very lucky) veterans of today, who stood side by side and was loyal to his comrades in battle, would again stand by his comrades and join with them, their numerical strength would be enough to discourage any congressman or group of congressmen from ever attempting to cut just one bed from any veterans hospital.

The time to help your less fortunate comrades and protect your own veterans' rights is NOW! Join your local American Legion Post and find out how it can be done.—Legion Pub. Chm.

Rabies In County Cause For Action

The fox hunt scheduled for the first week in November has been called off until next year, according to an announcement by Bill Scroggin, club president. After consulting Sheriff Rouse regarding the present rabies quarantine in the county, it was decided that there was too much risk in gathering dogs from all sections of the state, and other states as well, even if the quarantine should be lifted a few days before the hunt was scheduled to start.

It is regretted that the hunt will not be held this year as it has proven highly successful every since the club has been organized. Many people even plan their vacations to conform with this established annual affair. If it were possible to stamp out the dreaded rabies (Mad dog) menace that seems to crop out every year in some part of the county, much suffering and anxiety could be eliminated. The best authorities recommend that all stray dogs be exterminated and that every dog owner see to it that his dog is inoculated against rabies. The serum used for this purpose has been improved recently as reported and an even greater amount of protection to stock and human beings is afforded at a very small cost.

Trust God
Lesson for October 23, 1949

SHOOTING WARS and cold wars were going on. A great whirlpool of international intrigue was roaring around and around, and Judah was in the midst of everything. The star of the once-great-empire of Egypt was setting, and the star of the new and powerful nation of Assyria was rising. Judah was only one of 20 or more little countries between those giants. Some of the little nations were trying to take advantage of the disturbed situation by getting up little empires of their own. All of them were scheming and scrambling for place in the sun. Some were betting on Assyria, some on Egypt; no one knew just what to expect, but every one was afraid.

Dr. Foreman

Cowardly King, Bold Prophet INTO ISAAH'S little country of Judah an invading army was marching, and the hearts of king and people trembled "like leaves in the wind." Little Judah was being invaded by a combination of two ambitious powers, Syria and Israel, either one larger and stronger than Judah. Isaiah had to go out and try to calm the mind of the King. It was of no use; it was clear that King Ahaz did not believe the prophet. But Isaiah was right nevertheless.

The foreign army that looked so big would not win the war. The alliance that looked so frightening did not last. It could not last, because God was against it. Military men and others too find such things hard to believe.

Is not God "on the side of the largest battalions"? Is not "Gith" the fustest with the moosest men? The one and only recipe for victory? Nevertheless, the prophet was right. In fact, whenever a prophet raised a banner inscribed, "Trust in God," it was sure to be at a time when things were going smoothly in the world. That banner most often appeared in times of trouble, of darkness and dismay, of wars and invasions.

Leagues Don't Always Last The situation had a different angle, later on. The Syria-Israel invasion collapsed, just as Isaiah said it would. But still the little nations jockeyed and maneuvered. It looked like a death-grapple between Assyria and Egypt and every nation wanted to be on the winning side. So it was a great time of treaty-making, of pacts and agreements and alliances.

Isaiah changed the form of his message to suit the changing times, but the core of it was still the same. To King Ahaz he had said: Don't be afraid of hostile alliances; trust in God. To King Hezekiah and others he said, in effect: Don't put all your hope in alliances; trust in God. Egypt will fail you, any alliance you form will melt away in time.

But God will not melt away. You can depend on him. Now in our time the situation is strikingly like what it was in Isaiah's day. People today are tempted to put their trust in what is big and imposing. Big nations, big armaments, big armies, big alliances.

Men once put their trust in the League of Nations, and it died of cowardice and dishonesty, among other things. Millions put their trust in the Axis, and for awhile it looked as if the Axis powers would overstep the earth. But the Axis vanished under the blows of the Allies.

Are All Alliances Bad?

THIS does not mean that no alliance is good, or that no treaty can be relied on, or that the United Nations (for instance) is bound to collapse. What Isaiah is driving at is this: God has a Purpose to work out in this world, and the name of it is Justice, Righteousness, Peace, Love.

Any nation or combination of nations, any pact or agreement or program, that goes against God's purpose is going against the grain of things and is bound to fall. Pure "power politics" always looks impressive; but the question is: What is the power going to be used for? If it is really for the benefit of mankind, God will bless it; if it is selfish and unjust; if it is against the peace of the world, it will fail, because the God of Justice has set his face against it.

of such weapons is to be found in the Church. In order to equip more people with the banners of Christianity, in order to bring us all a fuller realization that the Church can save the things we hold dear, there is appearing in this newspaper each week a series of religious pages. They contain beautiful, human-interest pictures, and the brief, colorful stories serve us all as reminders of our religious obligations.

This series is part of a nation-wide campaign designed to stimulate and renew interest in the Church—a need which concerns the very nature of our living. And the people making this program possible, in cooperation with this newspaper, are those whose shops and establishments line the streets of our town. At the bottom of these pages is a list of names—the laymen and businessmen who feel the necessity for bringing the Church within the vision and grasp of more people.

To do this is to strengthen our way of life, to better it, and to make it more secure against the forces which seek its destruction.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Uncle Sam Says

Next to a stack of golden grain in the field or a tree loaded with fruit, a farmer's proudest possession is his sack of U. S. Savings Bonds. These Bonds enable him to oil up his financial machinery and maintain a reserve which insures his home, land, livestock and equipment. His future is secure. The wise farmer builds his financial reserve in Savings Bonds from profits when his crops are good. That reserve is the windbreak against a stormy period. And it grows, $4 for every $3 invested in ten years.

Chimes—

The publisher of a country newspaper was urging the owner of a general store to advertise. "I have been in this town for 30 years," said the merchant. "Every man, woman and child knows where my store is and what I sell. I do not need to advertise."

"Am," said the newspaper publisher pointing across the street, "how long has that church been on that corner?" "It's been there as far back as I can remember—right onto 50 years," replied the storekeeper. "And yet," said the publisher, "they ring the church bell every Sunday morning!"

In Loving Memory—of my beloved husband, Ernest Hartman, who passed away October 17, 1948.

One year has passed since that sad day. The one I loved was called away. God took him home. It was His will; but in our hearts, he liveth still. The flowers we place upon this grave may wither and decay, But love for him who sleeps beneath, Will never fade away.

Sadly missed by his loving wife, Willa, and son, John

Social Season:

Kentuckians in the capital are getting ready for the social season. The Kentucky Society of Washington will start things with a bang on November 11, with a square dance at one of the top hotels. And then, throughout the winter there will be dances in honor of Chief Justice Vinson, Vice President Barkley and all the rest. Festivities end in April at a Pre-Derby Festival.

South Trimble, Jr. is president of the Kentuckians.

Historic Flag:

Dayton, Ky., is celebrating its 100th birthday this week. And the Campbell county city is to receive the historic flag that flew over the capital on the day lawmakers took an important step in molding our foreign policy.

That was the day members of the Senate-House Conference Committee finally approved that bill to provide the democracies of western Europe with arms and ammunition to hold off any aggressor.

The flag that whipped in the Washington breeze on that day, will become the property of Dayton as a souvenir of the city's centennial. Dayton's Mayor Reekers says the banner will fly over his community only on special occasions.

Series Notes:

Vice President Barkley's office will never be the same.

The veep had a television set installed in his office during the world series. And as soon as a senator finished a speech on the floor, he would rush out to watch developments between the Yanks and the Dodgers. The office looked like Fountain Square on New Year's Eve. It was no unusual sight to see a senator rush in the chamber, walk up to the presiding officer and whisper the latest score.

Do You Know:

Senator Withers is in Texas attending a national meeting of highway officials. The capital is well-coming Ed Seiler, Kentucky state treasurer, who has joined the De-

Uncle Sam Says

During the years America was growing up, Grandma hid her savings in the old, cracked teapot, the tin canister, or even that old horse-hair mattress. This was the hard way to save and her denials of many things to build those savings sometimes came to naught. Thieves, fire or other hazards wiped out her savings in a jiffy. Today we have the finest and surest way ever invented to build security for the future—the U. S. Savings Bonds way. This means you can put aside, every pay day, part of what you earn by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Either way, you get back $4 for every $3 invested in just ten years.

Why The Moon Shines

Rays of light reflected from the earth cause the moon to shine for these reasons: Ordinarily the moon shines with light which falls on it from the sun and is then deflected to the earth. However, when the moon is nearly new and appears as a narrow crescent in the western sky just after sunset, we sometimes faintly see the whole moon explain G. E. scientists. The bright crescent is illuminated directly with sunlight, but the rest is made visible by sunlight that has fallen on the earth and then it is reflected back to us again. This effect is often called "the old moon in the new moon's arms."

GASSING PLANTBEDS BEATS OLD METHODS

That the use of methyl bromide gas to kill weed seeds in tobacco plantbeds is two to three times as effective as steaming and 10 times as much so as burning, was stated by Russell Hunt, expert on problems of tobacco growing at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the University of Kentucky. Cost for treating a bed 100 by 9 feet is about $9.50.

Although this new gas treatment may be used in the spring, it is better to use it any time from July to the time cold weather sets in. Soil should be moist and warm, a temperature of 55 degrees or more being necessary.

During the past year, more than 20,000 farmers in the state have seen demonstrations by Mr. Hunt of this weed killing method.

NEW SUPERVISOR FOR DEMONSTRATION WORK

Miss Vandilla Price has been appointed assistant state leader of home demonstration work at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. She will supervise the work of home demonstration agents in 23 counties in the southeastern part of the state.

Miss Price, who has been home demonstration agent in Bell county for the past seven years, was graduated from Berea College. Her experience includes that of teaching home economics and serving as state supervisor for three years in the school lunch program.

Carey Ginn of Trimble county receives on an average $5,000 per year from his dairy herd.

After investing $5 in spray materials, Arthur Keith of McCreary county harvested more than $100 worth of apples.

Twenty-nine 4-H club members in Laurel county sold strawberries for a total of $1,990 this year.

Through the use of cover crops turned under as manure, Henry Creech of Harlan county harvested 61 bushels of corn to the acre where six bushels were once produced.

SLIPCOVERS HELP TO RECLAIM FURNITURE

When Grant county homemakers learned to make slipcovers, they found a way to reclaim a dozen different pieces of furniture, reported Miss Gertrude Burroughs, county home furnishings chairman, at the annual meeting of the county homemakers association. The 116 slipcovers made were for sewing machines, vanity stools, rockers, beds, upholstered chairs, studio couches, sofas, slipper chairs, backs and seats of kitchen chairs, porch gliders, wicker chairs and dressing tables. Thirty-six women padded chairs in preparation for slipcovers, and 46 women repaired 86 chairs.

R. R. Richards of Madison county has built a 34x66 poultry house with a concrete floor, feed room in the center, fireproof roof and piped-in water.

Fleming county farmers who used toxaphene on tobacco for worms reported excellent results.

Harold Dunn of Garrard county sold more than $1,100 worth of lambs and wool from a flock of 49 Hampshire sheep.

Four dairymen in Bullitt county have built and filled silos this year, and two have completed milking parlors.

Ray Thompson of Larnie county sold 14,000 broilers this year and plans to have 2,000 laying hens this winter.

You can be Charming

by Marsha Wheeler

This fall, Fashion says—"Stick a feather in your hat!"

But have you discovered that you can't wear your smartly quilted hat and sit upright in your post-war car?

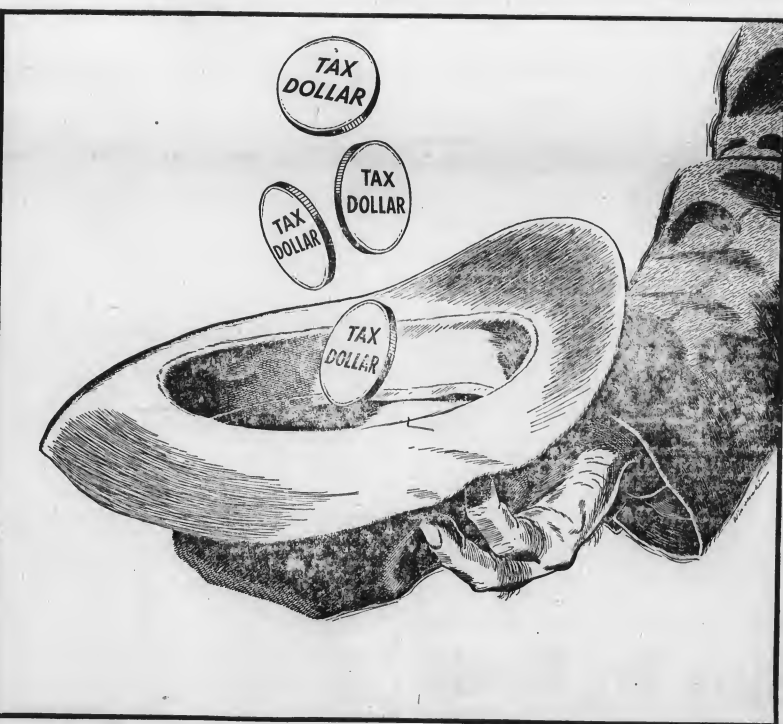

Here are two suggestions:

One—Remove the feathers, cut them to shorter height and reweave to your hat.

Second—Wear your hat sideways with the feather at a horizontal angle and straighten it when you leave the car. Or wear your hat on the seat beside you until you are parked. But in every case, duck your head getting in and out of the car.

as accessories. Well so they are, and for efficient vision the lenses should be scientifically prescribed and ground.

But think of them also as a jeweled accessory. Choose eyeglass frames from the beautiful selection of fashion-right frames for all ages at the Queen Optical Company, 12 East Sixth Street in Cincinnati. Complete eyeglass service at one moderate cost. Open Saturdays. No appointment is necessary.

"It's not our hat!"

The Southern Railway doesn't pass the hat for your tax dollars.

Other forms of commercial transportation use highways, airports and waterways that are built and maintained with your tax dollars—and ours.

But railroads are strictly on their own. Every penny they spend to build and maintain their own steel "highways" comes right out of the railroads' pockets—not yours.

We're glad we are not in the "hat-passing" class. We prefer to stand on our own financial feet in the old-fashioned American way. And we believe that if there were no hat-passers in the transportation business it would be better for you and for all America.

MORE INTEREST IN RAISING LIVESTOCK

Improvement of the soil, including using more land for grass and hay crops, is creating interest in stock-raising throughout Kentucky, according to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

One method of building up herds of cattle advocated by the college is called the "Kentucky Cow and Calf Plan." Beginning with a few cows and breeding to good bulls, a farmer soon finds himself owning a profitable herd.

Some points in the plan are: Select healthy, thrifty heifers or cows of fair dairy breeding or mixed dairy and beef breeding capable of enough milk to raise a good calf. Use high-quality purebred beef bulls.

Breed cows to calve in December, January or February.

Breed heifers 15 to 20 months old. Provide plenty of good pasture for spring, summer and fall, and an abundance of good hay for winter.

Supply salt, fresh water and shade. Creep-feed shelled corn or cracked small grain whenever there is not enough milk and pasture.

Sell calves off the cow in early November.

Buy breeding herd replacements 6 to 12 months old.

Winter-dry cows on home-grown roughage, pasture and such other feed as needed.

SHORT STORY

Best Alibi

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

MAX SANDERS' home had been robbed of jewels valued at $50,000. The jewels were kept in a wall safe behind a picture in Max's study, which was located on the second floor of his Beverly Hills home.

Inspector Ray Beatty was assigned to the case. Leo MacDougal, a police officer, who had been summoned from his beat, showed Inspector Beatty the evidence that had thus far been discovered.

First there was a ladder placed against a window that opened into a second floor hall. This window had been discovered open.

Inspector Beatty told MacDougal to summon all the servants. Then he questioned them. They all had good excuses. Sid Furbush, a secretary, had spent the night at the movies with a friend. Edwards, the butler, had read in his room until Mr. and Mrs. Sanders returned from a party, when he admitted them.

It was right after that, that Mrs. Sanders went to the safe to replace the jewels she had worn, and found the others gone.

Martha Greene, the housekeeper, had been in her room all evening. Her room was located on the second floor. She had gone down to find the jewels.

"The robbery was committed before you placed the ladder there."

The kitchen about 10 o'clock for a bite to eat and found Viola Matson, the maid, there with her boy friend. Returning, Martha had passed Edward's room and seen Edwards sitting by his table, reading. INSPECTOR BEATTY dismissed the servants and went back to the study. He examined every inch of it. Then he went into the hall and examined that. He also examined the window and the ladder and the ground below the window. It had rained a little the night before and he found some footprints beside the ladder. They looked like men's footprints.

Inspector Beatty sought out Sid Furbush. He asked the secretary if Max Sanders held business conferences in his study. Furbush said that he did.

"The chances are, then, that he's had occasion to open the safe when others were present?"

"It's quite likely."

"I want as complete a list as you can make me of all the people you've known to be in the study during the past month."

Inspector Beatty left Sid Furbush making out the list, summoned MacDougal and went down the hall. He entered one door after the next, first knocking to make sure the room was empty. Presently he returned to the hall, bearing a pair of shoes.

Carrying the shoes he returned to the study and asked Furbush if they were his shoes.

"Why, yes," said Furbush. "Why? Where did you get them?"

"Out of your closet. I searched the closets of all the servants till I found a pair of shoes with some mud on the soles. It was you who committed the robbery."

"You're crazy. That's a cockeyed theory. The robber came up the ladder."

"No," said Inspector Beatty, "that's only what you expected to believe. That's why you put the ladder there and left the window open. The robbery was committed before you placed the ladder there."

"How do you know that? You can't prove it."

"I won't have to. What I can prove is that no one came up the ladder. It rained last night. There was mud. There's mud on your shoes. The shoes fit the footprints at the foot of the ladder. Yet there is no mud at all on the rungs of the ladder. If there had been I would have probably been fooled and not been sure that some one inside committed the theft. Besides you had the best alibi. I checked with the man with whom you said you attended the movie. He broke down and confessed everything."

MacDougal was amazed. Afterwards he said to Beatty: "I didn't know you checked with Furbush's friend. When did that happen?"

"It didn't," said Beatty.

BIG CORN PRESPECTS

County Agent Hugh Hurst of Pulaski county believes Grider Anderson will pick at least 150 bushels of corn an acre, and possibly 225 bu. Reason: Rows are 19 inches apart, with stalks every 14 to 15 inches. In a recent visit to the field, Hurst saw a good-sized ear on nearly every stalk.

"With the American Legion for America," That's the Auxiliary

"With the American Legion for America." That single statement tells the whole story of the American Legion Auxiliary. The American Legion Auxiliary has only one purpose and that is to help the American Legion in the Legion's great work for America. We are making our membership drive so that we will have greater strength to help more efficiently. The women of the Auxiliary work side by side with the men of the Legion, carrying out that part of Legion activities which can best be done by women.

The Auxiliary gives especially effective help in serving disabled veterans, in aiding needy children of veterans and in teaching the principles of Americanism. We work with the Legion in community projects, help them in their Post programs and share in their social activities.

Membership in the Auxiliary thus gives us a broad field of common interest with the men of our families who belong to the American Legion. As Auxiliary members we understand their problems and projects and are in a position to help them achieve their purposes. We are urgently inviting all wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of Legionnaires to come into the Auxiliary at this time and join with us as we go forward, "With the American Legion for America."

Anyone wishing to join the Auxiliary is cordially invited to attend the next meeting of Johnson-McElroy Unit, 277, on October 11th at 8:00 p. m. in the Legion Home—Aux. Pub. Chm.

Large Crowd Hears Review of Bible At Simon Kenton

The Kenton County Garden and Cultural Club and a large audience of people from Kenton, Boone and Verona, heard Mrs. Garten's "Review of the Bible as Living Literature," at Simon Kenton school last Thursday evening.

"Solomon was not so wise, nor Job so patient," said Mrs. Garten. "Why Solomon had hundreds of wives plus hundreds of concubines. No really wise man would clutter up his personal life like that. When you hear people speak of Solomon's wisdom and Job's patience," she continued, "they have not delved very deep into the Bible."

"There is a beauty contest in the Bible where the niece of the janitor walked off with the prize. The best mother-in-law story in the world is right in this book. It has two plays and innumerable stories. There is poetry to be sung in the Psalms. And like our songs today it is divided two ways. Turn on your radio most any time and you will hear moaning how. They did in those days, too, but there were songs of rejoicing, also."

"Abraham, with knife poised to sacrifice his beloved son, Isaac, until the last ram, can be paralleled today," said Mrs. Garten. "Some of you right in this audience are prepared to sacrifice your sons on the altar of democracy." "Who knows," she added, "it might be that we could have our sons if we would sacrifice what the ram stands for in today's counterpart—oil, grain, and world trade routes, for example."

After the stormy, dramatic, colorful story of the Old Testament, Mrs. Garten then turned to the New Testament. "That," she said, "is the greatest of biographies." She then used her skill in interpretation to tell the story of Jesus as he appeared to his friends.

As usual, Mrs. Garten charmed her audience, not only with her resonant voice and acute sense of the dramatic, but also by her appearance. Her ensemble this time was grey crepe and lace. Mrs. William R. Brown, President of the Club, introduced the speaker.

Sacred music for the review was given by Mrs. Ruth Pickens Strain, mezzo, who is an artist of the piano.

FLORENCE NEWS

Kennedy-Utley

An early autumn event of particular interest in the Florence community was the candlelight wedding at 7:30 p. m., October 8, 1949, performed in the Florence Christian Church uniting Miss Jean Kennedy and Mr. Roy Nelson Utley. The bride is the daughter of Walter L. Kennedy of Birmingham, Ala., and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cam Kennedy.

The altar was banked with palms, ferns and other greenery, intermingled with baskets of white chrysanthemums and spires of white gladioli and over all fell the soft glow of candlelight. Pews for close friends and relatives were marked with bows of white satin ribbon.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Robert Moore, soprano, sang, "Always," "Because" and the traditional, "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harold Martin, who also played Lohengrin's Wedding March as the bridal party entered the church.

After the vows had been spoken, Mrs. Moore sang the "Lord's Prayer." Rev. H. L. Reid performed the impressive double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Cam Kennedy.

The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Charlotte Ann Kennedy of Birmingham, who was attired in teal blue taffeta with sweetheart neckline, graceful flaring skirt and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bride's white slipper satin gown was fashioned along princess lines with full skirt and train that fell from a fitted long-sleeved bodice. Her illusion veil was held to her head by a coronet of seed pearls caught on either side by a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried red roses and baby breath.

The groom and his best man, Mr. William Rowland, were appropriately dressed for the occasion.

Ushers were William Holmes and Rowland Hinch. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Florence Community Hall with Mrs. Rowland Hinch, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Victor Lampe, a cousin, presiding at the punch bowls.

The happy couple departed by plane for an undisclosed destination. Following their honeymoon trip, they will reside on McAlpin Ave., Erlanger.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. L. Lemons of Pontiac, Mich., and Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. Stella Harter, Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Connelly of Frankfort, and Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Hinch and daughters, Mary and Nancy, of Middletown, Ohio.

Choose The Best!
Lesson for October 30, 1949

THURST Isaiah's patriotism, and his religion too, to see how fast his country was going down hill. Most of the troubles Isaiah saw are with us today. Wealthy women spending more and more on themselves; leaders who are irresponsible, self-seeking and incompetent; poverty unprevented and uncorrected; drunkenness, and other prophets as well, saw in the sin and drunkenness of Dr. Foreman the times the sign and symbol of national decay. To the careless, the selfish and the wild, to those who were "leaders" but were leading in the wrong direction, Isaiah kept saying, in many different ways, Choose the best!

The Prophets' Successors

THERE WAS A TIME when the church put most of her preaching emphasis on individual religion: Get right with God! was the cry. The church of today has not by any means given up her emphasis on personal religion, but we are learning from the prophets what social righteousness means. The church in our time is the logical and actual successor to the prophet's work. The church is doing more than ever to awaken the conscience of society, in fact the church itself has a duty to be the conscience of society. One of the problems about which our nation needs to be waked up is one that Isaiah and Jeremiah faced, only we have it is a more desperate form.

We call it alcoholism; they called it by an uglier, more suitable word: drunkenness. Even in those days drinking was a problem; it cut down the national health, wealth and wisdom. Nowadays it is worse because of two factors. One is the higher percentage of alcohol in beverages such as whiskey, unknown in those days. The other factor is advertising.

Where Drunkards Start

A GAINST ALL THIS the church must keep saying and persuading people, Choose the Best! But it does comparatively little good to say this to the confirmed alcoholic. It makes more sense to say it to young people. For the sad feature of alcoholism is that it begins in the high schools.

The Yale School of Alcohol Studies has collected evidence indicating that two-thirds of all alcoholics begin drinking habits in the early high school years.

A recent Gallup poll shows the greatest percentage of drinkers to be in the age group 21 to 30. Today, it is estimated, there are four million alcohol addicts or excessive drinkers who are in more or less constant trouble with their families and employers.

Drunkenness costs industry in America no less than one billion dollars a year, and has a lot to do with the break-up of homes and with crime generally.

Allied Youth

SOMETHING is being done to stop this, which you should know about. There is a movement known as Allied Youth, a national educational organization working in high schools all over the country. Its work is positive, not negative. It is not trying to pass laws or to bring back prohibition. What it does try to do—and it is succeeding remarkably well in many places—is to give young people a way of life that will enable them to meet social pressure for drinking without loss of "face." Every Allied Youth post in a school has three aims: 1. To meet the social and recreational needs of young people.

Every New Year's Eve, for instance, when millions of Americans are getting sickly drunk, more than 6,000 young people gather in Detroit for the biggest dry party in America, sponsored by Allied Youth.

2. To establish within the school a fellowship of young people who do not think it is necessary to drink to be smart. Such a group can change the attitude of an entire school.

3. To build a solid foundation of education for total abstinence. Essentially, Allied Youth is saying to young people everywhere, "Choose the Best!"

The family is the basic unit of organized society. From it have grown the tribe, the nation, and the race. Its development marked man's first step from primitive to civilized life.

In the protection of his family and the pursuit of its comfort and happiness, man has developed all of his arts, sciences, industries, and institutions. The home is the greatest factor in human progress. Nations grow strong and great as their family life improves, and they deteriorate and fall when the family breaks down.

Our hope as a nation lies in restoring and strengthening the home life of our people. Influences which tend to undermine the family have crept in, so that today the American home is in serious jeopardy.

The strength of the family is in its faith—faith in God, faith in the right, faith in each other. We must restore these. We must turn to the Church and the teachings of the Bible if our country is to survive.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The halls of Congress echo with each solitary footstep these days. The committee rooms are dark and lonely. Congress is gone and regardless of how you cuss 'em when they are in session, you miss 'em when they leave. They will return in January for more abuse and more fuss.

Violence: In spite of all the sound and fury that comes out of the Halls of Congress, Joe Calahan of Bellevue, Ky. House Sergeant at Arms, had no trouble with Congressmen. Not once did he have to rush in and restore peace.

It was not always so. At one time the sergeant at arms had to be a burly type. And back in the old days several Kentucky lawmakers gave trouble. Representative White of Kentucky was a thorn in the side of Speaker John G. Carlisle of Covington. Mr. White on more than one occasion had to be subdued by sergeant at arms. Another Kentuckian, Rep. W. C. P. Breckinridge got involved in a fight with a Missouri Congressman and only the arrival of the sergeant restored order. Those were—so they say—the good old days.

What About the Veep?

Vice President Barkley can stir up more rumors than any man in Washington—and that includes the President.

Right now a lot of people want to know what the V. P. is planning for 1952. He is racing around the country, making speeches, meeting people and—in short—acting like a candidate.

Some of his close friends say however, that the Vice President has no such plans in mind. He just likes people and he is having the time of his life dashing around the nation. His schedule would force a younger man into a rest home.

Visit to Frankfurt: This write, along with John E. Murphy, president of the Fifth District Federation of Sportsmen, had a visit the other day with Governor Jernens.

Murphy, a long time friend, used every minute of this time in the state capital to further the cause of a state park in northern Kentucky. He told his story to the Governor, to Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward, to Fish and Game Director Earl Wallace, and to others high in the ranks of officialdom.

The outlook for a state park in the near future is not the brightest but with men like Mr. Murphy and Speaker Herb Tinsley leading the fight, success can't be too far away. Did You Know?

One of the top ranking officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is Chauncey Dodds of Mayfield, Ky. he is manager of the loan department. . . . Robert Hensley of Burlington and Louisville was a recent capital visitor. . . . Congressman Gregory, on his way home from Europe, was caught in the recent storm in the North Atlantic. . . . And Kentucky Wildcat fans in Washington believe the Bib Blue can't miss with such players as Parelli, Uliniski, Benek, Ignarski, et al.

TOBACCO DAMAGED BY RUBBER BANDS

The use of rubber bands to hold tobacco leaves may give manufacturers no end of trouble, according to complaints received at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Used under the tie leaves, it is almost impossible to detect the rubber bands until they get to the stem-ing machines, one manufacturer wrote. It is then necessary to stop the machines and search the strips go back and find the hoghead that is affected and untie each hand to get the tobacco free from rubber bands. This is an expensive job and delays processing the tobacco.

Most of the rubber bands have been found on the flying grades which probably means that the farmer pruned some of his tobacco

The finest tobacco crop in years is reported from Robertson county, the majority of varieties having been developed at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

BIG FAT CATTLE SHOW NOV. 9-11

Between 1,600 and 1,700 calves are being fed by members of 4-H clubs for the annual fat cattle show and sale to be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, November 9-11. These include about 1,200 Angus, 450 Herefords, 50 Shorthorns and 40 mixed calves.

To encourage the production of better cattle and to speed up selling all cattle that do not grade good or better will be weeded out to sell either before or after the regular auction.

Most of the calves are expected to weigh 850 to 1,150 pounds at the time of the show and sale. They have been fattened under better-than-average conditions. Grass has been plentiful in most counties, and lower corn prices have encouraged the feeding of more grain. Most of the 4-H calves will have received grain.

Since the first show in 1922, and not including 1948, members of 4-H clubs in Kentucky have sold 20,760 calves at the annual fat cattle show and sale. The calves sold for a grand total of $2,191,263. In addition, the boys and girls won several thousand dollars in cash prizes.

The Pineville Public Library is cooperating with the Page Home-makers Club in Ball county in loaning 50 books for three-month periods.

In Daviess county, this season was one of the most difficult in several years for cutting and curing tobacco.

Approximately 4,000 acres of corn land in Estill county have been seeded to small grain or vetch and small grain.

Fred Andrews, GI farmer of Clinton county, is selling hatching eggs from his 381 New Hampshire hens, which are producing over 160 dozen eggs a week.

Today, stop thinking of age as something opposed to youth. Start thinking of people in terms of youthfulness and maturity. Both are beautiful. Each is charming.

Youthfulness belongs to no age. It is a state of mental and muscle flexibility. It can remain though years increase. When young and old are unaware of age differences when they are with you, if people of all ages feel comfortable with you, you are both youthful and mature.

Broken nail polish, chipped and worn with housekeeping, is more unbecoming than no polish. Use clear polish if you do housework. It isn't noticeable when chipped, nor do you have to be so careful in applying it.

Dept. of Agriculture Has New Name For Local Committeemen

Elected county and community committees responsible for local administration of Production and Marketing Administration programs of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are designated as "Production and Marketing Administration County and Community Committees" in U. S. D. A. regulations issued September 29.

The committees were first established under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to provide for local administration of AAA programs. In later years the committees became known as ACP (Agricultural Conservation Program) Committees. More recently the committees were known as ACA (Agricultural Conservation Association) Committees or just Agricultural Conservation Committees.

In 1947, after the Production and Marketing Administration was formed in the U. S. Department of Agriculture in 1945, State Committees responsible for administration of PMA programs were changed to "State PMA Committees," but the titles of county and community committees were left unchanged.

The September 29 regulations officially designate these county and community committees as Production and Marketing Administration County and Community Committees.

National farm programs administered by the committees include the Agricultural Conservation Program, Marketing Quota Programs, Price Support Programs, and certain phases of the Federal Crop Insurance Program.

President members of the Boone County PMA Committee are W. M. Smith, William Hill and Joseph A. Huey. Both county and community PMA committeemen are elected annually.

Bearcats to Play Holy Cross Here

With the coming of this time of the year also comes interest in what the Walton-Verona Bearcat basketball team has and what may be expected this season, so the writer contacted Coach Charles Hayes to get all the "inside dope."

Coach Hayes predicted that the Cats this year would have better team work and a much stronger defense. Since the team did not lose a single man from the first team, and the development of each player as to size and experience, the prospects are good.

Opening Game Tuesday

The season will open at the local gym on Tuesday, Nov. 8th when the aggregation from Holy Cross invades Walton. They have had, in past years, a strong, aggressive team. There will be two games, the first starting at 7:30 p.m.

A thumbnail sketch of the improvements made in each player, and what you may expect, as given by Coach Hayes, follows:

Johnny Maddox—is about fifteen pounds heavier and is using that added weight in rebounding and driving, playing a roving pivot is also helpful.

"Dike" Vest—is, after his years of valuable experience, at the peak of condition and performance, coming up with stronger defensive tactics, and also a very aggressive rebound shot.

Layne Cheeseman—Always apt at handling the ball and maneuverability, he has developed further and is working hard on offense.

Don Rice—Stronger on defense and more aggressive on offense, with a deadly eye for the basket.

Maynard Meadows—Shows a definite improvement in offensive drive; working hard on defense, with greater rebounding ability.

Tommy Johnson—Using his height to greater advantage this year and has more polish and drive; should go well.

Ronnie Cleek—Naturally fast and with plenty of drive and deception, he is working hard on defense; will be able to play until Dec. 1st due to inelegibility.

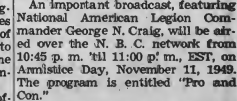

Mike Ryan—Big, strong and aggressive, he should see service aplenty and show well with his left-hand shooting; strong defensive.

The second team, headed by Bobby Hall and Dennis Glacken, should show well against any opposition, under the hard working second team coach, George Houston.

Support the team this year by attending every game.

God Our Comfort

Lesson for November 6, 1949

AS THE ENGLISH language keeps on changing, words do not always keep on meaning what they once did. "Comfort" is one of these. When our Bible was translated into English in 1611, the translation most English-speaking people use, the word "comfort" had a bigger meaning than most people put into it now. We think of it as meaning soothing; but it is a bigger idea than that. God is not merely a soothing Dr. Foreman "comfort" as meaning to make comfortable; but it is a stouter word than that. God does not always make his people comfortable. The word means to strengthen, to steel against fear and despair, to put backbone into people.

"Fear Not, O Worm!"

AT THE TIME of the prophecies we study this week, the Israelites had been kicked around a good deal. They had felt the conqueror's boots, they were discouraged, as all good people are when somehow God seems to be letting evil forces triumph. Their little world had split wide apart, their little nation had been blown to the winds.

To those people, torn by terrors and bowed down by wretchedness, people who were in serious danger of developing a one-for-all "inferiority complex," people who were about to lose all their backbone, the great prophet brings his message: "Comfort ye my people saith your God."

The whole idea is in this one sentence (Is. 41:14): "Fear not, O worm Jacob! . . . I am your helper, saith the Lord. God does not indulge his people in foolish pride. Beside the Almighty they are worms, insects. Nevertheless, worm though he may be, the man who trusts in God will not be afraid. He will not trust in his own powers, he will not trust in luck, he will trust in God.

A worm by itself is nothing; but with God on his side, the weakest of men can say with Paul, "If God be for us, who can be against us?" God's men do not get their courage up by flexing their muscles or admiring themselves. They grow in courage as they grow in the knowledge of God.

Goodness And Power

ANY ONE who saw "Edward, My Son" will remember the tragedy of that family. A boy's character went slowly to pieces, because his father was determined that nothing should be too good for him. To gain his purpose the father ran rough-shod over everyone who stood in his way, and eventually ruined the lives of all around him, including his son's and his own. The mother, on the other hand, could see, as the father could not, what his indulgence was doing to the boy, making him a weakling and a rat. But she was too weak to stand up against her husband, and her life too was ruined. That story is a kind of parable.

The prophet reveals a God who is both powerful and good; but suppose God were only good but not powerful, or only powerful but not good? Then the world would be in a mess, as that boy Edward was in a mess.

But these three are all in the same God. A God who is power only, might do as Edward's father did, destroy his children without even intending to do so. A God who is goodness only, might want to do right by his world yet not be able to do so, like Edward's mother. A God who knew what was right but neither wanted nor was able to do much about it, would not be a God at all.

God Is Not Weak

SUPPOSE GOD were indeed powerful, good and wise, and yet grew tired from time to time? Suppose all God's good qualities came and went, unpredictably, like the wind on a spring day?

No; God is the Maker and Keeper of Promises, the Covenant God. He does not grow faint or weary; that is our anchor of comfort.

The earth changes, and men with it; but the Word of the Lord abides forever. His "covenant of peace" does not waver. We do not need to lean gingerly on the Almighty. He will bear all our weight.

ALERT!

Every muscle tense . . . every sense attuned to their surroundings . . . they're ready! A scent, a sound, a glimpse of the unexpected and they will streak silently into the forest. They're alert, but their alertness indicates a readiness to run away.

Rightly man scans that kind of alertness. For human achievement is born of a different alertness. When men are awake to their opportunities, alive to their responsibilities, brave to their challenge . . . then progress is realized, goals are reached.

Our religion helped to establish this human standard of alertness, and our churches constantly inspire men to achieve it. For when the mind is attuned to life's environment, and the soul is attuned to God, then a man has the wherewithal to go forward to greater goals.

True alertness begins when we discover the riches the Church can add to our lives!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Grooming for beauty should be a clever artifice, inspiring the comment, "How lovely she is," not "How artificial she looks".

Eyebrows can be a great beauty asset. Full brows give shadow to the eyes, increase their appearance of size and lustre, reduce the fullness of mouth and jaw.

Eyebrows follow the natural bony structure of your brow. Pluck wild hairs for neatness but never distort the natural line of the brow. Thin the brow if necessary from under rather than above, to give a lift to the arch. Never widen your brows over the bridge of the nose beyond the inside point of your eyes.

Combine your suit jacket—the one with the unweaveable skirt—with a paid trend skirt or a matching cloth dress for the smart fall dress-and-jacket outfit. Accessorize it with a dashing jacket belt.

The fashion conscious woman does not deny herself the comfort of efficient vision. She wears glasses that give scientifically corrected vision. But she also wears smart eyeglass frames, chosen to flatter her face and complement her individual style. Be one of these smartly groomed, clear-visioned women. Let one of these Optical's skilled Doctors of Optometry give you a thorough scientific eye-sight examination and prescribe corrective lenses if necessary. Reading comic books is hard work for young eyes. The strain of trying to see small print on grey paper may result in permanent damage to vision unless there is plenty of good light for easy seeing.

Give your children the abundant glareless light of a modern floor lamp equipped with a white glass diffusing bowl and 100-200-300 watt bulb. And see that they do their reading in a chair close to the light source and not while lying on the floor. Remember—eyes are priceless... good light is cheap!

Hog Price Support Levels Announced For Next 6 Months

Monthly hog price support levels for the period October 1949-March 1950, have been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as follows: October, $16.40 per hundred pounds; November, $15.00; December, $14.20; January, $14.90; February, $15.50, and March, $16.20.

The support levels for this period are based on 90 percent of the September 15, 1949, parity price of hogs of $17.60. This figure is adjusted to reflect in each monthly support price the usual seasonal price variations.

The Department had previously announced that if hog prices support operations are required, they will be conducted to maintain the national average farm price for hogs at monthly support levels instead of at weekly support levels for individual markets. Supports at 90% of the September 15 parity are assured through March 31, 1950.

Since purchases of live hogs for price support do not appear feasible, purchases of pork and pork products will be the method used if supports for hog prices become necessary. The Department will buy pork only from packers operating under Federal inspection since pork produced by other slaughterers cannot be shipped across state lines or exported from the United States. Details on any purchase programs will be announced later.

In addition to monthly support levels, the Department will use weekly guides on seven mid-western markets as an aid in carrying out support operations if needed.

WATER SHORTAGE SERIOUS PROBLEM

How lack of stock water can become a serious problem in dry years is pointed out in a new circular of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, describing the use of earth dams for farm reservoirs.

A survey made in one year by county agents in 60 counties showed that 9,665 farmers were compelled to drive herds to water, 13,174 farmers hauled water an average of four miles, and 6,300 others sold stock before it was ready for market.

Prepared by Earl G. Welch, this circular gives information on all phases of building dams to hold water for farm use. Copies may be had from county agents or by writing to the college at Lexington. Order by number, 470, and title "Earth Dams for Farm Reservoirs."

MORE HAY, GRASS BRING INCREASE IN BEEF CATTLE

The double function of increased hay and grass production in conserving the soil and in stimulating beef-cattle raising in Kentucky is set out in a statement from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky.

Cattle numbers are near record and income from herds last year passed the $115,000,000 mark set in 1947. Much credit for the increase must go to the demonstrations in soil treatment and pasture and meadow improvement resulting from Agricultural Extension Work of the college and county agents.

The cow-and-calf system of beef production, recommended by the college's Extension Division, is growing in favor. In Lyon county 83 percent of all cattle are produced by the cow-and-calf plan; in Hickman county, 78 percent. Most of the farmers in Eastern Kentucky follow this plan of raising their own cattle and also the feed for them.

Many purebred herds have been established in Kentucky in the past few years, and many old ones improved or enlarged. Breeders have been finding a ready market for good stock.

Insect and pest control and improvement of the general health of herds, as set out by the Extension Service, have contributed to the expansion in cattle-raising in recent years. Farmers are cooperating in spraying herds to control the ox warble and horn flies.

TRACTORS SPEED UP WORK ON THE FARM

Power farm machinery, which usually includes a tractor, permits farmers to do a lot of work when weather, soil and crop conditions are just right, points out J. L. McKittrick of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Use of more power machinery reduces risk in crop production, he said, and so might be considered insurance against loss.

In buying power machinery, McKittrick said farmers should consider the size of their farm. Small farms probably need only small tractors. However, tractors now are used for many other things than plowing, seeding and harvesting crops. They are used for mowing pastures, loading manure, moving small buildings, disk and harrowing.

Some farmers have found that it pays to rearrange their farms, after buying a tractor and other machinery. Fences have been changed so as to make larger fields and permit working on the contour. Terraces and ditches also are easier to make and maintain where tractors are used.

In addition to plowing and otherwise preparing land when it is in proper condition, seeding and harvesting in good weather, some farmers help make tractors profitable by working for other farmers—doing custom work in their neighborhood, McKittrick said.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

Kentuckians in the capital are taking advantage of these fine autumn days to drive down to the Skyline Drive in the Shenandoah or down along the Potomac toward Mt. Vernon.

That trip along the Potomac reminds the homesick Kentuckians of a ride equally as beautiful along the Ohio River through Warsaw, Ghent and Carrollton. And the trip to the mountains can almost be duplicated in the rolling hills of Boone and Pendleton counties when the leaves are turning to all shades of red and gold.

Transy Grads:
Graduates of Transylvania University are awaiting the arrival of their president, Dr. Raymond McClain. He is to visit with the alumni on November 5th.

Incidentally, the historic Lexington college has some mighty distinguished people living in and around the capital. General Edgar Hume is among the big brass at the Pentagon. Dr. Leon Childers of Walton is an executive among the dentists at the Veterans Administration. And Gregory Bruce carries a lot of weight at the Justice Department.

He's the Top:

Bill Arbogast, who cut his journalistic teeth in Covington, Newport and Frankfort, is now the head of all newspaper correspondents in Washington.

Colonel Arbogast the other day was elected chairman of the House and Senate Press Galleries. That's the outfit that decides who shall be entitled to cover Congress and most other agencies in Washington. Bill is a member of the Associated Press staff. His Kentucky home is in Ludlow.

He's Back:

Kentucky's Congressman Gregory is back from Europe regaling friends with stories of his trip.

He was caught aboard the Queen Elizabeth in that Atlantic storm while returning home, but insists that only once was he scared. It happened about three in the morning. There was a great clatter at the door and when the Congressman refused to answer, the door was unlocked with a pass key. A worried attendant informed the Kentuckian that he had received orders from the bridge to seal all the portholes against the raging storm. "That," said Congressman Gregory, "was when I got scared."

Did You Know?
Approximately 10,000 bills were introduced in the last session of Congress... U. of K. fans were plunged into deep dark blue when SMU defeated the Wildcats... Senator Withers has returned from his meeting with national highway officials in Texas... Congressional mail has dropped to an all-time low... Protests continue to roll in, however, on that proposal to cut burley marketing quotas by 20 per cent.

Balanced Soil Plan Gives Top Yields at Low Production Cost

COLUMBIA, MO.—A five-point program to "balance the soil's needs" and obtain maximum crop yields per acre at low production costs, was outlined by C. T. Coleman, Missouri University extension soils specialist.

Here are the steps Coleman suggests:

1. Provide plenty of plant food in available form for the crops you are growing. Crops cannot grow without nutrients.
2. Have your soil tested to determine whether the plant food supply is in balance. Growing crops need a balanced ration the same as do people and livestock.
3. Get the soil in condition so that crops can use the plant foods. This means a turnover of organic matter. You can add organic matter and improve soil tilth, drainage and aeration by growing well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes.
4. Keep water, plant nutrients and topsoil at home by conservation methods. Where needed, these may include terracing and contouring to reduce runoff and erosion losses.
5. Follow a well-balanced cropping system. Deep-rooted legumes for pasture and green manure crops need to be rotated regularly with grains. Livestock is "must" to properly handle pasture and roughage crops in such a crop-balancing program. Tests have shown that where a crop is pastured off, about 75 per cent of the organic matter is returned to the soil. This is true of both legume and non-legume crops.

HOME AGENTS HELP IN WELFARE WORK

Home demonstration agents sponsor many campaigns for the Red Cross, cancer control, health facilities, and crippled children, says the annual agricultural extension report of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, U. of K.

They also sponsor or assist such activities as children's maternal and dental clinics, sale of Christmas seals, school lunches, home-nursing classes, community rest rooms, furnishing first-aid kits for schools, and improvement of public grounds and buildings.

Over $15,000 was raised last year for donations for welfare purposes, in campaigns in which home agents assisted in or directed the drives. More than 450 community projects were sponsored by homemakers' clubs.

Interest in homemakers has extended to international cooperation and understanding, the report adds. Many clubs last year studied FAO, UNESCO and UN. Six thousand, ninety-four gift boxes were sent overseas, 584 clubs held international day programs and 615 women corresponded with women in other countries.

STAFFORDSBURG

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Ballinger were surprised Sunday, Oct. 30th, with a Halloween dinner. Those who participated in the surprise were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox, Mr. Noel, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fooks and daughter, Althea, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Hamilton and Mrs. Sophronia B. Mills.

ON ONE POINT THEY ALL AGREE

The men listed below represent different parties, different factions, different points of view: They come from different walks of life, different sections of Kentucky. Republicans and Democrats are to be found among them, professional men and business men and farmers and spokesmen for labor, educators and politicians and critics of politics, office-holders and former office-holders and people who never expect or want to hold public office. These men are known to Kentuckians more for their strong differences of opinion than for agreements on public policy. But now they say:

"PASS CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT No. 2"

The amendment will liberalize the constitutional salary limit and so improve public service in Kentucky.

Here's the statement to which they all subscribe:

"We think the salary provision in the Kentucky Constitution must be liberalized if Kentuckians are to receive adequate public service. The limitation, imposed in 1891, makes satisfactory administration impossible in these changed days of 1949. Therefore we urge all Kentuckians, for their own sakes, to vote 'Yes' on Constitutional Amendment No. 2 at the November election."

And here, united in sentiment, are the men who never agreed before:

WHAT PEOPLE WANT
"What kind of a university do the people of Kentucky want? As we travel up and down this state, and across it from one end to the other, we find the people of Kentucky want a good university. They lead up to believe they want a university that recognizes the entire state as its campus, and this is the kind of university we are attempting to give the people," H. L. Donovan, president, U. K.

Bearcats Trim Holy Cross 43-21, Tuesday

The basketball season opened in Walton, Tuesday evening and the Walton-Vernon Bearcats did not show much in defeating Holy Cross of Latonia, 43-21, as Coach Hayes substituted freely throughout the contest. W. V. took a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and from then on coasted—more or less. At the half the Cats were in front 24-5.

National Safety Award Won by C. P. S. Co.

Community Public Service Company won national recognition in the safety field with the recent announcement by the National Safety Council that this utility concern had won the 1948-1949 National First Safety Contest for Public Utilities, Group I, according to Local Manager Charles D. Fimmel.

Competing on a nationwide basis with 48 of the largest public utilities in the United States, Community Public Service Company's fleet of 208 pick-ups and trucks led the field with only 12 accidents in 2,238,921 miles traveled, or 0.5 accidents per 100,000 miles.

Presentation of the first-place trophy, a handsome plaque, was made in a ceremony held at the Palmer House in Chicago, Oct. 27, during the National Safety Congress. Field Superintendent C. W. Waggett of Fort Worth, Texas, accepted the trophy on behalf of the company.

Average accident rate for the entire group was 2.3 accidents per 100,000 miles, as against C. P. S.'s 5. Second place winner was Montana Power Co., Butte, Mont.

The first place award is the second national first-place award won by the local utility concern in National Safety Council competitions. First place in Group B of combination companies, public utilities division, went to Community Public Service Company in 1945. It was based on lost-time accident frequency rate among employees.

A general safety education program has been carried on by Community Public Service Company among its employees for over 20 years. It is under the supervision of Safety Director W. J. Millican of Fort Worth.

Burley Tobacco Referendum to Be Held Nov. 26

A national referendum to determine whether Burley tobacco growers want quotas continued on the 1950 crop and also on the 1951 and 1952 crops will be held Saturday, November 26th.

The referendum was called by the Secretary of Agriculture in his proclamation of the Burley quota for 1950. Under the quota there will be a 14.7 percent general reduction in the 1949 Burley acreage allotments, except small allotments exempted from reduction by law.

The referendum is being held as provided in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

Growers may vote for quotas for three years beginning with the 1950 crop; or may vote for quotas for 1950 only; or may vote against quotas. Marketing quotas will be in effect if approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum.

Persons defined as "growers" eligible to vote in the referendum include all persons having an interest as owner, tenant, or share cropper in the 1949 crop of Burley tobacco. No producer is entitled to more than one vote.

Marketing quotas provide growers with a method of adjusting supply to demand and help them obtain a fair price for the tobacco produced. Stocks of Burley tobacco on hand October 1st were the largest on record.

Price support loans at 90% of parity will be available on the 1950 crop of Burley tobacco only if producers approve quotas in this referendum. However, price support loans (an average of 40.3 cents a pound) will be available on the 1949 crop as protection to farmers.

Marketing quotas have been in effect for Burley tobacco each year since the enactment of the Agricultural Act of 1938 except for 1939 when they were discontinued by the growers.

The course consists primarily of instruction in basic electronics with emphasis on maintenance and operations. Because this course is one of the most difficult offered enlisted men in the Navy, students are selected from among those having the highest intelligence ratings in the Naval general classification tests.

Smith entered the Naval service in November, 1948 and received his recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

School Amendment Winning

Kentuckians appeared to have approved one and possibly both of two proposed amendments to the state constitution. The so-called school equalization amendment was leading by 80,974 votes to 46,681 in 1953 of the state's 400,000 precincts. The salary amendment had a stiffer battle being approved by 70,787 votes and opposed by 62,414.

There was a definite possibility that later returns could wipe out the lead held by the amendment which would raise the present $100,000 salary on salaries of public officers. But there was no chance that the school amendment could be beaten.

"Defeated" After Death

Fred C. Drake, incumbent Democratic Governor of Kentucky, lost to death his unopposed candidacy for re-election Tuesday. After Mr. Drake, 44, died of pneumonia at a home in Warsaw at 11 a. m., a hurried write-in campaign for Frank Connelly, former county attorney and Democrat, was conducted. Mr. Connelly won out by 76 votes over the late Mr. Drake. The count was 489 write-in votes and 413 votes for the deceased candidate.

Love So Amazing

Lesson for November 13, 1949

LONG AGO riding in his slow chariot through the southern sands, a puzzled reader with Isaiah 53 in his hands asked the question other readers have asked ever since: Does the prophet speak of himself or of some other? The answer given by Philip (see Acts 8) has been the answer of the church ever since: This prophecy can be understood only in the light of the Calvary's Cross. Philip did not say, and we need not insist, that the prophet had Jesus, and Jesus only, in mind when he wrote.

Dr. Foreman

What we do say is that while these words might have described some one the prophet knew, might have described the whole nation of Israel, might even have described himself, still the words make but a poor picture of any one else compared with the picture they make of Jesus.

The Scarlet Thread
ISAIAH 53 has been in the center of the church's thinking about Christ from the beginning. It may be said to run like a scarlet thread through the New Testament. It was in the back of the minds of Paul and John and Peter alike. This great prophecy sheds a light on what otherwise had been a black opaque blot—the death of Christ.

What would otherwise be simply a horrible tragedy, perhaps the greatest tragedy of history—the perfect case of complete injustice, the final evidence that there is no God, in the light of Isaiah 53 becomes a center of glory.

Instead of being ashamed of the cross on which Jesus died, the church sings, "In the church of Christ I glory." "Love so amazing, so divine, demands my soul, my life, my all."

We believe that Christ suffered not for his own but for others' sake. Suffering, not forced but willingly undergone, suffering not as mere pain but that others might be saved, suffering on behalf of others and for love of them—this is the key to the riddle of existence. This is the key to the heart of God.

Not Christ Alone
IF CHRIST'S MEN had refused to follow where he led, if all Christians had been willing to let him carry, alone, the burden of the world's sin and grief, there never would have been any Christianity—for there would never have been any Christians. Peter and James and the rest of the apostles would have refused to die for Jesus' sake. The noble army of martyrs would have been an ignoble army of cowards.

No missionary ever would have left home and comforts and country; no mother would have laid down her life for her children; the unselfish service of those who have cared for the sick and the orphaned would never have been done; indeed, had no one ever been willing to suffer for the benefit of others, one wonders whether the world could have even held together this long.

Christ died that the world might live, yes; but others also had to die to make his death avail. He died for Africa, that Africans might live; but Africans died till men like Livingstone and Schweitzer and many a less famous man and woman also went out and lived there in loneliness and died in pain.

Christ died for the little children of the poor, but until the Salvation Army and others like them went down into the slums and suffered there with and for them, those poor little people died without so much as dreaming that God might love them.

Christ died for all the lepers in the world; but until a Father Damien, and others no less Christ-like, went among the outcast lepers and became outcasts themselves for the love of Christ, those lepers died in the dark.

"Let Him Take His Own Cross Daily"

YES, Isaiah 53 pictures the self-sacrifice of our Lord, above all. But any one who has any intention of being a true servant of God must be willing to find his own life-direction right here. The world does not need more pain; it does need those who will suffer pain to serve others in Christ's name.

IN GRANDMA'S DAY

In grandma's day the spinning wheel and the old hand loom were familiar sights. Long before this time, when great-grandmother was young, the girls of the family were taught to spin yarn and weave cloth, and many of the simple garments of those days were the products of their delicate hands.

The spinning wheel and hand loom have gone the way of the wooden plow, the ox cart, and the grandfather's clock. They exist today mainly as relics of a colorful past.

New inventions and new methods are constantly replacing old ones. Human life sweeps on in a world of change. The only abiding things are the things of the mind and spirit; faith, hope, and love are the great eternal.

Man needs a spiritual anchorage in a changing world. And the Church points him to God, who is the same yesterday, today, and forever. He is man's rock and refuge in every age.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to your Bible daily.

NOT TOO LATE TO FERTILIZE LAWN

Although it is too late to sow bluegrass seed this fall, now is the time to feed the lawn, points out N. R. Elliott, expert in horticulture at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Here are his suggestions, any of which may be used:

1—Use commercial fertilizer of a good high grade, such as 4-10-4, 5-10-5 or 6-8-6. Scatter 15 pounds on every 1,000 square feet of lawn.

2—As soon as the tobacco is stripped, place tobacco stalks or stems about six inches apart on the lawn, removing them in March. If they are ground, they will not need to be removed in the spring.

3—Animal manures are excellent to feed the grass, chicken manure being among the best. A good application should be made in November and left until March when the lawn is raked.

Among the visitors who had brought their dinners were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fooks and daughter, Miss Althea, of Verona; Mrs. Geo. Hamilton and Mrs. Sophronia Mills of Walton, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox of Nicholson. We all enjoy such surprises.

The Homemakers meeting in the home of Mrs. Edith Ware on Tuesday of last week was a very enjoyable occasion. Most of the members were present and took part in the business and enjoyed the beautiful hospitality.

The Halloween party at the church was a very pleasant occasion. Most of the sixty guests were masked. Many contests were conducted and all enjoyed the refreshments of donuts, cider, coffee, apples and candy.

H. A. McKinney of Livingston county sold 95-pound lambs in September off Ladino clover pasture, receiving 50 cents premium per hundred weight for their finish and excellent quality.

Ed Wolford, who has been quite sick for a week, is a little improved at this writing.

Luther Risner has a new machine.

Miss Lucille Risner, a graduate of Walton-Verona High school, has a position with Vest & Vest, attorneys, at Walton.

Word from Jessie Lunsford states that she is still improving at Hazlewood.

Ten members of the W. M. S. attended the Associational meeting at Walton last week.

The Halloween social at the school house was well attended and the P. T. A. thanks all those who took part in any way.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter and son spent Sunday with her father.

Word from Mrs. J. M. Boyer is that they are fine and Betty and Jimmie haven't missed a day of school this year.

Corn Ears Reveal Whether Plant Was Well Fed or Starved

CHICAGO—The corn you harvested this fall can give you valuable tips for getting higher yields next year, if you will take a little time to examine some of the ears.

Those ears can tell you whether the corn plant was well fed or starved. That makes a big difference in the size of your crop. For only well fed corn can produce high yields.

Look at the ears shown in the accompanying photograph. All but No. 1 show signs of plant food starvation. Ear No. 1 is a normal, well fed, fully developed ear. It has good luster and polish. It holds its finish to the tip. The kernels are deep and well filled.

Ear No. 2 was short of nitrogen. It has good luster and the kernels are well filled. Nature makes nubbins like this when there isn't enough nitrogen in the soil to make full-sized ears. That is its insurance of seed for another year.

Phosphate hunger is illustrated by ear No. 3. Here you find rows of kernels that did not fill. Because of the phosphate shortage, some silks were delayed and came out too late to catch any pollen. The kernels were not fertilized, so they failed to fill.

Ear No. 4 was starved for potash. The ear is pointed and chaffy. The cob is limber and weak.

"A few deficient ears don't make a starved crop," says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. "But if you have more nubbins than good ears in your crib, then more fertilizer would have made more corn at lower cost per bushel."

"When plant food starvation signs are present, you can take steps to correct the situation and boost corn yields next year. A soil test will give you an idea of what is needed to provide a full, well-balanced supply of nutrients for the crop. You can build soil with structure and organic matter to get maximum yields with a crop rotation that includes well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes."

Wrong Party

HE WAS undersized, meek, diffident, subdued, and had applied for a job as night-watchman.

"Yes," said the manager, eyeing him dubiously, "but the fact is we want someone who is restless and uneasy, especially at night; someone who thinks the worst of everybody and whose suspicions are seldom if ever allayed; someone who sleeps with one eye open always; someone with remarkable hearing; someone who is always listening, thinking there are bad characters about."

A meek, mild watchman would be of no use to us. We want a large, aggressive, intrepid, and dangerous person; a good shot; bad-tempered, and revengeful, too. The kind of person in fact who, when roused, is a fiend incarnate."

"I'll send the wife 'round," said the little man.

REMOTE CONTROL

"And what would you like for your birthday present, Tommy?" asked the fond mother.

"Oh, a telephone!" replied the youngster promptly.

"What ever for?"

"Then I can ring up and answer teacher's questions without having to go to school."

Soft Pedal

A Welshman who was very proud of his bass voice was describing a wonderful dream he'd had.

"I was in a mighty choir," he said; "5,000 sopranos, 5,000 altos, 5,000 tenors—all singing together double forte."

"It must have been wonderful," said the listener. "But what about the basses?"

"That was it!" said the dreamer. "Suddenly the conductor stopped the choir and, turning to me, said: 'Not quite so loud in the bass, please, Mr. Jones!'"

PRACTICAL VIEW

The Scotsman was playing a round of golf with a business acquaintance. They started off, and the Scotsman excelled himself time and again with remarkable drives, finishing off the game by making a hole in one.

His partner was speechless, and after a few minutes he grasped the Scotsman's hand.

"I really must congratulate you," he said with emotion. "I've never seen a drive like that last one of yours before. It's amazing."

"We-el," replied the Scot, "It did save wear and tear on the ball."

HELP!

The little man who was the meek escort of the big woman in the ramble through the shopping establishment had fainted.

"Is he subject to this sort of thing?" asked the shopwalker, as she rendered first-aid and motioned the crowd to stand back.

"Not exactly," replied the woman. "He's a little nervous sometimes. I tried to buy it without him seeing me, but he heard me give the order."

"Buy what?" asked the shopwalker, somewhat suspiciously. "A rolling-pin," said the woman.

One Look Enough

On his appointment, the new manager of a bank was given much publicity, and photographs of him were reproduced in local newspapers. All were not printed attractively.

A depositor wandered in, walked up to the manager, produced one of the photographic reproductions, and asked, "Is this your picture?"

The manager assured him that it was.

"And are you the manager of this bank?"

The other admitted that he was.

"Well, give me my money!" ordered the depositor.

PAGE WHISTLER

Having been married 20 years, a couple decided to celebrate by taking a little trip. While talking over their plans one evening, the husband now and then glanced into the next room where a little old lady sat knitting. "The only thing," he finally said in a hushed voice, "is that for once I'd like to be by ourselves. I'd like to take this trip without your mother."

"My mother!" exclaimed the wife. "I thought she was your mother!"

Shelby county homemakers ordered 37,000 bulbs of hyacinths, daffodils, crocuses, tulips and regal lilies for fall planting.

"A HUNTER'S DREAM"

I dreamed a happy life for me. Built me a wigwam under a tree. In the edge of a forest. Lonesome spot.

A haven of rest, to be my lot.

An Indian's life. My squaw will cook. The game I shot in the highland nook.

She builded a grill of stone and clay To bake and steam, while I rest and play.

The river that winds in the vale below, Affords a place, 'long its gentle flow To catch the fish, I'll eat by the light Of the grilling fire, on an autumn night.

Between forest and river, I'll follow around Ducks on the water, quail on the ground, Squirrel in the treetops, Squaw by the grill.

Near my wigwam home, under the hill.

Soil Tests Give Valuable Information About Land's Need for Lime and Plant Nutrients

CHICAGO — Soil tests taken this fall can help you do a better job of liming and fertilizing your land and filling the soil's "commissary" with a well balanced supply of plant nutrients most needed for higher crop yields and lower per bushel costs next year.

A good soil test has to start with good samples, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee points out. That means making a sufficient number of probes. It means getting enough soil from different parts of the farm and combining samples from like areas. It means being careful to get good samples from poor-yielding fields.

On sloping fields, samples should be taken from the top, the middle and the bottom, the committee says. You can get directions for taking soil samples from your county agent, from agronomists at the state college, or from your local fertilizer dealer.

When samples are efficiently taken, carefully tested and accurately interpreted, they can give you valuable information about your soil's plant nutrient needs. But you will want to consider additional facts in developing a program to boost your yields. Among items to consider are: What is the land's previous cropping history? What was the per-acre yield? How has the soil been handled? What rotations have been followed? What fertilizer and liming treatment has the soil had? What is the land's slope and drainage and how badly is it eroded? You can check on the plant food your crops are actually getting by watching for hunger signs on crops already produced this season. Using soil tests, cropping and land history and hunger signs will help you diagnose your soil's fertilizer needs.

It Often Happens

A DOCTOR's telephone rang one night, awakened him from fitful slumber. It was one of his regular patients, a man in a wild state of alarm.

"My wife, doctor," he shouted. "It's her appendix. You'd better come 'round and see her at once." The doctor sighed and told the man to go back to bed. "Give her some bicarbonate and ginger ale, and I'll look in to-morrow," he said. "She hasn't got appendicitis."

The husband became even wilder, insisting that she did have appendicitis. "Well, she can't have!" the doctor shouted. "I took her appendix out three years ago, and I never heard of anyone having two appendices." "Ever heard of anybody having two wives?" the man asked, bitterly.

GOOD REASON

The old man fishing from the river bank landed a pike about two feet long, but threw it back. Later he caught a large perch. This he also threw back.

Five minutes later he caught a small perch, and put it into his bag. As he rose to go a fellow fisherman asked him why he had thrown back two beautiful fish and kept a small one.

"Well," he replied, "my frying pan's only nine inches wide."

Wrong And Right

The theatrical agent's new clerk entered the private room and said, "There's a lady to see you, sir." "Is she good-looking?" "Yes, sir." "Show her in." Ten minutes later the clerk was summoned. "Well," said the agent, gruffly, "you're a nice judge of beauty, I must say." "Ah, but I had to be careful, sir. For all I knew, she might have been your wife."

"Yes," said the agent, acidly, "she was."

THAT STOPPED HER

The farmer's wife was famous for miles around for her sharp tongue, but one day she had to stop nagging. A farm horse kicked her so hard that she had to go to a hospital.

During her absence there was a ceaseless stream of callers at the farm.

The farmer was touched. It's very nice of the neighbors, especially the men, to call and ask after the missus," he remarked to the maid-of-all-work. "Are, sir," replied the girl, "but most of them want to know if you'll sell the horse."

He Asked for It

He was up before the orderly officer, charged with using insulting language to his sergeant.

"Please, sir," he protested, "I was only answering a question."

"What question?" snapped the officer.

"Well, sir, the sergeant said, 'What do you think I am?' And I told him."

KENTUCKY COW MAKES OUTSTANDING RECORD

A lifetime production of 4,783 lbs. of butterfat and 106,931 lbs. of milk is the record made by U. K. Best Bet Kitten, a Jersey cow in the herd at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton. This record was made in 10 lactation periods, which means she produced an average of 478 pounds of fat and 10,693 pounds of milk.

In her last four years she produced over a ton of butterfat—2,019 lbs. and was awarded a ton-of-gold certificate by The American Jersey Cattle Club. She was 14 years old when she completed this test. The long life and high rate of production make U. K. Best Bet Kitten one of the outstanding cows of the Jersey breed. Most dairy cows are discarded before they have completed three years of production. She made her best record in her 13th year—594 lbs. of fat and 12,872 lbs. of milk.

Sense of Values

THE TOWN'S wealthiest man, and its most stingy, had just been rescued from the water of a lake where he had been fishing from a boat. His rescuer was the leading doctor of the town. After the long, hard work of resuscitation by the doctor and the first aid treatments, the miser pulled out a dollar and handed it to the doctor, saying: "Well, doctor, I'm much obliged to you for saving my life just now. Here's a dollar... all I have got on me."

The doctor handed it back, saying: "Oh, keep your money!" "Not at all! Not at all!" said the miser. "It would have been lost anyway if ye hadn't saved me!"

NO CONTEST

REASON ENOUGH

"I see you farmers raise hogs almost exclusively here. Do you find they pay better than corn or potatoes?"

"Well, no, but you see, stranger, hawgs don't evah require no hoein'."

SHORT STORY

Trapper Joe

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THE BLIZZARD, first of the season, was roaring fitfully when Trapper Joe climbed over the river bank and approached his cabin. Midway across the intervening clearing he stumbled over something and almost fell. The something, he discovered, was a man, almost buried by snow, unconscious.

3-Minute Fiction

Trapper Joe rolled the stiff form over and saw a huge pack strapped to the man's back. He grunted, picked up pack and man, and carried both into his cabin.

Trapper Joe examined the pack and found that it contained five pouches, each filled to capacity with gold dust. There must, he reflected, be thousands of dollars worth.

PRESENTLY the blanket-swathed figure stirred. Trapper Joe stared down at it solemnly. The unconscious man's eyelids fluttered, then opened.

"Take it easy, pardner," said Trapper Joe. "You're coming around."

The man stared at Trapper Joe, then sat bolt upright. "Where am I?" he demanded. "What happened?" I remember setting out for the Post. It began to snow. I kept falling. Then I saw your cabin, but—

"But you didn't have the strength to make it. I found you almost dead. I lugged you back here and nursed life back into your body. You're safe, and so's your gold."

"You—know what's in there?" "Sure. Some of it spilled out. You must have made a rich strike."

"I did. A pocket. I stayed too late in order to get it all out. My name's Tim McLeary." He eyed Trapper Joe curiously. "Kinda queer having this happen; waking up and finding myself alive and—"

Trapper Joe nodded. "You're wondering why I didn't leave you there to die and appropriate the dust, eh? Well, I considered it."

The blizzard was roaring fitfully when Trapper Joe climbed over the river bank. Then thought of what a chance I'd be taking. I thinks: When he wakes up he'll see I saved his life. McLeary brushed a hand across his face. His lips tightened. "I get it. You were scared to smitch the stuff. You figured I'd give you half of it on account of you saved my life."

"You're a cool one all right." McLeary twisted his thin lips into a grin. "Mebbe it was good figurin' at that. Mind if I take a sleep? I feel sorta weak."

"Drink some more soup first. Warm you up inside."

OUTSIDE the storm beat and tore at the tiny cabin. Presently Trapper Joe slept. Time passed. The storm diminished in volume, died. The figure near the fire stirred, sat up, listened to Trapper Joe's deep breathing and reached for a stick of firewood.

Trapper Joe returned to consciousness to find himself bound in his bunk. He struggled at his bonds. After an intermittently long time he freed himself, chafed his wrists, flexed his muscles. Then he built up the fire. There was a note above the mantel. "Sorry, old timer, I've been dreaming of a strike like this for years. I'm young and can enjoy the money. There's not enough for two. I've tied you lightly and left enough supplies to see you through the winter. Thanks for the lift."

Trapper Joe folded the note and put it in his shirt pocket.

"Time to celebrate," he said aloud. "Sides, I'll be wantin' to travel light so's I can reach the Indian village in three days' time."

Before sitting down to his feast he lifted a loose board behind the chimney and hoisted up a gallon can. He opened the can and his eyes lighted at sight of the yellow gleaming particles of dust there.

He chuckled and replaced the can. "Well," he soliloquized, "the kid had a chance to play fair, and didn't take it. If he'd been willing to split I'd have come half way. I'll take him a week to reach the post. By that time I'll be safe and sound. Now won't he be surprised to find them pouches of his full of sand! And me with this note in his own handwritin' to clear myself."

Proof Wanted

AN AMERICAN film producer was selecting a chief for his scenario staff. The producer insisted that the successful applicant must be a college graduate. He looked with favour upon one applicant, and asked if he had had a college education. The answer was in the affirmative.

"Show me your diploma," demanded the producer.

The applicant tried to explain that it was not customary for college graduates to carry diplomas around with them.

"Well, then," demanded the producer with a slight sneer, "say me a big word."

EXPOSED

An actress on tour became tired of paying railway fares for her small dog, so she bought a basket with ventilation holes.

On the first occasion when she attempted to use it, the ticket collector at the station barrier asked what was in the basket.

"Hat," replied the actress, and went on to the platform.

Before she had proceeded many yards, she was recalled by the grinning ticket collector, who, pointing to a stump of fuzzy tail which wagged joyously from one of the ventilation holes, remarked: "You'll have to pay for that one with the feathers."

Grats

The haughty mistress walked unexpectedly into the kitchen and caught Nora, the cook, feeding the policeman on the beat.

"Is this what I pay you for?" snapped the mistress.

"No, ma'am," replied Nora sweetly, "I do this for nothing."

FAIR ENOUGH

The class was having a general knowledge lesson. The master turned to Jenkins, noted for the ease with which he wriggled out of tight corners.

"What is ratio?" "Ratio," replied Jenkins, "is proportion."

"But what is proportion?"

"Why, sir, proportion is ratio."

"Well, what are ratio and proportion?"

"I can only answer one question at a time, sir," replied Jenkins, with cold dignity.

Members of Negro homemakers clubs in Christian and Todd counties ordered about 8,000 flower bulbs for fall planting.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

Kentucky is getting ready to make welcome a new citizen, Mrs. Jane Hadley. Next week, on Friday, Nov. 18, the beloved Vice President will wed. So today it might be a good idea to get acquainted with the bride-to-be.

Missouri-Born:

Mrs. Hadley was born Elizabeth Jane Rucker in Keytesville, Mo., 38 years ago. Her grandfather, William J. Rucker, was congressman. And Vice President Barkley knew him years ago.

When Jane was young, the family moved to Sedalia, Mo., but Jane was sent to school in Italy and France. She has an excellent command of those languages. In fact, after the death of Mr. Hadley she taught in the Language Department of Washington University in St. Louis.

Mr. Hadley, who was ten years older, died suddenly of a heart attack five years ago. As you know, they had two daughters, 17 and 13. The older is a student at Newcomb College, New Orleans.

How About Age:

Of course, there has been considerable discussion about the difference in age. The Veep is 72. But here is what Mrs. Hadley is quoted as saying:

"For some strange reason I don't feel any difference in age." And she added: "I wish in a way he wasn't Vice President. I would love to live in Paducah, that is the kind of life I would love to live."

Social Life:

The social set in Washington wonders if the new Mrs. Barkley will entertain. They hope so, for Mrs. Truman doesn't seem to care much for the social swim. And the vice president—up to now, at least—is the most sought-after guest in the capital.

The arrival of Mrs. Barkley will mean the exit of Mrs. Max Truitt, daughter of the vice president, as the official Barkley hostess. But those who know Mrs. Truitt, a swell person, says she has no regrets at losing her job.

Did You Know:

The Interior Department has approved the Withers-Chapman bill to establish a new federal fish hatchery in Kentucky . . . The report of Highway Commissioner Keck on road construction in Kentucky has received high praise by those in Washington who have received copies . . . That airline crash at National Airport shocked the capital . . . It was the sad duty of Joseph Gallahan of Bellevue, House sergeant-at-arms, to identify the body of Congressman Bates of Massachusetts . . . Williamstown's Ruth Bennett, secretary to Congressman Spence, has a valuable picture. It is an autographed photo signed by President Truman.

USE OF BURLEY LEVELING OFF SINCE THE WAR

The use of Burley tobacco has been relatively stable at about $25 million pounds a year during the past three years, according to Dr. Dana G. Card, economist at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. This is despite the fact that its use has increased about two-thirds since before World War 2.

Production has outrun the use of Burley, however, and in five of the last six years more Burley has been grown than was used. Stocks now are the highest on record. Stocks of tobacco on hand plus the present crop are estimated at 29 times the annual use of Burley. When the total supply gets above three times the yearly use, "then markets seem to get into difficulty," Dr. Card admitted. Normally, the supply of tobacco is two and a half to three times the annual consumption.

"If we could be sure that cigarette smoking and disappearance of Burley tobacco would stay up to where it is now, stocks might not be excessive, even though production has been running ahead of disappearance," Dr. Card asserted.

"A good deal depends upon the level of business activity. The outlook is for a relatively good business year in 1950. If that materializes I think cigarette consumption will hold its own."

Fire-cured tobacco was said to be in a good position this season because production is below the rate of disappearance. Stocks are slightly smaller than a year ago but still large enough to meet demand.

MORE FARM HOMES ARE MADE MODERN

The annual report of the Agricultural Extension Division of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, says home-management projects were carried in 90 counties the past year. A total of 25,725 families reported adopting 140,714 improved practices. The report continues—

"Such improvements were of value in making work easier and more pleasant for homemakers and their families. Home-management programs assisted families to improve their standard of living through better use of money, time, energy, materials and equipment."

S. K. Pioneers to Play New Haven In Opener Friday Night

The Simon Kenton High School Pioneers will open their basketball season Friday night, Nov. 18th, in their gym when they meet the New Haven High School Tigers.

The Pioneers are faced with the job of rebuilding the wreckage caused by last year's graduation. Five members of the squad received their sheep skins, leaving big gaps which must be filled. Heeger, Hermes, Captain Armstrong, Colcolough and Meyers are gone from the blue and white line-up.

To fill the places of these graduates, Coach Willard Shropshire must call on inexperienced players. Seniors Wayne Hicks, Buzz LeMaster and Brenton Grant will get their chance. Six-foot three-inch Norman Ervin, one of the best shots on the team will be available. Garner Hardgrove looks as though he may develop into the ball player that he showed promise of being last year. Speedy Charlie Henzman looks better and faster than ever. Little Harry Hughes is always ready to throw them through from far out. In addition to these, several promising sophomores have shown great potential ability and may make the juniors and seniors work hard to keep their place.

The nucleus of this year's team will be Captain Gene Coggage, six-foot two-inch forward and center, whose 399-point total of last year, should go even higher this season, and Jimmy Berryman, four-foot-nine-inch hard-driving ball handler. He has the pulse and confidence this year to become an outstanding performer.

To Crown Basketball Queen

The Simon Kenton Basketball Queen of 1949 will be crowned during the half-time intermission.

Finalists in the contest are Jean Dunn, representing the Senior class; Kathryn Carmichael, the Junior class, and Elsie Fisk, the Tenth grade. In the contest to represent the Junior High, Carolyn Riddell, June Riddell and Nellie Fisk.

The Basketball Queen contest is an annual affair and is sponsored by the Beta Club. All proceeds collected from the "penny-a-vote" campaign are donated to the general school fund.

Burlington Football Team to Play In State 6-Man Meet

The "Breakfast Battle"—that's how Larry Shropshire, sports editor of the Lexington Leader, has titled the state championship six-man football game between the Burlington High School Eagles and Lebanon Junction team at Skoll Field, Lexington, Thanksgiving Day morning. The contest which will be played at 11 o'clock a. m. is the first of a triple header grid camp being sponsored by the Oleika Temple of Shriners.

The Shriners, who are hoping to pull a record crowd for their program with the triple-header offering this year, are as Adolph Rupp, program chairman, said, "offering three games for the price of one." All net proceeds of the program, Mr. Rupp said, will be used by Shriners in their work in behalf of crippled children, providing hospitalization, treatment, braces, etc. More than 13,000 attended the program last year.

Tickets for the triple-header are one sale at the Burlington School. For information call Burlington 182.

Christmas Seal Sale Opens Nov. 21st In Boone County

The forty-third annual Christmas Seal Sale in Boone county will open November 21st according to Mrs. Sibilla Reimer, president of the Boone County Tuberculosis Association.

"Health Education," Mrs. Reimer said, "is the theme of the local unit." The local president went on to say that health authorities believe that a good program of health education, whereby people would realize that to prevent a disease is much better than to attempt to cure it later, is the answer to the nation's health problem.

With the above thought in mind, the local association has scheduled a number of health lectures throughout the county with leading health authorities as speakers. They also have a number of health pamphlets and booklets which may be used by any group, club, class or organization requesting them.

Films to Be Shown

Several films being obtained by the group and will be shown at schools in the county and to groups desiring them. Two film strips, "Life and TB" and "TB Facts" are now available to schools for use in health classes. Any of this material may be obtained for use by contacting Mrs. Reimer, Mrs. Carroll Cropper, association treasurer, or Ralph C. Maurer, seal sale publicity chairman.

Future Farmers' Father-Son Banquet Held at Simon Kenton

The Simon Kenton Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held their 11th annual Father and Son Banquet on Monday, November 14 at 7:00 p. m. The banquet was held at Simon Kenton High School at Independence.

This year's banquet was the largest ever held since the beginning of the Simon Kenton Chapter. There were approximately one hundred and forty people who attended the banquet. The chapter officers used the regular opening and closing ceremonies. The guest speaker of the banquet was Dr. Paul B. Clark, head of the English department of Simon Kenton School. Attending the banquet were representatives of the Agricultural Agencies.

Most important of all was the presence of the distinguished guests, the boys' FATHERS.

Another guest of the evening whose presence was greatly appreciated was that of our charming sponsor, Miss Rose Marie Elliott and our sponsor of last year, Miss Norma Jean Dunn. Other feminine guests who attended our banquet were our sisterly organization, The Future Homemakers of America, who very graciously and courteously served a delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Ida Keeney and the Cafeteria staff.

The success of the banquet was due to the fine cooperation and spirit of the committees with our President, Ronald Losey, who presided as toastmaster and the Junior and Senior Class, in charge of all committees.

It's about six weeks before the opening of the new session of Congress. So, by your leave, we'll look at the future and see what's ahead.

We're going to get a tax reduction. There seems to be a demand for a cut, especially in those luxury taxes.

It looks as though the federal tax on oleo will be repealed.

The Administration is going to try to get the Brannon Plan—or a part of it—through Congress.

And some sort of federal aid to education will be enacted into law. We don't look for a long session of Congress. With congressmen up for election next fall, they'll be anxious to close up shop and start campaigning.

Campaigns:

Speaking of elections, recalls the statement made in Lexington the other day by John Sherman Cooper. He said he is not a candidate for the senate next year. That statement was no surprise to Washington. It's been known for some months now.

And such a report was carried here. In fact, there seems to be no avowed candidates in the race. Senator Withers, although urged to run, points to his statement made when he was named to the senate—that he is not a candidate. Governor Clements is silent. And Congressman Gregory left Washington a week or two ago without indicating his plans.

An Invitation:

The Washington Chapter of the University of Kentucky Alumni Club wants to see the U. K. Wildcats in action up here. So at the last meeting, President Lewis Colbert of Covington named a committee to get in touch with the University.

Kentuckians would like to see the Wildcats—either basketball or football variety—play Navy. However, the Big Blue fans will settle for any of the Washington area colleges.

Fish Hatchery:

The Interior Department has given its okay to the Withers-Chapman bill to build a new fish hatchery in Kentucky. The demand for fish far exceeds the supply available at the present hatchery at Louisville, and Kentucky ponds and streams have been getting supplies from Alabama, Arkansas and Indiana.

The bill, of course, still has a long way to go before winning final approval. But it would be nice if the hatchery were to be established in the Fifth District. And it could be constructed at the site of that proposed new state park.

The situation anyway, bears investigation by the Fifth District State Park Association.

MANY PESTS FOR PLANT GROWERS

A host of insects and diseases that pest owners of nurseries and growers of plants and farmers are discussed in a new bulletin of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

In the list are Japanese beetle, white-fringed beetle, red spider, bag worm, pine needle scale, euonymus scale, root knot nematodes and grasshoppers.

To prevent further spread of insects and diseases, it is unlawful to sell or offer for sale uninspected or uncertified nursery stock. Applications for inspection should be made to State Entomologist, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington.

LIGHTS USED IN STRIPPING LEAF

With electric lines reaching more farms every year, many Kentucky farmers now strip their tobacco under electric light. They use, for the most part, the kind of daylight lamps which practically all warehouses are equipped for receiving and grading tobacco.

Extension agricultural engineers of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, last year helped about 2,250 farmers install lamps in their stripping rooms. In using electricity for homes and in other ways on farms, these engineers gave assistance to 9,550 families.

Electric brooding of chicks has become almost the rule where there is electricity, and many ro-ralers are using high bulbs to warm hovers for pigs.

A reservoir covering about 15 acres is being constructed on the state prison farm in Lyon county to furnish water for truck gardens and livestock.

VISALIA

The Visalia Baptist Church baptized the following candidates Sunday of last week: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kris Schmitzler, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harris and Leo Proffitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caldwell were recent guests of her niece, Mrs. Lloyd Cook, of Piner.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and daughter Diana of Estager were recent guests of her mother, Mrs. Edith Ware, and attended church at Visalia.

Mrs. Edith Ware entertained the Staffordburg Homemakers for their November meeting. The members are studying refinishing furniture.

We were sorry to learn that Mrs. Nannie Moser continues poorly, but hope for her early recovery.

The new stage curtains have been installed in the Visalia school auditorium. The gift was made possible by funds realized from a Summer Festival sponsored by the Visalia P.T. A.

D. G. Winkler of Estill county averaged about 100 bushels of corn to the acre on land drained with 3,400 feet of tile laid last spring.

Jay Strode of Davless county said that his hogs required only a fourth as much protein supplement as formerly after they were turned on his Ladino clover.

LIGHT HOGS MAKE BEST HOME MEAT

Well-fattened hogs weighing 200 to 225 pounds are the best for home butchering, says Grady Sellards of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Their cuts are better and they are easier to handle than heavy hogs.

Proper chilling of the carcass was stressed by Sellards. This can be done in a locker plant, or in a refrigerator, or by packing in ice and sale. For top-quality meat, pork must be well chilled.

Sellards suggested a mild cure for bacon, using three pounds of salt, a pound and three-quarters of sugar and five ounces of saltpeter. Leave in the cure three weeks. Then smoke until cherry red on the skin side, wrap and store in a dark, dry, cool place.

To cure hams, use a mixture of 7½ pounds of salt, 2½ pounds of sugar and two ounces of saltpeter, well rubbed in. Leave in the cure three weeks if the ham weighs 20 pounds or less, and a day and a half a pound for heavier hams.

Remove ham from cure, wash and smoke with green hickory until it is cherry red on the skin side. Then wrap with heavy paper and store in cloth bags. Shoulders should be cured the same way.

Long Time No See

A HOUSE agent had a farm on his books which was supposed to be haunted, and to prove rumor wrong he decided to engage a man to stay there for one night. The following day he was up early and went round to see how the man had fared. But the man was not to be found. On the lawn he discovered the remains of a window, sash and shutters completely wrecked, but of the watchman there was no sign.

Four days later the house agent came across him tramping along a country lane three miles away. "Hallo, George!" he cried, "Where have you been all this time?"

The man wiped the perspiration from his brow. "Boss," he replied "I've been coming back."

GETTING EVEN

A school teacher was stopped by the police for driving through a red light and was immediately brought before the judge.

"Good," said the judge, "you're a school teacher. That's fine. Madame, your presence here fulfills a long-standing desire. For years I've hoped to have a school teacher standing there. 'Now,' he thundered, 'sit down at the table and write, 'I went through a red light' 500 times.'"

Ouch!

Ben—Gladys is a wonder. She actually talks with her eyes.
Jim—Yes, and I suppose that when she feels like using strong language she just gives a cursory glance.

CARD OF THANKS

As it is impossible to see and thank individually the many friends and neighbors for their numberless kindnesses since the very serious illness of our son, Jimmie Ned, we wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation. We also wish to thank those who gave blood and all who sent cards and flowers.

God's Open House

Lesson for November 20, 1949

IT IS A WARM chapter, this 55th of Isaiah. Some false ideas about God melt away fast when they are brought close to it. Let us take a look at some of these notions and see how they wilt in the light of God's word. Sometimes these notions are held sincerely, sometimes they are mere excuses to keep from facing God. One of these mistaken notions is the idea that God has two lists: one is a list of people Dr. Foreman on whom he intends to have mercy, and will save; the other list he has is a private one, of those on whom he intends to have no mercy and will not save. If your name is on the first list, fine; but if it is on the second list, you are in a hopeless fix; for if God is not going to help you, who can?

This is a terribly wrong notion. It confuses the true God with some sort of sultan in the sky who has a "social register" of persons he will admit to his palace. "Use this invitation as your card of admittance." No, it is not at all like that.

If you really think that admission to heaven is by card only, then cut out Isaiah 55 and present it at the gate. Cut out any verse in the Bible that says "Whosoever,"—John 3:16 for example—and present that. God keeps open house, he does not employ butlers or strong-arm men to keep out the crowds, he wants all to come who will. Do you want God? Then come. Are you thirsty for the living water? Then drink. It is as simple as that.

No Waiting
THERE IS ANOTHER notion that keeps people away from God. It is a kind of shyness. It is the feeling that maybe it isn't any use hunting for God. It is the feeling a boy has when he is lost in the woods and has about made up his mind that there is no use in walking any more, he will just sit down and wait till somebody finds him.

It is the feeling that God may be sensitive and doesn't want people coming bothering him. It is the notion that if God wants me, he will knock me down and drag me where he wants me to be. A man with a notion like that, of course, isn't likely to meet with God.

He spends his life paying God no attention whatever, not even thinking about him, perhaps. He may even go as far as he can from the Father's house, believing that God's long arm, like the long arm of the F.B.I. or the Mounties, will reach after him and get him in case God ever wants him.

Now this is a ridiculous idea and a bad one too. Isaiah would not think it true for a minute. "Seek ye the Lord," he says. "Call on God . . . return to the Lord." "Incline your ear and come!" This means you—if you will. But if you won't, God will not force you. He forces no man. He wants willing obedience, loving service, not slavery. God will have no chain on you but the chain of love. God keeps an open house, not a prison farm.

No House Of Horrors
ANOTHER WRONG NOTION, for which, alas, many a church member is partly responsible, is the notion that the nearer we get to God, the gloomier we shall be. All the talk about sacrifice and suffering for others, such as we were thinking of last week, all the emphasis in the church on the death of Christ, all the solemnity of most church services, make people think: "God may be all right for solemn people, but not for me; I like life with a smile."

Now that is just another mistaken notion. The very persons who know the deeper meanings of sacrifice are just the persons who don't like to use that word about themselves.

In fact, it could be said that in general it is only Christians who have a right to be gay. Jesus himself, on the same night in which he was betrayed, spoke to his friends about sharing his joy to the full.

Isaiah 55 is certainly no invitation to gloom. Joy, peace, the clapping of hands are there. But how do we know Isaiah was right? There is only one way, and that is not to sit arguing about it. You never know what a party is like by staying at home.

Do you really want to find out what goes on there? Don't be content to hear others say, "It's wonderful!" God's door stands open.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of a good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. It is a source of strength, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read the Bible daily.

For the Church. They are: (1) For the soul of the Church itself, (2) For the children's sake, (3) For the sake of the community and nation, (4) For the sake of the individual, which needs his moral and spiritual support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dramatic Club Names Officers, Committees F. H. A. Goals Set for 1949-50

At the first meeting of the Senior Dramatic Club, they had an election of officers. They are as follows:

President — Adrian McMillan
Vice Pres. — Kathryn Carmichael
Secretary — Norma Jean Dunn
Treasurer — Betty Warren
Reporter — Charles Davis

These committees were appointed by the president: Program, Elbert Williams, chairman; Mary Ellen Bruce, Barbara Giles, Betty Sue Stephenson, Isabel Stahl. Social, Babs Rubbee, chairman; Jean Polking, Malvin Cobb.

The club plans to give two plays. The first will be "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens. It will be put on for the school in December. A three act play is to be given later in the year. The money from these plays will go to buy stage furniture for the school. The club plans two programs, meetings of varied types each month. One social meeting a month and one business meeting. The club has new membership requirements which each member must meet.

The F. H. A. officers for the year 1949-1950, are as follows:

President — Rosie Elliott
Vice President — Rosie Heideman
Secretary — Helen Stahl
Treasurer — Wilda Gross
Reporter — Norma Dunn
Parliamentarian — Norma Mills
Historian — Katherine Maus
Song Leader — Jo Ann Wilson

Some of our goals for this year are:

- 1.—To establish a parliamentary procedure team.
- 2.—To buy a radio for the Home Ec. room.
- 3.—To provide some desirable recreation for Simon Kenton students.

The F. H. A. is sponsoring a "social hour" which is to be given twice a month until basketball season starts. The first one was given Oct. 20th from 3:05 until 4:30. There were refreshments and music in the cafeteria. There was no admission fee. Everyone had a good time.

We had our installation service for new members October 4th. It was very impressive, with the candle light ritual and presentation of the chapter colors and flowers to new members, who were:

Pauline Ashcraft, Yvonne Cooper, Marjorie Damon, Molly A. England, Mary Ann Paris, June Stephens, Jeanne Wilson, Mary Ann Wilson, Carol House, Joyce Johnson, Emma Kelly, Betty LeMaster, Florence Rivald, Jo Ann Taylor and Jo Ann Wilson.

SEVENTH GRADE DRAMATIC CLUB

There are thirty-three members in our club. The officers are:

President, Billy Epeler; Vice Pres., Lee Giles; Secretary, Elaine Gutteridge; Treasurer, Nellie Flisk; Reporter, Vengle Flisk.

We have already had a chance to be in a program each Thursday. At present we are having try-outs for the play, "Wildcat Willie Gets Brain Fever." The cast hasn't been announced at this date.

P. T. A. NEWS

The P. T. A. dinner, given Nov. 7 at the school cafeteria, honoring the teachers of Simon Kenton was an enjoyable one, with sixty teachers, parents and friends assembled.

Mr. Hinsdale, principal of Simon Kenton, introduced each teacher, with a brief summary of his duties.

Teddy Groger acted as Master of Ceremonies in a group discussion of the proposed Youth Center. Many community organizations, such as the Masons, Independence American Legion, Independence Firemen Auxiliary, and Girl Scouts spoke to the effect that they would give help where it might be needed.

As guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Saunders. Mr. Saunders gave his version of what was needed in the way of a successful Youth Center and pledged the full cooperation of the Kentucky Post in any way the committee makes plans for the raising of proceeds for the Youth Center.

FUTURE RETAILERS CHOOSE OFFICERS

The Simon Kenton Chapter of the Kentucky Future Retailers Association had the first meeting Sept. 16, 1949. In this meeting officers were elected, as follows:

President — Adrian McMillan
Vice President — Dena Graves
Secretary — Alberta Colston
Treasurer — Malvin Cobb
Program Chairman — Juanita Hyatt
Sales Manager — Evelyn Payne
Reporter — Elbert Williams

After the election of officers the club decided that we should have some kind of a project. The project is to make some money for the club. The project decided on was selling Christmas cards.

JR. DRAMATIC CLUB

At our first meeting we elected our officers. They are as follows:

President, Donna White; Vice Pres., Patsy Belle; Secretary, Joanne Megler; Treasurer, Dale Webster, and Reporter, Marilyn Russell.

We named our club the "Junior Playhouse." We need more boys. The girls are getting lonesome. Our sponsor is Miss Jefferys.

Jimmy, who had been climbing trees, came in for the second time with his trousers torn.

"Go upstairs and mend them yourself," ordered his harassed mother.

Some time later she went to see how he was getting on. The trousers were there, but no Jimmy.

Fuzzled, she came downstairs, noticing as she returned that the cellar door, usually shut, was open. She went to the door and called down loudly and angrily: "Are you running around down there without your trousers on?"

The reply came sternly in a man's deep voice: "No, madam I'm reading the gas meter."

ANY TIME'LL DO

An old man had made friends on the golf course with a young fellow whose enthusiasm for the game equaled his own. Together they played several most enjoyable games, but at last it grew too dark to continue, and they left the club together.

As they went out the old chap turned to his new friend: "I've never had a better game," he said.

"Nor have I!" cried the young enthusiast.

"Can you meet me tomorrow?" asked the elder.

The young man did not hesitate. "Certainly," he said. "I was to have been married, but I can put that off."

Uncle Sam Says

School bells are again ringing and thousands of children are back in classrooms all over the country. And many of these little boys and girls are crossing the thresholds of learning for the first time, starting the great adventure of beginning an education in a free land. They can go all the way, and that means college, if they learn to save. The School Savings Program teaches them to be thrifty and children who learn to save will certainly be better citizens tomorrow. You parents—be sure there is a School Savings Program at your school and be sure too, that your children are investing in U. S. School Savings Stamps.

Topdressing Pastures Adds Grazing Days, Boosts Legume Yields

CHICAGO—Milk pails will be fuller next spring and you will get bigger dividends from extra grazing days and more tons of hay, if you topdress your pastures and grasslands this fall with phosphate and potash fertilizer.

Fertilizer added in the fall helps deep-rooted legumes and grasses make a sturdier, fuller growth, says the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. The roots dig themselves in more firmly. The plants weather the winter in better condition for early spring growth.

Earlier spring growth means a longer grazing season. It means fewer days of barn feeding for your cows.

Agronomists recommend adding heavy amounts of phosphate and potash fertilizer to pastures and grasslands. Tests at state agricultural stations show that applications of 300 to 600 pounds per acre produce profitable results.

Removing Difficult Stains

Fortunately most inks are washable. A good soap sudsing in warm water is all that's necessary to remove ink stains from clothing. Occasionally, however, you may have to apply vinegar or lemon juice. If clothes are white, bleach remaining stains with hydrogen peroxide. With colored clothes, sponge clothes with warm glycerin and let stand for 30 minutes. Rinse well. Most candy stains will wash right out. Chocolate is the only one that is a little difficult to remove. After washing the garment in lukewarm water, use hydrogen peroxide to remove the balance of the stain. Rinse well. If the stain is on a coat or jacket that can't be washed, sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

The First Assistant Postmaster General in Washington, D. C., has asked that local Postmasters remind the general public of the postage rates for the approaching Christmas season. There are now more 1 1/2 cent stamps for mailing Christmas cards. Under the new rates, a 2c stamp is required. This applies to unsealed greetings. The Post Office Department prefers that greeting cards be sealed, that a 2c stamp be used and that the letter bear a return address. This enables better handling, and if the addressee has moved to another address, the greeting card may be forwarded without extra postage to the new address. If you send your greetings by the 2c postage in unsealed envelope, you are not entitled to directory service; your greeting cannot be forwarded to another address without additional postage. Do your mailing early and patronize your local post office. Your Rural Carrier will appreciate it if you will have your cards stamped and tied in bundles. He will be only too happy to supply you with your holiday stamps. When in doubt about packing parcels to be shipped to your loved ones in distant cities, consult your local post office. The Postmaster or any of the clerks on duty will be delighted to help you in any way. Parcels to the men in the Armed Services should be on their way immediately for delivery overseas.

Burley Referendum Vote Saturday, Nov. 26

Approximately 1,000 Burley tobacco growers in Kenton county are eligible to vote in the referendum to be held Saturday, Nov. 26th, on Burley marketing quotas, according to George A. Eubanks, chairman of the County BMA Committee.

In the referendum, called by the Secretary of Agriculture in accordance with marketing quota law, growers may vote for quotas for 3 years, beginning with the 1950 crop; may vote for quotas for 1951 only; or they may vote against quotas.

Marketing quotas cannot be in effect unless approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum.

The quotas furnish growers with a method of adjusting supply to demand and help growers obtain fair prices for the tobacco they produce.

Any person who has an interest in the 1949 crop of Burley tobacco as an owner, tenant, or share cropper is entitled to vote in the referendum. However, no person is entitled to more than one vote even though he may be engaged in production of Burley tobacco in two or more communities, counties or states.

Places of voting in Kenton County are as follows: Crescent Springs community, Independence County House; Independence community, Independence County House; Decatur community, Independence County House; Towson community, Independence County House; Atwood community, Independence County House; Bracht community, Telford Elliott's farm store; Haskins-Piner community, Piner school.

Listed below are the voting places for the various communities in Boone county:

Constance and Hebron, Hebron Fire House; Petersburg, Petersburg School; Grant, Citizens Bank; Burlington, Courthouse; Florence, Florence Firehouse; Hamilton and Carlton, Hamilton School; Union and Beaver, New Haven School; Verona, Verona Bank; Walton, City Bldg.

Mrs. Mayhugh Speaks at Piner P-T. A. Meeting

The P-T. A. of Piner school met in regular business session on Thursday night, Nov. 10th. Since it was American Education Week, the six grades presented a most enjoyable program. The P-T. A. was very fortunate to have as the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Naomi Whitlock Mayhugh of Nicholson, former State Supervisor of Elementary Education. 3,000 Letters Mailed In Boone Xmas Seal Sale Drive

Approximately 3,000 letters containing 1949 Christmas Seals were mailed out to Boone County families early this week. The formal opening of the Seal Sale began Monday in the county auditor's office.

Mrs. Sibbia Reimer, president of the Boone County Tuberculosis Association, expressed her "sincere thanks" to those who so generously aided in preparing, addressing, stuffing, sealing and classifying the seal sale letters. She also stated that it was the hope of the local association that Boone County would again lead the state in per capita sale of seals.

Money from the sale of Christmas seals is largely used in the county which is given for the purpose of keeping patients in hospitals, X-rays, rehabilitation and health programs. Seventy-five percent of the receipts are used in the county, twenty percent goes to the state association and five percent to the national association.

Local association leaders said, "we are requesting those who so generously help in the fight against tuberculosis to mail the money for the seals immediately, thereby having this charitable task out of the way before the hurried days of the customary Christmas rush."

Walton Baptist Sunday School Reaches Goal

Two weeks ago the Walton Baptist Sunday school at their workers' conference, set a goal of 301 for Sunday, Nov. 20th. The largest number ever reported in the history of the church was 259. This number was reached some years ago. Sunday, 301 were in attendance.

Quite a number who are regular in attendance could not be present for various reasons. If these had been present, it is estimated that at least 350 would have been in attendance.

The Sunday school used the slogan, "Don't Break the Chain." Bryan Rector, superintendent of the Sunday school, spent Friday afternoon and night in putting the chain together, which was then hung across the front of the church.

The B. T. U. is still trying to reach its goal of 100 and urge all members and friends to be present Sunday night.

If you don't attend Sunday school and church anywhere else, Rev. B. Garrett, pastor, extends a cordial welcome to you to attend the Walton Baptist Church.

Simon Kenton FHA Installs Officers For Crittenden Chapter

The Simon Kenton Chapter of Future Homemakers journeyed to Crittenden, Wednesday, Nov. 16th to help the Crittenden Chapter with the installation and initiation of their officers and members. This was given as an assembly program for the High school.

The installation service was very impressive. A red lighted candle symbolized the "flame of home economics," while each white candle lighted from the red one by a Simon Kenton officer represented a purpose of the F. H. A. organization. Miss Rosemarie Elliott, president of the Simon Kenton organization, presided over the installation of the Crittenden officers. Other officers installed are: Mary F. Crowe vice president; Mary B. Cook, secretary; Hazel Dues, treasurer; Anne Piner, historian; Marilyn Caldwell reporter, and LaVerne Henry, song leader.

The initiation service followed the installation of officers and there were 26 new members participating. The Simon Kenton vice president, Rose Heideman, repeated the creed and explained the emblem of the Future Homemakers. Norma Mills and Waverly Riley explained and demonstrated how a chapter can be an honor roll one, and there is belief that, under the capable leadership of the Crittenden officers and their sponsor, Mrs. Helen Blanton, this new chapter will be a very active one in the Northern Kentucky District organization of Future Homemakers of America.

Thanksgiving

The American Legion joins all other Americans today in giving thanks that Thanksgiving Day 1949 will be a day of peace.

Johnson-McElroy Post, 277.

Solovox Entertainment

Last Friday evening, patrons of the Legion were treated to the easy listening, danceable music of Ed Bailey and his solovox (organ type music). Ed will again be present this Friday for your dancing and listening pleasure. There is no cover or minimum charge and popular prices prevail.

For those who enjoy square dancing, the Legion will sponsor a grand square dance very soon. A popular band from this area will entertain. Look next week for definite band name and time of dance.

Attends Conference

Last weekend, your correspondent attended the annual Fall Conference of the American Legion in Louisville. A very well planned program of all State committees was carried out and reports were submitted to the State Commander.

The report of the membership committee continues to stick in my mind as the most important. The combined efforts of Legion Posts and the Forty-and-Eight box car roundup has given the Department of Kentucky a definite lead over the rest of the nation in new and renewal Legion members for the period from October 15 to November 15, 1949. Also, the number of members enrolled in the National organization exceeds by sixty-five percent the number enrolled at this time last year. So, here's your chance to make history.

Join the American Legion!

A greater, stronger, more productive American Legion is in the making. It is surging forward with America—serving community, state and nation wherever needed, helping to shape the course of events. If you want to join an organization where your voice will be heard, join the Legion. Here is your invitation to join us!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Jeremiah 1: 14-23; 20: 1-18
DEVOTIONAL READING: Philippians 1: 12-26

Spokesman of God

Lesson for November 27, 1949.

GOD MAKES USE of strange characters. What shall we think of a preacher who tried to beg off from being a preacher? What can we make of a man who actually reproached God for forcing him into the ministry? How shall we rate a man who in time of war urged his own nation to surrender, who was believed by almost nobody, who was reviled by his own class and even his own family? What can we say of a man who was often in hot water with the city authorities, who spent months of his time in jail, who was called subversive, and who never got along with the established religion of his time?

The prophet Jeremiah was that man; yet posterity honored him. His own generation thought him a liar. But some then knew, as we know today, that he was a teller of God's truth, a spokesman of God.

Was He a Pessimist?
WE KNOW (Jer. 1) that Jeremiah did not wish to be a prophet in the first place, though unlike Isaiah he shrank back not from a sense of sin but because he thought of himself as a mere child.

We know (chap. 20) that at times he was thoroughly discouraged about himself, and even cursed the day he was born. It is also true that in the first war waged by his little country of Judah before it was smashed, his advice from beginning to end was "Surrender."

No wonder people thought him a pessimist, a calamity-bowler. But before we call him such names we must remember two things. First is, that his unwillingness to be a prophet, and the fact that so to speak he hated the job, marks a vital fact; he, perhaps even more than other prophets, sensed the difference between his own ideas and what God was saying through him.

Even when what the Lord said was not what they themselves would have wished to say, they spoke for the Lord nevertheless. The other thing to remember is that when everybody wants to believe a pleasant lie, and a man comes along telling the unpleasant truth, he is not a pessimist, he is simply stating facts.

Jeremiah stood by the facts as God gave him insight to see them. If they jalled him for it, he could not help that; but they could not shut his mouth nor close his eyes.

Was he a patriot?

Jeremiah was constantly accused of acts and attitudes which today might be called "subversive," though he dearly loved his country. This was because he dared to rebuke the ambitions of his country's leaders.

They said: Our country shall be free! But Jeremiah knew it would not be free. They said: Our king will conquer! Jeremiah knew he would end his days a prisoner. Jeremiah was unpopular, to put it mildly, because he advised his country to take the only place among the nations it could take—a humble one.

Then, as now, many persons think that patriotism means believing yours is the perfect country. If anyone points to injustice in our land, some one may yell, "Deport him!" But Jeremiah showed what is a true patriot. He is not necessarily the man who approves all the foreign policies of his nation (Jeremiah approved not one), nor the man who speaks only good of his country and his people.

The best patriot is the person who, seeing his country as God sees it, will dare to speak out against evil wherever he finds it.

A Way to Know God

Jeremiah knew God well, and the trouble with his contemporaries was that they did not know God. But Jeremiah did not say: "Know God by becoming a prophet like me," for he knew that only a few are called to be prophets. Neither did he say, "Go to church often," for you can see in chap. 7 what he thought of the Temple of his time.

He pointed to the good king Josiah (chap. 13). The king had found God, not in a mystic vision like Jeremiah's, not in burnt offerings and sacrifices, but in the doing of justice looking out for the exploited, caring for the helpless, seeing that justice was done.

Stop to Remember

The holiday season is here, and Mother is bringing home baskets of tempting food. One glance at the assorted nuts, the fruits, the puddings and cakes, reminds us that we will soon be enjoying the treats of Thanksgiving.

But enjoying our blessings is not enough. We must be thankful as well—and true thanks is possible only when we share with others.

When in the joy and excitement of the moment we stop to remember those who are less fortunate, we are not only bringing happiness to others, but we are making our own pleasures more genuine, more deeply felt.

In order to develop generosity—and indeed all virtues, we must join wholeheartedly in the work of the Church. Here we learn how to serve our fellow men most effectively, and in so doing, enrich our own lives.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should join the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsburg

This Thanksgiving Week in the capital has been calm and quiet. Practically every lawmaker is out of town, and those who remain will be leaving Saturday for Philadelphia and the Army-Navy game. Special trains will carry the crowds from the capital city.

Congressman Spence has finally reached the bottom of the pile on his desk, and he's at his home in Ft. Thomas. His job is one of the toughest on the Hill.

Another Kentuckian who has finally deserted the Hill is H. H. Morris of Paris, deputy clerk of the House of Representatives. He completed his job in time to get to Lexington and the Kentucky-Tennessee game.

Family Party:

The President and the First Lady are to celebrate Thanksgiving Day with a quiet family party. Some of the relatives are to drop in from Missouri. But they won't see daughter Margaret. She's out around the country, making her own living with a series of concerts.

Next week the President will leave Washington for a three-week rest at Key West. However, Mr. Truman won't play the entire time. Most of his staff will be with him and he'll transact business under the Florida sun.

The White House, as you know, plans only a minor social season this year. But the Trumans will give one party for Vice President and Mrs. Barkley.

Attention Students:

The Coast Guard has notified all Kentucky senators and congressmen about an excellent opportunity for Kentucky high school graduates and seniors. The Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut, is selecting its freshman class for next year. Those young men interested may get all the facts by writing the Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard, Washington, D. C.

The academy is comparable to West Point and Annapolis, and the young man who graduates gets a bachelor of science degree in engineering plus a commission in service. Senator Garrett L. Withers has a supply of illustrated booklets for the asking.

Four-H Clubs:

Members of Kentucky 4-H Clubs were disappointed during the last session of Congress when lawmakers refused to turn over Dawson Springs (Kentucky) State Park to the University of Kentucky. But there's been a promise made that things will be better next year. The Park, which actually is federal property, will be turned over to the state. And then the University will be able to establish a real camp for those hard-working 4-H members.

Did You Know:

There are stories in the capital that another member of the Roosevelt family is going to get into politics. Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger is getting ready to run for Congress from California. . . The Republican victory in Pendleton County surprised a lot of Kentuckians in Washington. . . Kentucky's population increased but 0.8 per cent since 1940. The national average was more than 12 per cent.

Gunpowder Homem'ers

"Employ thy time well, if thou meanest to gain leisure, and since thou art not sure of a minute, throw not away an hour. Leisure is time for doing something useful. This leisure, the diligent man will obtain, but the lazy man never—industry gives comfort and plenty and respect."—Benjamin Franklin. This quotation was read by Mrs. Virgil Kelly, club leader, as the lesson on "Simplified Living" was concluded at the November meeting of the Gunpowder Homemakers, held on November 8th in the home of Mrs. Ray Newman on Mt. Zion Road.

A most important factor is our day's work is planning well our time, said Mrs. Dolpha Seebree, as co-leader. "Is it better to be a good housekeeper or good homemaker?" was asked of the club. A general discussion on short cuts to housekeeping and the most profitable paths to pursue when rearing children followed.

The Christmas deed was decided on and plans made for the Christmas party. At the close of the meeting thirteen members, Madames Elva Piper, Clephas Raddehl, Robert Moore, Cliff Norman, Web Shelton, Bert Marksberry, Virgil Kelly, Dolpha Seebree, Geo. Black, Glenn Stevens, Edgar Utzinger, B. M. Stevens, Miss Elva Hughes and visitors, Miss Lucy Newman, Madames Clifford Waldman, Alois Gasser, Garfield Cook, Preston Hedges and Jimmie Carver departed, declaring Mrs. Newman tops on culinary art and entertaining.—Pub. Piner School News

Piner 4-H Honor Club

The Busy Bee 4-H Club of the Piner Elementary school was chosen as the Honor Club of Kenton County for 1949. The award, a loving cup, was presented by the Union Light, Heat and Power Co. of Covington. Each of the forty-five members of the club received a special award.

At the Kenton County 4-H Jambores held Saturday, Nov. 12th at the Simon Kenton High school, each of the sixteen 4-H Clubs of Kenton County were asked to present a five minute program. The Piner club won first place in this contest. 4-H "T" shirts were awarded to the ten Piner members for presenting their acts of the "Troublesome Ford," and a Novelty Band.

Piner 4-H Achievements

The 4-H club carried projects of Clothing I, Good Housekeeping, Tobacco, Dairy, Sheep, Poultry and Garden. Forty-five members enrolled and we had seventy-three completed projects. This was 100% of the started projects.

Other achievements of the past year have been: 1—Community fair held with forty members participating; 2—Lou Ann Elliott selected as County Week delegate; 3—Three radio programs presented; 4—Tour of members' projects during vacation; 5—Twenty-seven exhibiting at the County Fair; 7—Lois Beighle, our secretary, won first prize on her secretary's book at County Fair; 8—Carol Bagby and Lois Beighle received blue ribbons on their Clothing I project at Ky. Rupture Shield Expert Here Again

E. J. MEINHARDT, widely known Rupture (Hernia) Shield Expert of Chicago and Michigan, will be at the Gibson Hotel in Cincinnati for 6 days beginning Tuesday, November 29th to Sunday, December 4th, inclusive. Office hours 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. only. (Positively no evening office hours.) He has been coming here for 20 successful years. Thousands recommend him. Ask your neighbors.

The Meinhardt Shield positively prevents the Rupture or Hernia from protruding in 10 days on the average—thereby guarding against dangerous strangulation. (No surgery, no medicines or injections, and no time lost.) The smallest or largest and most difficult cases are all invited. There is no charge for private consultation. Every ruptured man in this vicinity should come to see this Shield during the above specified days and office hours. This Shield is for men only.

Notice: If you do not wish to purchase our Rupture Shield, we can supply you with any type pad desired for your present old style appliance—such as oval, concave or flat rupture pads.

She is the second member of her family to win that honor, her sister, Jewell Deane, having been clothing champion two years ago.

A senior in high school this year, Miss Ellis hopes to attend the University of Kentucky in the fall of '50.

VISALIA

The Pre-School section of the Visalia P. T. A. will hold their first regular meeting in the school auditorium Monday night, Nov. 28 at 8 p. m. LAMB-ON-PASTURE
CONTEST EXTENDED

The 1949-1950 Kentucky lamb-on-pasture contest is announced from the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. Its purpose is "to demonstrate the most profitable practice in lamb production and thereby create greater interest in sheep-raising." Emphasis is placed on the number of pounds of lamb produced per ewe and on economy of production through finishing the lambs on pasture.

The contest includes individual flock competition on a state-wide basis, flocks to range in size from 20 ewes up. There also will be competition among counties. See a county agent for details.

In addition to cash awards, there will be bronze certificates for farmers who produce a flock average of 100 to 109 pounds of lamb an ewe; silver certificates for flock-owners producing 110 to 119 pounds of lamb per ewe, and gold certificates for owners of flocks which produce 120 pounds or more of lamb an ewe. Entries may be made through Dec. 31.

Five hundred and one flocks in 32 counties were entered in this year's contest, according to Richard Miller of the college. Winners will be announced at the Farm and Home Convention in Lexington in January.

Burley Marts Open Monday With Price Averages Irregular

Carrollton and Covington, 3-4

First auction sales for the 1949 Burley tobacco crop began Monday. According to the Federal-State Market News Service, average prices for grades offered in several warehouses portrayed an irregular pattern. Comparative averages with opening day last season showed some good and fair leaf grades up $1.00 to $5.00 and some fair and low qualities down as much as $2.50. Most leaf grades and flyings declined $1.00 to $2.00. There was, however, a slightly stronger demand apparent as sales progressed. The practical top price was $60.00 with occasional baskets bringing $61.00. The general average was estimated to be from $46.00 to $47.00 per hundred. A heavy rain and extreme cloudiness slowed up the sales in most parts of the state.

TUESDAY TOBACCO QUOTATIONS

Leaf and the lower side of lugs and flyings brought average prices well above their support prices. On the other hand, some medium and better lugs and flyings averaged only one to two bids above. Estimated receipts of the Association on this market, under the Government loan program, were 8% of the baskets offered. Last year the receipts were about 25%.

The general quality did not measure up to that on last year's opening day. Less choice and fine grades were offered. There were fewer baskets of desirable buff and tan color. Proportions of flyings decreased and more tips were offered. The condition of the tobacco showed improvement as the percentage of baskets graded as unsorted or in an unsafe order was negligible. Last opening day these baskets made up over 6% of the sales.

Last year on opening day in Lexington gross sales totaled 3,505,196 pounds for $51.18 per hundred. In the entire area 27,633,000 pounds were marketed for $50.05. Today the gross volume is expected to be considerably smaller as auctions ran only 3 hours as compared with 5 hours last season.

NEW SHOE STORE

A new and modern shoe store has been open for two weeks in Erlanger, next door to the new Kroger Super Market. They will handle a fine line of shoe for men, ladies and children featuring the Red Goose brand. The management invites your inspection.

ARE YOU ONE OF 'EM?

There are only sixty-nine persons on our mailing list that is not paid in advance—and are you one of them?

If you are, there is two reasons why that some of these days we will be forced to remove your name from our mailing list: First because the Postal laws require that everyone on our list be paid in advance or we lose our mailing permit. Second, because at the high price of news print and the other printing expenses, we can not afford it. Now that just plain old down-to-earth talk and we do not mean at all that any of these good people won't pay, but they have just forgot—and this is merely a reminder!

Conservation Officers Make Many Arrests In Past Two Weeks

During the past two weeks, conservation officers, stationed on U. S. 25 and 42 made many arrests, while checking traffic over these two main highways. The conservation officers had asked permission to work with State Highway Patrolmen, who were checking drivers licenses at these points.

Last Sunday was the opening day of the hunting season in Kentucky, and many hunters took to the fields and those who were law abiding had nothing to fear from the conservation officers, and were detained only a few minutes while wardens checked their kill and hunting license.

Many who were less law abiding, found that severe penalties awaited them in Judge C. L. Coppers court. Fines levied on the violators totaled $73,000, with fines ranging from $29.50 the minimum, to $139, the maximum.

Fifteen non-resident hunters were fined for failing to have proper license, having over the bag limit or hunting with unplugged guns; several received fines from out of the county on charges of having more than the bag limit or improperly plugged gun; one Boone county man was fined for failing to have a license.

According to Cincinnati dailies hunters from that city protested the action taken by the wardens in checking hunters. Local authorities stated that this was the only method whereby a large percentage of the hunting licenses could be checked by the number of wardens allotted to this area.

Following are the attest returns (the figures are the vote for, second figure, against):

Kentucky 78,493, 3005; Tennessee 30,335, 2032; Ohio 2960, 161; West Virginia 1055, 18; Indiana 3060, 122; Virginia 1040, 326; North Carolina 973, 324; and Missouri 553, 33.

Dept. of Agriculture Reports Farmers Lose Advantage

The Agriculture Department reports that farmers have lost every bit of a so-called "price advantage" which they have held since the beginning of World War II. The Department reported farm prices in mid-November failed for the first time since November 1941 to average out higher than "parity."

The department said the ratio of prices received by farmers to prices paid for things they buy was virtually the same as that which prevailed in 1910-14.

Farm prices generally are said to be at parity when the 1910-14 ratio prevails. A drop in farm prices while nonfarm prices remained steady lowered the parity ratio to 100. This ratio in mid-October was at 101.

The drop in farm prices from mid-October to mid-November amounted to almost 2 per cent. It left farm prices 12 per cent below the level that prevailed a year ago. Continued declines in farm prices for hogs were reported. Declines in corn, eggs and cotton also were reported. These reductions were only partially offset by a considerable increase in truck crop prices and a slight boost in prices for some food grains. Prices for farm products, on an average, remained unchanged from mid-October to mid-November.

Homemakers Meet Dec. 2

Miss Lule Logan of the Extension Service, University of Kentucky, will meet with the officers.

Manna Visit In Ohio

Burlington, Lloyd and Crittenden Win

An overflow crowd—1,375 paid admissions—were jammed into the Walton-Verona High School gym, Tuesday evening to witness basketball proceedings between Simon Kenton and Walton. In our opinion, the games were unnecessarily rough at times, causing much whistle-blowing on the part of the referees—Mahan and Malnes. A total of 26 persons fouls were called against each team, and three players from each squad were ejected from the fray via the foul route. However, the Pioneers suffered most in this respect, because Coggage and Berryman, two key men, were first to depart from the game with Henzman later following suit. For the Bearcats, Cheeseman, Vest and Maddox committed five personal fouls.

Both games were bitterly contested, and the reserves battled to a 26 tie as the game ended. In the 3-minute over-time period the Kenton countouts outscored the locals to win 30-29.

In the "big game" Walton led most of the way to post tie fourth victory of the season, 52-41. Simon Kenton was first to score, but their lead was short-lived, the Cats taking the lead before the quarter ended. The locals also were in front at the half, but in the third quarter, the Pioneers held a 28-27 edge for a time. This they lost shortly and were never in front again.

Games Coming Up
On Friday, December 2nd, the Bearcats go to Florence for their first Boone County Conference game, and on Monday, December 5th, they will play the Walton gym. The latter tilt was originally scheduled for the new St. Henry gym, but since it has not been completed, the game is being played here.

On Friday, December 2nd, the Pioneers meet Fairmount on the S. K. floor, and on Tuesday, December 6th, they go to Florence.

Tournament Tickets
The Bearcats, as you probably know, have been invited to participate in a basketball tournament to be held at Ovingville, Ky., on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27-28, 1950. Tickets for this meet will be available through John Meador, and you may make reservations now, if you like.

Hebron 33, Crittenden 46
Leading 14-5 at the end of the first quarter, Crittenden's Bulldogs held on all the way in taking its sixth win in as many games while adding Hebron with its second loss in that many starts.

Cook was best for the winners, hitting the net for 14 points. Tanner put up the best fight for Hebron with nine markers. The final score Crittenden 46, Hebron 33.

Burlington 41, Silver Grove 34
Burlington's Eagles piled up a good first-half advantage to enable them to stave off a threatening last-half rally by Silver Grove.

G. Rouse led Burlington's point-makers with 12 while Cropper had 11. Final score Burlington 41, Silver Grove 34.
Lloyd 53, Florence 46
Erlanger Lloyd rang up its second win Tuesday night against Florence 53-46. Markberry led the Knights in scoring with 20 points. Jones for Lloyd had 17.

The Washington correspondents wouldn't know what to do without the life and times of Vice President Barkley. With news as scarce as orange trees in Kentucky, the most popular man in Congress furnishes newsmen with stories to brighten the day.

Bride and Groom:

The Veep is credited with this story about a bride and groom who played a lot of bridge on their honeymoon. And the bride, it turned out, was a poor player.

Finally the groom blurted out, "How can you be so beautiful and yet so dumb?"

Her reply was wonderful. "I had to be beautiful so that you could love me," she calmly replied. "And I had to be dumb so I could marry you."

A New Home:
There is a lot of talk about building a new home for the vice president. In the past many bills have been introduced in Congress but nothing was ever done. The latest bill is sponsored by Congressman Gregory of Kentucky who holds the Barkley seat in the lower House. Since the wedding of the veep, there has been renewed demands for a vice presidential home and the bill may win approval.

However, it takes a long time to construct such a home and the Barkley term of office may have expired by the time its ready for occupancy.

An Invitation:
If you are planning to be in Washington on Friday, December 9th, you have an invitation to attend the December meeting of the Kentucky Society of Washington. It will be the second dance of the year at the swank Shoreham Hotel.

Kentuckians claim that they have the most distinguished group of officers in the entire nation. Look at this list society of vice presidents:

Chief Justice Vinson, Alben W. Barkley (naturally), Senator Virgil Chapman, Senator Garrett L. Withers, and John Sherman Cooper, U. S. representative to the United Nations.

Did You Know:

Justice Stanley Reed of Maysville is on the mend . . . David Lynn, architect of the capitol, promises that the House and Senate chambers will be ready when Congress returns next month. Both chambers have undergone million dollar repairs . . . The REA will soon be ready to take applications for loans to provide telephone service . . . One of the nation's best sellers is the book, "Trees," published by the Department of Agriculture. Thousands have been distributed by congressmen and senators.

UK ATHLETE TO GET LEDERER TROPHY

The Jerome Lederer trophy, annual award to a University of Kentucky grid athlete selected by his teammates as the squad's most valuable player, will be presented to a member of the 1949 team at the school's annual alumni football dinner December 5th. Principal speaker at the dinner will be Dean of Men A. D. Kirwan, former Wildcat grid captain, and head coach at the University from 1938-44.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL BRINGS IMPROVEMENTS

How the Sulphur Community Council is working for the benefit of the residents of that area is told by Mrs. Bina Foree, Henry county home demonstration agent. Originating in the local homemakers club, the council now has representatives from each of the churches in the community, the 4-H club and each of the men's and women's organizations. Mrs. Maurice Abbot is in charge.

The first project was the cleaning of the Sulphur cemetery. This accomplished, they assessed each lot owner a small fee in order to have a permanent caretaker. Their second venture was to form a recreation center for the young people of the community. Equipment was bought for volley ball, horse-shoes and croquet, and lights secured for the play ground, which was opened for supervised play one night each week. The project on which the council is working is that of street lights in Sulphur.

Prophets False & True

Lesson for December 4, 1949

GOD is neither silent nor dead. He has his spokesmen today. We hear myriads of voices—preachers, teachers, editors, columnists, poets and politicians, all professing to tell us the truth. When a man claims to speak in the name of truth, is there any way by which his claim can be tested? It is an old problem. Away back in Bible times every prophet had his rivals, the false prophets. The false prophets were for more numerous, they often had immense prestige and government subsidies besides. How was the common man to tell the true prophets from the false?

Dr. Foreman

Notion of Man or Word of God? ONE DIFFERENCE between the true and false prophets, of course, was that the false ones passed out their own ideas, while the true ones gave voice to the ideas of God. Some of the false prophets even dug down into what we now call the subconscious, and told their dreams as if they meant something.

The false prophets of our own times are still the people who draw on their own minds, even on their day-dreams, to furnish messages for the people. The gypsy dream-books are still with us. Astrologers flourish, and not always on the side streets. All sorts of queer cults profess to tell us what is coming next and what we ought to do.

Before we take a modern "prophet" seriously we should ask: Is what he is saying his own idea or God's idea? In this 20th century after Christ, it should be easier to know God's ideas are than it was 27 centuries ago in Jeremiah's time.

For now that Christ has come, we can safely check all the self-styled prophets with the message and the mind of Christ.

Is the voice of the people the voice of God?

THE FALSE PROPHETS were always popular, the true ones seldom. Mere unpopularity does not prove a man a true prophet; but you may be sure that if a man says only what people like to hear, always tickling the ears and feeding the pride of his listeners, he is no true spokesman for God.

Not that the true prophet is always insulting his hearers. The Lord's prophets often speak comforting and welcome words, to be sure. But a steady outpouring of soothing-syrup is not what we would expect from a genuine prophet.

Man is often most proud when he is most wrong; and then God has to sweep the man down. Don't take too seriously the men who merely reinforce your prejudices and shore up your pride; they are more likely fake prophets than true. The voice of the people is not always the will of God.

Time is the Test That great prophet Moses (Deut. 18) had already given a practical test of a true prophet: Does what he says turn out to be true? Can he really see into tomorrow? Alas, we may have to wait until tomorrow to find out for sure; but tomorrow always comes, and when it comes, the prophets of today will be shown up for what they are, true or false. Time is the test. Not, is it likely?

Truth and Right are Twins PERHAPS the worst feature of the false prophets who were Jeremiah's competitors was their real immorality. "Their course is evil and their might is not right," he said (23:10, American translation). "They commit adultery and walk in lies, they strengthen the hands of evildoers so that no one turns from his evil ways" (v. 14).

God's spokesmen can never also speak for the enemies of God. Whenever you hear anyone talking as if we could now get "beyond good and evil," or as if the Ten Commandments were something we had outgrown, then you may know you are listening to a false prophet. There are no new commandments but the one which sums up all of them: Love one another. Prophets of hate, prophets of dissension, of lust, these may be speaking for themselves or for the devil—but not for God.

WE APPRECIATE . . .
When a family calls us in time of need, we feel deeply honored, for we believe that no public servant, and properly so, is selected with as much care as the funeral director. We appreciate the confidence so often placed in us.

CONTRACT WITH GOD

This is the one contract that a lawyer cannot draw up. It is also the one contract that has no standing in court.

When a man enters into a contract with God he needs neither lawyer nor code of laws. All he needs is a grateful heart! He may write this contract on a church pledge card, or make a "mental note" of it—but the terms are always the same:

"Because God has Given me so much, I will return ALL I CAN TO GOD."

We have churches and institutions of mercy today because men have made and kept such contracts through the ages. What we will have tomorrow depends on the honesty and gratitude with which we deal with God today!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) children's souls, (2) for the sake of his community and nation, (3) for the sake of the Church itself, (4) for the sake of his own soul. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Uncle Sam Says

What a picture he makes—that small, bright little character—all dressed up in Pop's cast-offs. But one of these days, not too far off, he's going to need some dress-up clothes of his own, a home to receive friends and a good education. And as you know, these things cost money. U. S. Savings Bonds offer you the fool-proof way to accumulate the necessary funds to supply these needs. Use the safe, automatic way to save—the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan at your bank. WATER SYSTEMS FOR GRANT FARM HOMES

Improvement in living conditions in rural Grant county can be seen in the number of farmers who have installed water systems or have such plans underway, said Farm Agent Robert Hume.

A new cistern of 32,000 gallon capacity has been recently completed on the farm of J. G. Stewart. Made of monolithic concrete, its cover and walls serve as additional floor and foundation for the garage built over it.

C. B. Altman has started construction of a cistern of about the same size. It will supply water to his new home as well as to the barn where he has a large dairy herd. Ed Baston has had water piped from his recently installed home system to his new cow stable, and B. C. Cotton has installed a complete water system in one of his tenant's houses.

UK COUNSELOR SAYS

CRAMMING INEFFECTIVE
Students who "cram" for examinations and other important classroom assignments are utilizing the least effective method of studying, Leslie L. Martin, assistant director or personnel at the University of Kentucky, last week told an audience of student counselors meeting on the UK campus. By "cramming" Martin said, students build up nervous tension which interferes with their powers of concentration, with the result that they find it difficult, if not impossible, to recall the material at examination time.

Education, case finding, rehabilitation and medical research are the four cornerstones on which the campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated associations to control tuberculosis has been built in the country.

Fall Pasture Renovation Builds Meat and Beef Producing Power, Gives More High Value Feed

Adding Lime and Fertilizer Helps Build Better Legume-Grass Yields.

CHICAGO—Now is the time to start renovating "punch drunk" pastures to build up their milk and beef producing power.

Killing out the old blue grass and growing alfalfa-ladino-brome grass in its place doubled yields of forage and increased the protein harvest fourfold in Wisconsin tests. The old blue grass yielded 1,800 pounds of forage per acre, representing about 200 pounds of protein. The new alfalfa-ladino-brome grass seeding yielded close to 2 tons. Its protein content averaged about 800 pounds per acre. To get these better grasses and legumes, lime and fertilizers carrying phosphate and potash were needed to sweeten the soil and build its mineral nutrient content.

Thorough fall working will completely kill the old blue grass so that you can move in next spring and seed the higher producing legumes and grasses. Soil tests this fall will give you a line on the lime and fertilizer needs for the new seeding. If you leave the field rough and cloddy this fall, there is no danger of soil loss during winter and spring even on the steepest slopes.

The Middle West Soil Improvement Committee suggests these farm-proven steps for rebuilding pastures:

1. Apply lime as it is shown to be needed by soil tests.
2. On heavy sod criss-cross the field with a weighted single disc to cut the sod into chunks. Then dig the field twice with a field cultivator. The second time work on the contour. Just before freezing dig the field again to open the roots of the sod to freezing during winter and leave it rough to hold the winter and spring rains.
3. In early spring work the field once with a field cultivator and spike tooth harrow in tandem. Then with a grain drill seed the nurse crop and put on your fertilizer.
4. Put on your legume seed with a cultipacker seeder. This is important for a firm seed bed and good coverage of legume seed makes a startling difference in the catch that you get.

Tuberculosis can be found early, before there are outward symptoms, by means of chest X-rays. Tuberculosis associations, whose work is supported by Christmas Seal funds, urge every adult to have a chest X-ray at least once a year.

SHORT STORY

The Right Look

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

TRACY clawed his way up over the slippery ledge, threw his axils and poles on the ground and sat down panting. Generva laughed merrily.

"That's what city life does to you," she chided. "See? You can't take it any more."

3 Minute Fiction

"For a fact I can't!" he grinned. "Phew! What a climb! Skis are no good up here. If we're going to the top we'll have to hob-nail it up."

"We can quit and go down," she said. Her voice held the barest hint of a taunt. She hated herself for it. "Quit nothing! Just because I've been away for two years you needn't thing you can stump me." Tracy's eyes flicked over the girl's slim, wiry figure. "Boy, you always could take it," he admitted. "Ever since we were kids I've had to hump to keep up with you."

The reference to their childhood escapades brought on a flood of regrets. Two years ago he had left her with a brotherly kiss on the back and a firm handshake. She had almost hated him. He had gone down to the city to become an architect. Then he'd written about Jessica. She was a singer in a night club. He had fallen madly in love with her. His letters had been full of their romance.

Generva had wanted to tell him to stop writing his everlasting prattle about a silly night club singer. Didn't he know that every word was a knife thrust in her heart? "You know," he said suddenly, "you're growing more lovely every year. Gen. Some day soon a man's coming along and—"

She laughed out loud and scrambled to her feet. "Come on, City Man, we've got to get going if we want to make the top before dark."

"You know," he said suddenly, "you're growing more lovely every year. Gen. Some day soon a man's coming along and—"

She laughed out loud and scrambled to her feet. "Come on, City Man, we've got to get going if we want to make the top before dark."

CHANGE IN STATE'S MUTUEL TAX ADVISED

Revision of Kentucky's pari-mutuel tax law is advocated in a bulletin on taxation of thoroughbred racing published last week by the University of Kentucky Bureau of Business Research. The study recommends adoption of a graduated tax whereby revenue paid by the tracks would fluctuate with the annual increase or decline of profits. Such a plan would allow tax relief for the tracks in years when wagering declines and would require higher rates only as track revenue increases, the report points out.

Bearcats Win Two; Play New Haven, Fri.

The Walton-Vernon Bearcats posted victories five and six this week as they defeated Florence and St. Henry. However, to Walton fans, their play was unimpressive, and it seems the local fandom feels a recurrence of last year's deterioration which set in about Christmas and grew worse as the season progressed. But maybe coach Hayes can keep the boys on their toes, and all going well, at least this the hope of the hometown rooters.

Last Friday night the Cats went to Florence for a Boone County Conference game. In the first quarter, W.V. assumed a 10-6 lead, but in the second period the Knights took command and were leading 21-18 at the halftime. However, the locals came back strong and were on top 30-25 at the third stanza ended, and in the final frame added to their advantage to win 43-32.

Dike Vest was top scorer for the winners, followed by Tommy Johnson, who had 8. Rowland was high for Florence with 8 markers.

In the reserve team game, Walton was the winner by a score of 40-23. Monday evening of this week, St. Henry of Erlanger, came here and absorbed a sound 61-27 thrashing from the Bearcats. Walton led all the way, being in front 7-3 at the end of the first quarter; 25-13 at the half; 43-20 at the third period, and at the end 61-27.

The W.V. reserves held the opener to St. Henry, 20-18.

Games Coming Up

The coming week will see the Cats playing one game, and this will be staged at New Haven, Friday night, December 9th, and is a Boone County Conference fray.

Burley Average For First 5 Days $44.92 In Kentucky

During the first five days of auctions for the 1949 Burley tobacco crop a gross volume of 88,012,000 pounds brought an average of $44.92 per hundred. The Federal-State Market News Service reports the poundage slightly over 53 million smaller than for the first week last year and the average $3.60 less. Shorter selling time was responsible for the reduction in the volume. Losses in average prices for grades, plus lower quality of the offerings, lowered the general average.

Prices for grades, as compared with the first week last season, show a large number averaged from $1.00 to $3.50 less. The losses were general with the larger declines centered on low and fair leaf and tips. A few grades displayed slight gains of $1.00 to $2.00 or were unchanged. With the exception of most fair to good lugs and flyings of buff and tan color and some lower quality dark red tips, all grades averaged well above their support prices. These were only $1.00 to $2.00 above. It was estimated that deliveries to the Associations under the Government loan program were slightly over 7 percent of the baskets sold. Last year during the first week about 12 percent of the baskets were consigned.

Baptist Church to Observe Universal Bible Sunday

Sunday morning the Walton Baptist Church will observe "Universal Bible Sunday," and the pastor's subject will be "The Glorious Book."

Who can estimate what the Bible has done for men and women crushed by the blows of adversity? For them it is a book to live by. The Bible is not only a book for men to live by, but it gives strength and courage and indestructible confidence to a whole people. It is the book for nations to live by.

Come to Sunday school and remain for the preaching service and take part in the observance of "Universal Bible Sunday."—Pastor

Larger Quail and Rabbit Supply This Year Survey Reveals

A survey by wildlife supervisors in eight of the nine Kentucky districts, after the first days of the hunting season, indicates definitely a larger quail and rabbit supply and also a greater number of hunters in the field, than for the past several years, the Division of Game and Fish has reported.

To be sure, the Division points out, the quail and rabbit increase is not noticed in all districts, but where there is no increase the supply has been termed about the same, surely no less, than for last season. Five districts report increased hunting pressure, the Division claims.

The report by districts, covering the first ten days of the season, follows:

First—No report.

Second—More and larger coveys of quail. Rabbit crop greater in practically all counties. The number of hunters about the same as for last season.

Third—Quail good in all counties, except Johnson. Rabbit hunting better. More hunters than last year.

Fourth—Some counties more quail. Definite increase in rabbit population. More hunters than at any time in the past.

Fifth—Twenty percent more birds and rabbits than last year. Far more hunters than before. It is estimated that 2,500 to 3,000 rabbits were killed the first day of season.

Sixth—Quail hunting only fair. Bluegrass counties offer no cover. Rabbits on increase over last year. Hunting pressure about the same. Largest population of grouse in number of years.

Seventh—Quail hunting only fair, since not too many coveys found. However, birds are believed in heavy growth. Rabbits better with a record number of hunters.

Eighth—Quail better as a whole with rabbit increase also noted. Hunters number about same as last year.

Ninth—Quail more improved and the same is true of rabbit hunting. Number of hunters about the same as for last season.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

The activity of those correspondents for Tass, the Russian news agency, has been under considerable discussion these past few days since our troubles with the communists in China.

Those Tass correspondents, all six of them, have the run of the Capitol. They attend congressional meetings; they attend the president's press conferences; they have entry to all sources open to correspondents for American newspapers. And yet, the American press and radio can't get even inadequate coverage of Moscow.

It is especially disconcerting to see the Tass reporters at military news conferences. They scribble notes furiously and at length and every time security matters are discussed, they redouble their efforts.

The ladies of Congress have just put together a Congressional Cook Book in which they have offered their favorite recipe to their fellow-cooks across the country. We like the one for chicken souffle submitted by Mrs. Brent Spence, the wife of the Fifth District Congressman. Here it is:

3 cups of ground chicken; 3 eggs, beaten; one tablespoonful of butter; one teaspoonful of onion juice; one can of mushrooms; ground cayenne pepper, dash of salt and pepper.

Mix chicken, eggs, butter, onion juice and mushrooms. Beat hard; place in mold; steam 1 1/2 hours; season to taste.

May be served with white sauce, carrots and peas. Hope you like it!

Counting Notes:
Newport is going to be the headquarters when work starts on taking the 1950 census in the Fifth District. At present Census officials plan to hire about 250 workers to cover the Northern Kentucky counties. Of this number, 220 will actually go from door to door to ask questions. In addition to the usual questions, the enumerators are going to find out a lot about life on the farm. They are going to ask questions about livestock, farm income, how the farm was acquired and other matters.

Coming Back:

In less than a month from now, Congress will be back on the job. We expect that once again the question of the Licking River Falmouth Dam will be considered when appropriation bills come up for action.

Strange as it may seem, the Falmouth Dam is a question more than 100 years old. Ancient records show that a dam was proposed for Falmouth back in the early part of the last century. It was, however, for navigation purposes only and engineers of that day figured the project would cost $92,000. However, a depression came along about that time and the project was dropped.

Do You Know:

The death of Kentucky Labor Commissioner George Burton was a shock. Only a week before, he was pronounced okay after a physical checkup. He was in Washington on state business... Chief Justice Vinson is to be the guest of honor Friday at the Kentucky Society dance... Lt. Governor Wetherby came to Washington to attend the Gridiron Club dinner... Another Kentuckian, Neil Dalton, is leaving the capital.

Druids First to Use "Magic" of Mistletoe

The greens which are used for Christmas decorations found their way into early festivities because of certain virtues attributed to them by the ancients, and many of them which adorned pagan seasonal rites were later taken over to grace the ceremonies and celebrations of Christmas Day.

In both England and America, the holly and the mistletoe are associated with Christmas as invariably as are the plum pudding and Christmas tree.

It was the Druids who first used the mistletoe. "Heal-all" was their name for it. The plant was supposed to have curative values, and gradually they assigned to it all manner of magic powers.

Their priests, each year around the time when we now celebrate Christmas, would have high platforms built around the sacred oak trees which, in a manner of speaking, were "hosts" to the mistletoe. Robed in ceremonial vestments of white, they ascended these platforms, and with golden sickles especially made for the solemn occasion they cut away the mistletoe.

The Saxons also prized it and it was they who gave to it the name of mistletoe.

Eventually the green came to be regarded as a symbol of peace. Opposing warriors who met near it would call a truce, and it was customary to hang it over the entrance doors so that they who entered might be assured of friendship.

IT WAS Christmas Eve but the group of people sitting on the floor in the Reeds' living-room certainly weren't in a festive mood.

"Doggonit," Dad exclaimed as he stared gloomily at the shiny tracks and the motionless cars of a new electric train. "What's wrong with this thing anyway?"

"We've put it together exactly according to directions, I'm sure we have," fifteen-year-old Rick insisted.

"Well, something's got to be done," said Mom, looking in from the kitchen where she was stuffing the turkey. "Little Jackie's been praying for that train for months, and how'll he feel tomorrow morning if the thing won't run?"

"Maybe Ralph can help. He's coming by for me in a few minutes, you know," said Wilma, the pretty big sister of the family.

"Oh, him!" Rick was scornful. "That guy from the big city with his socks and ties and handkerchiefs that match! What does he know about motors?"

"Rick!" Mom reproved.

"Oh, I know you all think of him as an outsider," Wilma said. "If you only really knew him better! Mom, I do wish you'd let me ask him to breakfast tomorrow."

"I'm sorry dear, but I just don't think he'd fit in."

The doorbell rang. Wilma answered it and she and Ralph exchanged happy hellos.

Rick immediately threw out the challenge to the tall, blond, well-dressed young man. "We can't make this train go. Can you tell what's wrong with it?"

"Maybe," Ralph said quietly. "I used to have a train something like this."

"Look out, that cotton batting stuff will stick to your trousers," Dad warned.

"That's snow, and the snow around here is clean."

Dad looked slightly startled.

Wilma smiled. She remembered how impressed Ralph had been by the whiteness of the drifts even on Main street last night.

"The flakes are practically sooty before they even reach the ground in Chicago," he had said.

"Tracks are O.K.," Ralph straightened up. Then he picked up the shiny black engine carefully and turned it over and over. He put it up to eye level and peered into its workings.

"The professional touch!" Rick muttered.

"There may be oil in the commutator," Ralph said. "That sometimes happens with a new engine. I'll see if I can get it out."

"I'll get you a rag, Ralph, just a minute," Wilma got up and started for the kitchen.

"Never mind, this'll do," Ralph answered, pulling his perfectly folded white-colored handkerchief out of his jacket pocket.

He worked quietly for a moment, gently poking the corner of the handkerchief into the inside of the engine. Then he set the engine carefully down on the track and said, "Turn on the juice, will you Rick?"

Rick meekly moved forward, the black lever at the transformer. There was a whirring sound, and the wheels began to move, and the little puffer-billy whizzed and clacked around the curve.

"Praises be!" Dad heaved a loud sigh of relief.

Ralph quietly got up from the floor and turned to Wilma. "Maybe we'd better go now, if we want to catch the gang."

"All right, Ralph," Wilma said. Her eyes turned pleadingly to Mrs. Reed. "Mom—"

"Oh, yes, Wilma," Mom interrupted. Turning to Ralph she said heartily, "In all the excitement we almost forgot to ask you to be sure to come over for late breakfast with us tomorrow. It's just a simple family affair, but we surely would like to have you with us."

"You bet," Dad's eyes twinkled. "Something might go wrong again and we'd feel safer with you around to fix it."

Russian People Are Also Able to Say "Merry Christmas"

"S Rojdestvom Kristovym."

That's what a Russian would say to you if you were in Russia on Christmas day and he wished to extend the season's greetings.

The phrase is the Russian's way of saying: "Merry Christmas."

In the past, the Russian's Christmas was closely associated with his church; but how the day is observed now that the religious life has been subjugated in the Soviet, one would have to be behind the "iron curtain" to know.

But it was not always like that. In other days, the Russian Christmas was much like the Ukrainian.

There was a Santa Claus known as "Dedushka Moroz" and there were traditional gifts of red boots for children and golden slippers for young girls.

In certain parts of the country the "baboushka" (grandmother) was the legendary dispenser of gifts. According to one story, she repented of unkindness and ever since has tried to make amends by distributing gifts to children at Christmas.

It is estimated there are more than 700 head of registered Angus cattle in Hart county.

More than 12,000 people attended the three-day Clark county fair, highlighted by livestock exhibits.

"BUT THEY don't believe in Christmas, Jim—you know that." Laura wished she hadn't spoken quite so loudly; her remark had stopped in midstream three rapid-running conversations. Her guests studied the rug pattern. Jim merely looked at his wife in silence.

"I mean, after all," she went on, "it's not their religion... so I assumed it would be embarrassing—to them—to invite them to our Christmas party." She swallowed uncomfortably.

"And I assumed that this party was for all the fellows in our office, including Ben." He smiled then, but didn't soften the accusation. Everyone in the room knew of the close friendship between Jim and Ben—they only guessed at his wife's resentment of the friendship.

"He asked us to sing 'Silent Night' and guess what? He gave us ten dollars! And she invited us in and gave us candy and cookies."

Mr. Adams, office manager, broke the silence next. "I wouldn't worry about it too much, Jim. After all, Christmas is..." He emptied his glass and returned it to the coffee-table. "And we all feel a little differently about the holiday than they do."

About nine o'clock carolers came to the door, singing lustily and slightly off-key. "Let every heart prepare him room..." The oldest caroler was scarcely twelve. He rattled a box full of coins. Mr. Adams snatched the donation box from him, ceremoniously deposited nine pennies, and passed from guest to guest, bowing after each donation. Everyone put in nickels and dimes. Jim put in a five-dollar bill and everyone shouted "Show-off!" Laura was annoyed but kept still. Laura and Jim's little girl, Bonny, was out caroling too, but her group covered a different neighborhood.

No one noticed much when the telephone rang later in the evening and Jim went to answer it. They noticed Jim's face when he returned to the living-room—it was white and twitched unpleasantly. Laura walked over to him. "Who was it, dear?"

"It was Ben—he called to apologize for not coming tonight."

"His daughter's been in Children's Hospital for the past month, you know."

Adams broke in. "Say, that's right—Ben said she was pulling out of it—that was last week I believe. How's she doing, did he say?" "She died this afternoon."

Nobody seemed to have anything more to say after that. The party broke up within the next half-hour.

Just as the Adamses were leaving, Bonny came in from caroling. She was flushed with happiness and excitement. Laura clutched her in her arms convulsively.

"Did your group make a big haul tonight, Bonny?"

"Did we!" she gasped. "We got more than any other group I bet! And Mon, we sang for that Mr. Ben at Daddy's office, and..."

"Oh but you shouldn't have!" Laura looked at Jim with alarm. "Why not, Mom?" He asked us to sing 'Silent Night,' and guess what? He gave us ten dollars! And she invited us in and gave us candy and cookies, and got their nice! And I told them hello from you and Daddy, and you know what? She cried! Isn't that funny, mother?"

Jim looked at his stricken wife and wanted to take her in his arms, but Mr. and Mrs. Adams were standing there with their mouths open, so he merely grasped her hand firmly. Bonny babbling on happily.

"And you know what else?" Mr. Ben asked me what the donations went for, and when I told him he took all the money out of his wallet and put it in our box, can you imagine? And then I asked him if he had any boys or girls like us and would they like to go caroling with us and he said yes! And then she started crying again and we left. Wasn't that funny?"

Mr. Adams cleared his throat. "By the way, Bonny, just what were those donations for anyway? I forgot to notice."

"Why, for the Children's Hospital fund—or something like that—it was all printed on the box."

By Shirley Sargent

THE SMALL KITTEN called a Tupid watched preparations for Christmas duly. Only the middle boy, one Archie Raymond, noticed his apathy. The tree, in all its green splendor, stood tall in the living room bedecked with an increasing number of ornaments.

"Careful," Marcia Raymond admonished her son sharply. "Don't hang those big balls down so low. The kitten will break them."

Gently Archie lifted them to a higher bough, drawing in the pungent scent of the pine. Only he saw that the kitten walked slowly under the tree unaware of the boughs tickling her furry back. His youngest brother had named the roly-poly butterscotch kitten Tupid.

Young Billy was easily aroused to fits of anger. His favorite expression, under stress, was a hissed, "You 'tupid, you big 'tupid."

Archie, his ten-year-old brother, Joe, and his parents laughed at the little boy's wrath and, because the kitten was slower than the others in Tupid circled and smelled at the black kitten until he was satisfied. Then his tongue flicked out to lick the kitten.

the litter, they named him, most affectionately, Tupid.

"Archie," Mrs. Raymond was flurried from all the excitement, "That blue globe is much too low. Tupid will get it. I don't doubt," she added pessimistically, "that we will lose half of our globes."

Archie could see that Tupid had no interest either in the swaying boughs or the brilliant-colored fragile balls. For two days Tupid had wandered carelessly about the house and yard. He wasn't playful or friendly and he had stopped purring. Only Archie sensed that the kitten was lonesome for his sisters and brothers and his mother. At first there had been four balls of fur and a proud old alley cat mother. As they grew, they had become playful, patterning swiftly through the house. But now they were all gone, including the mother. Just Tupid was left to keep. Even the black imp with shoe-button eyes had been given away. Tar Baby, who had been the boss of the litter, had been gone barely two days, and Tupid missed him.

"Well," his father's voice boomed again, as he climbed down the ladder. "All done in time for Christmas Eve. Come here, Joe, Archie, you too Billy. I want you to see this fine tree."

Mrs. Raymond switched the lights off and Archie shivered in delighted excitement as the tree blazed, illumined by the strings of lights and balls. The magic moment was shattered by the sharp ring of the doorbell.

A rush of cold air came in as Mr. Raymond flung open the door wide to admit a bundled figure. "My father says I can't keep the kitten," Gerald Parks recited automatically, close to tears, "I have to give it back because it gives my father hay fever." Gerald went out in another rush of frosty air, but not before Mrs. Raymond had pressed a fat candy cane into his mittened hand.

Tar Baby huddled in the middle of the floor. "Watch it, boys," Mr. Raymond warned. "Let's just watch him. He feels strange here now; he'll be all right in a while."

Archie saw Tupid jump from the sofa with a purr of delight. Tupid circled and smelled at the black kitten until he was satisfied. Then his tongue flicked out to lick the kitten. Tupid's paws caressed him as his tongue washed him. The black kitten stood passive, as Tupid showered his pent-up love on him.

"They, mommy," Billy hissed, "Tupid's kissing him, isn't he?" "Um," Mrs. Raymond agreed, "Tar Baby's Tupid's Christmas present."

Mr. Raymond's eyes swept his sons' awe-struck faces. "No," he said firmly, "He's our Christmas present too."

Backs Seal Sale

Urging his fans to buy and use Christmas Seals for the organized fight against tuberculosis in this country is Edmund Gwenn, Academy Award winner, famous for his starring roles in "Miracle on 34th Street" and "Apartment for Peggy." The film actor is being heard on a radio variety show during the 1949 Christmas Seal campaign.

Christmas has rolled around once again and Santa Claus with round red cheeks, jolly smile and chunky figure looks the same as he did nearly 90 years ago.

His creator was Thomas Nast, one of America's greatest cartoonists. During the early 1850's he was asked to illustrate Clement Clark Moore's poem, A Visit to St. Nicholas, better known to us as "Twas the Night Before Christmas." The result was Santa Claus as we know him.

Santa's creator was born in Bavaria in 1819, son of a musician in a Bavarian army band. When he was a fat little boy of six, Thomas' father left Germany to enlist in the United States navy, and Thomas' mother brought the boy to New York to live.

Along about the time stocky Tommy was 15 he landed his first job as an illustrator for Leslie's Weekly at $4 a week. By the time he was 20 he was sent to England by the New York Illustrated News to sketch the Heenan-Sayers fight, an outstanding sports event of the day.

In 1862 he joined the staff of Harper's Weekly and began the series of emblematic drawings which continued throughout the Civil War.

From those he created certain trademarks that have been the inspiration of cartoonists down to the present—notably the Republican elephant and the Democrat donkey. Famous as the political symbols are today, Nast's Santa Claus probably holds first place in the hearts of Americans. Before Nast's day, a few artists had drawn Santa on one occasion or another, but could not seem to agree on how the old gentleman should look.

Nast changed all that. He located Santa's home at the North Pole and gave him a sleigh drawn by reindeer. He drew the familiar, fat, merry old fellow with red cheeks and white beard, dressed in red, wearing a cap and boots, carrying a pack of toys and smoking a short pipe.

The artist then gave Santa a spy-glass so that during the year he might pick out the good children from the bad, and also a big book in which to write their names and keep their records.

This conception of Santa Claus first appeared in 1863. Since that time, the pictured Santa has been the same, although the sash and pipe seem to have been dropped by the way.

Burley Averages for First Five Days $44.92 In Kentucky

Smaller proportions of good to choice offerings lowered the general quality. The change was especially noticeable in a decreased percentage of good and a sharp increase in low grades. Proportions of red and reddish tan color were larger, notwithstanding the crop being generally thinner-bodied than in 1948. Most sales were made up of low and fair qualities which were about evenly divided among the various groups. For the first week last year sales were principally low to good leaf and flyings, fair and good lugs and fair tips. The number of baskets in unsound condition or in unsafe order this week was negligible. This was in sharp contrast to last year when over 5 percent of the baskets were in this condition.

Sales began Monday, Nov. 28th, with markets selling 3 hours per day per set of buyers. At a meeting of the Burley Sales Committee Saturday it was voted to increase selling time to 3½ hours. The new schedule was applicable Monday to the entire area.

PLOWING SPRING, FALL HELPS CONTROL ONIONS

The Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington has found that two or three years of plowing and cultivating will usually get rid of wild onions.

Plowing is done in the fall, covering the tops at least 3 inches, and throwing up the bulbs to freeze. Then the land is plowed again in early spring, and finally put in corn or some other crop that must be cultivated. Plowing fall and spring is repeated, along with clean cultivation.

Onions that escape in plowing and cultivating may have to be sprayed with 2-4-D in order to make a complete job, according to J. F. Freeman, superintendent of the Experiment Station farm.

SELLS 550-POUND CALVES OFF GRASS

D. B. Graham of Hickman county this fall sold several steers and heifers raised on the Kentucky cow-and-calf plan weighing around 550 pounds each when 255 days old.

County Agent Warren Thompson says the calves were raised from a herd of common black-and-white cattle showing Angus and Holstein breeding, with some Jersey, Hereford and Shorthorn blood. The sire was a close-bodied, short-legged Angus bull.

The calves went to market carrying nothing but grass and milk fat, but were in good condition, according to the county agent. They sold for $20 a hundredweight.

Legend of the YULE LOG

In Virginia, the old Dominion, storied land of early American history, there is an old tradition of the origin of the Yule log that is retold every Christmas.

As the family sits around the Yule log and sips their Christmas eggnog on Christmas eve, the ancient legend is recounted again.

One very cold Christmas eve, when the frosty wind howled across a world of snow, an old man was sitting in his little cabin wishing that he had a fire to warm him.

Suddenly he heard the cry of a little child away out in the cold. The old man hobbled to the door and gazed out across the snow. The wind and the snow came rustling in and the old man shivered until his "onliest two tee!" chattered with cold.

The plaintive cry of the child came again above the whistle of the wind. It went straight to the old man's heart and he wished with all his power of longing that he might have the strength to go out and find the unfortunate babe.

The cry came a third time — and then a wondrous thing happened. A miraculous power filled the old man's veins. His muscles became strong and tense, his crutch fell back into the cabin and he stepped from his threshold out into the snow.

Hurrying over the snow with a speed he had not owned since boyhood, by and by he came to a little child lying in a snow bank.

He bent down and touched the child and a great new strength flowed over him, a strength which seemed to give him wings as he sped back to his cabin.

Arriving there, he placed the child upon the bed, tenderly drew the ragged coverlet about it and then looked to see if there were a bit of furniture he could use to make a fire with which to warm the little one.

At that precise moment a great log rolled across the threshold and into the fireplace. The little child looked at the log with eyes like stars—stars which sent gleams of light that kindled the log with the most brilliant fire the old man ever had seen.

The dingy little room immediately was filled with radiance and warmth, and as the light enveloped the child he laughed and laughed with a melody like a song from the heart. The old man turned his eyes to where the fire burned and watched the flames leap in beautiful rainbow tints over the log, and as his old eyes watched, the colors seemed to form the shape of the Cross in the fire.

The flames of the Cross leaped higher and higher, blue, red, yellow and white, and as the old man watched this display, suddenly and magically there appeared a table in the center of the room, covered with a Christmas feast such as never before had been spread before his eyes. And never again was the old man hungry or cold, and never after that was there a Christmas in old Virginia without the Yule log and the Christmas Child to give light and warmth.

And that is the story of the Yule log as it is told in Virginia every Christmas eve.

The ideal Christmas tree is the fir, because of its tendency to hold its needles longer.

A final step in trimming the Christmas tree is frosting it with fluffy snow. A simple and popular form of snow is ordinary soap flakes.

PLAN RECREATION PROGRAM

For the second time, proceeds from the annual Junction City fair in Boyle county are being used in the recreation program of the community. Last year, tennis courts, swings and a soft ball diamond with lights were some of the playground needs at the local school arranged for from the fair profits. This year's proceeds will provide funds for outdoor furnaces and equipment for older people as well as for youngsters, said County Agent J. C. Brown. All clubs and organizations in the community, including farm groups, cooperated.

CONCORD ROAD

Miss Barbara Craft spent the week end with her schoolmate, Miss Helen Coomer.

A banquet was given by the Macons of the Verona Lodge, 876, Saturday night, Dec. 8, honoring their families and a few invited guests. The menu consisted of fried and baked chicken and dressing, baked ham, roast beef, baked beans, fruit and potato salad, canberries, coffee, bread, and all kinds of pies and cakes. After the banquet, Mr. Ellis from Burlington, put on an entertainment everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. Orin Britt and Flonnie Edington were in Warsaw, Friday.

Mrs. Luther Risner has been sick with the flu. We hope to see her out soon.

Ralph Adams came home from Georgetown, Saturday to be here for the banquet. He returned to Georgetown, Sunday afternoon.

Sorry to hear Rev. John Ashcraft is ill again and hope for his speedy recovery.

We are sorry to hear of Ellis Hoperton of Walton being drowned on Sunday, and we extend sympathy to his family in their sorrow.

Cats Play Burlington, Fri.; Trim New Haven

The rip-roaring Bearcats of Walton-Haven Friday night 69 to 19, will run head-on into the strong Burlington five here Friday night.

In the New Haven tilt Coach Chas. Hayes, used eleven men in order to keep the game in hand, and still the quarter scores were 21-5, half 35-11, and third quarter 44-17 with the reserves running the game out at 69-19. Vest with 14 was high, with Ryan 13, Meadows 9, were the high men for the locals.

The Bearkittens, led by Hall's 13 points, won going away at 41-23.

Burlington Friday Night Here

Burlington come here Friday night with only two losses for the year, and figured very strong in the Conference, to tangle again with the Cats. The game should develop into one of those tough affairs for which these two schools are noted.

Christmas Cantata At Walton Baptist Church

Sunday evening the choir of the Walton Baptist Church will present a Christmas Cantata. Sunday morning the pastor's subject will be "Christ or Christmas."

The B.T.U. meets at 6:30 every Sunday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

Another Square Dance

Another square dance will be held tomorrow (Friday) night at the Legion Hall with Freddie Fields and the Foolish Fellers again entertaining. Stop in and dance awhile, the Legionaires will be glad to see you. For the Veterans and the Nation

It looks like a fighting year ahead for the American Legion. Veteran benefits are being sniped at from all sides. America's security from attack is not what it should be. The Communist fifth column is digging under the foundations of American democracy. The Legion has to fight and fight hard.

With the Federal government running the billion dollars in the red, there will be a lot of pressure put on to cut expenditure, and when they start to swing the ax in Washington, the veterans' neck sticks out temptingly. Ask any old timer, who remembers the Economy Act of '33.

It's the veterans' own fault. He won't get together with his comrades and stand up for his own rights, four out of five, belong to no veterans' organization. Unorganized and alone, he just doesn't count in the calculations of the people who figure things out in Washington. They can take the shirt right off his back and he can't make a squeak loud enough to be heard outside of his own front yard. Three million Legionaires out of eighteen million veterans isn't enough.

Veterans get old and die, and their earthly needs no longer exist, but there is a never-ending need for the things for which they served in war. As long as the human race exists, there will be need for freedom, justice and democracy. The Legion is fighting to keep these things alive for Americans of the future.

First comes the problem of making the United States secure from war. If that isn't solved nothing else is going to matter much. If we are caught inadequately prepared by an atomic attack—well, draw your own picture and hope you won't live to see it happen.

But, if America is prepared to meet the worst that can be thrown at us and to retaliate with more than we receive, there won't be any attack.

The Legion is going before the nation again with a well thought out, realistic plan for national security. This time we mean get action. Conditions are too critical for delay. The voice of every veteran should be joined with that of the Legion, so that the nation will listen this time. Joining the Legion is one thing every veteran can do to make it less likely that he or his sons will have

1,695 Motorists Lose Driving Rights In 4-Month Period

A total of 1695 motor vehicle operators licenses were revoked, suspended or canceled in Kentucky during the four months ending November 15th, according to figures compiled by Paul Boyd, Supervisor of Safety Responsibility Division in the Department of Revenue.

Broken down the figures show 1078 revocations, 261 suspensions and 356 cancellations.

Jefferson county topped the list with 124 revocations, 69 suspensions and 75 cancellations. Hardin county was second with 59 revocations, 13 suspensions and 8 cancellations. McCracken ranked third. Morgan and Powell counties had no licenses revoked and ten other counties had only one each.

Revocation of operators or "driven" license is mandatory following conviction in Kentucky on any of these charges: operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor; reckless driving (three convictions); in 12 month period; unlawfully leaving the scene of an accident; manslaughter (with a motor vehicle); perjury (in connection with motor vehicle); felony (in connection with a motor vehicle).

Boyd said approximately 800,000 operators licenses had been issued in Kentucky so far this year—an average of a fraction less than two per passenger car.

Loss of drivers license is at least an inconvenience and car operators should protect their driving privilege by observing added safety caution during the approaching holiday season, Boyd added.

State Average For Second Week 46.71

A large number of grades offered on Burley tobacco markets the second week of sales averaged $1.00 to $3.00 per hundred higher than the opening week, according to the Federal-State Market News Service. For the first week most grades were lower than during the initial week last season. A stronger demand this week showed over 50 percent of the grades offered in heaviest volume averaged prices equal to or above those received during the second week in 1948.

For the five day period ending December 8th, gross sales totaled $9,020,230 pounds for an average of $46.71 per hundred. The volume was roughly 2 million pounds more than the week before. The average was $1.79 higher. A few markets reported several daily general averages of $50.00 or better. Season gross sales totaled 178,032,238 pounds for $45.83 per hundred.

Gains this week were general with largest increases for low and medium quality leaf and low to good tips. No increase exceeded $3.00. Flights and lugs were mostly steady with some up $1.00 to $2.00. A relatively few grades showed declines.

There was practically no change in the quality of the tobacco. Bulk of sales continued to consist of baskets containing heavy and fair grades and nondescript. There was, however, a fair representation of good quality flyings offered.

Deliveries to the Associations under the government loan program were estimated to be around 4 percent of the baskets sold. This was considerably less than the proportion consigned opening week when receipts were over 6 million pounds. This is slightly more than 7 1/2 percent of sales.

Full sales of 3 1/2 hours per set of buyers were observed for the most part but a few markets were forced to pass auctions for lack of offerings. Deliveries to warehouses in most areas have been slow. Tobacco has been too dry for farmers to prepare for markets. This condition is expected to change because of the recent widespread rainfall.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

This rivalry between citizens of Northern Kentucky and those on the other side of the Ohio River is no new development. A look at some old records here in the capital indicate that way back there in 1795—that is right—the feud was in full bloom.

Here is classified ad found in a Cincinnati newspaper of that day, The Centinel, and signed by a Kentuckian: "Notice to Citizens of the Northwest Territory: Desist from the horrid practice of staining the Kentucky Bank of the Ohio River with human gore by duelling as it is in open violation of the commonwealth." So you see, the present day rivalry is nothing new.

New Desk:
A beautiful new desk, gift from the Philippine Republic, has been received by Vice President Barkley. It is handmade of a tropical wood, narra, and a silver plaque proclaims the love of the new nation for the Kentuckian.

There is, of course, no price on the desk but it must have cost several thousand dollars. On the chair, equally as ornate, is handcarved the vice presidential seal.

For the time being, Mrs. Flo Britton of Cold Spring, Ky., aide to the veeep, is keeping guard over the priceless gift.

Statements:
As we noted above, we have been looking over some old records here in Washington and we have been struck by the number of famous pioneers Northern Kentucky has contributed to the commonwealth and nation.

There are volumes on such men as Corroll County's General William Orlando Butler, a member of Congress and a one-time vice presidential candidate. There is Boone County's Major John E. Faines, governor of the Oregon Territory. Campbell County contributed General George Hodge, a famous soldier and a member of the Confederate Congress. Another who played a big part in the early history of the state was William Arnold, for whom Williamstown was named.

Covington gave more than a few. The records in the senate library tell of Governor (and Senator) James Morehead, Governor (and Senator) John Stevenson, the immortal John G. Carlisle, treasury secretary, and of course, Governor William Goebel. The Fifth District was made up of "giants" in those days.

Do You Know:
A display of Kentucky pictures featured the last meeting of the Kentucky Society of Washington. It was arranged by Society Treasurer Robert K. Salyers. Many political observers in the capital refuse to believe that Congressman Gregory will give up his congressional seat for the hazards of a senate race. Demands of economy may threaten the early completion of some federal projects in Kentucky. And Kentuckians in the capital are busy making arrangements to go home for the holidays. Only a handful will remain to guard the city.

FROZEN FOODS SERVE UNEXPECTED COMPANY

Unexpected company isn't a problem when the home freezer is filled with a variety of home produced foods, says Ann Mason of Hancock county, 17-year-old 4-H club winner in a national frozen food contest.

Take, for example, this menu of frozen foods which, she pointed out, needs only a fresh combination salad to make it a well-balanced meal: pork chops, green beans, creamed corn, hot rolls, fresh peaches and angel food cake. Freezing baked foods, such as pies, cakes and rolls, is frequently done in the Mason household to supplement vegetables, fruits and meats. Peas, green beans, lima beans, corn on and off the cob, carrots, berries, peaches, beef, pork, fish and chicken are found in their well-stocked freezer. For greatest satisfaction, Miss Mason recommends freezing a number of different foods, rather than a quantity of one. She estimated the value of foods frozen at home at $60.63.

As state winner in the national contest, Miss Mason was awarded a $50 bond from the International Harvester Co.

Owen county homemakers bought a stenciling machine to cut stencils for their rural mail boxes.

In Mercer county, where farmers and millers are reported as liking Vigo wheat, James Cox has seeded 75 acres.

Browning Correll of Logan county produced an average of 37 bushels of Vigo wheat per acre on 65 acres.

Time Not Constant In the Celebrations Of Christ's Nativity

While December is now the month in which Christ's birthday is celebrated by Christians all over the world, research and study show that Christ's nativity has been celebrated in January, March, April, May, September and October by various peoples.

And although few people know it, it was for the purpose of substituting a Christian festival for pagan ones of Romans and Druids that celebrations of Christmas in December were popularized.

No historian pretends to fix the actual date of Christ's birth or the date at which Christmas became a general festival.

About all that is known is that during the fourth century the feast of the Nativity was observed in all western world churches at different dates.

The confusion resulting from celebrations in seven months of the year caused the western church authorities to meet in 340 to set a definite date for the celebration. The eastern churches did not cooperate until the sixth century when December 25 was set as the day to be observed.

The question has arisen innumerable times as to why December was selected as the month for rejoicing. The answer is that this month was chosen in order that a Christian festival could compete with those of the pagans, because December was noted for its feasts and holidays in nearly every civilized land.

Greeks, Romans, Saxons and Scandinavians all took part in the celebration of these festivals which had originated before the birth of Christ.

From the Saxons came the ceremony of burning the Yule log. The Saxons burned great bonfires in honor of their god Thor. From the Romans came the giving of presents, for this custom has been traced to the Roman Saturnalia.

It may seem strange to claim that the pagan riotousness might be the forebear of the Christian holiday of goodness and love, but intermingled with that which was objectionable, were things that have gone straight to the hearts of people throughout the Christian world.

Is God Available?

Lesson for December 15, 1949

DOES GOD EXIST? Yes. There is every good reason to believe that he does. But when we have answered that question in the affirmative, we have not settled the most important questions of religion. There are the other two questions of equal importance: What is kind of God is he? and, Is he available? Let us give some thought to this last question. One of our Christmas carols begins, Dr. Foreman "Draw nigh, draw nigh, Immanuel!" Immanuel is one of the names by which Jesus is called, for the Christian church has always read Isaiah 7:14 as a prophecy of Jesus Christ. The name means "God with us" and is the answer to the deepest cry of the heart.

God in heaven far away, God the Creator who set in motion the mighty universe, God the All-powerful ruling beyond the stars, God the Eternal who knows neither youth nor age.

Such a God has sometimes been believed in by men who nevertheless walked in a dark cloud of loneliness, doubting that so great a God could possibly have any interest in their own affairs.

Is God WITH us? Is God WITH US? Is GOD with us? That is the question that torments the troubled mind. With one voice, the whole church of God answers Yes; the name of the one in whose face we see the glory of God is named "God-with-us."

In the first chapter of the Bible we hear of a God who walked with his children in a garden. In the first chapters of the Gospels we hear songs to the God who has "thirsted his people;" and in almost the last chapter of the Bible we hear the promise, "God himself shall be with them and be their own God."

"When ye shall search for him with all your hearts"

MOST TRUTHS are two-sided. You have to keep both sides in mind or you will not fully understand. God is with us yes; God is with all men, yes—that is, there are no favorites with him, he refuses his presence to no one. God is always available, available to all. That is one side of the truth.

The other side is this: God is not equally with all men. Some men are alienated from God. Some men are godless. Even among those with whom God lives, we may fairly say that God is with some in a higher degree, in fuller measure, than he is with others. Jeremiah gives the clue to this truth: "Ye shall seek me and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart." (Jer. 29:13) Those who do not search for God will not find him.

Those whose search is half-hearted only half-find him. God does not enter a divided heart. He is available, but he will not force his way in. We can see how this is when we think about Christmas. We know. It does not make sense to say that they are all equally godly.

We have known some great Christians of whom we might almost dare to say that Paul's prayer had been answered, that they have been "filled with the fullness of God." (Eph. 3:19) But in other Christians, who certainly have some small seed of faith in them, it may be hard even for a kindly observer to see many signs of God's presence.

"Thou can't, a little baby thing..."

GOD IS in all things, he shines in all that's fair," as we sing the familiar hymn. But the center of the Christian faith is that God comes to man especially and most closely in Jesus Christ.

No matter how strongly men believed in God in olden times, always they looked forward, as the prophets show, to a time when God would come nearer than he had been before. True, it was a surprise when finally he came to Bethlehem, "A little baby thing that made a woman cry."

A world accustomed to kings in purple robes, in well-guarded castles, was surprised that the King of the Universe would be found as a child among the poor. But after all, which better represents the All-Available God—a King behind his palace walls, or a child in a home that loves him?

That all-important letter to Santa; in it we told him the many things we wanted. We were children then . . .

Now, as adults, we have discovered a new approach to Santa. Wherever possible, we drop little hints about the things we need, in the hope that we'll receive useful gifts.

The first Christmas came while the world was still very young. The people of Bethlehem were looking for the kind of king who would live in a palace. That was the sort of Messiah they wanted.

But God gave them a Child in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger . . . a babe destined to become a spiritual King . . . the kind of Messiah the world needed.

The mark of spiritual maturity is the realization that sacred needs are more important than secular wants. This is the Christmas season. Come to your Church and receive GOD'S GIFT.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. These are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and need your Bible daily.

FLORIDA GIRL NAMED UK BEAUTY QUEEN

University of Kentucky students have selected for their 1950 Kentuckian Beauty Queen Miss Patricia Moore of Miami, Fla. A freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, Miss Moore and half a dozen other campus beauties, selected as queen's attendants, reigned over the annual Coronation Ball, held last week at the U. K. Student Union building. The ball was sponsored by Lamp & Cross, leadership society for senior men. The queen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore of Miami, is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

By Shirley Sargent

THE VERY NICEST thing about A Henry Ellis, Henry had decided, was the fact that he was nine years old. He possessed another attribute variously described by his mother as stubbornness, stupidity, and the result of a one track mind. To get something he really wanted, Henry had learned from experience, he always had to work hard and long. Pestering his mother for what he wanted came easiest. "Why not, Mom?" he begged. "Why can't I do it? I want more than anything in the world. I'd be so good you wouldn't know me." Finally his mother gave in to his endless teasing and what she considered impossible promises. "All right, all right," she said, worth waiting for after all—my but he hated girls, though. Ugh! There were some very important matters to attend to before he was quite ready. They wouldn't take so long, but the waiting would. He started unwrapping his packages. Thanks to mom, life was really fine.

A little before 12 that night Mrs. Ellis, noting the silence, went into Henry's room. His lights were blazing but the boy was asleep in a chair drawn close to an open window. She walked quietly over beside him. A whole month—thirty arduous days devoted to being good—he had worked for this night, and now he was asleep with the sun total of his dreams in his lap and fists. Soundly sleeping, he lay back in the chair, in one hand a noise-maker; clutched limply in the other, a large horn. The box in his lap contained piles of confetti, while reams of paper streamers were laid neatly over the chair arms. There was a ridiculous paper hat crushed into the chair back by his head, and, on the table near him, there was another horn. It had a white card tied on it labelled simply "For mother."

"Wake up, little one track mind," she said, sitting him up straight. "Hurry and wake up so you can wish me a Happy New Year!"

Three Fleming county farmers in the 5-acre class of the Corn Derby contest had yields per acre of 103.4, 112.4, and 100.5 bushels.

Soundly sleeping, he lay back in the chair, in one hand a noise-maker; clutched limply in the other, a large horn. The box in his lap contained piles of confetti.

"We'll see if you can be good for a whole month and then—well, we'll see."

His long-awaited goal was in sight, but Henry had to admire his mother's shrewdness. Knowing that Rita, who was five, would keep close tab on him, Mrs. Ellis put her in Henry's charge for the month. Playing nursemaid to a five-year-old was a stern task, even when he could be as nasty as he wanted—but taking care of her on his good behavior was purely awful. All this time she would wait her demands with "Or I'll tell mama."

Only once he told her calmly but desperately, "If I ever have any children, they'll all be boys or all be girls. I'm not going to make any little boy of mine have a little sister. No sir, I'll give him a turtle or a goat or something he wants, not a little sister."

Rita just barely listened to him before demanding, "Now be a turtle for me, Henry. Crawl like a turtle and pull your head in a shell."

The days crept past Christmas and Henry knew that being good was surely a most terrible experience. Then at last the month was over and he heard his mother asking, "Had enough of being good, Henry?"

Feeling it to be a trick question, he answered casually that "—would be fun to see the fellows again, and just sort of all over relax!" She laughed, encouraging him to go on. "Hey, mom, well, can I do it—you know?"

She kissed him, saying, "Yes." Henry yelled "Hooray" as he ran into his room. Gosh, it had been to fight another long, up-hill war. In the Legion, too, he will be putting his strength behind the defenses against another form of attack on our nation and all the things for which it stands—the communist 5th columns. The Legion has been in this fight for a long time, but it has never had enough strength to win a decisive victory. The communists keep on knowing at the vitals of American democracy, seeking to destroy faith in America's free form of government, and to divide Americans into contending classes so that conquest by world communism will be easier.

The Legion has an effective program for uncovering and combating un-American activities. All we need is more power to put behind this program, more veterans signed up with the Legion for its fight against "autocracy of the classes and the masses."

The things for which the Legion is striving this year are of tremendous importance to the future of all Americans. There is too much at stake for any veteran to be sitting back at ease and letting someone else carry on the fight for him. The individual on his own can't do much. It is organized strength that counts... think it over and draw your own conclusions.—Legion Pub. Chm.

KY. 31 FESCUE HAS GOOD, BAD POINTS

The much-talked-of Ky. 31 fescue grass has many good points and a few bad ones, says Dr. E. N. Fergus of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

For hay and pasture, it is widely adapted and can be grown on most any kind of soil except sandy. It will grow on soils that are quite poor, although it is not recommended for poor soils. It will grow on either wet or dry land. It is considered fairly good to prevent erosion.

One bad point about Ky. 31 fescue is that cattle and other stock won't eat it well at certain stages of growth. If allowed to get too big and old, it gets tough. When the soil is well supplied with nitrogen, Ky. 31 fescue is more attractive to stock. It then grows rapidly and is tender, juicy and sweet.

Clovers may be grown with Ky. 31 fescue to furnish nitrogen, or nitrogen fertilizer can be spread, Dr. Fergus said.

So far, Ky. 31 fescue has been grown principally for pasture and for seed. However, there often is surplus growth in early summer which eventually may be used for hay or silage.

In crease in growing Ky. 31 fescue has been amazing, it was pointed out. From perhaps 30 acres 10 years ago, there now are thousands of acres all over Kentucky. It is estimated that 250,000 to 300,000 acres were seeded this fall.

Pike county's 43 4-H clubs have an enrollment of 1,125 girls and 537 boys.

Christmas carols express better than anything else, probably, the true spirit of Christmas.

The word "carol" itself signifies joy and was originally used to accompany a dance. William Wallace Fyfe concludes that the term carol "signifies a song of joy or exultation." Another definition states: "A carol is a hymn of praise especially such as is sung at Christmas in the open air."

In England, which gave America most of its carols, they were sometimes gay and sometimes convivial until the time of the Puritans, who tried to suppress the Christmas spirit.

After the Restoration, the religious nature of the day was for a time almost forgotten in the reaction from Puritanism, and the carol was temporarily lost in the songs.

There are many quaint customs associated with the early carolers that might be used today to break the monotony of going from house to house singing Christmas hymns.

It was about the 16th century that caroling became a Christmas custom, and is supposed to have been brought to England from Italy by the traveling clergy. The first real Christmas carol is attributed to St. Francis of Assisi who made a model of the Bethlehem manger to help him tell his people the Christmas story.

The idea of caroling fitted admirably into the English conception of Christmas as a combination of religious celebration and a great home day with neighborly feeling, so it grew and flourished in that country.

Little bands and groups of singers which sprang up in the towns and villages came to be known as "waits." A natural explanation of the name seems to be that it refers to watching and waiting, for Christmas Eve is called the Vigil of Christmas.

As early as December 21, which is the day dedicated to St. Thomas, mummers and carolers would begin going from door to door, announcing the great feast at hand. It was natural for the householders to offer hospitality to these Christmas troubadours, and gradually in many places the custom of giving alms and presents of various kinds was established.

This benign custom threatened at one time in England to become a profession and to lose its original simple charm.

For a period beginning just when no one knows and ending in 1620, there were in London and Westminster companies of "waits" whose leaders held office by public appointment and who obtained an exclusive right to solicit contributions from the public.

The carolers were often accompanied by entertainers who gave a spirit of revelry to the occasions. The mummings often interrupted the singing to give their interpretation of "St. George and the Dragon." Tumblers, dressed in bright red, would perform their arts of skill to entertain the onlookers.

A Christmas Present
we ordered 3½ years ago!

Excuse our blushes, but our pride is showing. It's a grand and glorious feeling to be headed for the cheery Christmas season with not 1 but 101 bright and shining presents for the Southland.

We're talking, of course, about our 101 new streamlined coaches, all-room Pullmans, diners and lounge cars. They've been going into service almost daily since the first one reached Southern Railway tracks last July.

Nearly all of these cars—ordered more than three years ago—will be in our trains by Christmas. Expensive? The price tag reads $11½ million! But we enjoy playing this kind of Santa Claus for the Southland we serve.

Star of Bethlehem Continues to Puzzle Modern Scholars

Once again Christendom sees the Star of Bethlehem and, like the Wise Men of old, rejoices with exceeding great joy.

Astronomers have discounted possibilities that the star may have been a natural phenomenon since such phenomena occur too far from the earth to serve as any sort of local guide. Modern opinion is, however, inclined to hold that there was a Star — although the story probably has been touched by Oriental imagery.

St. Matthew suggests that even the Wise Men may have lost sight of the star while they were in Jerusalem; hence, they rejoiced when it reappeared to their vision as they approached the Manger of Bethlehem.

Come to think of it, astronomers have sought an astronomically authentic star — and found it not; historians have sought an historically authentic human Jesus of Nazareth — and are still arguing whether or not they have found Him; even zealous theologians, striving to harmonize messianic and eschatological theories with the illusive historical and human Jesus, have sometimes lost sight of the Babe in the Manger. Who from His lowly stable draws unto Himself all who are weary and heavy-laden.

Pressing close to that sacred Manger, Christendom glimpses the Star of Bethlehem once more and rejoices in the light of righteousness and peace which has conquered every tyranny of the evil men could think of, the light that shineth in the darkness and shall not fail.

Finns See Evergreen

As Mourning Symbol

Evergreens are never used as decorations in the homes and churches of Finland because the Finns regard them as symbols of mourning.

At Christmas most homes where there are children suspend a "heaven" from the living room or dining room ceiling. Such "heavens" consist of a cord framework covered with straw and different colors of paper ribbon, etc., and decorated with paper stars and silhouettes cut in various designs. The effect, when reflecting the fire-light and the candles' glow, is mysterious and fascinating.

Candles are used profusely in the churches; the altars are banked and the windows are filled with them, so that in the pre-dawn darkness (Christmas morning services begin at 6 A.M.) the churches beckon approaching worshippers like brilliant lanterns.

After the early church services, the gayly decorated sleds race for home, bright robes flying and sleigh bells a-jingling. Breakfast is festive, and then everyone takes a long nap. Christmas Day is not devoted to play or gift-giving; it is religiously observed, with intervals of carol singing and Bible readings.

The day after Christmas is St. Stephen's day, and from then until New Year's parties and general festivity are in order. Although gift-giving is not an integral part of the observances, in some parts of Finland trinkets and useful articles of wearing apparel are presented to children by Walmamoinen, the Kalevala hero of Finnish legend.

Legend relates that the crown of thorns which was placed on the head of Jesus was made of holly and that before the crucifixion the berries were white, but turned crimson like drops of blood.

Santa Affected By Restrictions

It's difficult to understand, but the genial spirit of Christmas, Santa Claus himself, hasn't always had it easy. There have been occasions when laws or traditions or regulations have put certain curbs on the old gentleman. Here are some examples:

In Newark, N. J., Santa is required to pass a stiff physical examination before he can serve in a department store. And even then he is barred from kissing any of the children who perch upon his knee.

In Charleston, S. C., charity Santas have been forbidden to make a pitch on public streets on the grounds that children flocking in to see them may create a traffic hazard. And in Washington a few years ago, when the postmaster general was asked to print a Santa Claus stamp at Christmas time he rejected the proposal with a scornful, "I should say not!"

Outside the U.S.A., Santa has had trouble, too. In Montreal, Canada, an influential organization fought against holding of the city's annual Santa Claus parade on the ground that it was "merely a display of grotesque and vulgar buffoonery." A prominent journalist in Rio de Janeiro fostered a movement to do away with Santa Claus (Papa Noel) in Brazil and substitute a toy-bearing grandfather Indian. In Mexico City the minister of education recommended that the Aztec god Quetzalcoatl, instead of St. Nick, should bring gifts to children.

In the field of opinion, Santa has encountered some detractors. A Prof. Ivan E. McDougle, sociologist at Goucher college, Baltimore, declared: "The Santa Claus myth has lived too long. Parents should substitute philosophy"—whatever that is.

A Toronto psychiatrist got in his blast. "It should be made clear to children," he said, "that Santa Claus is not necessarily a real man any more than any other character 'out of a story book.'"

ELECTRICITY MEANS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Approximately two out of every three farm and rural homes in Kentucky, or 65%, are now wired for electricity, according to Miss Ida C. Hagman, home management specialist at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. In 1936, only 3% had this convenience.

After lights are installed, radios, irons, washing machines and refrigerators are bought, she said. Other home improvements soon follow, such as new wall and floor finishes, furniture, glass curtains and draperies.

Burley Prices Are Strong As Marts Recess for Holidays

Demand for Burley tobacco continued strong during the third week of sales ending December 16. According to the Federal-State Market News Service average prices for grades offered in heaviest volume were steady to as much as $4.00 higher than for the week before. Gross sales amounted to slightly over 874 million pounds for a general average of $47.17 per hundred. The volume was nearly 2 1/2 million pounds less than for the second week and the average was 46c higher. Gross sales for the season were close to 266 million pounds for an average of $46.27 per hundred.

Most of the gains were from $1.00 to $2.50 and chiefly for low to good leaf and tips. The largest increases were for fair and good red leaf. Most grades of flyings and lugs, making up a good portion of the sales, were steady to only slightly higher.

With the exception of a slight increase in the proportion of nondescript the general quality was practically unchanged. Low and fair grades and nondescript have made up over 80 percent of the baskets marketed each week since sales began. The proportion of fine and choice qualities has been exceptionally low.

Consignments to the Associations, under the Government loan program, were again estimated at only 4 percent of the baskets this week. Season receipts through December 9 amounted to slightly over 10 million pounds. This represented a little more than 5 1/2 percent of gross sales through that date.

After auctions on Wednesday, December 21, the markets will recess for the Christmas holidays. Sales will be resumed on Wednesday, January 4, 1950.

WAYMANS HAVE SON

Cecil Wayman of the "dirt for dough" Waymans was an easy man to do business with Wednesday of last week. He was still glowing from the emotional hazy over the arrival of his first son at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Monday.

His wife, Marlene, and infant, who weighed in at eight pounds, were reported "doing fine." The young man has been named Rel Cecil.

Mr. and Mrs. Rel C. Wayman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer, Covington, are the proud grandparents.

DORCAS CLASS MEETS

The Dorcas class of the Walton Baptist Church met in the church December 13 with twenty members and two visitors present, for the annual Christmas party, honoring their teacher, Mrs. Susie Norman, on her birthday.

After the program, conducted by Mrs. Julia Pennington, members had an exchange of 50c gifts. Mrs. Norman received a number of lovely gifts and Mrs. Hunt read another lovely poem which she had written, which was enjoyed by all.

Soil and Water Conservation Contest Open to Future Farmers

A new award, to encourage farm youth, The Kentucky Future Farmers of America Soil and Water Conservation Contest, is now open to state F. F. A. members who are establishing themselves in agriculture.

The contest offers $240 in prizes and is sponsored by The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, in cooperation with the state F. F. A. and the state office of the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is the fifth award to be established in the newspaper-radio station's overall farm incentive program and is a junior division of the Tom Wallace Forest and Wildlife, Soil and Water Conservation Award.

The new contest was announced yesterday by Mark Ethridge, president of the newspaper and radio station, Watson Armstrong, state director of vocational education and H. K. Gayle, state conservationist.

Three state awards of $50, $40 and $30 are offered, plus six $20 district prizes, thereby covering the nine F. F. A. districts. The first prize winner is eligible to try for a $100 national award from the Future Farmers of America Foundation. The three top winners and their parents will also be given a trip, all expenses paid, to Louisville to the Farm Awards Luncheon which is held annually by the newspaper-radio station.

Eligible for the contest are qualified state F. F. A. members under 21 years of age at the time of the contest who are regularly enrolled in vocational education in high school, or who graduated from high school last spring provided that soil and water management was a regular part of their supervised farming program.

Requirements include a report of accomplishment, a story, not to exceed 500 words which explains the conservation practices carried on by the contestant and two farm maps developed by the Soil Conservation Service. A project summary, pictures and other supporting evidence should be included.

Contest report forms and information can be obtained from the Kentucky Association of Future Farmers of America, State Capital, Frankfort, Ky., or from the Promotion Department, The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Louisville 2, Ky.

Winners will be announced at the annual summer state F. F. A. meeting.

The Cats have defeated Holy Cross twice, Beechwood, Simon Kenton, Florence, St. Henry and New Haven in compiling their unbroken string of wins. However, the going will get much rougher after Christmas to a field goal and a free throw in the first period in rushing into a 11-3 lead. The victors counted 20 points in the second quarter to lead at the half, 31-10. Coach Hayes substituted freely in the third and outscored the losers 10-7 to lead 41-17. The Eagles outscored Walton in the final period 13-8.

Dyke Vest led the winners with 19 points, and Jim Ryle was tops for Burlington with 11. In the preliminary tussle, Walton scored a 34-16 victory.

Tuesday night at Crittenden the Bearcats tallied a 51-34 victory over their Penogran foes on the losers' floor. The Cats outscored the losers 19-10 in the third period to raise their margin to 48-20. At the quarter end, the reserves playing, the Bulldogs outscored W.-V. 14-3.

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

by Gil Kingsbury

First of all, a Merry Christmas to the editors, to the readers and to all Kentuckians, in and out of Washington.

We hope you get everything you want—new roads, new postoffices, new airfields, floodwalls, high income, low taxes, and a drop in the cost of living.

And if all those things come to pass, our faith in Santa Claus, badly shaken, will be restored and renewed.

A Kentuckian Passes:

This past week a famed Kentuckian, Clifford Berryman, was laid to his eternal rest. Since 1907 he was cartoonist for the Washington Evening Star. And in that period of time he had gained the attention, respect and praise of presidents, diplomats, supreme court justices and lawmakers.

Although Clifford Berryman had been away from Kentucky for many years, he never dropped that graciousness that was his heritage. He was born in Woodford County, near Versailles, on the Kentucky River. And he first came to Washington on the invitation of Senator Joe Blackburn, one of Kentucky's most famous sons. Cliff Berryman will be missed and never forgotten.

Decision Time:

It shouldn't be long before some of the fog that surrounds next year's senatorial race is cleared away. Congressman Gregory, who talks like a candidate for the seat held by Senator Wither, has indicated he'll soon make up his mind.

Washington friends of Governor Clements believe that he'll get into the race. They figure that the state's chief executive is in fine shape to run and win. They point to recent gains made by the administration. In fact, one prominent Republican told us the other day that he, for one, is inclined to consider the election over and won.

If Governor Clements comes to the Capitol, they expect him to take a prominent part in legislative and political affairs. And some see for him a place close to President Truman.

Do You Know?

National offices of the American Farm Bureau Federation may be transferred from Chicago to Washington. . . . Former Governor A. O. Stanley is just as spry as ever. He's chairman of the International Boundary Commission. . . . Congressman Underwood of Lexington was in town for the Gideon Dinner. . . . The new Mrs. Barkley made her first Washington appearance at a party at the Statler the other day. She scored at hit. . . . And Congressman Perkins has recovered from a minor infection.

White Christmas Services

Simon Kenton High School will have White Christmas Services on December 16, the last hour of the day. Participation will be by representatives of each grade, music will be furnished by the band and glee clubs, and scenery will made by the Art Department. The story of the birth of Christ will be the theme. All home rooms will present their White Christmas gifts at the close of the program.

'Mine Eyes Have Seen'
Lesson for December 25, 1949

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 53:4; 9:1-7; 11:1-5
DEVOTIONAL: Isaiah 53:4; 9:1-7; 11:1-5

WHAT can the old man see in the baby? There must have been some to ask that question, as the old, old man Simeon took the little six-week-old Jesus in his arms. To most eyes he was just another baby; but at the touch of him, Simeon broke out into words so filled with hope and ecstasy, so rhythmic with emotion, that his words, even to this day, are used as a hymn in all the Christian churches of the world. "Mine eyes have seen..." Dr. Foreman

The aged man, already moving across the thin line dividing this world from heaven, could see with the eye of the spirit what was hid from the eye of many a practical man. To Simeon's mind, imbued with the spirit of the ancient prophets, the child in his arms was a center of light.

All the rays from the dim and ancient prophecies came to a focus in this child; and from this child again there shone out to all the future years of man the hope of a better world. What the prophets have foretold, is now to be; this child is the hope of mankind.

They have seen a great light
THE CHRISTMAS PROPHECIES, our Old Testament lesson text, sing the hope of the Hebrew people. It was a hope that spread beyond themselves, their tiny hill-country, landlocked and harborless, out to the "Circle of the Nations," on to the world of vast peoples beyond their ken.

In a leaderless world, where men went blindly through life, smothered by the smoke of torments in the warring hells of the blind, the prophets sang of the Coming One, the Messiah, God's chosen Leader, who would bring men out of darkness into light, the Divine Counselor.

In the centuries when the servants of God were enslaved by those who worshipped only the sword, the prophets pointed confidently the time when the leadership of the world would at least be in the hands of those who knew and understood and obeyed God.

Eyes of Flesh
NOW THE PROPHETS did not always fully understand their own prophecies, as we are told by Peter (1 Pet. 1:10,11); and certainly most of the Jews did not. When they heard the word "Messiah" or "King" they could think only of the kings they had known and admired, some new David, great in battle, or another Solomon, in a greater and more golden palace.

So when the little boy Jesus was born in the dark stable under the hill, it was not everyone who could see what Simeon saw, that now the hopes of the prophets were coming true, now the Kingdom of righteousness and peace, the Realm of All Nations, was to begin.

What Simeon's fading human eye could see was no great thing—a helpless infant from a peasant carpenter's home. It was only Simeon's inward eye that saw the truth.

Eyes of Faith
YET THE EYE of faith can see more. The salvation God is bringing to the world has only just begun. As in Simeon's day the salvation and the light were barely at the horizon, so now it is still but sunrise. The colors of sunrise may be mistaken for those of sunset, by those who have been long asleep, it is only those who have watched through the night who know the sunrise for what it is.

The songs of Christmastide are songs of hope, and not only songs of remembrance. It is not the hope of fools, for the world of today is brighter than the world into which Christ was born, and the brightness shines from him.

Who would turn back this world, for all its wretchedness and frustrations, into what it would have been had Jesus never been born? At Christmas time we rejoice, not that all things have been accomplished or that all the prophecies of good have come true; we rejoice rather that the God-sent Leader, the Messiah, the Saviour, has come, and that with his coming salvation and light and glory have begun.

While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks

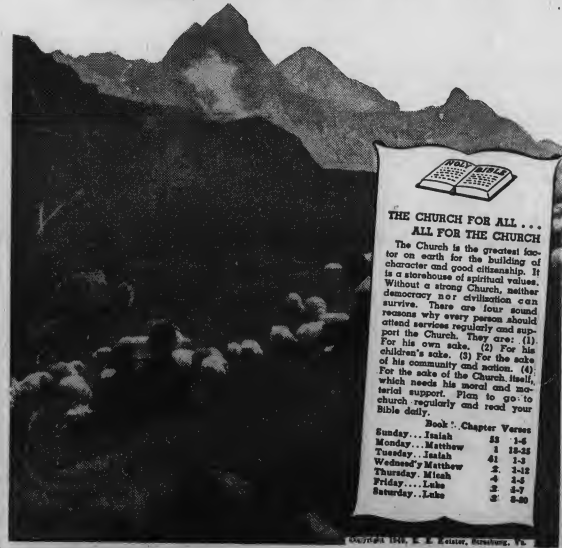

Bethlehem is a long way from the Pyrenees. And the Nativity was more than nineteen centuries ago. But shepherds have changed but little.

Shepherds are lonely men of the broad steeps. They have time to think and hope and pray. They learn to love the humble and helpless creatures of God. They are men of courage, yet men of mercy.

Perhaps that is why God chose the Shepherds to hear the Story first!

But as they hastened toward the little town to "see this thing which is come to pass" the glorious News could have meant no more to them than it can mean to every one of us.

And the King they worshipped in a humble stable, we may worship today—and always, in the churches of our community.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his children's souls. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

FLORENCE

Here's wishing the Advertiser staff, the readers, correspondents, our boys in service in the U. S. and foreign lands, the merriest Christmas ever and a new year of happiness and prosperity.

Let's not forget the pageant "Why the Chimes Rang," to be given at the Florence Christian Church, December 21 at 8:00 p. m. The community is cordially invited to attend.

Sympathy of the community goes out to the family of Mrs. Fannie Conner, who succumbed at Booth Hospital, Tuesday of last week. Services were held from the Sixth funeral home Thursday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. Roy Johnson and Rev. C. L. Leopold officiating. Mrs. Conner was a life-long resident of Boone county and was a member of the Burlington Baptist church. She is survived by a son, Harold Conner, and two sisters, Mrs. Nancy Watson and Mrs. Fred Tanner, both of Covington. Interment was in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Carpenter were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keyser, Sunday in their home in Latonia. Mrs. Carpenter was celebrating a birthday and her friends wish her many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. John Dolwick, Jr., Barbee Simpson and Blayne Miller of Park Hills.

The minstrel show "Cottonland" presented by the Fellowship Club of Florence, Friday and Saturday nights at the school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Marvel Thompson, was very entertaining and enjoyed by all who attended. The cast was composed of local talent and stars and the acts were well performed. Each one connected with the show is to be commended for giving of their time and talent to make the show a success.

Relatives here of George Riley, 64, received information of his passing at his home in Pasadena, Calif., on December 13 of a heart condition. He was a brother of the late Charles W. and Edgar Riley and was formerly engaged in the lumber business, but had retired from active duty. He leaves his wife, a sister, Miss Edna Riley of Pasadena, and a brother, Thomas M. Riley of Los Angeles. Sympathy is extended the family.

Rev. Bruce Eastaday officiated at the Erlanger church, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ledford of Hebron were host and hostess to a number of relatives and friends at a surprise party Sunday in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Crutcher. A number of nice gifts were received. Among them a television set from Mr. and Mrs. Ledford. Delicious refreshments were served following which the guests departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Crutcher many more years together.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS CAN BE BRIGHTER

To get the most value from electric lamps during these short days, Miss Vivian Curren, specialist in home furnishings at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, has these suggestions:

- 1—Provide a shade for every lamp, but see that it is wide enough to cast a large circle of light. The diameter of the lower edge of the shade should be two-thirds the height of the lamp. For example, a table lamp 19 to 23 inches high should have a shade which measures 16 inches in diameter at the lower edge.
- 2—All lamp shades should have white linings.
- 3—The shade should be deep enough to conceal the lamp fixtures.
- 4—A lamp with a 100-watt bulb should be provided for every grouping of furniture. One such bulb uses less electricity than four bulbs of 25-watt size.

STAFFORDSBURG

The whole community is thankful for the fine rain, which was so badly needed.

The weather, however, had a very depressing effect upon the Sunday school. Let's not be afraid of a few sprinkles, but all come out to Sunday school and worship services.

The Homemakers club held its Christmas party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Nehring, who entertained for Mrs. J. Beall, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Ballinger got away on schedule for their trip to Florida and Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Keeney spent Saturday evening with Misses Alma and Mary Stephens, who also had as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Squire Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parker of near Franklin, Ind.

CONCORD ROAD

The Homemakers of Concord met at the home of Mrs. Beas Robinson on Thursday evening, Dec. 16, with a covered dish dinner and Christmas party. After the program was over an exchange of gifts was enjoyed by all.

Ralph Adams of Georgetown, returned to his home Saturday afternoon for the Christmas holidays.

This correspondent wishes the Advertiser and all its staff a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Bill Scroggin is having a fine, big lake dug on his place in Verona. We are glad to hear Mr. Sturdivent is getting along nicely. He was taken to the hospital several days ago.

Mrs. Althea Craft and daughter, Barbara, were shopping in Cincinnati, Saturday.

We were sorry to hear of Lindsey Webster being taken to the hospital Friday. We hope for his speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hughes and Mrs. Fionnie Edrington were Xmas shopping in Covington, Monday.

Ben Kannady and H. D. Edrington were duck hunting down on the Ohio River, Friday, and didn't have much luck as the river was high.

SOCIAL SECURITY NOTES

Elbert M. Bohon, manager of the Covington Social Security office, says, "every person who is working under social security should, for his own peace of mind, check with his nearest social security office to see how much insurance protection he has for his family. Many will be pleasantly surprised at the amount of insurance protection they are purchasing through the small regular payment each pay day."

In Daviess county there is considerable interest in growing adapted varieties of pecans.
